Trenton Bomber Crashes Eight Killed Near Montreal

Ottawa Man, 22 Gives Self Up, Admits Stabbing

OTTAWA (CP)—George Lahaie, 22-year-old Ottawa man, walked into city police headquarters today and said he killed Anthony Lalande, 35-year-old Bourget, Ont., trucker, at Bourget 10 days ago. The admission confounded reports Friday that an unidentified body found in Lalonde's house at Bourget was that of a woman. Giving himself up to Borden Hobbs, assistant inspector of detectives, Lahaie disclosed at once that the body found at Bourget was not that of a woman as was first believed but that of Lalande.

"I am the man police have been looking for," he told Hobbs. Lahaie had been living with Lalande and both had been sought for questioning in connection with the body, which an autopsy showed had died of a knife wound through the heart.

"It isn't a woman that was killed at Bourget. It was Anthony Lalande," Lahaie said.

"We had an argument and I stuck a knife into him."

Lahaie was handed over to provincial police who began questioning him. No charge was immediately laid.

Lahaie's surrender and admission brought a quick solution to a case Ontario provincial police Friday night described as one of the most puzzling murder cases in their experience.

Earlier today, Inspector Robert Wannell of the OPP expressed fear the mystery might not be unravelled for some time.

The body was discovered on a cot in Lalande's frame house last Thursday night. Neighbors told police they believed the victim was an Ottawa girl.

NOT CERTAIN

Coroner Moise Gendron of Bourget was called to the house. He summoned police. Dr. Gendron, in a telephone interview from Bourget, said today that he was not sure of the sex of the body, though he was under the impression that it was that of a woman. He signed the burial certificate describing the body as an "unidentified" person.

Dr. W. D. Hay, Queen's University pathologist, performed an autopsy Friday. He said the examination failed to disclose that the corpse was that of a man, rather than a woman as first believed.

The slaying apparently had occurred about 10 days previously. Dr. Hay said in a telephone interview from Kingston, Ont., that the body was in such an advanced state of decomposition that it was almost impossible to determine the sex of the victim without laboratory tests.

Abandon Plan, India Demands U.S. Explanation

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—India's delegation disclosed Friday it will seek from the United States an explanation of what it regards as three startling departures by the United Nations command negotiators in Panmunjom from the UN assembly plan for ending the Korean prisoner deadlock.

Rajeshwar Dayal, India's permanent delegate, said he hopes to meet Monday with Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., chief U. S. delegate, for a talk on the situation at Panmunjom.

Dayal's plans became known after Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India stated a preference for the Communist proposal on prisoners over the UN command's counter-plan.

Dayal made it clear India and a number of delegations associated with India in the Arab-Asian group are concerned about what they view as three major shifts from the UN plan. This plan was approved, 54 to 5, last Dec. 3 by the UN assembly and was based on a resolution originally introduced by V. K. Krishna Menon of India. The United States voted for it and had a major hand in obtaining its passage through the assembly.

The three points bothering the Indians:

1. The Korean prisoners.

The Communists proposed last week that a five-nation repatriation commission, including India, take over all prisoners for four months for repatriation. A political conference would settle the fate of any prisoners left after that period.

The UN negotiators countered with a proposal that all Korean prisoners be released after an armistice, to remain in non-Communist territory if they wished. Non-Koreans refusing to return home would be turned over to the commission within 60 days and the Communists could visit them and try to persuade them to return. After another 60 days those still refusing to go home would be freed.

The Indian plan, which Nehru said closely approximates the proposals now put forward by the Communists, provided that all prisoners would be turned over to the repatriation commission which would send home those desiring to return. At the end of 90 days, those prisoners still held by the commission would be referred to a political conference. After 30 more days, any prisoners still refusing to go home would be turned over to the United Nations for care and maintenance and subsequent disposition.

Triple Crash Kills 7 Airmen

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP)—The U. S. Air Force announced today that seven American airmen were killed Friday in the first triple air collision in Germany.

The accident occurred over flat farm country, 40 miles southwest of Frankfurt, when an air force F-84 Thunderjet ripped into a flight formation of 18 C-119 Flying Boxcars.

Two of the big transport planes and the jet fighter crashed and burned. Their wreckage was strewn over an area of several square miles. One of the Boxcars exploded in the air.

The pilot of the F-84 and three crew members of the cargo planes bailed out but all suffered injuries.

Two other transports were damaged but managed to reach their home base at Frankfurt airport.

Three Injured In Train Crash

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Three persons were injured when two London and Port Stanley Railway trains crashed at Philip street today.

John Frederick, 30, was admitted to Victoria hospital with head injuries and abrasions. His condition is not considered serious by attendants.

Two others were treated at hospital and then discharged within an hour. They are John Dicker, 37, with head injuries, and Robert Fulton, 61, with chest injuries. All three are London residents.

Frederick and Dicker were on a northbound express from St. Thomas, bringing fruit into the city. The train was spotted by Fulton who was the motorman and alone on a yard freight which had just completed delivering oil and was shunting in the yard. Fulton shunted the freight back as the express kept on running on the line toward him. Then he jumped. At the same time Frederick and Dicker jumped.

Promise Germany Included

No 4-Power Talks Without Prior Negotiations

BONN (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, returning from a two-day visit to London, said today he is "100 per cent sure there will be no four-power talks without prior negotiations with West Germany."

"And I am sure there will be no big power agreement without consultation with West Germany on all questions," the chancellor added, in a brief statement on arrival at the airport here.

Adenauer said these were impressions gleaned from his talks with Prime Minister Churchill and other British leaders in London.

"I am sure that Sir Winston never will agree to a four-power pact at the expense of Germany," the chancellor said.

Adenauer also announced the prime minister will pay a return visit to West Germany some time this year but not before the German national elections in September. He said a definite date will be announced later.

The chancellor stressed that "my talks with Sir Winston were carried on in a very frank and open-minded atmosphere. They were very successful."

Speaking at a press conference shortly before leaving London, Adenauer said he is in full agreement with Churchill's proposal for a Locarno-type settlement between Russia and the West.

Adenauer said he had discussed the proposal with Churchill "both in detail and broad outline" during his two-day visit to Britain.

"I discovered that the British prime minister had the same idea as I," he said. "The main thing is to capture the spirit manifested in the old Locarno treaty."

In this pact, signed in 1925, Germany and France agreed not to wage war on each other. Britain guaranteed France against frontier encroachments by Germany and Germany against similar moves by France.

Plane Goes Down Near Montreal On Return Flight

MONTREAL (CP) — Eight members of the RCAF lost their lives Friday night when their Mitchell medium bomber crashed in a water-filled field near suburban Valois.

Bodies and parts of the twin-engine B-25 were strewn over a wide area. The plane, based at Trenton, was on its way back from Chatham, N.B., when the crash occurred in poor weather.

The RCAF announced today the names of the eight dead. They are:

FO. D. R. Robertson, 32, of Roblin, Man., pilot of the craft;

Flt.-Lt. L. H. Ferguson, 29, Noranda, Que., co-pilot;

Cpl. M. L. Barnes, Moose Creek, Ont., crewman;

Flt.-Lt. K. E. Turner, Montreal, whose wife lives at the married quarters, Trenton;

FO. C. F. Griffin, 32, Strathmore, Que.;

Sgt. W. L. McDonald, 38, Belleville, Ont.;

FO. P. M. Mallory, 21, Kitchener, Ont.;

Sgt. H. E. Paradis, Montreal.

BODY OVER FENCE

One of the bodies was draped over a stone fence, a leg severed. The man was clutching a tuft of grass in a clenched fist. A decapitated body was found 100 yards from where the plane crashed. Another had most of the clothes burned away.

So violent was the impact of the crash that the tail assembly was found 200 yards away. Small trees were cut down around a wide area.

The crash occurred a mile north of Lakeside Heights, about 15 miles west of Montreal.

One of the first RCAF officials on the scene was Wing Cmdr. W. Lupton, commanding officer of No.

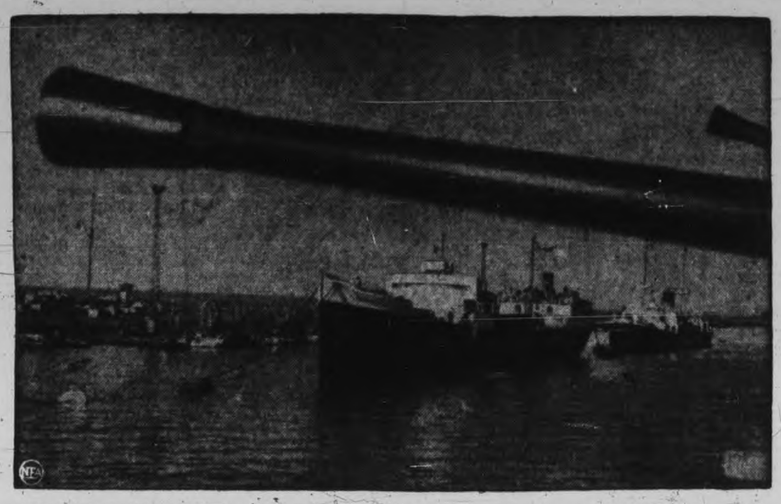
Find Some Wood From Secret Plane

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—An intensive shore and surface search of Lake Ontario was renewed today in the area in which a Canadian fisherman found bits of balsa wood identified as parts of a missing experimental aircraft.



The top-secret X-2, a Bell Aircraft Corp. rocket plane, was lost over the lake Tuesday along with two Bell employees.

The fisherman found the balsa wood in his nets Thursday.

A Bell spokesman said a Canadian fisherman found "about a bagful" of the light balsa wood in his nets Thursday and notified Bell by telephone Friday.

The wood was flown here in a Bell plane and identified in the laboratory as parts of the lining of the rear part of the X-2 fuselage, the spokesman added.

The wood was found between eight and fifteen miles off the Canadian shore near Point Petre.

TROUBLE IN EGYPT — British Royal Navy guns frame merchant ships in Port Said Harbor, Egypt. With Anglo-Egyptian negotiations on the future of the Suez Canal Zone at the cracking point, the 80,000-man British garrison in the area is digging in for possible Egyptian attacks.

Allied Fliers Down 11 Red Planes

SEOUL (AP)—Allied Sabre jets blasted at least 11 Communist MiGs from the North Korean sky and damaged six others today in one of their greatest victories over the swept-wing Red jets.

Each of the three top United States aces flying in Korea scored a kill.

Today's bag was the biggest since last September when the Sabres destroyed 13 MiGs and damaged four. The record was set last July 4 when Allied pilots shot down 13 MiGs, probably destroyed one and damaged seven.

Capt. Manuel Fernandez of Miami, Fla., downed his 14th MiG today to regain his position as the world's top ranking jet ace. Only a few hours earlier Capt. Joseph McConnell of Apple Valley, Calif., had destroyed his 13th MiG to tie Fernandez temporarily.

Capt. James Jabara of Wichita, Kan., the first U.S. ace of the Korean war, bagged his first MiG since returning to Korea for his second tour of duty. Jabara now has seven MiGs.

MATCHED ON GROUND

The suddenly stepped-up tempo of the aerial war was matched on the ground where thousands of Chinese slammed into Allied lines in central Korea and were driven off by tough South Korean infantry.

In bitter hand-to-hand fighting, Allied troops backed by heavy artillery fire, cut up a force of some 4,000 Chinese.

Front-line reports said 1,300 Reds were killed or wounded, most of them in the sector east of Sniper ridge, where South Koreans fought off a regiment of Chinese in dark trenches.

The Reds attacked shortly after midnight, overrunning South Korean positions. But the South Koreans drove the Reds from their trenches with bayonets and grenades in the bitterest fighting of this size in months, the 8th army said.

The Reds also hurled a battalion against another outpost in the same general area, but were beaten off in two hours of fighting by forces of the U.S. 3rd division.

The Americans counted 152 Reds killed or wounded.

A Story With A Moral

Night Of Monkey Shines Ends In Greed, Jealousy

By DAVE WHITE

It was like a page lifted straight from a revivalist minister's sermon, with greed and jealousy—against an alluring background of SEX—causing the downfall of two of God's creatures. One glorious night—and then prison bars. No it didn't happen to a couple of Erskine Caldwell's mountaineers but to Franky and Johnny, two Peterborough monkeys kept in the filtration park zoo.

Somebody broke the monkey cage, which is located near the bear cage, shortly after 5 p.m. on Friday. And Franky and Johnny, two of 10 monkeys in the zoo, were away for nearly 16 hours of uninterrupted whoopee.

Jim Harrison, chief operator at the filtration plant, had gone home for the day, secure in the knowledge that the monkeys were safely locked up. He was routed out of the downtown district with the news that Franky and Johnny were on the loose and the morale of his small animal kingdom—as well as that of nearby residents—wsa waning.

NO SLEEP

Then began an all-night chase with Jim and three other men trying to outwit the escapees and get them back once more under lock and key. They were unsuccessful until 9 o'clock this morning.

Free from the cares of domestic life Franky and Johnny raced around the park, climbed trees, explored the shoreline of the Otonabee River, jumped in and out of a boat, and finally climbed a 50-foot elm tree that juts over the water. Here they were spotted by Jim and his puffing and weary helpers.

Then began the tempting process to get them out of the elm tree — the subtle brain of man pitted against that of the monkey.

Coaxing failed. Oranges filled with knockout powder were given the two escapees, but Franky and Johnny turned the tables by sniffing them suspiciously and then throwing them back at the men.

U.S. May Lift Czech Sanctions

WASHINGTON (AP) — A state department spokesman, commenting on the release of William Oatis, said today the United States now will consider removing sanctions imposed on Communist Czechoslovakia after the Associated Press correspondent was imprisoned.

Oatis was pardoned by Czech President Zapotcky and set free today. The department regarded his release as a long-overdue act of justice.

A statement said "the department of course, is greatly pleased by the release of Mr. Oatis from the incarceration which this government felt from the outset was a gross injustice."

Press officer Lincoln White told newspaper men "there wasn't any deal" for Oatis' release on the part of the U.S. government. He said the U.S. government was informed, as had been publicly announced, that Zapotcky acted on an appeal from Mrs. Oatis.

White was asked what the United States intended to do about penalties it imposed on Czechoslovakia at the time Oatis was imprisoned. He replied:

"We have imposed certain sanctions as a result of Oatis' imprisonment. With his release we are now in position to give consideration to the removal of those restrictions."

Such atmospheric conditions could produce radiation hazards.

No Confirmation Gov't Complained About Truce Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—A carefully worded external affairs department statement today failed to confirm a Washington report that Canada had "complained" against United States proposals for changing the Communist truce plan in Korea. The statement, issued late this morning by a public relations spokesman, said "oral discussions on a confidential basis" with the state department had been held for clarification of differences between UN counter-proposals on prisoners of war and the proposals in the recent UN general assembly resolution.

The statement follows:

"The department of external affairs has had oral discussions on a confidential basis with the state department on recent developments in Panmunjom.

"Along with other countries we have been closely following these developments.

WANTED CERTIFICATION

"The recent discussions were for the purpose of obtaining clarification on what appears to be the differences between certain parts of the latest counter proposals put forward by the United Nations command and parts of the proposals contained in the United Nations resolution accepted almost unanimously by the general assembly as a basis for solution of the prisoner of war issue."

It is believed here that the Canadian government, through Ambassador Hume Wrong in Washington, told the state department it believed the U. S. negotiators had been too hasty in rejecting the Communist proposals on prisoners made May 7.

A Washington story Friday night said, without elaboration, that it was learned Canada thought the Communist plan somewhat more acceptable than the U. S. government did.

DECLINES COMMENT

External Affairs Minister Pearson, in Toronto today, declined comment, and others of his immediate staff were unavailable.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, busy at his desk preparing for his departure early next week for the Coronation, would not go beyond the tightly-worded external affairs department statement which was not attributed to any individual official of the government.

Jail Manager For Four Years

HALIFAX (CP) — The former general manager of the bankrupt National Thrift Corporation today was sentenced to four years each on two counts of theft of $50,000 from the corporation.

John O. Morse, acquitted on another charge of taking $50,000 in cash, securities and cheques, will serve the sentences concurrently in Dorchester penitentiary.

Call Off Examinations, Questions Stolen

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — They had to call off the civil service examinations Friday for the posts of sergeant and lieutenant of police.

Somebody stole the test questions.

City personnel director Frank J. Escobedo said a clerk in the county commissioners' office, George R. Williams, 40, was arrested and charged with selling answers to the examinations questions.

About 600 patrolmen and sergeants were to have taken the tests.

Czech Officials Release William Oatis

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

William Oatis came back to freedom today. The Associated Press correspondent, who went to jail because he wrote the truth from Czechoslovakia, was released on a pardon after serving two years of a 10-year sentence.

U. S. embassy officials in Prague promptly drove the reporter to the frontier, and he reached Waidhaus, Germany, this afternoon. He was expected to return within a few days to the United States for a reunion with his wife, whose poignant appeal to Czech authorities was credited by Moscow as being instrumental in bringing about the pardon.

Oatis, now 39 years old, was sentenced by a Prague court in 1951 on charges of espionage after a trial the U. S. government labelled a travesty of justice.

WIFE DELIGHTED

Mrs. Oatis, at her home in St. Paul, Minn., meanwhile was "grateful, delighted and exhausted." She had been up most of the night awaiting further details, after the first bare announcement that Czech authorities were giving her husband a pardon.

The appeal she sent last November to Klement Gottwald, then president of Czechoslovakia, was disclosed Friday night when the news of the pardon became known. She put her heart into the 250-word letter.

"Surely," she said, "you must heed a simple plea for mercy and put an end to this bitterly unhappy situation in which my husband William and I are entrapped

"We married because we wanted to spend our lives together. Yet the days go by, one after another, and so does the time we would be spending together. We can never regain what has already been lost during this past 2½ years, but I continue to hope and pray. . . ."

There was no explanation why the Prague officials waited six months to act on the letter.

Meantime, Gottwald died and Antonin Zapotocky became president of Czechoslovakia.

It is almost three years since Mrs. Oatis saw her husband. That

Three Perish In Burning Home

HEARST (CP)—Mrs. Alfred Bois, 21, burned Friday night in a futile attempt to rescue her two small children from their blazing home, died in hospital early today.

The children, Denise, six months, and Charles, 1½, were both burned to death in the fire which swept through the four-room frame house at Coppell, 18 miles south of here on the Algoma Central Railway.

Mr. Bois, a member of an ACR section gang, was at work at the time of the fire.

Provincial police from this community, 300 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie, are still investigating the blaze.

Doesn't Pay To Argue

Russian Lieutenant Tough Customer

This is the seventh of a series of articles by I. Norman Smith, of Ottawa, newspaperman, who is touring Europe. He is spending several weeks in Belgrade.

BY I. NORMAN SMITH

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia,—(By Air Mail)—It would be unwise to jump to any conclusions about the political, economic or social welfare of Yugoslavia upon the fourth day of a month's visit. But there may be some first impressions worth getting down.

First, there was the crossing through the Russian zone of Austria on the 19-hour train run here from Vienna. Russian police watched the train closely at every stop, seemingly mere boys with rifles. It was only at the mountain-pass point of Semmering, where we left the zone, that they examined us.

The Russian lieutenant seemed about 23, bore an enigmatic expression that was neither belligerent nor friendly. He spoke in flowing Russian and hadn't a word of English, French or German. Looking at our passports he said "Engleesha", or something that sounded like that. "Canada", I replied. "Engleesha", he retorted, loudly. I nodded my head saying "No Canada". He flourished the passport, not threateningly but with the beginning of vehemence, and said: "Colonya Englecsha". It seemed to me a poor time to stand upon the rights of the Statute of Westminster, and all that, so I smiled "yah" in complete agreement. He nodded briskly as if to say he had been right all the time, smacked the passport back into my hand and stomped out. I was glad he did.

LITTLE NAPOLEON

And I was gladder he did when the next hour indicated what could come from arguing with a Russian. An old woman, perhaps 70, in peasant garb, in the next set of seats, apparently didn't have all her papers in order for part of her baggage. He shouted and she shouted back. From then on this fairhaired boy became a little Napoleon, ordered her off the train bag and baggage.

There then ensued on the platform a long argument, the lieutenant ordering the train crew to bring the rest of her baggage from the baggage car, the train conductors pleading that they were running behind schedule, the Russian troops not helping the old woman with her stuff, the old woman joined by another and younger Austrian woman who tried softer tactics which slowly worked. The officious lieutenant after 65 minutes allowed the woman to return to the carriage with her baggage and the train finally whistled its way out into the clearer air of the British zone. The poor old woman was now beset by other Austrians who up until now had not dared to appear even to hear the discussion. They told her she had been a fool to argue. But by now she was all in and badly shaken, poor woman.

Just written down like this it probably doesn't sound like much of an incident. But the silent and anxious trainload of witnesses, the arrogant unreasonableness of the young man with the revolver, the total lack of courtesy or consideration, the tenseness of the armed Russian police and the unwillingness of the Austrian train crew or Austrian police to get into the argument—these all added up to something plainly frightening and the more so because it was all over something quite trivial. It was good to get into the British Zone, even as a colonial

Quite different were the Yugoslav customs and passport and police people as about dusk we crossed the border out of Austria They came in smiling and left us smiling, and the final courtesy of welcome came when a young woman with a big leather bag introduced herself as from "Putnik", the Yugoslav government travel agency. She spoke pretty good English and asked if she could help with anything and incidentally was ready to cash any travellers' cheques into Yugoslav currency or change Austrian or other foreign currency. Thus by the time we reached our first Yugoslav station we were all ready for the business of taxis and hotels and armed with valuable tips and information.

INTERESTING TRIPS

It was an interesting train trip. We carried our own food from Vienna and ate when we felt like it for there was no restaurant car. The accommodation was comfortable, though not first class, and the scenery moved from Austrian plain to mountain and then climbed into the exciting and rugged Yugoslav mixture of mountain, narrow gorge, and deep woods so ideal for guerrilla warfare.

Guard Killed By Patient

Hit Over Head With Metal Tea Pitcher

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A veteran guard at the Ontario hospital, Harvey Christian Forrest, 47, died of multiple skull fractures Friday night after he was hit over the head with a metal tea pitcher. The attack occurred after supper time in the diet kitchen of the 1,500-patient hospital.

Dr. A. McCausland, superintendent of the hospital said the attendant was struck from behind while he had his back turned by a 47-year-old male patient who has been in the institution for six years and had never shown any previous evidence of violence.

The patient had been under treatment for about 13 years, the superintendent said. He was transferred to London from Penetang and although in a ward requiring close supervision, he appeared "a quiet inoffensive type."

The patient has a long-standing history of paranoid schizophrenia and his action was termed "a sudden impulse" by Dr. McCausland, who said the attack was "unforeseen and unfortunate."

A report is being forwarded by hospital authorities to the Ontario department of health. Dr. Emerson L. Hodgins, coroner in the case, said there would be an inquest, but no date has been set.

Forrest had been employed as an attendant at the hospital since 1930. His wife, who was vacationing at Miami, was notified immediately and is on her way home. There are no children. Relatives live at New Hamburg.

Labor Ranks Closed By McCarthy

Left-Wing Dispute Shoved Aside As Attlee Attacked

LONDON (AP)— Left-wing labor, casting aside factional differences, rallied Friday night behind party leader Clement Attlee's criticism of U.S. policy and heaped scorn on Senator Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin.

Spearheaded by fiery Aneurin Bevan, the leftist faction took the floor in Parliament and in meeting halls throughout England to snipe at U. S. foreign policy.

Labor MP Tom Driberg lambasted McCarthy and backed both Attlee's stand and Prime Minister Churchill's call for a top-level East-West conference. He spoke during a debate in Commons over a left-wing Socialist demand that Britain permit penicillin and other drugs to go to Red China. The Churchill government spurned the demand.

BEVAN'S ATTACK

Bevan levelled his attack in a stormy speech at Trowbridge.

He opened his talks by saying it was "for the benefit of Senator McCarthy, comrades and friends." He said the Socialist movement had begun its meetings for generations with calls to "comrades."

"We don't propose to stop for Senator McCarthy," he declared.

Bevan said it was "childish" to think that, after the destruction of the last war, Russian leaders were preparing for another general attack.

Bevan said he had resigned as labor minister in Attlee's cabinet in April, 1951, "largely because I considered that the policies of Great Britain were following too closely upon the U. S. A."

"It seemed to me then and seems to me now," he added, "that the analysis which leading American statesmen made of the danger of war in the world was shallow and superficial and that it was not correct to say that revolutionary upheavals which we witnessed in our lifetime and certainly since the end of the last war are a direct consequence of the malevolent plotting of the Kremlin."

OTHER CRITICISMS

Other Labor leaders also criticized U. S. foreign policy and took passing potshots at McCarthy.

John Strachey, Labor MP and war minister in the old Attlee government, said in a speech at Oxford that American negotiators in Korea are showing "little or no will to truce whatever."

He charged that McCarthy, in what he termed his "vulgar abuse" of Attlee, appears determined to prevent any armistice in Korea.

Labor MP Woodrow Wyatt, in a speech at Hounslow, said that, if necessary, Britain and other countries of the free world would have to outvote the U. S. in the United Nations after an armistice in Korea, "so that Communist China could take the place to which it is entitled."

Farm Officials Meet In Rome

OTTAWA (CP)—Spokesmen for some 20,000,000 farmers in more than 30 countries, including Canada, meet in Rome next month to ponder ways of bringing stability to world agricultural trade.

High on the agenda of the sixth meeting of the International Federation of Agricultural Producers will be the question of international commodity agreements.

H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture said Friday the Canadian delegation will "press strongly for adoption by all governments" of a program of such agreements.

With Mr. Hannam, representing Canada, will be C. A. Milligan of Napanee, President of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, and W. J. Ball of Regina, president of the Saskatchewan federation.

tion districts on the map, where cottages are sprouting up like mushrooms.

Hilliard Murphy, who was reeve of Bobcaygeon from 1940 to 1946, warden of Victoria county in 1945 and is now secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, is confident that the causeway would be an advantage to residents of both counties.

"We feel here," he said the other day, "that a lot of people would come up here from the northern part of New York State along the shorter route through Peterborough."

"It's one of the grandest things you could ever do" in the opinion of Ross Forbert, president of Bobcaygeon's Chamber of Commerce. "I would say that anybody not in favor of it is out of his head. It would be a great thing for Peterborough and a great thing for us."

And each of these men is a merchant who wants to see more retail business go to Bobcaygeon, including Reeve Bottum.

90 PER CENT SUPPORT

"I feel safe in saying that 90 per cent of the people of the village are in favor of it because it will bring more trade from both directions," he told The Examiner. During the winter he drives to Peterborough in 40 minutes, crossing over Pigeon Lake on the ice.

For Mr. Bottum, the promotion of the scheme for a causeway across Pigeon Lake is an old story. In 1913, the year after the floating bridge went out, his father was elected warden of Victoria county and led the campaign to have it replaced.

Today, at the age of 92, Albert Bottum appears almost as spry as when he used to drive his father's stage route from Bobcaygeon to Peterborough, crossing Pigeon "Creek" over the old floating bridge from Flood's Landing to Sullivan's farm. The trip was made daily, carrying passengers and mail.

The stage route was owned by his father, Capt. W. H. Bottum, who also kept the Forest House Hotel in Bobcaygeon and operated a fleet of pleasure steamers to Lake Chemong, Lindsay and Fenelon Falls. He and his two sons all had captain's certificates but Albert later went into the hardware business which he conducted for 68 years.

HELPED BY SON

He was assisted, and has now been succeeded in, the business by his two sons, Roy and Claude. Roy is also a former reeve of the village and was county warden in 1940, the third member of the family to be elected to that honored position. His grandfather, Capt. W. H. Bottum, was warden in 1895.

With this history behind it, the family not only carries on a tradition of leadership in Bobcaygeon but, from the stagecoach days, a link with Peterborough as well—a link that is shared by a lot of residents in the village.

Some of the villagers are afraid that link is in danger of being permanently broken since the bus service between the two centres was discontinued a year ago. (There has never been a railway service.)

Mrs. C. T. Powell, a Bobcaygeon housewife, points out that without any commercial passenger service it's next to impossible for villagers without cars to get to Peterborough. Her husband owns a car but is a commercial traveller and so is away from Bobcaygeon much of the time.

"I can hardly ever get to Peterborough to visit my friends when they are in hospital there," Mrs. Powell said.

"Do you think I don't know it?" Miss Amy Cosh, the village librarian asked. "I was in hospital in Peterborough for six weeks and what visitors I had were extremely rare."

CHIEF BOOSTER

Chief booster of the causeway scheme is a Bobcaygeon lumber operator, Clarence Read, who was on a special committee of Victoria county council in 1949 when he was reeve of the village.

That year Mr. Read got approval of the project by Victoria county council and a preliminary route for the causeway was made from Lot 21, Con. 12 of Emily township to Lot 1, Con. 7-8 of Ennismore, at King's Wharf, roughly six or seven miles south of Bobcaygeon, running almost due east.

The length of the route was 49,128 feet, just under a mile. Soundings were made every 100 feet and revealed that the depth varied from seven to 17 feet, averaging 12 feet.

No actual rock foundation was encountered. The soundings rod indicated sandy bottom in some spots and muck or white marl in others, but a fairly solid bottom was indicated. Approximately 190,000 yards of rock fill would be required to build a causeway with a 30-foot top width, six feet above the water level, and side slopes of one and a half to one.

The old floating bridge was jointly maintained by Peterborough and Victoria counties, the former paying 70 per cent of the cost of upkeep and the latter 30 per cent. Presumably, the cost of the causeway would be shared by the two counties.

But, Mr. Read contends, with the government paying 80 per cent of the cost, the counties could easily pay the balance and derive much more in return.

"There's no doubt in the world the route serving the causeway would be taken over as a provincial highway in time and save the counties the cost of maintenance and snow-plowing," Mr. Read said.

"Where would you get a better scenic road?" he asked. "This is real tourist country. And the chief benefit would be to traffic going from Kinmount and north of it to Peterborough and the reverse. It wouldn't affect traffic going north on Highway 28. Peterborough would derive thousands of dollars in tourist trade."

Flooded Market Worrying Cheese Buyers

STRATFORD (CP)—Cheese buyers expressed apprehension Friday over the possibility of a flooded market and cheese factory salesmen refused to sell their cheese when bids went up to only 27 cents for April cheese and 28 cents for May.

It was the first session of the Western Ontario cheese exchange on the open market without a government-supported floor price for the product.

Cheese prices were previously supported at 30 cents. Salesmen had expected a 28-cent bid and there was an indication that a 28-cent floor price might be established in a few weeks.

EXPRESS CONCERN

One buyer expressed the concern of all. He was afraid that the bottom would fall out of the cheese market if the producers' association marketing board "dumped" 5,000,000 pounds of cheese which it now holds in storage from 1952.

He said private companies had another 20,000,000 or 25,000,000 pounds in storage across Canada.

Bidding which started at 24 cents today advanced in stages of a 16th of a cent a pound up to 27 cents for cheese made during the last half of April.

When the 24-cent bid was offered exchange chairman Albin Pearson of Bright said "You're trying to close up some more cheese factories."

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG—(CP)—Barley and flax prices continued to show a firm tone in moderately active trade Friday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Oats and rye declined slightly in most contracts.

Small lots of barley were reported sold to the United Kingdom, involving a total of about 400,000 bushels. This business was reflected in the pit by export buying in barley, and prices moved up. Prices for Class 2 wheat declined seven-eighths of a cent, while IWA prices moved up one-eighth.

Early today Johnny fell a victim of greed and another pair of flashing monkey eyes. A buxom female named Nellie was brought to below the tree where Johnny (yes, and Franky too) was watching. Nellie strutted about and was given some food. In fact, she got a lot of it and a lot of attention.

Both the food and "the other woman" looked good, thought Johnny.

BAITED TRAP

Then the artful men took curvaceous Nellie to Johnny's cage, put a rope on the cage door, and hid. A creature of impulse, poor Johnny rushed down from the tree to see what had happened to this tempting bait. Into the cage he went, and he was had.

But the drama wasn't over. The third member of the Frankie-Johnny-Nellie triangle was Frankie herself who had been watching this series of events with a distrustful eye.

Convinced that her man Johnny had done her wrong, she too came down from the tree and tried to catch her philandering mate in the act. Into the cage she stalked, and was promptly trapped also.

The glorious escapade was over and now they were all behind bars.

As we said before, there's a moral in it—somewhere.

Accuses British Of Trespassing Beyond Limits

CAIRO (CP)—Egypt today accused the British forces in the Suez canal zone of "trespassing beyond the limits" of their area to conduct "movements into peaceful villages."

An Egyptian government communique said the government also received a report Friday that British garrison troops "stopped a bus and kidnapped nine passengers, including four members of the Egyptian armed forces." It added the whereabouts of the "kidnapped" persons still are unknown.

The zone assigned to the British forces under the 1936 Anglo-Egyptian treaty runs along 104 miles of the Suez canal in a north-south direction and extends about 30 miles eastward in width.

Egypt cancelled the treaty in 1951 and Egyptian Premier Maj.-Gen. Mohammed Naguib has threatened his country will use force, if necessary, to oust the British garrison from the zone.

Britain refused to recognize Egypt's one-sided cancellation of the treaty but offered to negotiate the dispute.

TENSION MOUNTS

Tension has mounted in the zone since these talks broke down May 13 over a British demand that 5,000 British technicians remain behind to keep the huge installations in operating conditions. The Egyptians maintained they could do the job with only 500.

The Egyptian communique protested against road blocks it said the British military had put up at Ismailia. It also charged that British forces had thrown a pontoon bridge across the sweetwater canal hindering navigation on the waterway. The canal flows between Cairo and Ismailia.

Egypt's minister of national guidance, Fuad Galal, meanwhile, issued a statement saying the Suez base, so far as the Western world is concerned, "can only be safeguarded by Egypt's friendship, which is the most important factor in the whole situation."

Asserting Egypt "is a bulwark of stability in the whole Middle East and even beyond it," he stressed Egypt's influence in the Moslem world, from Morocco in the West to India and Pakistan in the East.

The Coronation Cup, an elimination competition of the eight top teams in British soccer, is a special Coronation year award.

Autopsy Shows Three Boys All Died From Drowning

TORONTO (CP)—Three little boys missing two weeks were discovered drowned Friday in a slimy inlet on the Toronto waterfront. Henry Quigley, 10, Howard, 8, and Paul, 5, who left their home May 1 with seven cents among them to buy candy, were found by George Kenyon, a metal company worker, on his lunch hour.

Authorities said later Kenyon probably is in line for a $1,000 reward the police commission offered for information solving the mystery of the boys' disappearance.

An autopsy Friday night showed the cause of death as drowning. It ruled out any possibility of foul play, police said.

Police believe the boys were drowned May 3, two days after leaving their home in the Cabbagetown district of downtown Toronto.

GOT WONDERLUST?

The theory is that the sunshine of a warm spring day gave them a touch of wanderlust and inspired them to run away, possibly with the idea of camping out as an adventure.

It is thought the children slept the first night in a deserted downtown house in an area where workmen saw them the afternoon of May 2. The second night they stayed in a burned-out building at the rear of a church. They lived on cheap cakes, bought with the proceeds of selling milk bottles and soft drink bottles they had found.

On the hot Sunday afternoon, the boys apparently thought of the waterfront. They strolled east to Sherbourne street and followed it south to the lakefront.

There, in the inlet 30 feet wide at its mouth opposite a trunk sewer pipe, they saw a little wooden bridge. It was actually a boom, formed by six lengths of wood each eight inches wide and about a foot thick, stretched across the mouth of the inlet. The water is eight feet deep at the boom and six feet deep at the shoreline.

WOOD TIPPED

The police theory is that the children tried to play follow-the-leader across the boom. The narrow pieces of wood tipped under their weight, throwing the boys into the water, one after the other. None could swim.

Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Quigley, have three other children—Margaret, 12, Theresa, 3, and Veronica, eight months.

The father was asked to identify the boys' bodies for official records at the morgue. He looked at the three small bodies in turn. He almost collapsed when attendants showed him the body of his youngest son, Paul.

"Yes," he said brokenly, turning away, "They're my boys, all right."

Assessors Meet To Hear Experts Speak

Assessors and municipal officials of five counties met Friday at the Civic Building and Peterborough Golf Club for the annual meeting of District Five, Association of Assessing Officers of Ontario.

Stewart Sparling was re-elected chairman during the meeting and Ed Davis, re-elected secretary.

Featured speakers during the day-long sessions were Martin Laird, president of the provincial organization, Wilson Gemmell, Peterborough Royal Bank branch manager and John R. Corkery, QC, registrar of deeds for Peterborough county.

DUTIES OF OFFICE

Mr. Laird outlined the duties of his office, emphasizing the importance of attending all district meetings, and briefly summarized the history of the provincial association, now in its 12th year.

Outlining the aims of the organization, he said its ultimate aim was to bring about assessment reform and make Ontario assessment-conscious.

Speaking to the group at the civic building, Mr. Corkery based his talk on the importance of property descriptions and differences in corresponding sections of the Assessment Act and Registry Act, stresing accuracy in descriptions of property for purposes of sales and deeds.

For the prospective land buyer, Mr. Corkery pointed out the importance of checking deeds at local registry offices before buying to prevent any misunderstandings in the future.

Addressing the group at noon, Mr. Gemmell advised the district assessors to use their association to set up assessing on a professional basis.

REQUIREMENTS

As they do from all business and professional men, the public demands certain assets in an assessor, the bank manager declared. An assessor should possess a "sterling" character, be accurate, thorough and patient, and have knowledge, wisdom and sound judgment.

The biggest asset, however, is a sense of public relations. "Be public conscious," he said, "and avoid much of the ill-will you face."

The afternoon session was devoted to a question period in which Stewart Sparling, chairman of the local district, Ed Davis, secretary, and Leighton Thompson, Belleville assessor, presided.

Elected as vice-chairmen on the local association executive were Garnet Shields, representing Durham and Northumberland; G. Geen from Hastings, Leighton Thompson from Belleville and R. L. Baty from Lindsay.

Travel Banned At Sudbury

TORONTO (CP) — Four new forest fires have broken out in Sudbury district forests, the Ontario department of lands and forests said today.

The department Friday banned all travel in the region because of the serious fire hazard.

There now are 35 fires burning in the province, all under control. Two blazes have been extinguished within the last 24 hours.

The department ban on travel in the Sudbury region does not prevent persons from travelling on main or secondary highways but does exclude fishing, camping or canoe trips into forested areas.

A 3,000-acre blaze at Falconbridge in the Sudbury district is the only one giving the department "much concern." Firefighters are using a helicopter and other aircraft to battle the flames raging through second-growth poplars.

Fires are burning in the following districts: Sault Lookout 1; Fort Frances 9; Port Arthur 2; Geraldton 1; Sault Ste. Marie 1; Sudbury 7; North Bay 2; Parry Sound 1; Pembroke 8; and Tweed 3.

Armistice Talks Recessed At Allied Request

MUNSAN (AP)—The Korean armistice talks recessed until Wednesday at Allied insistence today after another stormy exchange over UN and Communist proposals to end the long prisoner exchange deadlock. The Communists angrily accused UN negotiators of destroying the "basis" of the negotiations and called on them to "withdraw this absurd proposal." Lt.-Gen. William K. Harrison Jr., charged the Reds with trying "to coerce unwilling prisoners to return to unwanted masters."

Harrison said he asked for the three-day recess for "administrative reasons. He declined to elaborate.

TOP-LEVEL CONFERENCE

Observers pointed out the recess would provide an opportunity for top-level conferences at a time when criticism of the U. S. position is building up among friendly countries.

The U. S. state department Friday night took the unusual step of issuing a formal statement defending the "fundamental humanitarian principle" of letting prisoners of the Korean war choose whether they will go home.

There can be no compromise, the state department said in the statement apparently aimed at critics at home and abroad.

The department said every possibility for an honorable truce will be explored, but there can be no agreement which would condemn some prisoners to "indefinite captivity."

BRING PRESSURE

Britain, Canada and India were reported to have brought pressure on the U. S. to reach an agreement on the basis of the Communists' May 7 proposal.

Harrison refused to comment on the criticism.

"I don't know the attitude of our government and our friends across the seas," he told newspaper men outside the Panmunjom conference hut. "All I know is what we are doing here."

Harrison pointed out that inside the hut the fundamental positions of the two sides still are "clearly in opposition."

Communist negotiators argued for their plan to turn over to a five-country commission for four months the 48,500 North Korean and Chinese prisoners who refuse to go home. During this period the Reds would explain matters to them. The future of those who still refuse repatriation would be decided at a post-armistice political conference.

2 Injured, 1 Jailed After Wild Chase

NEWMARKET (CP)—One youth was in jail and two others were in hospital with severe injuries following a wild automobile chase which ended early today in a crash south of here.

Gordon Bonnell and Hugh McLean were in serious condition. Herbert Bonnell, 17, was held by North York police. The youths, from Willowdale, a Toronto suburb, were charged with car theft. Herbert Bonnell was also charged with dangerous driving.

Police said the youths stole a car in Toronto Friday night, drove it to Crown Hill, three miles north of Barrie and abandoned it. A second car was stolen in Barrie, police said, and the three headed back to Toronto.

Barrie provincial police gave chase and radioed Newmarket police who joined in pursuit. Police said the driver of the stolen car lost control and it crashed off the highway a few miles south of here.

Newmarket is 24 miles north of Toronto.

426 transport squadron. He later said a board of inquiry has been set up to inquire into the crash.

HEARD EXPLOSION

Residents of the district said they heard a plane overhead shortly before the crash. It seemed to be in trouble. Some said there was an explosion following the crash.

A spokesman for the RCAF said the plane called the control tower at Dorval airport several times and made a number of passes at the field before disappearing.

The spokesman said poor visibility at the time could have caused the crash. Another possibility was poor radio reception as the pilot appeared to have lost his sense of direction.

Bill McAdams, a Trans-Canada Air Lines mechanic, who lives close to the crash scene, was one of the first to reach the wreckage.

FIRST AT WRECKAGE

"I was just getting into bed when I heard a plane going over the house," he said. "Then I heard it make a second pass over the house. That time I heard one engine stutter and then cut out. I got out of bed and went to the kitchen window which faces the back of the house, towards the swampy ground. I saw a flash and then fire flared up."

McAdams dressed and with a neighbor rushed to the scene.

COUNTED EIGHT BODIES

"We counted eight bodies," said Mr. McAdams. "I think they must have all been killed instantly. There were some open parachutes around the wreckage."

Searchers found a bundle of 10 pictures near one of the bodies. Farther on, two socks were found in a tree, hanging there as neatly as if they had been put in place with clothes pegs.

One of the aircraft's big wheels rested against a stone fence, partly draped with a pair of men's pajamas.

Invisible Werewolf Puts On Performance For Doctors

MANILA (Reuters)—A sharp-toothed, invisible "werewolf" which has been plaguing an 18-year-old taxi dancer for the last week put on its act Friday before an audience of doctors and judges, police reported.

The girl was asked to sketch a likeness of the black-cloaked, winged-human she claims to see during her attacks. As she began to draw, toothmarks appeared on her fingers and she fainted, the police said.

When she opened her eyes, she began to choke and turn black. Police said they found fresh marks on her arm and fingernail imprints on her throat. The chief police medical examiner, who earlier diagnosed her case as epilepsy, said he would reverse a previous statement that the bites were self-inflicted.

Two women spiritualists present went into a trance to make contact with "the devil inside her," but emerged after drawing a blank.

WON'T BE FREED

A Manila judge acquitted the girl—whose name has not been released—on the charge of vagrancy laid against her six days ago. She will not be freed from the prison hospital until investigators have made further examinations of the attacks.

She first screamed out four nights ago that she was being bitten. Next day she was carried from the jail to hospital shrieking that a "Dracula" was attacking her. Tooth marks covered both her arms.

Police said they saw eight new imprints appear, wet with what appeared to be saliva. As the girl cried out in pain and fear, more marks appeared.

Train Kills Cattle

MARKDALE, Ont. (CP) — A Canadian Pacific Railway freight train Friday struck and killed four cows, three calves and two three-year-old steers, owned by Gordon Hamilton of Glenelg township near here. Apparently the cattle wandered from the farm through an open gate to the CPR tracks. Markdale is 30 miles south of Owen Sound.

Old Hospital Building In State Of Disrepair

By HARRY THEOBALD

Queen Mary (Isolation) Hospital building has been vacant since 1950, and is now in its third year of disuse.

Its functions were transferred to Peterborough Civic Hospital chiefly for the advantage of its modern facilities and accommodation as one of the recently constructed and modernly equipped hospitals in Ontario.

The empty and idle building on Langton St., in the north end of the city, is the property of Peterborough's citizens. To them, it may be reported that repairs and maintenance should not be longer deferred. During those three years of temporary abandonment, the old hospital has received official consideration on several occasions of enquiry about purchase.

To that extent it has not been entirely neglected, but apparently its continuing state of repair has been taken for granted from its original stoutness of construction. That is not a safe and proper assumption in good housekeeping. Some parts of the building are already calling for the proverbial "stitch in time."

WARNING TO CITIZENS

Photographs of some details of the interior indicate impairment, mostly superficial, so far, but uttering warning that something should be done this season to prevent progressive deterioration.

The old hospital is a stout building in its outlines, but evidence of a leaky roof is found in several of the rooms on the second floor. Dampness and frost have loosened paint in various directions. Square yards of it have peeled off and fallen on the hardwood floors. Woodwork, particularly on the exterior, is calling for fresh, preserving paint. Rain and snow and the general effects of weather have already done incipient damage to the exposed wood, in the shingles, verandahs, sun porch, and to several door frames. A few broken window panes are only a minor item.

The building needs immediate attention and care inside and out. The basement should get a thorough overhauling first of all a cleansing job. Fresh air has been so long excluded that the atmosphere is dank and heavy. The odor is almost nauseous, and clings to clothing as if it had been sprayed on. That condition is only to be expected, is not serious, but it seems to be an exhalation of decay. Actually, the house requires daily cleaning and dusting, and scrubbing.

COSTLY TO BUILD

Replacement of that property today would cost the citizens a substantial bill of construction. As it stands, getting little or no attention, it presents a compound problem of maintenance and use.

Anyone looking through and around the premises would be impressed by the appearance of physical value that should be protected against impairment. If it has to remain vacant, some policy of preventing deterioration should be adopted. Since the isolation hospital staff departed, one council or another gave some thought to converting the building into apartments for elderly couples. Whether its arrangement of rooms recommends that course is a question for an architect's examination.

The upper floor is laid out in 10 rooms, with others on the main floor. As in hospital design the traces of kitchen and laundry are evident. Nine or 10 bathrooms are distributed through the building, and there are various taps, laundry tubs and so on. Some of the rooms are as unmarred as when the last patients were removed to Civic Hospital. Much of the lighting system and fixtures are in place, likewise the stands of hoses for fire protection.

Obviously there is good, sound property value in the building, whatever is to be said of its probably outmoded design. Lawns and hedges are thriving, and the site is still one of the most attractive in the city, with its lofty view of the river across to Auburn.

Presumably the heating system, including a comparatively new coal stoker, is serviceable, although the furnace room and what may have been the laundry show the worst effects of mould and rust.

If that entire Hilliard farm, which the city owns, with space for several hundred houses, at a guess—had been selected for subdivision purposes, instead of investment to the west and also to the north, this deserted building could conceivably be suitable for community use, such as Dixon House in the west end, and with a great deal more accommodation.

Somebody has the land rented for another season of pasturage. As for the building on its pleasant ground, one part of the farm, if something isn't soon done to check damage that can spread through a leaky roof eventual cost of repairs may outweigh the value that is still there.

Commonwealth Troops Will Fight On

By STAN CARTER

TOKYO (AP)—The commander of the 1st Commonwealth Division in Korea said today he was sure Commonwealth soldiers would continue to do their part in Korea as long as the war lasts.

Asked at a press conference to comment on United States Senator Joseph McCarthy's asserting that Britain was threatening to withdraw from the Korean war, Lt.-Gen. Henry Wells said:

"I shouldn't think there was the slightest substance to it.

"While the campaign is on in Korea I shouldn't think there would be any question of it at all.

"I think you'll find us pulling our weight in the team."

Wells said 31,250 Commonwealth troops are fighting in Korea and maintaining supply lines in Japan. Among them is the 25th Canadian Brigade of about 6,000 men.

PREPARE FOR WINTER

He said Commonwealth soldiers are making preparations for next winter's campaign, and he is sure they would not let up until a truce is actually signed. He said mere indications that a Korean armistice was imminent would not be enough to call a halt to the preparations.

The 31,250 figure does not include navy or air forces.

Wells declined to comment on speculation that Britain would ask to be represented on the Allied truce team at Panmunjom.

He said Britain and the 27 other countries fighting on the Allied side in Korea have delegated the United Nations command to lead them, just as Australia—because of its geographical nearness—is leader of the Commonwealth effort in Korea.

SPLENDID LEADERSHIP

He said the UN command is doing the job of leadership "splendidly."

Wells, just returned from a visit to Korea, said the Commonwealth Division is in fine shape and that morale is high.

He said plans for withdrawal of Commonwealth forces from Korea in the event of an armistice had not yet been made. But he said the various countries of the Commonwealth are discussing the possibility.

Empire Day Lot of Baloney Principal Tells Children

WINNIPEG (CP)—A Winnipeg school principal, who also is a historian and writer, thinks Empire Day is "a lot of baloney."

He is J. W. Chafe, 52-year-old principal of Alexandra School and author of several Canadian textbooks on history.

Mr. Chase felt so strongly on the subject that in a speech Friday to his students, gathered to celebrate empire day, he took pot shots at the present conceptions of the Empire and talked instead of Canada.

Empire Day is "as dated as the penny-farthing bicycle and the bustle," said Mr. Chafe, who, along with Dr. A. R. M. Lower of Queen's University, wrote "Canada, a Nation," which is used by last-year high chool students in most provinces.

He also is author of "Canada, Your Country," used at the grade 7 and 8 level, and "Early Life in Canada" for grade 6 students.

In his address to the some 250 students in the school, Mr. Chafe said:

"Once upon a time there was a fat jolly man named John Bull, who had several large children and a number of small ones.

"When the children grew, their father said to the half-dozen oldest children: 'You are men now, set up your own homes.'

"And Canada, that is, Canada's leaders, led the way and can be proud of what has been done since becoming a nation."

He said "Canadians have no pride in their country. . . and it's time they did."

Asked for comment, W. G. Coventry, United Kingdom trade commissioner in Winnipeg, agreed Mr. Chafe was "quite right in some ways" now that the Empire is almost non-existent.

However, Mr. Coventry said, "the great thing Mr. Chafe is missing is that the nations of the Commonwealth can be completely independent and yet bound together by something indefinable, something intangible that ties us together so that we can work together and yet disagree without coming to blows."

SATURDAY, MAY 16, 1953

The Displaced Twenty-Fourth

Monday, May 18th, is the 24th of May. This droll inconsistency is readily explicable; a Canadian trick of modern reckoning, not a Dutchman's misconstruction. The 24th of May is Queen Victoria's birthday. It has always been celebrated in Canada as a public holiday. In Victorian and Georgian days a holiday was a holiday. Now, to suit motorists, cottagers, workers and merchants and nearly everybody else in the land of plenty, a holiday is a weekend. So the 24th of May is no longer allowed to hop with the moon from one day to another in the week. It is seriously and steadfastly ordained by Act of Parliament to fall forever hence on a Monday. Thus we all have a weekend holiday. Whether Queen Victoria is amused or not, we Canadian holidayers are determined to be.

• • •

This being the first year that the 24th has fallen on another date but the 24th (or 25th if the 24th was a Sunday), we may be somewhat bemused. The fact is that the 24th was designed as a holiday in honour of Queen Victoria but it has been continued for a century, primarily, we suspect, as a unique tribute to the Queen (no other Commonwealth country has a holiday on the 24th) because it suits our seasonable year. It has had a utilitarian value, and it has been a celebration of the rebirth of the year as much as of the birth of Queen Victoria.

• • •

In many parts of Canada Easter is not a spring holiday at all. We sing songs at Easter about the joyous springtime coming again, while in many years, we look upon slush and an absolutely dormant Nature. Our next public holiday after Easter (apart from the 24th) is Dominion Day—July 1st. That date is too late to be called a spring holiday. Spring comes so quickly and lasts such a short time that the high hot summer is upon us by the first of July. So the 24th of May has been our one and only Spring holiday as well as our one and only general holiday observed to celebrate our connection with Britain and the Throne.

• • •

Canadians could not get along well without this Spring holiday. There are too many repairs and chores to be done about house and grounds after winter and to prepare for the other extreme of summer. The 24th is perhaps our most essential holiday. That is primarily why Canadians are so Victorian about it. Storm windows have to be taken down and screens put up. Touches of paint must be added here and there. The gardens must be prepared. The summer cottage must be opened and aired. All these have been traditional 24th chores—as traditional as fireworks at the close of the day.

• • •

Yet Monday there will be a kind of bewilderment. For Monday is not the 24th, really; it is only the 18th—a week early. Everybody knows that to do certain jobs (like changing from winter to summer underwear) too early is to court disaster. After the 24th it is safe to put out house-plants, to sow seeds, to do all sorts of things. But to set about these a whole week before the 24th—well, it is risky. It doesn't seem quite right. Nor e v e n appropriate. Parliamentarians have tinkered with the calendar; but Mother Nature has not advanced her schedule.

• • •

We are not without fears that the whole balance of the Canadian cycle of the year has been upset by this innovation. The opponents of Daylight Saving Time, who claim that God's time is right and proper, good enough for them, have here in this revolutionary change in the Canadian calendar, a much sounder reason for viewing with alarm man's egotistic presumption. If all the screens put up on the 18th of May's 24th of May should rust, if all the plants set out Monday freeze, if snows fall, if bears hibernate under the cottage opened on the 17th, if great-aunt gets pneumonia, wherein rests the responsibility? The safest way to spend Monday is to do no 24th of May chores at all. Just have a good, idle holiday. Then any Weird that has been disturbed by the calendar change will not be able to work its vengeance.

Hints For Holidayers

Despite the frequency and heaviness of rains in the last month, the woods are not as dank as they may appear. At this time of year an open flame is always dangerous. There is so much dead foliage, strewn last Fall and dried since the snow went, so many twigs, so much other light refuse of nature about the countryside that a careless picnicker or smoker can cause great damage. Forest fires have been raging in the north of the Province. We must not forget in this district that we are on the edge of the same north, the bush country.

On this holiday weekend it behooves visitors to the countryside, woods and cottages to be especially careful with matches and camp fires. The burning of winter litter must be done with great care; and in some parts, a permit must be secured as a precaution, before open fires are set out.

May we offer another word of advice to holidayers out of doors? Wild flowers are now in abundance in many parts of the countryside. They look better there, in their natural habitat, than they do at home. Why not let them live, for others to see and enjoy? Further, over-picking from even a plentiful stand of trilliums, and even a few stems picked from a small stand of wildflowers, may result in complete destruction of the lovely wild beds. If you or your children must pick a few wild flowers as a memento of the day's outing, do try to pick cleanly, carefully and moderately. The plants should not be uprooted.

One further item in our holiday sermon to wayfarers. The highways and byways now look fresh and lovely; their verges a delight of hawthorn bloom and new green growths. Empty cigarette cartons, empty bottles, paper used to wrap lunches, can quickly disfigure the roadsides and spoil their delight. What compliment to the spring do people pay who throw litter from their car windows, or leave it lying about after a picnic lunch?

To Prevent Discrimination

The Canadian House of Commons passed a bill last week which is a milestone in social legislation in this country—and in any country where similar legislation has been enacted. It is entitled "An act to prevent discrimination in regard to employment and membership in trade unions by reason of race, national origin, colour or religion". Its clauses are in conformity with the basic principle of human rights as enunciated by the United Nations charter.

Under this Act, no employer, or employers' organization may refuse to hire, to continue his employment or otherwise discriminate against any person because of his race, national origin, colour or religion. No trade union may suspend, or expel a person from the union or refuse to admit him into it, because of his race, colour or religion.

The Act provides machinery for aggrieved persons to seek redress, and penalties against those who offend against its terms. It is a Bill of Human Rights, a humanitarian ideal translated into law. How effective the legislation will be depends not so much on the penalties provided but on the will of the people to promote and enjoy equality of racial and religious rights in the workaday world.

The Act would not have been possible had Canada had the terrible racial problems of South Africa or the bitter religious sanctions of Spain. It is possible here, and was passed with little flurry and dispute, because Canadians by and large are a homogeneous people. It will cause little change in employment practice because in general there has been little discrimination. The very fact of its being on the statute books will give pause to any future rabble-rousing practices should, unfortunately, Canadian industry and labour become less tolerant.

Incidentally, the Act applies only within the competence of the Federal authority; to any employment practices affecting the welfare of national industries (like transportation) or in which two or more provinces are touched.

Leaky Tanks Not Handed Over

The Utilities Commission did not present Peterborough householders with leaky tanks in handing over to them the hot water heating equipment it installed and maintained in homes. We erred in implying this when we accused the Commission of washing its hands of old leaky tanks. The tanks always were the property and responsibility of the householders. The Utilities owned and maintained the heater, the thermostat, the tank covering and the wiring. The principle was and is that you look after your own leaks. Now you look after, as well as own, the whole shebang.

NOTES AND COMMENT

We read of a celebrated lion-tamer who has retired, as he finds that his memory is not what it used to be. Ah, the entertainment world has no place for the man who can't recall his lions.

An anthropologist foresees that in 3,000 years a child will begin to talk the moment it is born. The belief that children do so already is a pardonable delusion of overwrought parents.

For years we have been trying to figure out what it is the child psychologists want to do with children, and now we think we have it: they want to teach children who fight not to fight, and they want to teach children who don't want to fight to fight children who fight them.

The Journal of Samuel Marchbanks

SUNDAY: My business having taken me to New York I seized the chance to hear a first-rate performance of Haydn's "The Creation" this evening. There is one qualification which a singer in oratorio must have, apart from a good voice, and that is a strong belief in the existence of God; the lack of such a belief is immediately apparent in the voice of anyone who attempts to sing about Him. I have heard scores of choirs, in concert-halls and churches, which appeared to be entirely composed of people who had read about God just as they had read about the North Pole but who had their doubts, or who were at least convinced that God had nothing whatever to do with themselves. Perhaps they might have denied this, if taxed with it, but it was plain in every thin, depressing, tight-gutted God-denying note they sang. But this New York choir was full of generous believers, and they sang gloriously, as though they meant every word. Haydn would have been pleased.

✧ ✧ ✧

MONDAY: New York is a strange, isolated city; I noticed a sign in a window this morning which said: "Canadian Money Accepted At Par." I wonder if any Canadians rushed in to take advantage of their offer? . . . One cannot but be impressed by the difference in feeling between this city and London. In London it is possible to put a child in the care of a taxi-driver and tell him to take it to a destination with absolute certainty that no harm will come to it. I don't think I should try that in New York. The exacerbated misanthropy of the police and the taxi men here is astounding; they appear to hate the human race with a Satanic intensity. Yet who can blame them? At every crossing people rush into traffic against the red lights ,apparently intent on suicide; there are none of those conventional observances of traffic laws which make city life endurable. Yet the glory of the human spirit flourishes even in these streets. Today a traffic policeman sneezed, and my taxi-driver leaned out as we passed him and yelled "Gesundheit!" And although one cannot be certain of courtesy, it is very true and thorough when it appears.

✧ ✧ ✧

TUESDAY: Watched a man trying to sell a Sixth Avenue shopkeeper an awning this morning. They stood in the street, and the sales-talk was delivered in a raucous shout. "You wash your face sometimes, dontcha? Once in a while you change your shirt, dontcha? Well then, why not give your customers a treat and let me put you up a real nice clean awning? Looka the awning you got! Terrible! Runs down the whole neighbourhood! It's a disgrace, that awning!" But the shopkeeper merely shook his head and said "Naw" over and over again, as loudly as he could. The salesman saw me watching, and joined me. "My sales talk is what the French call low-zay, huh?" said he, breathing heavily in my face. "Do you think you'll sell him an awning?" I asked. "Never," said he, vehemently. "Why, that s.o.b won't ever get a new awning. He'll keep his dirty old awning just to spite me every time I walk down the street." I moved on, refreshed by this encounter. It showed that elements deeper than mere self-interest will always have their place in business; the salesman attempted a hopeless task merely to pit himself against a great antagonist; the shopkeeper denied himself for the same reason.

✧ ✧ ✧

WEDNESDAY: I grow weary of tipping people in New York. Tipping had its origins in a system where the have-nots did all that they could do to pry a little money from the haves; it has no place in a modern democratic state, where everybody is a have, to some extent. Unions demand that waiters, taxi-drivers and others who directly serve the public receive a decent wage; I support the unions one hundred per cent. in this. Buy why should I have to make a present to a union man every time he does something for me, just as if I were an eighteenth century nobleman and he a depressed slave? The eighteenth century nobleman had two choices; he could reward those who served him well, and kick those who displeased him. But I dread to think what would happen to anyone who kicked a New York waiter who spilled his soup, or put him at a table in a draught. This tipping nonsense is proof that we already have a dictatorship of the proletariat on this continent. I suggest that a straight service charge on restaurant and taxi bills would be much better for everybody. I do not like living half in the eighteenth century and half in the twentieth.

✧ ✧ ✧

THURSDAY: New Yorkers, apart from taxi-drivers and policemen, are merry folk. Many of them sing loudly and unashamedly in the streets, and tonight I saw a young couple dancing on 48th Street between Broadway and 6th Avenue. They were nice-looking people, and the girl was very prettily dressed; they were not trying to attract attention or collect money. They simply felt like dancing, and they danced. I tremble to think what would happen to anyone who behaved in this way in Toronto. It is healthy to dance and sing, and we cannot [illegible] who had had both legs amputated tried to do more of it.

✧ ✧ ✧

FRIDAY: When I am in New York I try to keep as far as possible from Broadway, but sometimes I have to cross it to get to a theatre. There are no theatres on Broadway itself, if one does not count the Metropolitan Opera, although the legend persists that it is the heart of the theatre world. New Yorkers are sentimental about this depressing street. Mickey Spillane, in one of his learned works, writes thus: "Broadway had bloomed again. It was there in all its colourful glory, stretching wide-open arms to the sucker, crying out with a voice that was never still." The colourful glory of Broadway, as I have observed it, consists of shooting galleries, popcorn emporiums, movie houses exhibiting 3D, places where you can buy funny hats and kewpie dolls, shoe stores and places which to my personal knowledge have been holding Going Out of Business sales for twenty-five years. If there are any brilliant crooks on it, I do not see them, nor have I observed any beautiful girls from Arkansas trying to break into show business. Broadway is just a noisy, crowded mess, resembling a third-rate Midway.

✧ ✧ ✧

SATURDAY: It has rained all week, and I I was not much surprised to hear that my flight back to Canada was postponed for a few hours. But it is never easy to use time which is suddenly presented to one in this way; I had no plans. So I wandered the streets in the wet, wondering who buys all the shoes that are on sale in New York. I never saw such a place for shoes. Everybody seems to be wearing very good shoes, but they can only wear a pair at a time; who buys all these vast wildernesses of shoes that haunt me on every side? . . . At last I reported for my flight, and climbed aboard the smelly bus which the airlines people jokingly called a limousine, and rode to Idlewild, laughing inwardly as a Canadian, drunk at noon, told a young Englishman who was immigrating to this country all about it. This is, he explained, a land where only extreme shrewdness (such as his) could prevail. He gave many instances of this shrewdness, all deeply impressive, and as we boarded the plane I took pains to sit as far as possible from him. I hope the immigrant forgot him and his nonsense as soon as possible.

IN MAY

Grief was my master yesternight;
To-morrow I may grieve again;
But now along the windy plain
The clouds have taken flight.

The sowers in the furrows go;
The lusty river brimmeth on;
The curtains from the hills are gone;
The leaves are out; and lo,

The silvery distance of the day,
The light horizons, and between
The glory of the perfect green,
The tumult of the May.

The bob-o-links at noonday sing
More softly than the softest flute,
And lightlier than the lightest lute
Their fairy tambours ring.

The roads far off are towered with dust;
The cherry-blossoms are swept and thinned;
In yonder swaying elms the wind
Is charging gust on gust.

But here there is no stir at all;
The ministers of sun and shadow
Hoard all the perfumes of the meadow
Behind a grassy wall.

An infant rivulet wind-free
Adown the guarded hollow sets,
Over whose brink the violets
Are nodding peacefully.

From pool to pool it prattles by;
The flashing swallows dip and pass,
Above the tufted marish grass,
And here at rest am I.

I care not for the old distress,
Nor if to-morrow bid me moan;
To-day is mine, and I have known
An hour of blessedness

ARCHIBALD LAMPMAN (1861-1899)

Living Without Hands

(B.B.C. BULLETIN)

ANDREW MILBOURNE, who lost both hands in the Second World War, gave a BBC talk on how he dealt with the many problems that this loss created. He was a regular soldier with the First Parachute Brigade in North Africa, Italy and later at Arnhem, where he was wounded. He was taken to hospital at Apeldoorn where the nuns and many volunteers were trying to cope with the spate of wounded and dying. Many doctors came to look at him but only one had his bandages removed and then said at once that his hands must be amputated. During the night he was taken to the operating theatre and when he awoke it was to bright sunshine. He could still feel his hands and fingers but he could not lift them. "I looked," he said, "two neatly banaged stumps lay at my sides. A nurse came and fed me."

Four months later he was repatriated to a military hospital and put in an amputee ward, a place of ceaseless endeavour. A to walk again on a pair of improvised stilts, another one without arms tried to take a match out of a box and strike it, spilling the lot on the floor and being told by his wardmates that he was a butter-fingered clot. "There's not much sympathy in an amputee ward," said Milbourne, "and a good thing too."

The worst part was going back to Civvy Street but at last he agreed to go on leave. His father kept trying to help him and his mother fed him as she had when he was a baby. "Was I to be fed like this for the rest of my days? Was I to be washed, shaved, then taken for nice walks? To hell with that blasted humiliating game!" said Milbourne.

The awkward and embarrassed leave dragged by and then his financee came to see him. He asked if she had thought how many drawbacks there were to getting married now that he was permanently disabled. Her reply was unexpected. "You think you're licked, don't you?" she said, "because of your hands you're not even going to get married. It would hurt your pride — you haven't even stopped to think what modern artificial limbs can do for you." "The argument went on like that during the whole of the few short days Peggy was with me," he said. "Her tongue plus my mother's cooking soon had me fighting back."

He went back to hospital, borrowed a pair of artificial arms, got married, had his left arm re-amputated and started to convalesce once more. At last his new arms arrived and he began training to use them and the numerous appliances that went with them. "Shaving, writing, lifting an ordinary teacup, feeding myself, all required a different gadget to perform," he said. "But there was one question that stumped the doctors. How does one change from one appliance to another? I've found the answer for myself now. I wear my hooks for almost everything except for one or two little dodges, like a cigarette wire and some typing pegs, which slip on to the hooks."

When all this was mastered he had to get a job. His first was as a miner and he managed pretty well, but unfortunately was not strong enough to remain down the mine. By this time he was the proud father of a small son. When he first saw baby Ronald the child's hands were bound down by the shawl and he was compelled to ask the nurse to undo this so that he might see that his son had ten fingers. "Even though the nurse made a joke of the request I don't think she could possibly have realised the utter relief I felt at seeing those very tiny hands," he said.

After many struggles he landed a job in the Civil Service which was the start of his real come-back, but even so, years later, he is not completely satisfied with life. "I feel sure I could serve my country better than I'm doing now," he said. "What about the wounded in Korea? There are umpteen jobs I could do out there — clerk, driver entertainments officer, someone to go and visit the wounded and badly maimed. Don't worry about my hooks—Tommy won't mind. He'll look at me and say, 'Hel' mate, there's damn all wrong with that geezer'."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And the Jews' passover was at hand, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem, and found in the temple those that sold oxen and sheep and doves, and the changers of money sitting: and when he had made a scourge of small cords, he drove them all out of the temple, and the sheep, and the oxen; and poured out the changers' money, and overthrew the tables; and said unto them that sold doves, Take these things hence; make not my Father's house an house of merchandise . . .

Then aswered the Jews and said unto him, What sign shewest thou unto us, seeing that thou doest these things?

Jesus answered and said unto them, Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up.

Then said the Jews, Forty and six years was this temple in building, and wilt thou rear it up in three days?

But he spake of the temple of his body. When therefore he was risen from the dead, his disciples remembered that he had said this unto them; and they believed the scripture, and the word which Jesus had said. (John 2:13-16,18-22.)

The Twenty-Fourth Of May Fifty Years Ago At Stony Lake Island

Ed. Note: The Examiner received this letter from Mrs. William C. Hogg (Vourneen McCarthy) who now lives in Pittsburgh. Its nostalgic and happy references to family summers at Stony Lake and the 24th of May holiday make pleasant reading.)

We were very interested and surprised to be shown by Mr. Ackerman an intriguing story, by Dick Choate, on "Emerald Isle." He had saved it so that I might see it. (The Choate account appeared on this page last June.)

In addition to our selfish interest, we thought the story very well written. Dick Choate is clever.

I must say we thought it a little odd that neither Dick who has known us all his life at Stony or the Examiner thought it worth mentioning that my family, the McCarthy's, have owned Emerald Isle for 50 years. Perhaps it isn't really important in the history of the island—perhaps only important to me whose father bought it from the Eko boys. I don't care for us children at all but I should have liked to see my father's name in that story; to feel that people had not forgotten to associate my father's name with that little "bit of heaven" which he loved so passionately. It was he who named it "Emerald Isle," the little "bit of heaven" which he felt that he had found for a holiday place for his family.

VALUES

That may seem Irish and sentimental but the theme behind his dream was the most wonderful lesson in values that children could have had to absorb, as strength and perspective for the future. None of us children shall ever forget the 24th of May trips to Stony. Every church, school house and corner from Toronto to McCracken's had a family name. "There's Caterpillar Church!"—my brother had sat on a caterpillar; "Here's Cow Corner!"; "Oh, we're getting along! Here's fourth picture hill!" "Look! Here's Momma's railway!" ("Momma" while driving had slewed around in loose sand); "Bee Sting Corner, Vee!"

Our food on the trip was traditional—each year the same: Chelsea buns bought at the same bakery in Whitby; ice cream cones in Oshawa, the ends of which we bit off to try to annoy our older sister; a lunch by the road at Dale Bridge—always of fresh baked ham, fresh home-made bread and butter, fresh sweetened strawberries and tea. It doesn't sound like much but I never tasted anything in sophisticated European restaurants in later years to match it. You see, we were so happy and there is such a sense of security for children—in knowing that something in life will continue to be the same.

When we reached McCracken's dock, we children waved frantically, shouting "Hello, dear old Emerald Isle! We're coming—we're coming!"

NECTAR

When we got over to the island, the smell of the old boards in the dock—the sane sound of the water lapping gently as it had been doing since we were last there—the dashing around to see whose little planted tree had grown a new sprout — father hustling around to get some shutters off and a boat out to soak while mother brushed off the winter's mess from the stove and cooked bacon and eggs and pork and beans. I suppose nectar might do as a substitute! We couldn't stop smiling. "Did you see Vee's tree?" "The greybird's back." "Look where the water is up to!"

Next morning waking to the smell and relaxed continuing gentle sound of the pines, the fire snapping on the hearth downstairs and the smell of father's incomparable buttered toast.

Then in the afternoon we went over to the woods—having to work our boat in under the drooping cedars—to wander and pick trilliums. The lake was still—we could have heard someone paddling a canoe.

FIREWORKS

We came back with handfuls of trilliums, sat happily scratching mosquito bites, waiting for dark when we could set off the fireworks, down on our dock. I thought myself very brave when I was allowed to hold a "sparkler". I used to be terrified that father would blow himself up with one of the rockets. Frankly, I think he was a little uneasy himself—and I can still hear mother teasing, "Jess! You didn't tell me you had those big rockets in the car." I can look back now though and recapture a strange, hopefully mischievous twinkle in my father's eye as he loaded odd candy-striped cylinders into the old McLaughlin along with the suitcases.

No one ever spoke a cross word on Emerald Isle. Nothing was ever said about it. It just wasn't done. My father would never have said anything—he would have just looked sincerely disappointed if one of us had been so insensitive as to kick overboard the little family symbol of the priceless good time together which cost nothing.

When we left in the Fall after a summer there—with wild wavings of the white flag to alert Mr. Young to come in for us—my brother and I used to stand at the rail as children on the Islinda while it curved around Shota and Emerald Isle disappeared—and call "Goodbye Emerald Isle—we'll be back!"

SENTIMENT

That may strike the moderns as saccharine sentiment, but I challenge them to present a better lesson in values. I have turned to it for perspective many times in the last 40 years. That is why I still keep Emerald Isle. Perhaps, however, 50 years of a family's life like that on the island is not of import except to me, and not worth mention in the story of the island.

I have a little Queen Victoria five-cent piece though mounted on a spoon, given to mother by the dear old conductor on the Grand Trunk Railway (CNR) to cut my gums when in a baby basket 50 years ago. I was screaming blue murder trying to spring a tooth.

Queen Victoria Tells of Her Coronation

Monday is Victoria Day—the 24th of May put forward to suit modern holiday moods—without consulting the convenience of Queen Victoria's spirit. This weekend, celebrated in honor of the old Queen's birthday and in the young Queen's Coronation year, what can be more fitting than to hear Queen Victoria speak of her own Coronation? Queen Victoria is the only British monarch to have left a detailed record of her crowning. On the day, Thursday, June 28th, 1837, she wrote in her journal her own girlish impressions of the ceremony and people. The Examiner has secured permission from the publisher of "The Letters of Queen Victoria," John Murray, to reprint here some selections from her diary of that great day.

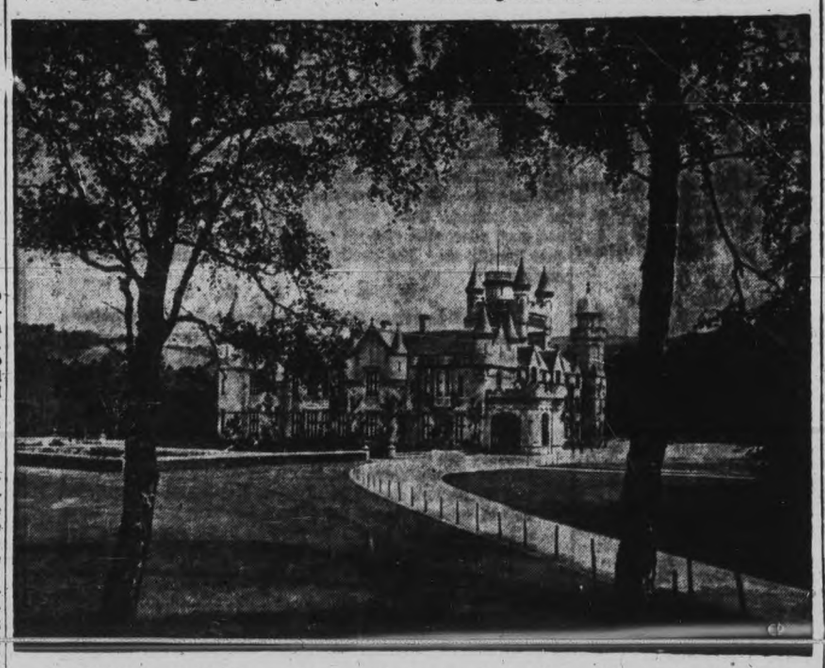
LONDON—"I was awoke at four o'clock by the guns in the Park, and could not get much sleep afterwards on account of the noise of the people, bands, etc., etc. Got up at seven, feeling strong and well; the Park presented a curious spectacle, crowds of people up to Constitution Hill, soldiers, bands, etc. I dressed, having taken a little breakfast before I dressed, and a little after. At half past nine I went into the next room, dressed exactly in my House of Lords costume...

"At ten I got into the State Coach with the Duchess of Sutherland and Lord Albemarle and we began our progress...It was a fine day, and the crowds of people exceeded what I have ever seen... Their good humour and excessive loyalty was beyond everything, and I really cannot say how proud I feel to be the Queen of such a Nation. I was alarmed at times for fear that the people would be crushed and squeezed on account of the tremendous rush and pressure.

"I reached the Abbey amid deafening cheers at a little after half past eleven..."

OLD LORD FELL

Even during the awe-inspiring moments of the actual ceremony in Westminster Abbey the nineteen-year-old Queen gave evidence of the sound common sense for which she was to become renowned during her long reign: "Poor old Lord Rolle, who is 82, and dreadfully infirm, in attempting to ascend the steps" (to the throne), "fell and rolled quite down, but was not the least hurt; when he attempted to re-ascend them I got up and advanced to the end of the steps, in order to prevent another fall. When Lord Melbourne's turn to do homage came, there was loud cheering; they also cheered Lord Grey and the Duke of Wellington; it's a pretty ceremony; they first all touch the Crown, and then kiss my hand."



Although no doubt in all seriousness, the young Victoria's observant eye was quick to notice those prosaic details which make the most magnificent occasions: "I then again descended from the Throne, and repaired with all the Peers bearing the Regalia, my Ladies and Train-bearers, to St. Edward's Chapel, as it is called; but which, as Lord Melbourne said, was more unlike a Chapel than anything he had ever seen; for what was called an Altar was covered with sandwiches, bottles of wine, etc., etc. The Archbishop came in and ought to have delivered the Orb to me, but I had already got it, and he (as usual) was so confused and puzzled and knew nothing, and went away... The Procession being formed, I replaced my Crown (which I had taken off for a few minutes), took the Orb in my left hand and the Sceptre in my right, and thus loaded, proceeded through the Abbey—which resounded with cheers, to the first robing room; where I found the Duchess of Gloucester, Mamma, and the Duchess of Cambridge with their Ladies. And here we waited for at least an hour, with all my ladies and train-bearers; the Princesses went away about half an hour before I did. The Archbishop had (most awkwardly) put the ring on the wrong finger, and the consequence was that I had the greatest difficulty to take it off again, which I at last did with great pain...At about half past four I re-entered my carriage, the Crown on my head, and the Sceptre and Orb in my hands, and we proceeded the same way as we came—the crowds if possible having increased. The enthusiasm, affection and loyalty were really touching, and I shall ever remember this day as the proudest of my life! I came home at a little after six, really feeling not tired."

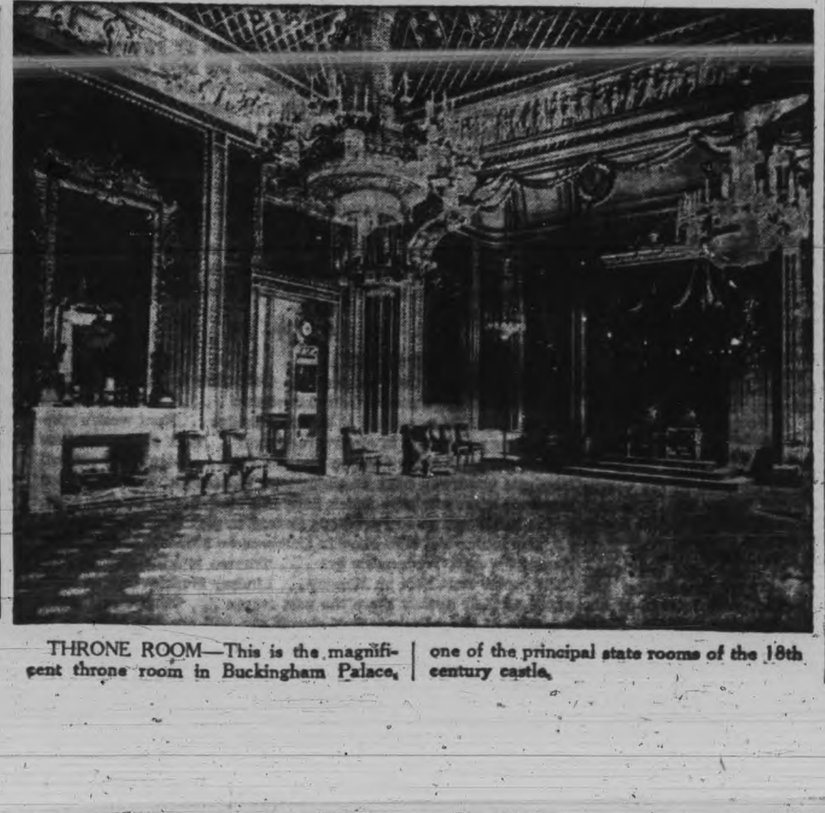
On this page today are photographs of three of Queen Elizabeth's royal residence: Buckingham Palace in London, Sandringham House in Norfolk, and Balmoral Castle in Scotland where the Queen is now resting in preparation for the arduous Coronation month. The photographs of Buckingham Palace include a picture of the Throne Room and the White Room. The photographs have been supplied to the Examiner by the United Kingdom Information Office.

BUCKINGHAM PALACE—Buckingham Palace, chief residence of British sovereigns, is in the heart of London. It dates back to 1703 when it was built by the Duke of Buckingham. George III bought it in 1761 and it was reconstructed in classic style between 1825 and 1836, and has been added to since. In 1837 it was considerably altered by Queen Victoria. This aerial view shows some of the 43 acres surrounding the castle and Regents Park in the background.



BALMORAL CASTLE — The Scottish home of the Royal Family, Balmoral Castle is in Aberdeenshire, on the right bank of the River Dee. Prince Consort Albert bought it as a gift for Queen Victoria in 1853. It is built of granite in Scottish baronial style architecture. The east tower, 100 feet high, commands an excellent view of the countryside.

SANDRINGHAM HOUSE — Sandringham House, 100 miles from London, is a favorite country seat of the Royal Family. It was built by King Edward VII in 1870 when he was Prince of Wales and shortly after his marriage to Princess Alexandra of Denmark. A picturesque building of brick and stone in Elizabethan style, it has an estate of 7,000 acres.

WHITE ROOM—This is an interior view of Buckingham Palace, chief residence of the Royal Family in the heart of London. It is called the White Room.

THRONE ROOM—This is the magnificent throne room in Buckingham Palace, one of the principal state rooms of the 18th century castle.

Your Garden:

Do Not Overlook Azaleas In Choosing Your Plants

BY HENRY PREE, NEA

The roadside garden supply stands are filled to overflowing with trees, shrubs, perennial flowers and baskets of colorful pansies. Likewise prominent and readily disposed of, because they are evergreen, are the balled and burlapped arbor vitae, junipers, yews, pines, spruce, hemlock and holly.

Unfortunately the buying public overlooks the many splendid azaleas, passed by because they are not yet in flower or in leaf.

There are several important groups of azaleas and, with proper selection, azaleas can bloom in the garden for two months. First to come into bloom is azalea mucronulatum, a Korean variety prized for its pale rosy purple flowers. Next to appear are the first fragrant rosy-pink blossoms of a handsome azalea with the tongue-twisting name of schlippenbachi. This excellent plant has most colorful autumn foliage, an important reason for including it in your planting.

For a brilliant azalea display we choose the mollis varieties,

A·F·I·E·L·D with NICK NICKELS

Pickerel fishing started in the Kawarthas at 12.01 a.m. Friday with more marble-eyes waiting to be taken than fishermen to catch them. Those who braved the cold rain were rewarded with some nice catches.

Americans are listening to the lure of our Kawartha fishing publicity and are in the district in great numbers. The Fyfes at Park Hotel have 125 guests, some parked in staff quarters, and turned a 100 of them elsewhere for accommodation; 90 per cent are from the States. Len Cary at Rockland House, Bobcaygeon has the same story. The visitors got into their fishing stride by Friday night but many of them are in no great rush because they plan to remain in the Kawarthas for the next week. No notable fish were taken but some nice limit catches were reported. To list those with a general run of luck would fill half this page.

It was a good opening with fish for all who didn't mind the miserable cold downpour.

Weekend motorists are now swarming the highways and byways to picnic at their favourite spots. They don't need to tell you they have had an outing for you can follow their trails of garbage and debris to the farthest reaches of lakes and streams.

We are a nation of strewballs with no apparent regard for tidiness once we get away from home. Who, pray tell me, cleans up these eyesore remains after us. No one. We are scrap-happy, careless campers, picnickers, fishermen, hunters and hikers and the gentle hint of trash receptacles provided by the Departments of Highways and Lands and Forests is not enough. It is a problem for individuals to control by thoughtful outdoors housekeeping.

Those who light picnic fires can always burn their trash; even tin cans will lose their lacquer labels and fly-attracting scraps. After burning, tins should be pounded flat and hidden off the trails in rock crevices or in receptacles but glass should not be put in the fire; dispose of it the same way, WITHOUT SMASHING IT TO BITS.

It's up to you. You go into the wilderness to enjoy it. Unsightly trash, by spoiling the mood, destroys something that is precious in the life pattern of all Canadians.

From a Mail and Empire of 1910:

"Edward G., a resident of Madoc township, has been fined $20 and costs for illegally shooting partridges."

With the pickerel season started and the temptation to boat bass and 'lunge we can expect the usual magistrate's court news material about violators, and the same tag of fines. There has been no revision in this general figure during the past 43 years, alas.

Compared to a recent clipping from a Tampa, Fla., paper sent me by friend Perry (Oak Orchard) Alexander, three game violators were fined $200 or 60 days, $300 or 90 days and $400 and 60 days, respectively. 'Nough said.

I note from one of our Examiner editorials this week that 'the (caterpillar) infestation this year in these parts is not supposed to be as heavy as during the past several years.'

This is correct. I was talking to some trout lads who were up around the badlands last weekend and they tell me that the grey predator flies released by the department two years ago, which feed on caterpillar larvae, are so thick in the bush that settlers' wives say they ruin fresh washings on clotheslines, and cat tents are few and far between. This is good news for everyone and proof that painstaking science should receive more kudos than it does.

Farmer-fishermen relations are very, very strained in one section of the west branch of the Ouse in the vicinity of the old South Dummer cheese factory. Following fence-smashing on property owned by [illegible], a group of fishermen left the stream and a good-sized brush fire behind them that took a lot of snuffing out last Sunday. Guilty parties will not be welcomed back to that area and the fire caused enough damage to spoil the fishing for some time, anyway. ?ome ?port?, tho?e fi?hermen.

City and county citizens, attention!

The official opening of the Cedar Lakes Park (Kawartha Lakes Incorporated) will take place at the park site a week from today, May 23. It is hoped that every interested person will be on hand to look over their holiday heritage acres and make plans for using it. This project has been in the slow-but-sure formative stages for three years now and a program more worthy of your support we cannot think of. Be seeing you there.

Kept Lacrosse Alive, Aided Boys, John Sutherland Dead

By HARRY THEOBALD

The little cobbler who used to keep a repair shop on Simcoe St. didn't live to see one of his lacrosse boys become the Acting Mayor of Peterborough.

Johnnie Sutherland of Campbellford died suddenly at Cobourg Sunday April 7, a resident of the Northumberland-Durham Counties Home. The news of his death has come only casually and tardily to the group of Peterborough men to whom in their boyhood he was club leader, guide and fatherly adviser.

They hadn't forgotten him, and never will. Some of them occasionally passing the Counties Home, on the north side of the highway where it turns south into the lakeside town, called in to see him, and recall their teenage when his shabby little shop was their headquarters, its narrow and scanty space serving virtually as a club.

To the group as a whole, however, Johnny had drifted away from them. Time was gradually shuffling him off to the fringe of life and its activities. He had finally gone back to Campbellford, the place he evidently regarded as home. Infrequently he motored up here with friends in the town on the Trent, mainly in the hope of seeing the boys he used to keep under his wing as their lacrosse manager and mentor.

GAME FADED AWAY

Then, one summer night several years ago, he was invited to Miller Bowl and introduced to a capacity crowd as the main stay of lacrosse here when the field game was fading out of public favor, reduced here to a slim city league. Gradually it produced a string of juveniles or juniors in a patched up and shrunken league of which Johnnie was a chief sponsor, with other teams of youngsters in Norwood, Hastings and Campbellford.

In the crowd that night were affectionate memories of men who as mere lads used to hang out at the Sutherland shop, and in its manly and healthy atmosphere, for all its cramped quarters, smelling of sole leather, and generally untidy.

They knew that without his interest in them and the game that meant so much to him, partly as a maker of men, lacrosse would have vanished from Peterborough years ago. A season or two later, they also carried the conviction that without that lean and sketchy Sutherland link the Mann Cup, in all likelihood, would never have been inscribed on its pedestal with the name of Peterborough as twice national champions.

That, of course, is a tributary diversion, but it has been recalled before that with the coming of box lacrosse Sutherland graduates such as Doug Miller and Ira Dundas would not have been at hand to give it the leadership that attracted Pete King, Mick Magee and the others of the first local team that introduced the abbreviated game at Brock St. or the armouries.

Now that he is gone, it may come as a surprise to those young charges and proteges of Johnnie Sutherland that he was 80 years old. When they used to crowd into his cobbler shop, somewhere near the present Kingan hardware store, he seemed ageless, young as themselves in spirit, sharing their enthusiasms, understanding their language, and generally one of themselves.

Also, he was always short cash or just about broke. Those boys hadn't the flush money they see in their successors and sons today. Subscription lists were often passed around, especially in the spring when the days were lengthening and the grass greening.

The teenagers were the team's agents, and to them a two dollar entry was a shining mark. Some how lacrosse sticks had to be bought. (Joe Lally of Cornwall helped a lot several times by sending up from his factory a bundle of them.) Then there were sweaters and lacrosse shoes, and balls that were watched and accounted for in the experience of sharp necessity.

That's how the Sutherland club managed to keep the game going; and how precariously it limped along here from summer to summer. An $11 gate was a lot of cash. Now and then it was swollen up above the $20 mark.

Those were formative years for the young Petes, who were acquiring more as they advanced in their teens than the skill of handling a lacrosse stick.

CLEAN SPORTSMANSHIP

Johnnie Sutherland stressed clean sportsmanship, just as the late Alex Kempt did with a group of similar juveniles at Norwood. When they look back now they may probably recall that they never heard him swear, and he didn't smoke or drink. His influence with his boys was just his quiet example. And he rarely lost his temper, even when circumstances were darkly discouraging.

Who were the boys of that cobbler shop club? Off hand, it is not easy to recall them all out of memory.

There was Jack LeBarr in goal. He is a druggist out in the west end. Johnny Ward on defense has been for years in the ministry of the Baptist Church. There was Lionel Browne, now manager of Canada Packers in Peterborough. Dr. Stan Stacey, dentist; Bert Cowan, circulation manager of the Examiner.

Out at centre was Doug Miller, contractor, Alderman, finance chairman, and now Acting Mayor. Ira Dundas was down in the home field. He is on the staff of the waterworks of the Utilities Commission.

Keith Mein, proprietor of Shockey's Cleaners, Simcoe St., played either field. Also in that dimming picture of the youngsters appear to have been Lou LeBarr, a strong defense man, Eddie Foley, Charlie Doughty, Jim Lawson, Solly Rosenfield, one of the O'Connel boys, and probably others.

These were products of the shoe repair shop, and the little Glasgow Scot, and he had every reason to be proud of them as they grew into manhood. It wasn't much bigger than a "hole in the wall", and it was dingy, and cash was scarce, but it helped more than can be estimated in turning out a company of good citizens.

No recreation commission was organized in those days to foster sports and cultivate sportsmanship, and no recreation directors. Fellows like Johnnie Sutherland somehow assumed a leadership that paid off splendidly with mighty little cash behind them. None of them possessed a wallet. They managed to wangle some money from home, but for most of their lean experience they had to scrimp along with silver rather than today's bills, and they'll agree no wthat they had a lot of fun.

So, that is something of the story of Johnnie Sutherland, and also of his accomplishment, and perhaps his monument.

DIED IN HOME

He died in the Counties Home. His income was the Old Age Pension, and if his lacrosse youngsters of a generation ago had known of his death, some of them would have arranged to attend his funeral. He remains in their memories, as some of them have said this week, just as they used to know him; old enough to be their father, although that was something beyond their teenage thought, but as young in hear as themselves.

Mr. Sutherland was born at 149 Bernard St., Glasgow, Scotland, on August 25, 1873. He entered the Counties Home in July 1948, and those who know its superintendent and matron, Mr. and Mrs. William Duncan, are assured that he found a friendly place for his old age.

He had become feeble and forgetful, and his health was declining. His walk down to the Baltimore Road that April Sunday was an over-exertion. Back at the Home he was stricken with a weakness, probably a heart attack. A doctor was called, but Mr. Sutherland died without rally. He was buried in the Union Cemetery at Cobourg.

A score or more of the youths who came under his influence will always remember him gratefully for the interest he took in their personalities and in their sports. And associated with them should be Fred Goodfellow and Lou McCoy, both friends of his, and aides in the lacrosse background.

DO YOU OWN A CAR?
When the man who developed Bardahl Rad Conditioner brought his car to a garage for repairs, the garage owner phoned to ask him what on earth had he put in his radiator. He said that when they drained his radiator the water was so thick with dirt it would hardly pour. The Bardahl Rad Conditioner had removed rust, scale and dirt untouched by a popular brand chemical cleaner. The garage owner immediately placed an order for their own use. Since then hundreds of thousands of car owners in Canada and the United States have used Bardahl Rad Conditioner. If you own a car you should try it too . . . if your car is new it will keep your radiator in permanently new condition . . . if you have been running your car for a few years you'll be amazed at the dirt, rust and scale it will remove. SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

Edward John (Teddy) Gallagher died the other day in Kingston at the age of 57. Older baseball fans here will recall the Ponies' star pitcher during the 20s. He did most of his hurling for Kingston but saw service for a time with Oshawa, and was reported to have been on Toronto Leafs' list. Gallagher was one of the bright stars in a COBL which boasted the best amateur pitching in the province at that period. Petes had Al Heckman, Belleville's best was Indian Jack Williams, though Lefty Goyer was tops, too. Oshawa had Duke Dainty. Kingston was not outclassed when Ted Gallagher was on the mound. Other spots a bit later like Lindsay and Cobourg had good ones, also, and we later had slab aces Frank Whitehouse, Jeff Hardill, etc. The death of Gallagher recalls high-class COBL hurling.

OASA secretary Frank Feaver reminds us in a bulletin of several softball rule changes this semester. Gloves, except for the catcher and first-sacker, must have at least three fingers and a thumb. The roller play is disallowed. Any ball rolled on the ground by the pitcher is dead. The pitcher must present the ball before delivery. An official strike zone has been adopted. These and some minor rule changes are outlined in the 1953 OASA rule book and for further details ump and managers should scan the pages and the players should be advised. Batters hit by a pitched ball in softball do not get a base, nor may a runner leave a base with the pitch. It pays to know your game and avoid useless arguments or appearing a "goat" in a game.

Keeping Alex Busy

Recreation director Alex Sinclair is a busy chap these days. He has been working on the coming track and field meet for city and district high schools here Monday and that's a big job. Alex also helped get the minor baseball setup started to the stage where kids' teams are practising for the season, though more coaches are needed. And the girls' softball loop executive has landed in the Sinclair lap the problem of rounding up enough lasses' teams to keep the circuit going this summer. A tough task at the moment. However, Alex is going ahead with these chores, along with his other duties, and making a good try. That's all you can ask of anyone.

* * * * * *

This high school track and field meet is Monday aft—the holiday—in Morrow Park and will have the best athletes of the various city and district schools in competition. It's under the joint sponsorship of the Jaycees and the Recreation Commission, the third annual meet. Senior competitors are under 20 by last Sept. 1, intermediates under 17, and juniors under 15, both girls and boys. A trophy goes to the school with most points, and they'll have special awards for the individual champions, as well as ribbons for first, second and third in each event. Program calls for dashes, longer runs, relays, various jumps, shot put, discus, javelin, vaults, softball throw, etc. Might be a good spot to spend the holiday afternoon.

Adds To Executive

Petes' hockey club has added Bob Gamble and Dit Clapper to the executive. Dit declined the coaching job, though. Fred Scates recently was named treasurer again. Baz Phelan will look after the club's publicity and Tom Casey is in charge of transportation. No coach or manager has been named yet, but officials expect to do so before long, and meantime they're lining up a few new players for next season. As mentioned earlier, Ed O'Toole is the Petes' new president, with Ray Tanner vice-prexy; the directors including: Lionel Browne, Frank Jopling, Roy Lewis, Jim Ellis, Ed Foley, Ken Kingston, George Bennett and Johnny Russelle. Life members are Frank Buckland, Ed Riley, Ben Swartz and Fred Scates.

No doubt much malt was lapped up as TV taverns buzzed angrily at the sudden ending of the fight last night. Walcott sat calmly on the floor and was counted right out of the heavyweight picture, and his only excuse appears to be that he lost track of the count. Yet he didn't make any effort to get up till two or three seconds too late. Talk of a fast count can be discarded as the timers used stop-watches. Nor would Jersey Joe take a dive in such a clumsy way. His pre-fight prediction included this line: "I am in shape for a one-round fight or for 15 rounds." Hah, he didn't even go one round. The follow-up TV fights were much better, especially that oldie of Dempsey and Firpo. Those $50 ringside fans in Chi must have been as burned up as a bride's first biscuits.

Marciano Unbeaten After Short-Count KO Of Walcott

CHICAGO (AP)—The home of boxing's famed "long-count" today had a short-count controversy raging after heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano's first-round knockout of Jersey Joe Walcott at the Chicago Stadium. The dynamite-punching Marciano, now unbeaten in 44 pro fights, faced a possible New York September match with Roland LaStarza or Ezzard Charles, Walcott's howling handlers made ready a formal protest of the manner in which Jersey Joe was tolled into apparent oblivion Friday night.

It appeared to many ring-side observers that a glassy-eyed Walcott "sat out" the 10-count of referee Frank Sikora after he was knocked heels a-flying by a brutal Marciano right uppercut in 2:25 of a bewildering first round.

But the fans in the far reaches of the stadium and along the TV circuit felt strongly that Walcott was caught short by a count that was misheard by himself and his corner.

REVERSE SPIN

The controversial finish was reminiscent, with reverse spin, of referee Dave Barry's famed long count at Soldier Field in 1927 when Jack Dempsey failed to go to his corner after knocking down heavyweight champion Gene Tunney.

Scores of fans, many of whom paid the $50 top, streamed to ringside to protest the knockout count and on TV, viewers—who saw only Walcott's back when the big punch came—wondered why Jersey Joe didn't make it to his feet in time.

Walcott asserted he wasn't hurt and that "I could have gotten up at the count of two."

But Jersey Joe, the 39-year-old Camden, N.J., father of six children, also told reporters that it was a "left-hook and a push-punch, or something" that floored him. He also said that he thought he had climbed to one knee at the count of three.

But he didn't climb to one knee. After he righted himself from a fall on his back with his heels flying high in the air, he sat up and draped his right ahnd on the ropes with no attempt to get up until the toll actually had reached 13. He had a vacant stare on his face and if, as he claims, he was looking at his corner for advice to climb to his feet, it didn't appear that way to many ringsiders.

PREPARE PROTEST

Walcott's manager, irate Felix Bocchicchio, said his lawyer, Angelo Malanda, would prepare a protest for the Illinois state athletic commission. However, the commission members today were in Milwaukee attending a National Boxing Association meeting and said such a protest could not be received until Monday.

Thus Walcott joined seven other former heavyweights who failed to win back the title. He had the balm, however, of a $250,000 payoff—approximately $1,724 a second for his 145 seconds of surprisingly inept performing.

Jersey Joe, who had floored Marciano for the first time in his career in the first round of their hectic Philadelphia meeting last Sept. 23, let Rocky carry the fight from the outset Friday night.

Marciano waded right in, forced the attack, and Walcott merely tried to tie him up inside. Never once did Walcott cut loose with the steaming punches he threw at Marciano in Philadelphia from the opening bell.

Jersey Joe didn't seem to be in distress and the end came with amazing quickness as Marciano set him up with a left hook and then whistled the right uppercut which nailed the old boy flush on the chin.

ALL IN CONFUSION

All was confusion. Even the ring announcer gave the wrong time on the knockout. The first announcement was that the kayo came in 1:25.

Marciano's first title defence left him considerably short of the challenger on pay with approximately $166,000 for his 30 per cent of the $253,462 net gate and a $300,000 TV fee. Walcott's $250,000 was guaranteed by the sponsoring International Boxing Club. Marciano weighed 184½ and Walcott 197¾.

A paid crowd of 13,266 contributed a gross gate of $331,794

Cardinals Hand Brooklyn 9-3 Loss, Third Straight

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

Philadelphia Phillies invade the wilds of Wisconsin for the first time today determined to find out whether the 1953 Braves are a myth or a miracle. The two clubs open a three-game set tied for the National League lead. They've met only once before this season with Milwaukee taking a 5-2 decision in Philadelphia last month.

Camp followers this spring dubbed the Braves the most improved team in the league. But they didn't see them as a full-fledged pennant contender.

The Phillies figured to be real tough, and they have been. With a big-two pitching staff of Robin Roberts and Curt Simmons plus the part time help of Karl Drews and Jim Konstanty, the Phils have won 15 of 22 games.

WINS FIFTH

Roberts won his fifth one Friday, a 1-0 effort against Chicago Cubs. He's lost twice. Simmons, who goes today, has won five while losing only one. Drews is 2-2 and Konstanty 3-1. These four have accounted for all the victories.

The Braves have a five-game winner, too. He's Max Surkont, a chunky righthander who hung up No. 5 Friday 4-3 over Pittsburgh. Max hasn't been beaten.

Charlie Grimm has nominated Don Liddle, a bright rookie who has started only one major league game—he won a two-hitter against the Cubs last Sunday—to open the series for Milwaukee.

Milwaukee is riding a six-game winning streak.

BROOKLYN DOWN

The Phillies and Braves pulled two games ahead of their nearest pursuers Friday as St. Louis Cardinals handed third-place Brooklyn its third straight loss 9-3. The Giants defeated Cincinnati 7-3 in 11 innings in the other National League game.

A year ago Virgil Trucks, then with Detroit, beat Washington with a no-hitter. Friday night, working for St. Louis Browns, he gave up eight hits but still shut out the Senators 4-0, ending Washington's six-game winning streak. Detroit nipped Philadelphia 7-6. Chicago at New York and Cleveland at Boston in the American League were rained out.

The Braves edged Pittsburgh when Sid Gordon homered with a runner on base in the eighth inning.

Philadelphia whipped the Cubs on a run in the ninth as Earl Torgeson doubled and scored on a single by Granny Hamner.

ROUTE PREACHER ROE

St. Louis routed Preacher Roe, who had beaten the Cards 10 times running, in two innings. The Preacher was blasted for six runs in the second. Harvey Haddix, relieved by Stu Miller in the sixth following Roy Campanella's 11th homer of the year, was the winner.

The Giants rallied with two out in the 11th to score one run, then added three more as Bobby Thomson homered with two on.

Dick Kryhoski got Trucks away to a good start in Washington, homering in the first inning with Vic Wertz on base.

Art Houtteman of Detroit hit his first major league home run and won his first game of the season against the Athletics.

Leafs Lash Ottawa In 8-4 Victory

Toronto Maple Leafs may not be strong on hitting power but they can take advantage of opposing pitchers' walks to win International League games.

Friday night they only collected seven hits to Ottawa's 10 but emerged on the long end of an 8-4 score to move to half a game and eight percentage points behind the idle Montreal Royals, who lead the league. Four Ottawa hurlers yielded nine vital walks to enable the Leafs to wrap up the verdict.

At Buffalo an eighth-inning single by Harvey Zernial gave the Bisons a 6-5 victory over Montreal before one of the smallest crowds in the city's night baseball history—495 spectators.

Zernial's wallop, scoring pinch-runner Ken Humphrey from second, enabled Milt Jordan to gain his first victory of the year after succeeding Paul Foytack in the third.

The rest of the league schedule was rained out.

Yesterday's Stars

Pitching: Robin Roberts, Philadelphia Phillies, shut out Chicago Cubs 1-0 for his fifth victory against two losses.

Batting: Sid Gordon, Milwaukee Braves, homered in the eighth inning with a runner on base to provide the margin of victory in Milwaukee's 4-3 triumph over Pittsburgh.

Marciano Says Walcott Glassy-Eyed After Punch

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—"At first I thought he would get up—and then I looked at his eyes and they were glassy. . . I knew then he was finished.'

That's what heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano had to say Friday night after knocking out challenger Joe Walcott in the first round at Chicago Stadium.

"I connected with a left hook and followed with a right uppercut," Marciano said. "I think that right was better than the one I hit him with to win last September."

Marciano was jammed into the shower room of his quarters by a great crowd which shoved and clawed its way through the corridors of the stadium basement.

Policemen were nearly overpowered and kept yelling:

"Take it easy or someone is going to get trampled to death."

"The referee counted him out as plain as day," declared pudgy Al Weill, the champion's manager. "Rocky really doesn't know how hard he hit him. It was the best right uppercut he has thrown, I think."

Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, elbowed his way to both fighters' rooms.

"Naturally I'm disappointed it did not go longer," he told a reporter. "If Walcott protests to the state commission, I don't see where it will do him any good. If he lodges a protest there is nothing I can do about it and nothing the commission can do about it either."

BREAKS COURSE RECORD

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP)—Dr. Cary Middlecoff cracked the course record and zoomed into the third-round lead of the $17,500 Meadow Brook round-robin golf tournament Friday.

There's never been a day like it, old timers say, in the 17 years of this unique mathematical links derby.

The course record was broken twice within 10 minutes Friday—the last time by Middlecoff's sizzling six-under-par 64. Lloyd Mangrum dropped in a hole-in-one.

Middlecoff, 1949 U.S. Open champion, snapped out of a spring slump with rounds of 64 and 66 to climb from nowhere to a total of plus 25 points.

He had a three-point edge over Mangrum, who registered a pair of 65s, and was nine points ahead of Jimmy Demaret who shot rounds of 68 and 65.

In this novel tournament a player's card is matched with each of the other three members of his foursome. Par for the Meadow Brook course is 70.

KITCHENER (CP) — President Otto Manske of the Intercounty Baseball League announced Friday that Hespeler has withdrawn its entry from the intermediate loop. He said six teams now remain in the group.

The six teams remaining are Stratford, London, Listowel, Elmira, Preston and Fergus.

Joe Walcott Declares KO "Ridiculous," Wasn't Hurt

By TOM BRANAGAN

CHICAGO (AP)—A bewildered Joe Walcott, counted out in the first round of his heavyweight championship fight with Rocky Marciano, sputtered Friday night that his KO "was ridiculous."

"I wasn't hurt at any time," he told a packed dressing room audience after the fight.

"I guess it was a left hook and a punch-push, or something, that knocked me down.

"I could have gotten up at the count of two."

As Jersey Joe and his manager, Felix Bocchicchio, spoke disgustedly, their lawyer, Angelo Milandra, shouted that he had "just made an official protest with the Illinois athletic commission."

Bocchicchio's words were literally spat at reporters as he ridiculed the manner in which referee Frank Sikora had counted out his 39-year-old protege.

"WE WERE ROBBED"

"Gentlemen," he shouted through a microphone rigged up for the huge press crowd, "I was robbed in New York in 1948 when we beat Joe Louis (Walcott lost a decision) but I never saw no robbery equal like this tonight. (He obviously meant the Louis-Walcott fight in December, 1947. Louis knocked out Walcott in their return bout in 1948.

"I'm gonna have Joe go on the road and preach against this sort of thing from here on out."

Bocchicchio did not explain just what he meant by this remark. He added, however:

"We don't want to fight anyone if that's the way they do."

Falls To Get Rest At Night

WASHINGTON (AP)—Niagara Falls may get a chance to take it a little easier at night, when nobody's looking.

A joint commission recommended Friday to the U. S. and Canadian government a $17,536,000 improvement plan for the scenic wonder, including devices to control the flow of water over the Horseshoe section.

These would allow the falls to be throttled down from a full rate of 200,000 cubic feet of water a second over the brim to 100,000. A U. S. official said the two governments had tentatively decided to let the water run full tilt during the tourist season from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m., but reduce the flow at night.

Experts estimate the falls have worn away some 900 feet of the Horseshoe section since 1678. The controls would be designed to preserve an unbroken crestline and at the same time make available more water for power.

Hi-Lo's Forbes Wins Race In Fog

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—Hi-Lo's Forbes, longest price on the board, came charging through the fog at Yonkers Raceway Friday night to score a one-length victory in the first Free-For-All Pace of the season. The fog was so heavy that it was impossible for the 20,419 fans to see the horses on the back stretch.

Thomas B. Scott, 6-5 favorite, set the pace until the top of the stretch when Henry Clukey brought Hi-Lo's Forbes down the middle of the track. Irish Hal was third.

Time for the mile was 2:05.3.

The $8,400 Riverdale Pace was captured by Highland Ellen by a length over Chuck Volo.

Worm's Turn

COBOURG (ENS)—One enterprising dealer in fishing tackle here, whose show cases are stocked with trout flies and all sorts of fancy lures, now has a sign in his window—"Dew Worws For Sale." And thereby hangs a fish tale, in fact several, all true.

First of all, Bill Perry, using a dew worm caught 28½-inch 6½-pound rainbow trout, the largest ever to come out of Shelter Valley Creek. On Thursday a local man of the cloth caught a 1¾-pound speckled trout at Gold Creek with a dew worm. Friday night, 10-year-old Peter Burkhlet fishing in Factory Creek, caught a five-pound brown trout. Yes, it was a dew worm too.

Say Entertainment Tax Crippling UK Boxing

GLASGOW (AP)—British boxing is "almost out on its feet" because of the 33 1-3 per cent entertainment tax, J. Onslow Fane, chairman of the British boxing board of control, said Friday.

Fane told the board's annual meeting that the "crippling" tax was forcing 50 per cent of the smaller promoters in Britain to close down.

He said an amendment to the finance bill will be discussed in the House of Commons Tuesday and hoped this might mean a reduction in the tax.

Czarist Treatment Of Father Made Georgi Malenkov Bitter

By HARRY GELBER

COLOGNE (Reuters) — Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov was "almost a model schoolboy" in his early teens but rarely joined other youngsters in their games, his former teacher recalls.

Belgian-born Mrs. Emmy Giesen, 54, described in detail the early years of Russia's new premier in his hometown of Orenburg in the southern Urals. She was interned there with her German husband during the First World War and taught French to the Russian children.

FATHER LOST JOB

Georgi's father, a railroad engineer deprived of his job by the Czarist government for revolutionary activity, wanted his son to learn French, she said.

"One day, I went along to the Malenkov house where Georgi was born in 1902," Mrs. Giesen said. "As far as I can see from the pictures, the son looks very much like his father who was a quiet, polite man.

"The mother was a very pretty, vivacious and intelligent Russian lady of the world. She was a teacher at the local school and was very pleasant and friendly.

"Young Georgi himself was a very intelligent little boy. He was much better in class than his companions and was terribly interested in every kind of knowledge and science."

Mrs. Giesen, a quiet, grey-haired woman who disclaims any political leanings, told the story in her ramshackle little house at Wesseling near here where she has lived since her return from Russia in 1918.

AT TOP OF CLASS

Young Georgi, she said, stood at the top of her class and was something of an apple-polisher.

"He learned almost too quickly and had a wonderful memory," she said. "He was especially interested in technical things. He always had a lot of mechanical toys and I hear that he later went on to the technical college in Moscow.

She said there was "a terrible atmosphere of bitterness" in the Malenkov home because of the way Georgi's father had been treated by the Czarist government.

"I am not surprised Georgi grew up to be a revolutionary."

Canadian Prisoners Of War Ask Prison Camp Allowance

OTTAWA (CP) — Some 7,000 Canadians captured by the Germans during the Second World War are trying to persuade the government they are entitled to a $1-a-day allowance for their time in prisoner-of-war camps.

A delegation from the National Council of Canadian Prisoners of War met five cabinet ministers recently and was told its submission will be put before the entire cabinet.

The council was formed after Canadian soldiers imprisoned by the Japanese were awarded $1 a day for their time in prison stockades. Canadians captured by the Germans also can collect the same amount, but only if they can prove maltreatment at the hands of the Gestapo or SS (elite guard).

MALTREATED

The council argues Canadians captured by the Germans were maltreated because the Nazis deliberately broke the Geneva Convention. It says the Canadian prisoners would not have survived if it had not been for Red Cross parcels.

The council says all German PoW camps were under Gestapo control and that there was continuous maltreatment of Canadians. For instance, the diet provided for only 1,500 calories a man daily, less, the council contends, than prisoners of the Japanese received.

The award to the Canadian prisoners of the Japanese pre supposed maltreatment. The council says that though Canadian prisoners of the Germans were not handled so harshly, they were still maltreated and should be entitled to the same allowance.

The council says it had no intention of asking for an allowance originally because most prisoners sat in comparative safety while other soldiers, sailors and airmen were still being shot at. But it felt after the award to the prisoners of the Japanese, prisoners of the Germans were entitled to equal compensation.

BOTH EQUALLY TREATED

The council says that though a former prisoner of the Germans can obtain the $1-a-day grant if he proves maltreatment, how can the government distinguish between a man who still shows effects of maltreatment today and a man who has recovered? Both were equally maltreated in the first place.

The council also notes it is not trying to get the Canadian taxpayer to foot the bill. It estimates about $7,000,000 was realized by the government through seizure of German property in Canada when war broke out. It wants the allowance to come from this enemy alien fund before money is paid out to Canadians whose property in Germany was seized.

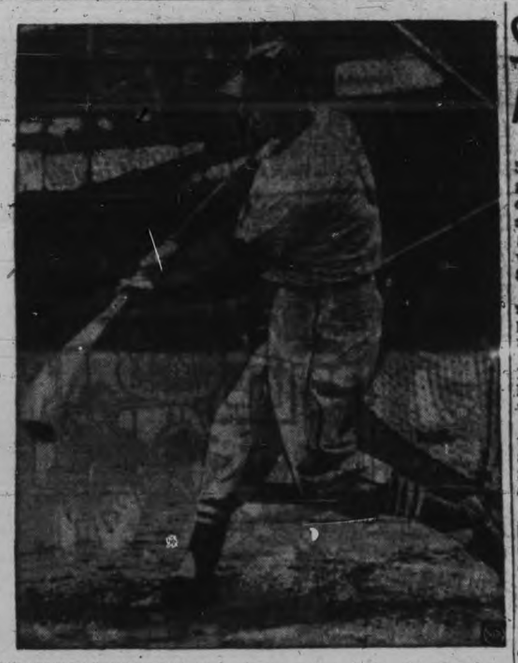
Find Dumb Blondes Make Best Wives

LLANDUDNO, Wales (Reuters)—"Dumb blonde" types make the best wives because they do what comes naturally, a British marriage expert said Friday night.

Girls who read too many books make the worst wives, Dr. Mary Macaulay, 50, told the National Marriage Guidance Council.



Intellectual wives are too repressed, Dr. Macaulay said, and are too easily "shocked" amd "ashamed."

Simple girls let off steam and scream if they feel like it— natural behavior that makes a marriage percolate, she said.

Dr. Macaulay, a judge at Birkenhead, herself has two grown sons and is married to a doctor.

Set Boundaries For Two Schools To Open In Fall

Boundaries have now been set for two new city schools that will open in September: Cameron St. School which has four classrooms, including a kindergarten, and Armour Heights School which has eight classrooms plus a kindergarten.

K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schools, explained that necessity rather than logic determined the boundry lines. Accommodation is already cramped and only so many children can be admitted to each school regardless of where the boundaries are drawn.

"In laying out (these) boundaries. . . it has been necessary to be guided by the number of children in certain areas rather than by an ideal placing of boundary lines," he said.

Cameron St. District:

Children up to and including Grade 4 who live on McKellar St. and south to the river between Monaghan Rd. and Park St. This includes, within the limits given, McKellar St., Howden Ave., Arndon Ave., Riverside Dr., Bruce St., Archibald St., the west side of Park St., the south side of McKellar and the east side of Monaghan Rd. south of McKellar.

Children in this area are now going to Confederation and Grove Schools.

HALF DAY KINDERGARTEN

"We expect to have in Grades 1 to 4 approximately 91 pupils," said Mr. Wightman. "We have registered for kindergarten in the area 32 children which will make it possible to limit the kindergarten to half-day class for the first year at least."

Armour Heights School District:

Children up to and including Grade 6 living on Stanley, Clifton and Carlisle Sts. and north to the city limits will attend this school. This will give approximately 250 children for Armour Heights above the kindergarten. Some of these children are at present attending Queen Alexandra School and will be transferred so that all children east of the river are at either Armour Heights or King George.

"There is a definite gain in safety in this as they will no longer have to cross Water and George Sts.," said Mr. Wightman. "King George will be left with approximately 390 pupils above the kindergarten."

Mr. Wightman said that the present registration shows a possible 46 for the kindergarten at Armour Heights and 43 for King George.

Revise Assessments On 8 Municipalities

KITCHENER (CP)—The Grand River conservation commission today revised assessments on eight municipalities sharing the cost of construction of the $5,400,000 Conestogo dam at nearby Glen Allan.

The commission will contribute 25 per cent or $1,350,000 towards the cost of the dam. Chairman Marcel Pequegnat, of Kitchener, explained assessments on the towns of Fergus and Elora will be cut in halves and the difference added to the Galt, Kitchener and Brantford assessments.

Assessments on Waterloo, Preston, and Paris will remain unchanged. Only dissenting vote on the new system of assessment was made by Fergus.

The new system: Brantford $527,580, Kitchener $394,875, Galt $223,020, Waterloo $81,000, Preston $57,645, Paris $46,845, Fergus $13,635, and Elora $5,400.

PRESIDENT AND TWO BOSSES — Lincoln Electric's James F. Lincoln (centre) talks business with two of the 1,200 workers who share independence — and company profits.

Employees Earn $8,000 In Proift-Sharing Industry

CLEVELAND (NEA)—They've got a plant here where the average worker makes more than $8,000 a year. For a 40-hour week.

Its 1,200 workers get nearly double the money of those doing the same type of work earn in other plants.

The company still sells its principal product at approximately the 1939-2940 price.

Each worker produces about $36,000 worth of goods a year, or nearly four times the amount turned out by workers in average comparable industries.

Since 1934 the company has cut direct labor hours in its product by 90 per cent. But it employs four times as many people as it did then. Its gross earnings last year were $40 million.

It has never missed paying an annual dividend, which in recent years has been set at 6 per cent. More than 70 per cent of the workers own stock in the company.

The name of this industrial marvel is the Lincoln Electric Co., world's largest maker of arc welding equipment.

The big gimmick in its operation is profit sharing, or dividing up profits among employees in the form of bonuses. Last year, with an annual payroll of $5 million, Lincoln Electric distributed another $5 million in bonuses.

That sort of thing accounts for 1,200 happy, smiling faces out at the Lincoln plant. It also accounts for Lincoln Electric's getting called various and sometimes uncomplimentary things.

NOT COMMUNISTIC

The system has been called Communistic. Yet Lincoln officials say European visitors to the plant have seen it as the perfect antidote to Communism.

"At a party the other night I talked until I was hoarse trying to persuade some people our operation is not socialistic," says Charles Herbruck, assistant to the secretary.

All this about a company whose 70-year-old president, tough and tall James F. Lincoln, hated the New Deal so much he once said he would not spend a cent for plant expansion "as long as (it) runs things." But he offered to give other companies his trade secrets so they could produce more to make up for his lack of expansion.

FIRST BONUS IN 1934

The company paid its first bonus in 1934. Emplyoees had asked for a raise. The company said it couldn't afford to give one. The employees countered with the suggestion that if they increased output during the year, would the company give them a share of the extra profits? The company said yes.

The bonus that year averaged $300 per worker. Last year it averaged more than $4000 per worker.

In general Lincoln's profit-sharing plan works like this: The basis of it is the piecework system. Twice a year employees are rated on their work as to quality, quantity, supervision required and cost reduction ideas and effort.

At the end of the year the two six-month ratings are averaged up and each worker is given a final rating. This rating, related to his base pay, determines how much of a bonus he will get. It averaged out last year to 100 per cent of the base pay, with some workers getting more and some less, depending on their ratings.

Lincoln doesn't minimize the importance of the bonus in stimulating the workers to set their phenomenal production records. But he also likes to think that certain attendant morale factors play a big part.

The workmen, particularly on the assembly line turning out the welding machines, are pretty much on their own as to how to do the job fastest and best. There is a minimum of assistant foremen, inspectors and clerks.

Lincoln believes this independence, plus the bonus, leads workers to the feeling that "we are a man among men."

It's pretty hard to get a workman in the Lincoln plant to stop turning out the gadgets and raking in the dollars long enough to talk about his job.

KEEP HUSTLING

Ed Spehar who runs a machine that slits big metal sheets into little ones, allowed us about $1.19 worth of his precious time to say:

"This is the best place to work in the world. I couldn't save a dime at the job I had before this. Now I'm in good shape. I don't work too hard. I just keep hustling. I make twice as much here as I could on the outside."

Unions don't know quite what to make of profit-sharing operations like the one at Lincoln. Walter Reuther, head of the CIO, said recently his organization had "mixed feelings" on the matter. Even in this labor stronghold, there has never been a union at Lincoln.

The Federal government took the position, in a 10-year legal battle just ended, that Lincoln Electric escaped paying some whopping taxes by handing out its whopping bonuses. But Lincoln won the case.

And the profit-sharing plan is catching on around the rest of the country. The Council of Profit Sharing Industries reports between 12,000 and 15,000 such plans are in operation now; about 20 times the 1942 figure. New ones are being set up at the rate of about 20 a week.

Rubber Balls Bounce Oil Out Of Earth

TULSA (AP)—Little rubber balls bounce oil from the earth's depths in an ingenious new pump designed by a Tulsa firm.

The balls are shot down a tube inside the well, propelled by natural gas under pressure. They make a U-turn at the bottom of the well, and come shooting up another tube, pushing a column of oil ahead of them.

The rubber ball pump was shown to the international petroleum exposition by Stanolind Oil and Gas Company here. Two such pumps are in use in Oklahoma.

The only maintenance cost is to replace the worn rubber balls occasionally. That costs a fraction of a cent for every barrel of oil produced, said a company representative.

The balls keep the pumping tubes as clean as a whistle, clearing out paraffin or anything which might clog the tubes.

A working model shows how the balls, shaped like the head of mushrooms, go chasing in a merry-go-round to bring up oil. A handful are used at a time.

Gas pressure is built up to shoot a ball through an injection valve and down the tube. Deep down, the ball is stopped temporarily by a narrowed part of the tube, until pressure created by another starting ball forces it through the bottleneck.

The pressure it builds up forces a preceding ball, waiting at the U-turn of the tube, to come barrelling up the other side of the tube with its load of oil. This oil has seeped into the U-shaped tube through a special valve.

Noisy Demonstrations Greet Dulles In Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (Reuters)—Communists and extreme nationalists staged noisy demonstrations here today to coincide with the arrival of John Foster Dulles, U. S. secretary of state.

But only a few workers responded to a call by Lebanese political organizations for a protest strike against "pro-Zionist American policy."

Police arrested a large number of students who marched to the U. S. embassy shouting "Down with America's pro-Zionist policy."

Communists, chanting anti-American slogans, broke through barricades to demonstrate in the centre of the capital. Twenty-two were slightly hurt in clashes with security forces.

Dulles, touring the Middle East with mutual security director Harold Stassen, arrived here this afternoon from Damascus, where he had important talks this morning with Col. Adeeb Shishakly, Syrian deputy premier and chief of staff.

The Anglo-Egyptian dispute over the Suez canal zone and the problem of Palestine refugees were believed to have been discussed.

Housing, Education Issues In Nova Scotia Election

HALIFAX (CP)—The Liberal government of Premier Angus L. Macdonald is fighting Nova Scotia's May 26 general election on its record, assailed by opposition parties as reflecting extravagance, waste and patronage.

Liberals, after 20 years in government, say their record is one of proud achievement. Progressive Conservatives say it shows extravagance and waste and the CCF hinted at corrupt election practices and patronage in the administration of business.

Housing and education were big planks in the platforms of all three parties.

Liberals said they had assisted housing to the extent of $2,000,000 and had increased teachers' salaries, provided free school books and built 13 rural and regional high schools.

The Progressive Conservatives, official opposition in the last House promised to seek federal aid to meet mounting education costs if the party wins the election.

The party promised to "follow an educational program which places greater emphasis upon the teaching problem and the course of study." Its manifesto outlined co-operation with individuals and municipalities in the housing field.

The CCF manifesto promised to back efforts to improve housing by slum clearance and the establishment of low-rental accommodation.

Liberals and Progressive Conservatives are running full slates of 37 candidates in the election and the CCF has 16 entered. There is one independent. When the last house dissolved there were 27 Liberals, eight Progresstve Conservatives and two CCF members.

Education was a big talking point during the last session. Teachers' salaries came in for most of the fire but school construction and the courses of study also were discussed at length.

The Liberal platform outlined the government's record in many fields and said it had paved 1,500 miles of road, provided electricity to 125,000 people of the province, loaned $2,000,000 to fishermen, aided hospital construction and advanced cash income of farmers from $10,000,00 in 1932 to $45,000,000 in 1951.

Progressive Conservatives included a plan for closer co-operation with other Maritime provinces and Newfoundland. In the financial field they promised elimination of "extravagance and waste" and appointment of an auditor-general responsible only to the legislature.

The CCF proposed a province-wide hospital plan, "adequate salaries" for teachers and a program for development of the coal and steel industries.

Many Ways To Sell Insurance

What other persons catering to mankind's material needs during 1952 can compare their work to that of a life underwriter, said J. F. LoBosco, of Welland, a member of his company's million dollar round table club, Friday at the monthly meeting of the Peterborough Life Underwriters' Association.

MUST BE SINCERE

Mr. Lobosco described how life insurance salesmen today have removed the fear of the future from their policyholders by providing financial security for their families in case death comes early in life to the bread-winner of the family.

He told the salesmen that they could not possibly sell their product successfully unless they sincerely believed in the product they were selling.

"For if your motivating stories and explanations fail to convince your prospective customer," said Mr. LoBosco, "and if you have your heart and soul in your work and the conviction of purpose you display shows a real sincerity in your work, and still you fail to make a sale, startle your client with an insult whcih will usually produce a sale nine times out of ten."

Court Rejects Petition To Alter Title

EDINBURGH (AP)—The highest court in Scotland today threw out as "incompetent and irrelevant" a petition by Scottish nationalists to strip Queen Elizabeth of the "II" in her royal title.

The Scots insisted the Queen is only Elizabeth I, saying the first Elizabeth reigned only over England.

Lord Guthrie, president of the court, held the Queen's style and titles were chosen under an Act of Parliament and no Scottish court had ever held an Act of Parliament invalid and further it had never been suggested a Scottish court could do so.

The Scottish Covenant Association—a non-militant group that wants limited home rule—said it would lodge an appeal. It brought the Scottish nationalist dispute to a head by the court action. It had warned the use of the II in the title may "give rise to disturbances, breaches of the peace and violence."

Scottish grumbling over the Queen's decision to call herself "Elizabeth II" brought attacks on Edinburgh mailboxes bearing the new royal cypher "E II R" and windows displaying the cypher have been smashed.

Any appeal against the Court of Sessions—which handed down today's judgment—goes to the House of Lords in London.

England and Scotland became a single nation under the Act of Union in 1707. The first Queen Elizabeth ruled over England from 1558-1603. Scotland never has had a Queen Elizabeth before now.

Roller Coaters Properly Used Can Make Painting Easier

Roller coaters are here to stay ....that we can be sure. Comparatively simple to use, they make possible the rapid and smooth application of nearly all kinds of coatings.

Unfortunately, however, not everyone who uses this new technique is entirely successful. There are several points to observe, and the first is the right size coater for the particular job.

Rollers come in lengths that vary from 2½" to 9". If you've got a strong arm you may be able to hold a large size, but remember it will be qquite heavy when loaded, and if there's a big area to be covered it will seem to get heavier as time goes by. In spite of this it's essential to get a coater that will be sufficiently large to do the particular job. Thus it becomes necessary to work out a reasonable compromise.

Increasingly popular is the self-feeder type of roller, which has a drum holding a pint of paint inside the roller. This, too, can get pretty heavy after you've been using it for awhile—but its advantages are many.

WASH FIRST

Before you use your roller for the first time, wash the cover thoroughly to remove all lint and dust. Before use, of course, the cover must be thoroughly dry—unless you're going to use a water-mix paint. Then you should be sure that it's wet.

Rollers can be used on most smooth surfaces and with nearly all kinds of coatings. However, those that dry rapidly, such as shellac, lacquers, enamels and some wall primers should be avoided.

Consistency of paint for a roller coater should be about the same as for brushing, and speaking of brushing, you'll need a brush handy to get at some of the areas too difficult to reach with the roller.

The brush should be used, for example, to coat in a narrow strip at the ceiling line. Start at the upper left-hand corner and make the strip about 2 feet long. That's about as wide an area as should be tackled if the edge is to be lapped before it dries.

The brush may also be used to coat in a narrow vertical band next to the corner, from the ceiling to the baseboard. The brush may then be wrapped in tinfoil to keep it moist until the next wall-ceiling job, or corner is reached.

When the roller is first filled it should be rolled upward. Begin a short distance away from the section just finished and work towards it. Roll lightly, evenly, and not too fast, in order not to splash paint at the ends of the roller.

SWEEPING MOTION

In painting a wall surface, begin at a point about two feet below the ceiling line, and roll upward until the roller meets the area blocked in with the brush, then roll down again. Cover an area from two to three feet in width, rolling up and down. Then operate cross-wise, in a sweeping, semi-circular motion, starting at the top and working down the entire area which has been covered. This will spread the paint evenly, and take out any linc marks which may result.

The ceiling, of course, should be done before the walls. If a ladder is being used for ceiling or upper walls, the dip pan for the roller coater may be anchored to the top of the ladder with special bands obtainable from a paint dealer. While working in low areas keep the pan at least 30 inches from the floor for greatest convenience.

Once your painting session has been completed, clean the roller thoroughly. Place it in a glass jar which contains the proper solvent for the type of paint you've been using, and shake the solvent gently through the coater. Then roll it in newspapers to remove the liquid. After all the paint has been worked out in this fashion, wash the roller in warm suds, rinse in clear water and dry.

College Plans Increase Fees

TORONTO (CP)—A fee increase averaging 13.6 per cent for 1953-54 was announced Friday night by the University of Toronto. The boosts, made with the concurrence of the federated colleges of Victoria, Trinity and St. Michael's, vary from Faculty to faculty.

Dr. Sidney Smith, president of the university, said $50,000 of the additional revenue will be added to the university's bursary fund for good students in need of financial help to begin or continue their courses.

Young Liberals Charge Protectionism

TORONTO (CP) — Alvin P. Cadeau, president of the Ontario Liberal Association, said Friday at the opening session of the annual Ontario Young Liberals' Association meeting there are protectionist elements in the Progressive Conservative Party.

He said the Tory party has traditionally favored protection and high tariffs.

John Medcoff, chairman of the policy committee, criticized the practice of compelling immigrants to work for a period after coming to Canada in jobs for which they may not be suited. The Young Liberals approved a resolution calling for increased immigration after Mr. Medcoff said immigration this year is likely to be 30,000 less than last year.

The association rejected a resolution which favored keeping private television stations out of Toronto and certain other large Canadian cities until enough revenue is available to support competing stations. Only one delegate voted in favor of the resolution.

Rare Fortress Convent To Be Found At Acolman

By JEAN E. STENTON

ACOLMAN. — The Convent of San Augustin Acolman is today a virtually deserted village, but in 1530 when the Augustine friars arrived it had a population of 30,000. The 200-foot high convent is one of only seven old fortress - type monasteries to be found in Mexico. Therefore it is a highly - valued archaeological find.

Completed in 1559 the convent was not only a retreat for monks but a haven for vagrant converts. The fortress-like contours, thick walls and massive stone enclosure made it a stronghold in emergency. It was inundated to quite a depth for many years by flood waters from Lake Texcoco, but the foundation and walls held out. Today there is only a high-water mark on the great studded doors and along the walls to show what happened.

The convent architecturally is unlike other ecclesiastical buildings in Mexico. The exterior is typical of the 16th century Spanish churches, yet it was planned and built by a native who had never been abroad. In the corridor of the patio, the walls recount in polychrome the life of St. Augustine. There are interesting Aztec trees, deer and rabbits which frame each panel.

Both construction and decorations betray the fact that the church was built at that period when the medieval styles in Spain were just being influenced by the renaissance forms. These conflicting elements are illustrated in the facade.

Above the entrance is the shield and device of the Augustinians; at the left is that of Castile, at the right that of Acolman. Along the arch above is depicted a line of different fruits — offerings to the saint by simple Indians of the parish. The male figure in the left niche is San Pedro while that at the right is San Pablo.

Renaissance forms predominate in the interior. The pillars are Doric and the figures of the apostles between the columns are excellent examples of Spanish sculptures at that time. Here, as in many of the churches in Mexico, the statues of the Christ are covered with much more blood than is generally found on the images in the average church. That is because it is Indian work and they were accustomed to much blood from their previous religion.

A number of quaint frescoes may still be seen on the old, time-stained cloister. They are all in black and white and represent scenes on the way to Calvary. The monks' cells were decorated with frescoes and each man had a comfortable seat by the window which framed a fine view. An excellent stone bathtub was placed in one of the open roof squares for catching rain water.

BUILT BIG DYKE

In the early days the congregation frequently sat on a terraced hillside outside the convent walls. A small gallery on the second floor served as the pulpit and the acoustics were perfect that the audience could hear no matter where they sat.

Part of the way from Mexico City to Acolman you travel over a big dyke which borders the remains of Lake Texcoco. At the time the Spanish arrived the lake was a huge body of water and they decided to improve the communications system by building a dyked road. But it was a bigger project than they bargained for. It took 200 years to build. Spanish engineers and troops would put up the walls in the daytime and the natives would tear them down at night.

Everything possible is utilized in Mexico for production. On the way to Acolman I saw them making rope. The leaves are stripped off the cactus plant to obtain the fibre. Men and boys using a small stone rolling pin-type instrument scrape off a wet substance and then the fibre is hung on a little line to dry. It makes wonderful rope and is very strong after they twist it. Between Mexico City and Teotihuacan where the pyramids are, there are great cactus fields with every conceivable variety.

Plans To Become Town

PORT DOVER (CP)—Steps have been taken to incorporate this Lake Erie village of 2,500 into a town in time for the December elections. An application for zoning the village into three wards has been approved by council and will be forwarded to the Ontario municipal board for approval.

Queen Victoria

KIND LORD MELBOURNE

At dinner that night Victoria sat between her Uncle Ernest (King of Hanover) and Lord Melbourne, the Prime Minister, for whom she had great affection. "My kind Lord Melbourne was much affected in speaking of the whole ceremony. He asked kindly if I was tired; said the Sword he carried (the first, the Sword of State) was excessively heavy. I said that the Crown hurt me a good deal...

"After dinner, before we sat down, we spoke of the numbers of Peers at the Coronation, which, Lord Melbourne said, with the tears in his eyes, was unprecedented. I observed that there were very few Viscounts; he said: 'There are very few Viscounts, that they were an odd sort of title and not really English that they came from Vice-Comites; that Dukes and Barons were the only real English titles; that Marquises were likewise not English; and that they made people Marquises when they did not wish to make them Dukes. Spoke of Lord Audley who came as the First Baron, and who Lord Melbourne said was a very odd young man, but of a very old family; his ancestor was a Sir Something Audley in the time of the Black Prince, who, with Chandos, gained the Battle of Poitiers (1356).

WEIGHT OF ROBES

"I said to Lord Melbourne when I first sat down that I felt a little tired on my feet; 'You must be very tired,' he said. Spoke of the weight of the Robes, etc., etc., the Coronets; and he turned round to me with the tears in his eyes, and said so kindly: 'And you did it beautifully—every part of it, with so much taste; it's a thing that you can't give a person advice upon, it must be left to a person.' To hear this, from this kind of impartial friend, gave me great and real pleasure. Mamma and Feodore came back just after he said this. Spoke of the Bishops' Copes, about which he was very funny; of the Pages who were such a nice set of boys, and who were so handy, Lord Melbourne said, that they kept them the whole time. Little Lord Stafford and Slane (Lord Mountcharles) were pages to their fathers and looked lovely; Lord Paget (not a fine boy) was Lord Melbourne's page and remarkably handy, he said. Spoke again of the young ladies' dresses, about which he was very amusing; he watched her his carriage with Lady Mary Talbot and Lady Wilhelmina; he thinks Lady Fanny does not make as much show as other girls, which I would not allow. He set off for the Abbey from his house at half past eight, and was there long before anybody else; he only got home at half past six and had to go round by Kensington. He said there was a large breakfast in the Jerusalem Chamber where they met before all began; he said, laughing, that whenever the Clergy, or a Dean and Chapter, had anything to do with anything, there's sure to be plenty to eat.

ON MAMMA'S BALCONY

"Spoke of my intending to go to bed, etc., he said, 'You may depend upon it, you are more tired than you think you are.' I said I had slept badly the night before; he said that was my mind, that nothing kept people more awake than any consciousness of a great event going to take place, and being agitated. He was not sure if he was not going to the Duke of Wellington's.

"Stayed in the dining room till twenty minutes past eleven, but remained on Mamma's balcony looking at the fireworks in Green Park which was quite beautiful."

It was a day for any girl of nineteen to remember.

Do Not Overlook

with their undreamed-of colors and shades in yellow, orange apricot, salmon, burnt orange and flame. This Chinese azalea is a neat, compact shrub with splendid foliage following the fading flowers. Plants will bloom when but a few inches in height. The ultimate height is about six feet and if given a chance, the shrubs will develop a spread of six feet and more.

The gardener must bear in mind that the azalea demands an acid soil composed of equal parts of loam, gravel and humus. Well-rotted manure is the ideal fertilizer at planting time. A mixture of one part of cottonseed meal and two parts of superphosphate worked into the soil each spring will provide sufficient plant food.

A half cup of this mixture should be given the average plant (two feet); the fertilizer is spread about the plant in a circle under the ends of the branches, cultivated and watered in.

Drainage must be provided as these plants will not tolerate constantly wet roots. Much moisture should be supplied during dry summer weather, however, to permit the plants to set buds for the next spring's display.

Azaleas should be planted where they will be seen to advantage, either in the foundation or border planting or as a specimen in the lawn. Always allow ample room for future growth. Azaleas want considerable sunlight and seem to appreciate a southerly and easterly exposure. Lack of sunlight will result in few and dull blooms.

When planting be sure to provide a pit at least a foot broader than the spread of the ball and six inches deeper. Place the plant so that it will stand an inch or two above the surrounding grade. Never fill soil up about the trunk or branches.

The evergreen azaleas which deserve a place on your list are: Hinodigiri, two to three feet tall and twice as broad, with scarlet-crimson and fiery-red flowers; and Ledifolia alba, my favorite because it developes the finest of white blooms.

Gardening Questions

Q—Potted chrysanthemums purchased last Thanksgiving time are doing poorly in the house. Why have the flowers and leaves dried and dropped?

A—Chrysanthemums need an indoor temperature of 45 to 50 degrees, most difficult to obtain other than in a greenhouse. Cut them back and put them out in the yard, give protection against winter winds and in spring plant them where you want them to bloom.

Q—We have been told that aluminum sulfate is essential to the growth of gardenias and blueberries. If so, how much should be used?

A—Aluminum sulfate is a good means of increasing and retaining the acidity of soils. For the gardenias, use a teaspoonful to a quart of water; for blueberries spread 5 tablespoons evenly about each plant, cultivate and water in. However the soil in either case should be rich in peatmoss or similar humus.

Premier Frost Pilots 1899 Museum Train

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost today is to open the throttle of an 1899-model locomotive to pilot the Canadian National Railways' museum train into Aurora from King.

The eight-mile journey between the Toronto district points commemorates the 100th anniversary of the first scheduled steam railway service in Ontario.

Mr. Frost can claim the honorary post of engineer because he is chief executive of the province and also because his father was a passenger on the first run from Toronto to Machell's Corners, now Aurora.

Put An End To Noise, Odors In Plumbing

Home owners appreciate sound plumbing for its convenience and health protection and because they know smoothly functioning plumbing systems weigh heavily in the resale value of their homes.

That they are deeply concerned with all of these things is evident in two of their most common complaints. First, that their homes' pumbing systems are noisy, and, second, that they produce odors. They ask what can be done.

Manufacturers of plumbing fixtures and reputable plumbing contractors have made a lot of headway against noise in plumbing systems, but there are builders who short-cut expenses by taking it out on the plumbing. It doesn't pay—either contractor or buyer.

The three general types of noises found in plumbing systems are water hammer, whistling and chattering.

As the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau points out, there is no excuse for water hammer—the thump in the piping heard when valves or faucets are turned off abruptly.

It can usually be eliminated by the installation of an air chamber or short length of pipe in the wall where each supply pipe enters a plumbing fixture, according to the bureau. If this doesn't prevent the hammering noise, a special type of shock absorber should be installed on the main line near the meter or as close as possible to the source of the noise.

If the noise still continues, it must come from a source outside the house, and a master plumber should find it.

The shock waves caused by water hammer can be ruinous to piping—producing leaks that are expensive to repair. It should not be allowed to go on indefinitely.

Chattering in plumbing may have one of a number of causes, including pipes rubbing against metal projections, worn faucet washers or looseness of other inside parts of valves.

Whistling is the result of water travelling at high velocity through piping which is usually too small. So it is important not to be stingy with the size of pipe used in the water supply.

The alternative is to install a pressure-reducing valve. Since whistling is most common at bends and tees in the pipe, it will also help to straighten the lines if possible.

As for odors, a correctly designed and installed plumbing system shouldn't present this problem. Defects that produce odors are improperly vented plumbing, leaks in waste or vent piping, traps that have lost their water seal, and others.

Odors in plumbing systems often indicate the presence of sewer gas entering through leaks or traps. Though sewer gas isn't deadly, it is noxious and capable of causing headaches and other minor illnesses.

Traps and vents control the sewer air. Traps are plainly visible under sinks, are built into water closets and usually concealed in the floor or basement under bathtubs. Traps hold several inches of water, which is a barrier to sewer gas. Unless properly vented, they lose this water seal.

In fixtures used only infrequently, this water seal may evaporate. So it is a good idea to fill such drains and fixtures with water occasionally to insure a trap seal.

WAYS OF ELIMINATING three of the most common plumbing woes, found particularly in older homes, are illustrated above.

Knife Thrust Killed Woman

BOURGET, Ont. (CP)—A woman whose nude and partly-decomposed body was found in a deserted house here died of a knife thrust through the heart, Dr. W. D. Hay of Kingston, said Friday.

Dr. Hay made the statement after an autopsy. Police have been investigating the possibility of murder since the body was found Thursday night in this community 30 miles east of Ottawa.

They were called in by neighbors who noticed a strange odor from the frame and asphalt siding house. The two-storey building had been occupied by Anthony Lalande, 38, last seen by his relatives April 29.

Police are searching for Lalande.

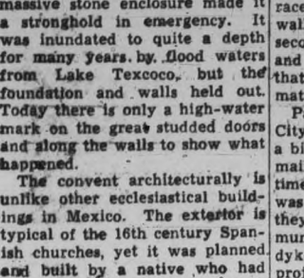
Inside the deserted house, police said they found signs of disorder and possibly a struggle in an upstairs room where the woman's body was lying on a cot.

Editors Condemn Argentine's Action

LONDON (AP)—Newspaper editors of 34 countries attending the assembly of the International Press Institute adopted a resolution Friday condemning the government of Argentina for "repeated blows against freedom of the press" and calling on editors through the world to protest.

The resolution mentioned specifically Argentina's expropriation in 1951 of the independent La Prensa, largest Spanish-language newspaper in the world.

The editors voted to meet in Vienna next year.

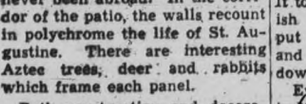


4th Brigade At Wainwright

OTTAWA (CP)—The army will whip another brigade—the fourth—into shape for Korea at the big Wainwright, Alta., training base this summer.

Currently known as the 25th infantry brigade replacement group, it will undergo intensive training at Wainwright this summer under the eye of Brig. Fred Clift, DSO, of Saskatoon.

The units are the 2nd Highland Battalion, 2nd Infantry Battalion and 2nd Rifle Battalion, originally formed for service in Germany under the Atlantic Pact. They are being switched to Korea because the original units that went to Korea in 1950 and 1951 are going to Germany in their stead this fall.



The Comstock Lode, great Nevada silver mine, was discovered in 1859.

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

VOL. CVI. No. 115 — SATURDAY, MAY 16, 1953

Main Street Topics

PASS TESTS

Bdrs. R. J. MacGibbon, G. F. Clark, Jim Bolderson, G. W. Gilders and WO2 G. A. Nokes, all of the 50th HAA Regiment have qualified as sergeants. All passed the senior NCO course (Part 2) held recently at the armouries.

REDUCE TRAINING NIGHTS

Training nights for the 50th HAA Regiment will be reduced from two nights a week to one night starting in June. The regiment will train only on Tuesday nights throughout June and July until summer camp at Picton from August 2 to August 8.

AIR CADET INSPECTION

Peterborough Air Cadets, 534 Squadron, are holding their annual inspection Tuesday at 7:15 p.m. in the Exhibition grounds, horticultural building. Inspecting Officer will be Group Captain Newson, DSO, DFC, CD, senior personnel staff officer, central command, Trenton.

FARM COUPLES AVAILABLE

Farm domestic couples, immigrant people from European countries, are now available through the National Employment office. James Sharp, office manager, said there have been a number of inquiries for childless domestic couples to help on district farms but the couples were not available until lately.

HOLD ARMY SCHEME

Radar sets of the 50th HAA Regiment were moved today to the old rifle range east of the city. On Sunday afternoon the regiment will trace airplanes from the Trenton RCAF station with the radar and then train the big 3.7 anti-aircraft guns on them. Since wireless sets have been installed in all vehicles, the regiment held a wireless scheme today.

MINISTERS GO VISITING

Archdeacon W. P. Robertson, rector of St. John's Anglican Church, and the Rev. Ivan Morgan of Murray Street Baptist Church, will both be guest speakers in Toronto churches. Archdeacon Robertson will deliver the evensong sermon in St. James' Cathedral on Wednesday as part of the centennial services, and Mr. Morgan will preach in Yorkminster Baptist Church Sunday.

What Is It?

You can't tell a player without a program, they say. And apparently a number of Peterborough people don't know what a large public building is without a sign on it. Clarence Porter, Board of Education trustee, pointed out at the May meeting of the Board that peole have asked him what the $650,000 Kenner Collegiate on Monaghan Rd. S. was. There is no sign on the modern secondary school. In the hustle and bustle that seems to have been overlooked. "What do they think it is—a reformatory?" asked a fellow trustee. K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schools, assured them that a sign was being prepared and a flag pole was also being bought.

Scouts, Guides Crowd Into City For Field Day

Scout, cub, girl guide and brownie packs of Peterborough and neighboring towns crowded the Exhibition grounds today for the first district scout field day, which is hoped to be made an annual affair in Peterborough.

There were more than 1,500 cubs, brownies, girl guides and scouts present at the field day representing scout packs from Lakefield, Port Hope, Lindsay, Peterborough, Cobourg and Bobcaygeon.

The day's festivities began with a parade led by the CGE Pipe band which left Confederation Park at 10:30 and marched down George St., with more than a thousand cubs, girl guides, brownies and scouts decked out in their uniforms and various medals and awards. Major-General D. C. Spry, Chief Executive Commissioner of Boy Scouts for Canada, headed the parade.

COMPETED IN GAMES

On arriving at the Exhibition grounds each group were divided into sections and competed in various organized games, such as layout of a square by means of a compass, cooking a twist, relay races for each group, leap frog competitions, signalling, high jumping, bicycle races, fire lighting and a treasurer hunt in which every age group participated.

Following lunch Gordon K. Fraser, MP for Peterborough West, officially opened the field day and Major-General Spry and Field Commissioner C. B. Stafford of Ottawa also addressed the group.

The closing ceremonies will be in charge of Ernest Trueman, vice-president of the Peterborough Scout Association and Major-General Spry will present badges and awards to outstanding scouts for work done throughout the year.

Lands, Forests Region Office To Be Set Up

Seek Office Space In Peterborough In Re-Organization

A regional office for this part of Ontario is being set up by the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, the Hon. Harold R. Scott, acting minister of the department, said today.

W. B. Greenwood, at present the assistant to W. D. Cram of the lands division of the department will be in charge. Officials are now looking for a suitable office in the city.

The Peterborough office will be the focal point for administration and information having to do with the three present districts in the immediate vicinity: Trent district in Lindsay, Quinte district in Tweed, and the Rideau district in Kemptville.

CENTRAL POINT

"It will be a central point for the three districts and Peterborough seemed the most logical centre," said Mr. Scott. "The timber lands are directly north and the city is about midway between the other two districts."

In the province there are now 21 districts, divided into seven regions, for the purpose of coordination.

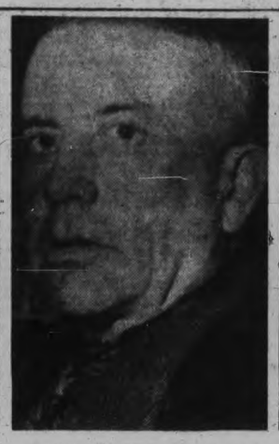
Mr. Greenwood will head this region as soon as an office is found in the city and as soon as he can find local accommodation. At first two others will also share office space here: John Bell, zone forester, and Stan Windsor, who looks after fish and wildlife. But Mr. Scott indicated that this is only the initial staff. Additions are likely as time goes on.

Departmental concerns include the purchase of Crown lands, forest protection and the general subject of conservation, reforestation, surveys, timber management, and fish and wildlife.

The Peterborough regional headquarters will also serve as an information centre to people wanting to make enquiries on any of these subjects. Until now there has been no one centre where this information was available.

Cars Hit Head-on Five Injured

LINDSAY—Five persons were treated at the Ross Memorial Hospital for minor injuries this morning, following an early morning head-on collision on highway 7, a mile west of Lindsay.



Constable George Mounstephen who investigated, a car driven by Donald Curry of Kingston and with two passengers, Miss McComb and Miss Aitken, were proceeding west on the highway.

Curry pulled out to pass a slow-moving vehicle, and another vehicle, driven by William Bailey of Kitchener, coming the opposite direction, suddenly appeared out of a fog bank in front of him. The two vehicles collided head-on.

All five persons involved in the accident, including Mrs. Bailey, were taken to the Ross Memorial Hospital for treatment of minor cuts and bruises by Dr. J. C. Arnold of Lindsay. They were later released from the hospital. Both cars, new models, were extensively damaged in the collision and were towed in to a Lindsay garage.

BOBCAYGEON BUSINESS MEN WANT REVIVAL of the old Pigeon Lake route from King's Wharf (Victoria County), bottom of lower left photo, to Flood's Landing (Peterborough County) (see dotted line) in the form of a permanent causeway to replace the old floating bridge that "went out" in 1913. This short-cut tourist route between Peterborough and Bobcaygeon would save 10 driving miles over the present round-about way.

Urge Causeway To Cross Pigeon L.

In 1912 when a few doctors were the only people who owned cars, it was only about a 24-mile drive from Bobcaygeon to Peterborough. Today, with motor traffic pouring over the roads, it's a 31-mile trip by back roads over Cowan's bridge and 34 miles, most of it by highway, via Omemee. It may sound strange, but it's a fact, and just about everybody in Bobcaygeon has been unhappy about it ever since the old floating bridge across Pigeon Lake—or Pigeon Creek as some of them still call it—was washed away in the spring break-up of 1912, never to be replaced.

Now, with a causeway across Lake Chemong and one about to be built across Gannon's Narrows, they feel it's time the authorities in Peterborough and Victoria counties gave serious consideration to a scheme that's been talked of in Bobcaygeon for a long time—a causeway across Pigeon Lake.

Only a few days ago, a group of ratepayers from Emily township went to call on Bobcaygeon's Reeve Claude Bottum to see if something couldn't be done to revive the project.

CATTLE LAND

The rolling hills of Emily township, which borders the western edge of Pigeon Lake, provide excellent pasture land where in the province are raised. The nearest packing plant is in Peterborough and some of the shippers in that district ship not only cattle but hogs to this city at least once a week. They're not very happy to have to use a round-about route to get here either.

But to the travelling public at large, the chief advantage of a shorter route from Peterborough to Bobcaygeon is the fact that north from Bobcaygeon, through Kinmount and Minden, is the route to the Haliburton highlands—one of the fastest growing vaca-

Re-elected Chancellor

KINGSTON (CP)—Hon. Charles A. Dunning of Montreal today was re-elected chancellor of Queen's University for his fifth term by the university council.

Mr. Dunning has completed 12 years as Queen's chancellor and his re-election was unanimous at the council's annual meeting.

Two scientists, Dr. R. K. Stratford of the Imperial Oil Company, Sarnia, and Norman F. Tisdale, of the Molybdenum Corporation, Pittsburgh, were to receive honorary doctor of laws degrees today at the university's applied science convocation.

One hundred and fifty engineers were to receive their diplomas at the ceremony in Grant Hall.

Coronation Bonfire

HALIFAX (CP)—Paul Silver, district Boy Scout commissioner, said Scouts are preparing to set up a huge bonfire in honor of the Coronation June 2. Special ceremonies with appropriate songs and prayers will be held around the beacon.

Canadian Trumpeters

LONDON (CP)—Two Canadian bandsmen now studying at the Royal Military School of Music at Twickenham will be among the trumpeters at Westminster Abbey during the Coronation June 2. They are WO. Herbert Jeffrey of Long Branch, Ont., and WO. Gerald Gagnier of Montreal.

Drag Trent River For Boy Believed Drowned On Visit For Weekend

Toronto Parents Have Cottage Near Town Fishing Forbidden But Rod Found In Shallow Water At Shore

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—Three-year-old Bobby Panetta is missing and believed drowned in the turbulent waters of the Trent River. The child, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rocky Panetta, 3 Faircrest Circle, Toronto, and the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Alfano of the same address, came down from Toronto Thursday night to spend the weekend at their summer cottage about three miles north of town.

Bobby was last seen about 2:30 Friday afternoon when he picked up a fishing rod and asked his father what it was. The father explained what it was but cautioned the lad that he was not to use it until he was older.

A short while later, when it was noticed the lad had disappeared, a frantic search of the river bank disclosed the pole lying in about a foot and a half of water, but the child was not in sight.

RAN FOR HELP

Mr. Panetta ran to the nearby store of George Peake who notified police and the Campbellford Fire Department.

Dragging operations were begun immediately under the direction of OPP Constables George Rose and Archy Eady, aided by volunteer firemen and many citizens.

Officials of the Trent Canal and H.E.P.C. lowered the water in the two mile reach as much as possible to aid the search. When darkness settled down and dragging operations had to be called off with no trace of the boy being found, a large group of citizens combed the woods behind the cottage using flashlights in hope that the boy had wandered in there and become lost, but no clues to the boy's disappearance were found.

SPANIEL ON SHORE

All afternoon, while the search and dragging operations were being carried on the little boy's pet, a black spaniel, sat on the river bank and whined.

Members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion and of the Salvation Army served hot coffee and sandwiches to the searchers, during the evening.

The cottage where the family were staying is on the west bank of the Trent River, just below No. 12 dam and due to the spring run-off at this time of the year, the water is very fast and turbulent. The rocky bottom hindered dragging operations and it is believed that if the child fell into the river his body may be caught in one of the many snags and crevices.

Plans were made to have a thorough search of the woods behind the cottage early today in case the child may have wandered in and become lost. Members of the Boy Scout Troop assisted. Dragging operations are also continuing.

Woman's Death Attributed Natural Causes

The death of Mrs. John L. Paisley, 53, was attributed to natural causes by Coroner Dr. Herbert N. Young.

Mrs. Paisley's body was found at 11.50 a.m. Friday floating in the Otonabee River just north of Lock 22 at the rear of her home on Highway 28, about five miles north of the city.

She had a weak heart and high blood pressure and is believed to have suffered a seizure, toppling into the river. Dr. Young said no autopsy was necessary and no inquest would be held.

BORN IN MARITIMES

Mrs. Paisley, the former Grace Preece, was born in Marysville, N.B., daughter of the late Harry Preece and his wife, the former Edith Spence.

She and her husband moved to Peterborough from London, Ont., in January, and the new home they were building on Highway 28, opposite the Drive-In Theatre, was practically finished when her death occurred. She was a member of the Anglican Church.

Surviving besides her husband is one sister, Mrs. E. J. Woodcock, of Byron, Ont., just west of London.

The body, which was resting at the Nesbitt funeral home, has been taken to London for funeral service from the Millard-George funeral home Monday, at 2 p.m. Interment will be in Byron Anglican cemetery.

A Royal romance has no privacy. While motoring, and even while taking short walks together Princess Elizabeth and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten always were in the limelight.

ELIZABETH the Queen

X

Plenty of romances have been written about the loves of Princesses, but the settings are foreign and strange, and the Princesses are nothing at all like real Princesses.

The story of the factory girl who is loved by a Lord and becomes a Marchioness can hardly thrill a girl to whom Marchionesses must curtsy.

The love of a real Princess is important not only to herself and to the man she chooses, but also to millions of other people. It is an affair of State.

And yet, as we have seen, it can be truly a love affair. It certainly is so with Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

In the days when Princess Elizabeth first questioned me about love and marriage, there was no thought in anyone's mind that she would ever be married to the young Prince of Greece and Denmark, who could speak neither Greek nor Danish, but was known to be a first-class cricketer and a keen yachtsman.

That the Heiress to the Throne would stay unmarried was unthinkable. The first Queen Elizabeth went unwed throughout her life, but times had changed since then.

So our Princess Elizabeth in due course of events would marry—but whom? The field could not be wide. Only a few can be considered when the question of choosing a husband for a future Queen arises.

There was a great deal of guesswork and speculation, but from my own observation I must say now that no serious effort was made to choose a husband for Princess Elizabeth.

The choice was her own.

Naturally, as any girl growing into womanhood does, Queen Elizabeth often spoke to me of love and marriage. Far from avoiding the subject, I welcomed it.

time, long before her engagement, such a discussion would be of help to her only as it was then possible to talk of marriage as woman to woman detachedly and without the introduction of any personalities.

Whenever she asked me questions, I tried to answer as truthfully and clearly as possible. In her own circle, she had seen happy marriages, and she was anxious that her own marriage, when the time came, should follow this pattern.

"What Crawfie," she would ask, "makes a person fall in love?"

Then I would try to explain to her the deep common interests that can not only first draw a man and a woman together immediately, but hold them together for life.

"When you marry," I once told her, "you must not expect the honeymoon to last forever. Sooner or later you will meet the stresses and strains of everyday life. You must not expect your husband to be constantly at your side or always to receive from him the extravagant affection of the first few months.

"A man has his own men friends, hobbies, and interests in which you cannot and will not want to share. A man's life is built on the foundation of a happy marriage. A good wife realizes that and will help him every way she can."

The Princess listened attentively to these words. But she had read and heard there were homes without that atmosphere of love and affection which had surrounded her all her life.

✧ ✧ ✧

One morning I found her depressed. The newspapers were full of the divorce of an acquaintance of hers.

"Why do people do it, Crawfie?" she asked me. "How can they break up a home when there are children to consider?"

It was difficult for her, who had never seen anything but the perfect home, to realize that some personalities are incompatible, some homes unhappy.

But since there were such people, she asked, why did they get married in the first place?

She was deeply distressed by this. I tried to eplain to her that many marriages had been contracted in wartime, on impulse alone, without reasonable reflection, or true love.

I tried to explain that the shortage of houses made marriage difficult for some people. It is hard for a Princess brought up in a Palace with endless rooms to appreciate that. But she tried to.

We must remember now that a Royal Princess has nothing like the same freedom to fall in love and marry that most other girls have. Most of the romances she reads are about a world that she does not and can never know, about people of different backgrounds who meet and part, quarrel and make it up again, as a Princess, trained to self-control, cannot do.

When I hear of Hollywood stars who complain that successful marriage is impossible for people like themselves, "Living in a goldfish bowl" and never having a minute to themselves, I stop and think of the much greater trials Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip have had to face in their marriage.

Royal Landaus In Rear Of Coronation Procession

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—A family group certain to be in the front rank of public attention at the Coronation will be that of the widowed Duchess of Kent and her three children.

The tall, elegant Duchess, with her good looks and sense of fashion, has long been a popular favorite. In the Coronation procession at Westminster Abbey she will be seen with her elder son, 17-year-old Edward, Duke of Kent, and her only daughter, 16-year-old Princess Alexandra.

Her younger son, Prince Michael, 10, will be farther to the rear of the abbey procession. He will wear a kilt of Royal Stewart tar tan and the velvet and lace of full Scots dress.

IN ROYAL PURPLE

The Duchess will wear rich robes of royal purple, with a gleaming tiara on her smooth, dark hair. At her right hand will be the Duke of Kent, and at her left Princess Alexandra, already taller than her mother and considered likely to become just as imposing a figure in royal society.

The Duke of Kent, in the crimson robes of a royal duke, has a page to carry his train and a member of his household to carry his coronet. Princess Alexandra has a train-bearer and a lady-in-waiting carries her coronet. The Duchess' coronet will be carried by her comptroller, Philip Hay, in full court dress.

The Duchess and her children will be part of the royal group which is to assemble at Buckingham Palace for processional purposes.

First to leave will be the Princess Royal and the Duchess of Gloucester with Prince William and Prince Richard. (The Duke of Gloucester goes separately). The Kents follow in the next carriage, then comes the Earl and Countess of Athlone, Lady Patricia Ramsay and Princess Marie Louise. The last two carriages are those of the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret, the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh.

The Commonwealth and foreign prime ministers, followed by foreign royalty, leave the palace ahead of the royal landaus.

NOTABLE ROMANCE

The Duchess of Kent, in her open state landau, surrounded by the children of a marriage considered one of the royal romances of the century, will receive rousing cheers. This youthfully-attractive widow, with a grasp of politics, diplomacy and international affairs, has won steadfast regard throughout the country, though she had to break down some initial suspicion when she arrived in 1934 to marry the youngest son of the reigning monarch, George V.

Thousands will remember the captivating Greek princess, who walked so regally at the 1937 Coronation beside the tall, good-looking young husband she was later to lose in an air crash in Scotland in 1942.

This will be the first Coronation attended by her children, and for the shy 'teen-agers walking with them it will be something of an ordeal. Since they were born the Duchess has followed the ruling that her children be kept as much out of the public eye as possible.

Unfortunately, the death of his father put an early spotlight on the young Duke. Although, like his sister, he has not gone through the "coming out" process, he must even now fill the role of a royal duke. It is as such he will be seated with the Dukes of Edinburgh and Gloucester in Westminster Abbey. His first major role as a royal duke was in the funeral procession of George VI.

It is unlikely that either the Duke of Kent or Princess Alexandra will take much part in the round of social engagements scheduled for royal attendance after the Coronation. The Duchess of Kent will attend two state banquets at Buckingham Palace, the Coronation ball in the Royal Albert Hall and the dinner for Commonwealth and foreign diplomats arranged by Britain's foreign office, at Lancaster House.

GUEST OF HONOR

At the colonial ball in Grosvenor House June 9, funds from which go to the British Empire Society for the Blind, the Duchess will be guest of honor.

The Duke will return early to his school in Switzerland, and Alexandra will continue her studies under a governess at Coppins, their small, comfortable family home in Buckinghamshire. Prince Michael goes to boarding school nearby.

The heavy entertaining that automatically follows the "coming out" of sons and daughters of royal blood has resulted in the Duchess taking over a 15-room apartment in Kensington Palace, first London home she has contemplated since her husband's death.

It's not yet known when she will move in, but this royal palace of about 1,000 rooms, tucked sedately away amid the trees of Kensington Gardens, has always been linked with the name of Kent. It was the home of an earlier Duchess of Kent, mother of Queen Victoria.

Near neighbors of the Duchess in the palace will be the Earl of Athlone, one-time governor-general of Canada, and Countess of Athlone.

New C. O. Orders More Sport For Troops

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—Brig. J. V. Allard, recently-arrived commander of the 25th Canadian infantry brigade, has ordered a heavier emphasis on sport here.

In one of a series of conferences marking his assumption of command, Allard told unit welfare and sports officers, whom he called to his headquarters:

"One of the essentials in winning a war is care for the physical and moral welfare of our men. It is the responsibility of every officer to do this in whatever field he is engaged.

"Your responsibilities are not discharged unless you do as good a job in these matters as in anything else.

"Welfare is of vital importance and our policy is going to be to make sport a major recreation."

START TOURNAMENTS

He then ordered the officers to organize unit tournaments in a variety of sports, to culminate in a Dominion Day meet for the entire formation, with brigade championships at stake.

Ottawa is sending equipment for volleyball, basketball, baseball, badminton, deck tennis and horseshoes, as well as standard track and field equipment.

"There is to be a drive on sports in every unit," he ordered.

Bull-dozers are being loaned to 'doze out unit sportsgrounds. Each unit will have two—one at each of its rear headquarters. There also will be a brigade sports ground, where a brigade sports centre will be established.

TWO BRIGADE OFFICERS

Besides their own sports officers, detailed by units from their own strengths, units will be guided and co-ordinated by two brigade officers whose jobs will be exclusively connected with sports. They are Lieuts. Doug Scott of Toronto and Jack Wilder of Kingston, Ont.

Means of setting up prizes for the events, "so that they will mean something to the soldiers," are to be decided upon.

Allard told the officers he wanted them to become talent scouts as well.

They should encourage men with entertainment ability to rehearse and put together unit shows. He said the better entertainers might be assembled to put on a brigade show. If it looked feasible they might form a permanent brigade concert party.

PLAN LIBRARY

He also said a brigade mobile library would be formed. A caravan-type vehicle would be fitted up as a library, with an NCO in charge, and tour the brigade regularly with reading matter.

"The idea would be to work out an exchange system so that the books will circulate and all the men will have a chance to select books of their own choice," he said.

"We will have to improve the quality, too. I am greatly concerned with the type of books we seem to have been getting. We shall have to arrange for a supply of books which are not necessarily more serious, but perhaps less harmful."

While soldiers are adult men, he said, some books could hardly be considered suitable under circumstances which might cause them to "excite or frustrate" soldiers restricted to life in the bunkers for months on end.

"We can give the men some of the things they like," he concluded. "But giving them all the things they want doesn't necessarily mean they are being well looked after."

Rotary Holds Banquet For Stirling Midgets

STIRLING (ENS)—The Rotary Club entertained the midget hockey team at a banquet in the community hall.

The toast to the team was proposed by Mr. C. A. Wells, manager of the team. He praised the players for their good sportsmanship and congratulated them for going so far in the playoffs. Ross Parks, team captain, made a suitable reply and thanked the Rotarians for their interest.

Guest speaker was Albert "Toots" Holway of Belleville, former member of the Montreal Maroons in the National Hockey League.

Group championship crests were presented to the members of the team by D. Paterson, OMHA district convener.

Housing Co-operatives Aim At Home For Every Family

GRANBY, Que. (CP)—P. Horace Boivin, restless, energetic mayor of this bustling Eastern Townships city, is currently pushing a plan to provide every Granby family with its own home.

Mayor Boivin has actively participated in formation of four housing co-operatives, enlisted the backing of city council and now is getting Granby employers to co-operate in the plan.

The scheme already has produced concrete examples of its effectiveness—some families pay as little as $19.60 monthly for their home. Mayor Boivin estimates 59 per cent of Granbyites own their own homes. He is aiming at the record of Shreveport, La., where 96 per cent of the families own homes.

He wants the employers to put up the down payment on their employees' homes and then deduct the money from individual pay-cheques.

Originally, both employers and unions were against the scheme. Employers feared the workers would leave town before paying their debt while the unions didn't want their members to be tied to any company.

Mayor Boivin has overcome most of the arguments with a mortgage plan that enables the workers to withdraw at will and reduces employer risk to a minimum.

Mayor Boivin also helped get a three-per-cent rebate of the interest money from the provincial government for home-builders constructing three-bedroom houses. City council came through with a rebate on sewage and water rates for the first two years for co-operative members, and exempts them from sidewalk and roadbuilding charges.

The city is also issuing 6,000 trees to Granby home-builders. The co-operatives themselves can offer low-cost lots to members, having bought land before Granby's present real estate boom.

War Of Words Said Easing

LONDON (AP)—British newspapers say today the transatlantic war of words sparked by former prime minister Attlee's criticisms of U. S. policy appears to be easing off. But a third London daily devotes half its front page to a fresh barrage against Senator Joseph McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican.

The independent Times and the Conservative Daily Telegraph both report a slackening in Anglo-American tensions.

"The violent wind that has been blowing over Capitol Hill (in Washington) the last wo days seems to have passed on," comments the Times. The Telegraph says: "Slightly less volcanic fumes are emerging from the 'rift.'"

The Telegraph also declares the view seems to be prevailing in the U. S. that attacks on Britain are "playing the Kremlin's game."

But the mass circulation Daily Mirror still fumes over McCarthy's speech to the Senate Thursday in which he referred to Attlee as "comrade" and says the word was a "Communist term meaning fellow-Communist."

The Mirror, which described itself as an "independent newspaper of the left, prints photographs of what it says are letters from an American Legion post in Britain to its members which began with the salutation: "Dear Comrades." Recalling that McCarthy himself is a member of the American Legion, the Mirror asks:

"Would you call them Communists, Comrade McCarthy?"

TORNADO DEVASTATION—Twisted masses of wood, concrete, steel and tin are all that remain today of this downtown business section in Waco, Texas, after an awesome black cloud turned day into night and a violent tornado whipped a path of horror and destruction through the city. One of the worst twisters in Texas history, it toppled five-storey buildings in its fury, leaving scores of persons dead and more than 300 injured. U.S. Weather Bureau officials have issued a warning that northeast Texas, northwest Loisiana and southwest Arkansas face a new tornado threat.

Plan To Floodlight Mount In S. African Celebrations

By ASTLEY HAWKINS

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — South Africa's preparations for celebrating the Coronation include a plan to floodlight famous Table mountain, which dominates the the Cape Town skyline.

The 3,549-foot mountain with a flat top two miles long, was last floodlit a year ago for the 300th anniversary celebrations of the Dutch founding of the Cape settlement in April 1652.

Other celebrations will include parades, salutes, banquets, dances and special illuminations now being prepared in the executive capital, Pretoria, as well as Johannesburg, Cape Town and many smaller communities.

To the Coronation ceremonies in London, South Africa has sent a defence contingent of 67 officers and 72 other ranks with a police contingent of four officers and 36 other ranks.

South Africa's recently re-elected prime minister, Daniel Malan, will attend the Coronation with two other cabinet colleagues.

As a gesture to the English-speaking people of South Africa, which has an entirely Afrikander government, the chief executive of the predominantly English province of Natal, D. G. Shepstone, will go to the Coronation with the prime minister's party.

One conspicuous omission at Coronation is a South African naval vessel to join the warships of Commonwealth and foreign countries attending the Coronation naval review at Spithead June 15.

South Africa defence authorities said they found it "impracticable," since the largest ships in the small South African navy are destroyers and frigates.

The South Africa defence contingent, expected to be the tallest in the Coronation parade with the exception of British guardsmen, underwent special training before leaving for Britain.

South African police going to the Coronation have been lectured on everything from gold mining to Cape Province grapes so that they can answer questions about the country.

While the Coronation contingents are marching through London, taking part in Coronation parades at home will be some of the largest military demonstrations yet seen in the country. Naval ships will be decorated and flying displays will be given by the South Africa Air Force.

Plans for the illumination of Table mountain is part of a city plan for Coronation decorations.

To commemorate the Coronation, Johannesburg plans to build an old peoples' home and a tuberculosis sanitarium in addition to holding celebrations including a huge pageant, a Coronation fete and an Elizabeth ball.

Some Afrikanders, descendants of the early Dutch settlers, who want South Africa made a republic believe the country should break away from royal traditions, oppose in principle celebrating the Coronation.

But the Cape Town Afrikaans paper Die Burger noted recently that:

"We are courteous people and have regard for the feelings of non-republicans."

Violates Old Statute

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A 13-year-old boy was charged Friday with violating an 1872 California statute under which anybody engaging in a duel loses his right to vote. The youngster, Dennis Cook, was arrested for participating in a knife duel with Tony Sica, 15, who is in hospital with a stab wound near the heart. The law also carries a maximum of a year in prison.

McCarthy Wants Allies Pay More In Korea

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy fired another blast at United States allies today with a proposal aimed at making them take over more of the costs of the Korean war.

The Wisconsin Republican said he has instructed his staff to draft an amendment, to the pending state department appropriations bill, designed to pare the proposed $30,000,000 U.S. share of operating United Nations agencies.

As explained by McCarthy, who is engaged in a transatlantic word battle with British leaders, the amendment would:

1. Reduce the U.S. contributions for UN operating expenses to the percentage level of other countries participating in Korean war financing, and

2. Thereby induce other countries who are not—in McCarthy's view—contributing enough to the Korean war effort, to step up their support of regular UN activities as a sort of offset.

MIGHT GET CO-OPERATION

"We have been contributing 95 per cent of the money and men for the Korean war," McCarthy said in an interview. "If we cut our UN contributions to the five per cent the other nations have been putting up in Korea, maybe we can get a little more financial co-operation out of them."

The U.S. now is putting up 35 per cent of the cost of operating eight UN organizations, and also is contributing to 21 related international groups. The House of Representatives appropriations committee said in its report on the $1,143,000,000 state department bill that commitments had been made to cut future U.S. contributions to 33 1-3 per cent.

McCarthy's new move came as Senator H. Alexander Smith (Rep. N.J.), a foreign relations committee member, predicted the Communists eventually will accept the UN proposals for handling Korean prisoners of war and also "probably the unification of Korea."

But, Smith said:

"The final price will be admission of Red China to the United Nations and a seat on the security council.

'REAL DANGER'

"That is the real danger. Admission of Communist China to the UN would mean the eventual disappearance of all Asia behind the Iron Curtain."

McCarthy's Wisconsin Republican colleague, chairman Alexander Wiley of the Senate foreign relations committee, said this is no time for "hot-headed folks" to be running loose in Washington.

"I can remember when I was a boy how important it was to twist the lion's tail," Wiley said. "There were folks in those days who wanted to get into a scrap with Britain—hot-headed folks."

Smith said "the brotherhood of the British and American people is fundamental" to maintaining the peace of the world.

Senator Hubert Humphrey (Dem-Minn.) said the various statements of the transatlantic debate indicate to him there ought to be an immediate meeting of the free world's foreign ministers. Such a meeting, he said, should aim at "a new harmony which will place our minor disagreements in their proper perspective."

Foreign Policy Disagreement Divides Party

By TOM OCHILTREE

LONDON (AP) — A powerful group within Britain's Labor party said Friday the whole Socialist movement "is torn by incessant inner conflict on foreign policy."

The Socialist Union, a group which studies theoretical aspects of the British Labor movement, said the conflict arises because some sections of the party have a rosy, unreal view of Russia and because of the old Socialist uneasiness over allying Britain closely with capitalist America.

The union's statement was issued amid an acrid Anglo-American argument over a speech last Tuesday by former Prime Minister Clement Attlee, the party leader. Attlee charged then that some in the United States do not want peace in Korea.

LED INTO ILLUSIONS

The union maintained that the old Socialist conviction that a nation's policies are directly determined by its economic system has led the Labor party into these illusions.

"In America. . .private ownership prevailed; a wealthy capitalist class existed, which—by all the rules—must be imperialist and war mongering."

Despite all the evidence to the contrary since 1945 "if an understanding with Russia eluded us, there could be only one explanation. It must somehow be the fault of capitalist forces especially in the United States."

These statements were contained in a soul-searching pamphlet, Socialism and Foreign Policy, published by the union, a group of 120 prominent Labor party members including members of Parliament.

Strong-Arm Methods Used

TOKYO (AP)—Unless you're an expert at Judo or a millionaire itching for a spending spree, you'd better shy away from Shibuya the stronghold of Tokyo's strong-arm girls.

About 200 cabarets cluster within about 1,000 girls to go out to the streets and pick up guests—forcibly, if they must.

Each of the girls has a manual of field tactics giving instructions on how to get customers. It's not a gentle art. A sample text from the field manual:

"When you pick him up, crowd him from the right, seize his right arm, then yell and pull the stunned man up without allowing him to make the least resistance."

The captive "guests" usually are released after being squeezed of all their money. Sometimes watches, coats, hats and other valuables are held—supposedly to pay for their bills.

The bills are fantastic and are quickly swollen by the hungry and thirsty girls. It's not unusual for a "guest's" bill to reach $100 after an hour or so of this sort of thing.

USSR Guides Terrorists

LONDON (Reuters)—Communist terrorism in Malaya is directly guided from Moscow, the man who reorganized the Malayan police said Thursday night. Col. Arthur E. Young, London police official just back from 15 months as head of Malayan law enforcement units, said "there's not the slightest doubt that it came at the direction of Moscow."

Hydro Project In Quebec Opens July 18

QUEBEC (CP)—The Manicouagan river's 100,000 horse-power hydro-electric development in the St. Lawrence river area will be inaugurated July 18 by Premier Duplessis.

The development will help supply the power needed to keep up with Quebec's current rate of industrial expansion, Mr. Duplessis said at a press conference Friday, quoting experts as saying the province needs 300,000 additional horse-power annually.

Quebec, with the country's largest hydro-electric potential, already produces an estimated 7,000,000 horse-power, about half Canada's entire output.

Mr. Duplessis announced a hydro-electric power establishment will probably be built at Eaton Canyon, in Ungava. The development would serve the needs of the iron ore mining area on the Quebec-Labrador boundary.

Part of the electricity from the Manicouagan power house will be fed by underwater cables across the St. Lawrence river to Gaspe's copper mining development for about a year, until the nearby Bersimis river project is completed.

Then its output will serve the Baie Comeau area, a pulp and paper centre on the St. Lawrence north shore, 200 miles east of Quebec City.

Hydro projects completed or under construction include those of Riviere Ste. Marguerite, near Sept Iles, 20,000 horse-power; Kenogami river, 90,000 horse-power; Chute a La Savene and Chute au Diable, 500,000 horse-power; Beauharnois, 600,000 horse-power; Riviere Megiscane, in northwestern Quebec, 35,000 horse-power.

Modern Trends Threatening Irish Tinkers

By JAMES F. KING

DUBLIN (AP)—Modern trends are threatening the tinkers

A campaign is underway to clamp down on these knights of the road whose gay-colored carts and caravans have lent a touch of romance to the Irish countryside for centuries.

The tinkers—estimated to number 5,500 in the Irish republic, about half of them women—have their defenders, however, in the world outside their own.

Sometimes the tinkers are called gypsies. Such a careless reference however, can lead to a real feud. Gypsies high-hat the tinkers, the tinkers snub the gypsies, too, and don't mix with them—they say it's "bad luck."

READY FOR FIGHT

Tinkers — always ready for a drink or a fight—have different meanings to different people

Farmers denounce the tinkers, who live off the countryside and keep a close watch on their crops and cattle when they swarm near.

Poets and songsters see these lean men and women of the road as romantics. Playwright Justice Donagh MacDonagh once described them as "God's gentry;" Bryan MacMahon as "children of the rainbow."

Historians are not quite sure where the tinkers came from.

Some say they are the descendants of the armorers of the ancient Kings of Eireland who took a wandering when the kingly system broke down; others think of them as descendants of Reparees, the Robin Hoods of Ireland who waged war on foreign soldiery.

These nomads are versatile mystics and card sharks, healers, all-round odd-jobs men; and not beyond begging for a cup of "tay."

SECRET LANGUAGE

Among themselves they have their own secret language that's never been decoded by an outsider.

They marry young and live by a strict moral code. A married tinker woman may mix only with men-folk of her own tribe or her husband's relatives.

They have their own courts to deal with any breaches of the law —that is their own law for they don't recognize any other.

Any attempt to bring the tinkers into normal society is sure to meet opposition, however, from those who regard them as the last of romantic Ireland.

As one poet said: "Why cage a bird, why 'civilize' a tinker? Put them in houses and they'll die."

73 YEARS MARRIED—Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Brott, of Trout Creek, near North Bay, Ont., have celebrated their 73rd wedding anniversary to put them among the oldest living married couples in Canada. Mr. Brott is 91 and Mrs. Brott 88. They have 12 children, 14 grandchildren and 33 great-grandchildren. "I often laugh at some of the things we used to argue about," said Mrs. Brott.

UN, Mission Activity Similar, WMS Told

MILLBROOK—(ENS) — The WMS of St. Andrew's United Church met at the home of Mrs. Loftus Larmer. There was an attendance of 26.

The address was given by the Rev. Margaret Butler who discussed the relationship of the United Nations to the work done by missionary groups. She told of the organization and objects of the UN and what the responsibilities of its different departments were.

She told also of what Dr. Ralph Bunche had been able to accomplish in his work between the Arabs and Jews. The sending of food and clothing and other forms of relief to needy countries by the UN was just doing on a large scale what missionary societies did on a smaller one.

Miss Estella Hetherington, president, was in the chair. The program was under the direction of Mrs. Arthur Fallis, leader of Group E. Mrs. Fallis conducted the worship service, assisted by Mrs. Chester Fisher and Mrs. David Lunn. Mrs. William Buckham gave a vocal solo accompanied by Miss Augusta Clarry who was pianist for the meeting.

Two quilt tops, batting and lining were donated to the society by Miss Gertrude Clarry and by Mrs. Larmer. The supply committee made arrangements for quilting them.

Mrs. H. R. Edmunds reported that the 500 towels for the Red Cross which she had asked members of the society to help hem had been finished and shipped the Saturday after they had been received.

Mrs. Robert Holden and Miss Lulu Heard, who had been away for the winter months, were welcomed back. Homemade candy was passed during the social hour.

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP)—Mayor Aaron Horovitz remarked "it's not much, but at least it's not a deficit," when the auditor's statement revealed the city of Cornwall had a net surplus of shightly more than $3,000 in 1952. Operating surplus actually was about $14,000 but somewhat more than $10,000 was needed for cost of reassessment.

The motto of the Mission School was "Each one teach one," and inspired by this motto he went forth to teach others of God.

Queen On Visit To Suva To Accept Drink Of Kava

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

SUVA, Fiji (CP)—Queen Elizabeth II will take part in the ceremonial drinking of kava when she reaches Suva in December on her South Pacific tour.

Like most Europeans tasting kava for the first time she will probably find the muddy brown liquid tastes very much like soapy water.

The drink, made from yaquona root, is non-intoxicating. The ceremonial of drinking it is a central feature of most great occasions in the Fiji Islands, British colony in the South Pacific, and it will be the focal point of the greatest day the islands have known since the cession of Fiji to the British crown in 1874.

RIGHT ROYAL WELCOME

Conscious that Fiji will be the first Commonwealth call the Queen will make south of the equator on her coming tour, the Fijians have planned a welcome that will set New Zealand and Australia on their mettle.

According to a custom reserved only for a visiting paramount chief, a Fijian party will board the liner Gothic on its arrival and present the Queen with the largest whale's tooth to be found in the colony. The bushy-haired Fijians will be dressed in native costume and wearing Salusalus—garlands of deep-hued flowers.

The kava ceremony will take place after the Queen lands. Yaquona roots, ground to a powder, are used for the drink, but the mixing by tradition must be done in a huge wooden bowl in the Queen's presence.

A cup bearer will then offer her the drink in a polished coconut shell, which she will toss aside in the accepted fashion after she has drained its contents. Chanting to the beat of wooden drums will accompany the ceremony.

TRADITIONAL GIFTS

The ritual will end with the presentation to the Queen of enormous quantities of food and other gifts. A hundred pigs, some ready for eating and others alive, will be among the gifts. The Queen is at liberty to order the food aboard the Gothic, or to dispose of it in any way she thinks fit.

An unusual feature of the ceremonies will be the entry of women into the celebrations. Usually these are left to men, but because the visiting "paramount chief" is a woman, the women will be admitted to the ceremonial.

Fijians will flock to Suva for the celebrations from most of the 200 islands of the group. Many will travel by boat, but in these days when a network of air services is spreading out among the islands a considerable number of the chiefs and village leaders will travel to Suva by plane.

Rural School Board Takes On School Contract Expect To Save $38,000

BELLEVILLE (CP)—A rural school board has bobbed up with an idea to keep taxpayers reasonably happy by building a four-room school addition and paying for it all in one year.

That's what the school board members of rural school section No. 5 Thurlow township north of this eastern Ontario city are doing.

The estimated cost of a four-room addition to the consolidated school ran as high as $100,000, a figure the board could never hope to raise. Even by financing it over a 20-year period, the cost would have run another $60,000.

However, by being their own general contractors and letting sub contracts themselves, the board is going to get their addition for $62,500. They will get 72 per cent of this amount from the Ontario government and the remaining 28 per cent will come from a special 17-mill levy throughout the township.

"The department of education is watching our case very closely," said board chairman John R. Sproule, "and if everything turns out as we expect the result may be that school construction costs across the province will be cut materially."

Construction of the addition has already begun and plans call for it to be completed in time for the re-opening of classes next September.

Plans for the addition to the school were laid last January. When costs were finally decided upon, it was decided to pay the school sections share of $17,500 in one year.

The 17-mill rate was agreed upon and with an average assessment of about $1,000, it worked out to roughly $17 a taxpayer.

The four-room addition will be of two-storey style in brick with polished concrete floors downstairs and linoleum finish on the second floor. The classrooms will have open style closets and acoustic tile ceilings. Convector type radiators will heat the addition.

DOUKS ON MARCH — More than 60 youths of the Sons of Freedom branch of the Doukhobor sect marched through the main street of Nelson, B.C., and tied up traffic for more than an hour. They were eventually ushered out of the city by RCMP and city police, supported by fire trucks and citizens.

Demolition Work Begins On 'Vision Hill'

HEROLDSBACH, Germany (Reuters)—Believers cried "sacrilege" Friday as demolition teams went to work on "Vision Hill," where young children last year claimed they saw the Virgin Mary.

Hundreds of dismayed men and women fell to their knees in prayer as workmen started dismantling chapels, altars and hawkers' booths on the hill.

Police detachments guarded the workers from possible attacks by fanatics.

The Roman Catholic Church has refused to recognize the "miracle" and has excommunicated 20 persons concerned in promoting the affair. One of the excommunicated, an unfrocked priest, watched tearfully as the shrines were torn down.

Despite the church's warning, thousands of pilgrims last year trudged up the hill to worship, hoping to see the vision. Five open-air altars, a number of chapels and an illuminated statue of the Virgin were built.

Last February, after many citizens had complained, the local court demanded that all structures be pulled down.

We had a mad rush about 10.30 at night to get from our day coach to a sleeper that was put on, the conductor himself, with a little box lantern tied about his neck like a miner, joining us and helping with the baggage. Seemingly the Express from Paris, which our little train had linked up with, doesn't relish letting the day coach crowd frow Vienna disturb its dignity and as you can't walk from one car to another inside the train you have to take your chance on doing it outside and with luck the engineer hasn't bolted off in the meantime. We made it, but only just, and there is somewhere in Yugoslavia a conductor whom I should like to remember in my will and kiss on both cheeks. He didn't pause for a tip but raced back to his car even as the train was moving, leaving us only a deep smile on his dark-skinned face, the light of his lantern shining upon his very white teeth that had some empty places. Even in the rush when I glimpsed his need of dentistry I thought of the advice given me in Ottawa that there were dentists in Yugoslavia but one should take to them one's own materials!

A brisk shave in cold water before leaving the train next morning—and there was Belgrade. Cold hard straight buildings and drab streets, a striking lack of automobiles on the roads but lots of people often poorly dressed and some almost in rags, but the people wearing smiles and seemingly happy and friendly.

CHEAP FOOD

In these last few days I gather that the only thing Yugoslavs have lots of is food, and it is cheap. But the visitor must steer a careful course to avoid the unpasteurized dairy products, the meat is inclined to be pork or veal or lamb and that presented with a choice lot of fat and rich gravy which may seem better to the taste at first try than some hours later. Yugoslavs like fat, which is why you will see geese wandering in roadsides and in the villages tethered to the front doors like pets.

They balance against their rich dishes a plum brandy called Slivovice which no Canadian fire department would allow to be kept in frame buildings but which they like to drink here every hour on the hour. It is great stuff before breakfast, they say, and they drink it then. It has also been offered to me in the office of every politician or official I have visited and it is the drink they alternate with Turkish coffee as an excuse to indulge in their favorite national pastime: sitting at an open restaurant talking, talking, talking.

WINE PECULIAR

There's wine too, and they're proud of it and vineyards make up a good part of their mixed agriculture. But it is an acquired taste and I doubt if I have either the stomach or the time. Thus, since the Turkish coffee is syrupy-thick (though very good), and since milk is out of the question, and since a wise tourist tries to go easy on the water in strange countries—thus, as I was saying, there's a good chancec of my turning into a pot of tea. The Yugoslavs don't have much respect for tea and think it is a wishy washy sort of thing. Consequently they steep it double strength and hope that way to cover its weakness. But tea is tea and God bless those other colonies, India and Ceylon.

Which reminds be, it is tea-time. Gospodin Smith must now go out into the boulevards and choose the site of another effort to understand one word of Serbo-Croat. It will end up by my saying "tea," louder each time, until finally the waiter will decide that the only thing a mug like me would drink would be tea and he'll bring it, regretfully, but with a smile.

Teachers Decide Pinklist Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation Friday advised its 6,500 members not to take any teaching position in a Toronto high school.

A pink letter, traditional way of conveying such a decision, has been sent out and teachers who ignore it will be cut off from federation support.

The move is the latest in a two-year struggle between secondary school teachers and the Toronto board of education over a salary schedule. The board adopted a single salary schedule, which resulted in teachers being paid in accordance with their training, rather than whether they taught in public or secondary school.

Secondary school teachers say this destroys their right to negotiate independently with the board and ask for a parallel schedule.

Ship Hero's Body Found By Freighter

HOUGHTON, Mich. (AP)—The body of Arthur L. Morse, hero of the sinking of the freighter Henry Steinbrenner during a storm on Lake Superior Monday, was recovered Friday.

Morse, third assistant engineer, was from Michigan City, Ind.

Seventeen crew members lost their lives. Fourteen were rescued.

Sudbury Man Killed

TORONTO (CP)—C. H. Jenkins, 39, of Sudbury was killed Friday night when his car was crushed by an overturning truck near suburban Malton. Police said Armand Ferguson, 39, of Shelburne was driving towards an intersection with a load of eight tons. Ferguson said he saw the stop sign too late to pull up. He drove across and in applying the brakes, the truck overturned on to Jenkins' car.

Slowest Week On Toronto Stock Exchange

By HARRY KINGDON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

This was the slowest week of the year on the Toronto stock exchange.

Two days recorded lowest-of-the-year volumes and other days didn't rise much above them. Prices were generally weaker.

Lack of activity gave traders a chance to stand back and speculate on where the market might be going.

Few expected a major decline because, they said, business generally looks good for 1953. Personal expenditure is increasing and inventories on the retail, wholesale and manufacturing levels have fallen below their mid-1952 peaks.

BULLISH SIGNS

Signs from Korea that an armistice may be delayed were regarded as bullish by some observers. They reasoned that the market declined when peace in Korea seemed imminent; therefore, if peace is delayed, some of the market losses should be regained.

Some traders believe that increased trading volume on rising prices is usually a sign of investor confidence, and that increased volume on declining prices denotes lack of confidence. On this basis, the market had six "bad" days and four "good" days in the last two weeks.

Toronto and Montreal prices slipped Monday, but Montreal showed strength Tuesday while Toronto continued lower. Both headed lower again Wednesday. Toronto recovered Thursday, led by western oils, while Montreal prices turned mixed. Montreal gained Friday and Toronto was mixed.

SLIPPED BACK

New York started the week with an advance, but slipped back Tuesday and turned mixed Wednesday. Railroads led an advance for the rest of the week.

From Friday to Friday, the Toronto Stock Exchange indexes showed industrials down 245 at 307.69, golds down .53 at 78.77, base metals down 1.00 at 157.18 and western oils down .62 at 113.09.

In the Montreal averages, banks were up .67 at 33.08, utilities down .2 at 93.0, industrials down 2.0 at 186.5, combined down 1.8 at 155.3, papers up 3.43 at 661.09 and golds down .73 at 59.72.

In New York, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .40 cents at $110.20.

Wandering Budgie

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP)—A blue budgerigar which was in RCMP custody at Osweken since it was found about a week previously was claimed by its owner. The bird got out by an open door and was a mile away when found.

Ex-Teamster Given $7,000 Damages

KITCHENER (CP)—Mr. Justice W. F. Schroeder Friday awarded $7,000 damages to Harry Graham of Preston, 70-year-old former teamster, in a Supreme Court judgment.

Nearly $15,000 was sought in an action arising from an accident in which Mr. Graham's team became frightened by a tractor-trailer owned and operated by the defendants, K. and E. Transport Limited and Joseph Elchert of Waterloo, driver.

Mr. Graham testified the truck was driven "right against the wagon" causing the horses to bolt. His hip was fractured.

People who appreciate fine cars are turning to Monarch

"It didn't take long to convince me..."

"Some of us were talking cars the other day and Doctor Harrison said he was sold on Monarch. I figured a doctor would be pretty particular about the car he drove—so much depends on it. Anyway, I took the hint and arranged with our local dealer to take me out in a Monarch. It didn't take long to convince me—and there's a Monarch in our garage now. It's a beautiful looking car, no doubt about it. It's got more genuine style than any car I've ever driven—and that goes for the interior as well. You can tell by the way people look at it well, this Monarch has a 125-Hp. V-8 that's just about the smoothest thing they ever put under a hood. Lucky thing we had that talk about cars—and I took the cue from my doctor's suggestion."

The same thing could happen to you . . . why not see your Monarch dealer today?

Automatic Transmission, Overdrive, white sidewall tires and fender skirts optional at extra cost when available.

Graduating Nurses Told To See Life As A Whole

St. Peter's School auditorium was filled to capacity Friday afternoon for the 44th commencement exercises of the St. Joseph Hospital School of Nursing.

The Most Rev. Gerald Berry, Bishop of Peterborough, presented 33 graduates with their diplomas at the end of the exercises.

"You have been most closely apprenticed to life in your nursing training and therefore are mature beyond your years," the Rev. J. E. McGuigan, rector of the Jesuit Seminary, Toronto, said in his address to the graduates.

"The danger you must always watch is that through your continual exposure to suffering you may fail to see life steadily and as a whole," he continued. "You may fail to retain the proper perspective of suffering and forget the redemptive value of pain.

"Beware of the two extremes of continual association with suffering—too much sentimentality or too much callousness."

TWO NEW DEPARTMENTS

The chairman for the afternoon was Dr. J. R. Epping, who welcomed the parents and friends of the graduates. He explained that this was "the first graduation exercises for two departments of the school—the School of X-Ray Technology, and the School of Medical Record Library Science.

Canadian Woman Living In Germany Has Not Met Unfriendly German

SASKATOON (CP)—A former Saskatoon woman, now in Germany with her husband, a sergeant in the RCAF, says the German people like Canadians and are glad they are in Germany.

Mrs. R. M. Rowatt, now living at Zweibrucken, base of No. 3 fighter wing, the first Canadian NATO base in Germany, writes that 80 to 85 per cent of the town was destroyed in the last days of the war by Allied air raids.

However, she says she has yet to meet an unfriendly German.

Everywhere you look you see ruins, says Mrs. Rowatt. In the heart of the town lie the ruins of a duke's mansion. The townspeople have contributed towards its rebuilding.

Workmen are busy everywhere, sorting bricks from the rubble. The good brick is saved for construction and the other is ground down for cement.

Zweibrucken's main shopping district has been rebuilt. All new buildings are red and ugly in shape but the interiors are nicely finished.

Housing is still short in Zweibrucken. New suites are rented months before their completion.

Mrs. Rowatt says Canadians have no trouble obtaining accommodation, however, as they are in a position to pay higher rents. Double rent for a very large room costs about $20 a month.

Mrs. Rowatt writes that German currency is easy to understand and the German merchants are very scrupulous in their dealings. The big stumbling block is the language. However, Mrs. Rowatt says great things can be accomplished with few words and expressive gesticulating.

The climax for the graduates of St. Joseph's School of Nursing was a graduation dance Friday evening following the commencement exercises in the afternoon and given for the nurses by the Sisters at the hospital.

Refreshments were served during the evening.

The dance was arranged by Mrs. Grace Poole, assisted by Mrs. Anglesey, Mrs. B. Monaghan, Mrs. James Moher, Mrs. C. F. Cahill and Mrs. M. Armitage.

Mary Hamilton Wed In Toronto

Miss Mary Jean Hamilton, formerly of Peterborough and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hamilton of Toronto, became the bride recently of Bartlett Bidwell Rombough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl B. Rombough in Victoria Presbyterian Church with the Rev. H. Douglas officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in Chantilly lace and net over satin. A short round-collared jacket covered her strapless ballerina gown, the skirt of which was scalloped in a redingote effect. She carried a cascade of Sweetheart roses.

Miss Patricia Hamilton was bridesmaid for her cousin. She was gowned in chartreuse taffeta, styled with an apron effect, ballerina length skirt, and topped by a brief bolero. She carried coral roses.

Groomsman was Mr. Ross Phillips and the ushers were Mr. Al Remfert and Mr. Bob Green.

The bride's mother receiving at Kilcooley Gardens, chose tan crepe with white accessories. The groom's mother assisted in rose with navy accessories.

Afterward the couple left for Calgary, Alta., where they will make their home.

ON HER VACATION, our girl literally lives from her suitcase. From four outfits she has contrived an entire vacation wardrobe, enough changes to see her through a two-week period. Wrap-around skirt (left) whisks on in a moment to cover bare legs. It's worn here with cotton blouse and shorts for active sports. Pants are paired (left centre) with two jersey triangles tied into surplice blouse. Bare-top blouse and full skirt (right centre) for early evening can also be worn with cover-up bolero for daytime. Suit (right) is a medium-toned neutral color that conceals road dust. It's worn with print blouse and small hat that packs flat, reverses for color change and can be worn in several ways. She made most of the clothes herself.

Four-Costume Wardrobe Sfices For Travelling

It's simple enough to plan a travel wardrobe on paper. That [illegible]y, it looks good. Workable and efficient but pretty, too.

In actual experience, what looks fine on paper may not look so well coming out of a suitcase. It may prove that there's too much of one thing and not enough of another. It might be you find yourself well-stocked with daytime clothes and light on party wear with the invitations coming in.

The solution? Either stay in your room and sulk or rush out and buy something to wear. Neither is really a solution and neither will make a woman happy.

Knowing that travel produces clothes problems in fashion as well as in the actual packing, we turned for an opinion to a travel expert who covers many thousands of miles each year by car. She agrees that a travel wardrobe should be chic and efficient as well as [illegible] free.

Her solution lies in a four-costume wardrobe that you can put into one suitcase when you take to the road. From it, you can evolve a closet full of clothes.

This wardrobe includes a well-cut travel suit, a two-piece dress adaptable to day or night wear, a three-piece, spectator sports ensemble and a rugged-life costume that could include blouse, shorts and pedal pushers.

To these basics, you can add more by doing fashion tricks with triangles of tubular silf or wool jersey. These will need no fitting and pack flat in a suitcase. And you can dress the entire wardrobe either up or down through your particular choice of accessories.

Don't forget to allow room for lingerie, rainwear, a sweater and a bathing suit. There's a free booklet to guide you in deciding just what to take and what to leave at home. And it advises against taking along twice as many clothes as you use but only half as many as you need.

DOROTHY DIX:

Mother Lets Home Slip Won't Change Girl Told

DEAR MISS DIX: A few years ago my parents bought a beautiful, expensive house. Outside it is lovely, but inside it is untidy and poorly furnished. My parents are wonderful people. Mom is working to help pay for the house, and she's too easy-going with the other children. I'm 15, the oldest of four. She doesn't make the youngsters put their things away, or help clean the place. We have none of the accessories like curtains and lamps that help make a house a home.

UNHAPPY SALLY

TEEN-AGE SUPERVISION

ANSWER: Your mother is certainly making a big mistake in her laxity, but it's doubtful if she'll change fundamentally at this stage It would seem that the problem is up to you, as the most interested party.

There's lots you can do to make the house attractive. First, if your mother will put you in charge of the other youngsters while she's at work, I'm sure you can do a better job with them than she has done. If there's a domestic science teacher at your school, get her help in planning a decorating program for the house. You can make curtains—after wheedling the money for material from your mother—and you could start a program of order among the children. Mom will have to back you on this, but if you convince her of your unhappiness, that a pleasant home will make a big difference in the family's life, she should be co-operative. The youngsters aren't babies, and they, too, should begin to take pride in their home. As a reward for helping you, let them have little parties occasionally. Learning to be gracious little hosts or hostesses should give them an incentive to do something to provide the right surroundings for entertaining. For ideas, consuult the women's magazines, as well as the teen-age publications, which are full of decorative hints.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am in the eighth grade of public school. My classmates and I would prefer to forego the traditional white graduation dresses in favor of pastels, which would be more serviceable to us later on. Should we bring the matter to the principal's attention?

DOLLY

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Since white is so generally accepted as a graduation color, you might have trouble persuading your principal to agree to your suggestion. It might be easier to try for caps and gowns, which can be rented quite reasonably. Their use is becoming quite popular today, since so many girls share your views on the impracticability of white dresses.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My steady boy friend refuses to take me to the Junior Prom because he is six feet, four inches tall. I am only five-eight. He told me to go with someone else, but I won't.

G. S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your friend is being rather ridiculous. His refusal to take you reflects an indifference not to be explained on the matter of height alone. If he remains so unreasonable, I think you should go with someone else, not only to the prom, but for keeps.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: The girl I plan to marry tells me one story of her activities, then a chance conversation reveals she did something else. I am losing confidence in her. Although I cannot prove she dates other men, I suspect that she does. Incidentally, I have willed her half my property.

R. L.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You are fundamentally a jealous and suspicious person, which is probably why the girl doesn't confide in you. Trying to win her confidence by willing property to her won't help. Your own mind needs a thorough overhauling to permit you to see things in better perspective.

Readers' Saturday Column by Mary Moore

QUESTION: . . you mentioned wheat germ. I would like to know how to use it. I was invited to drive to Florida, and have put on some excess weight mostly around the waist-line . . do you know an exercise that would help correct this . . I am cutting down on food intake but cannot take as many fruits and vegetables as I would like as I have colitis. I do use some. I do the exercises you recommended for round shoulders. MRS. J. D. McN.

ANSWER: Use wheat germ in all cooked cereals; in cookies calling for nuts and fruits; in whole wheat or grahambread or any recipes calling for whole wheat or graham flour. When making graham cracker crust for pies add ¼ cup wheat germ.

See letter below from 73-year-old lady for exercises. My favorite waist-line reducing exercise is to stretch arms far above head and bend sideways as far as possible—both sides 25 times, at full stretch, twice a day.

LETTER: Thank you so much for the brown bread recipe . . regarding my exercises (requested by EMEM) I have a winter and summer schedule. Winter: Hips: Lie on the floor first on the right side swinging the legs as far apart as possible for from 50 to 125 swings, then reverse. For the firming of abdominal muscles bend forward bringing hands as near floor as possible then reach up bringing the hnds behind the neck and arching the back as much as possible so the pull on the tummy muscles can be felt. Owing to my age (73) I don't attempt anything too strenuous. My summer schedule will no doubt cause you a smile. It consists chiefly of biking, gardening and swimming, all of which I am most proficient at performing. If you would like a lesson in any of these I would be pleased to oblige.

I have used a number of your recipes lately and found them very good. The cottage cheese salad and barbecued spareribs were delicious. Mrs. W. G. G.

ANSWER: I bow a hundred times straight from the hips in obeisance to you. I only hope I am as active as you are when I'm your age. Thanks for your letter and each day and have tried some of your recipes which have turned out well. I was especially interested in your column where you mention seeing heavily packed food baskets at the shops with the food value in them. I too have noticed that and wondered about it. . . you mention bags of wheat germ. Where can I buy it?

Clarice H.

ANSWER: Please send stamped envelope for name of the large Canadian-owned groceteria selling fresh wheat germ at 11 cents per pound. Remember to repeat your question.

QUESTION: . . please give recipes for dandelion wine and choke cherry wine (not vinegar), both by fermentation. Lorraine C.

ANSWER: I hope you have seen the recipes for dandelion wine which have appeared recently.

CHOKE CHERRY WINE

Wash and stem 24 lbs. choke cherries. Bruise them with wire potato masher but leave stones whole. Let stand 24 hours. Strain through jelly bag and to each quart of juice add 2 cups sugar and let stand another 24 hours. Pour into clean wine cask and let stand until fermentation ceases, which will take 2 or 3 weeks, then bung it closely and let stand 6 months, at end of which time bottle it.

I am no wine expert but this recipe comes from an experienced homemade wine maker.

QUESTION: . . I would like to know how to make sauteed carrot and apple slices . . these were given on menu that we have to cater to . . MRS. M. A. B.

ANSWER: Sauteed means fried. Carrots should be parboiled, sliced, until not quite tender, then well-drained and gently fried in butter until pale gold, then salted and peppered and, if desired, served with chopped parsley sprinkled over. Apples are cored, but not pared, then sliced ¾-inch thick, lightly dusted with a ½ and ½ mixture flour and powdered sugar, and gently fried in butter until not quite tender. If you allow them to become tender they will break when handled.

Two WI's To Hear Cancer Talk

KEENE—(ENS) — The Women's Institute met with the president, Mrs. Maloney in the chair.

The meeting opened with the singing of the Ode, followed by repeating the Creed. The treasurer's report showed a balance of $115.14.

It was agreed to put the names of all the members in a hat and one drawn at each meeting to take care of current events for the following meeting. The treasurer, Mrs. Tuthill, was given the key to the Institute room and is to be responsible for renting it and collecting rentals.

Reports from standing committees were discussed and the secretary is to contact Mrs. H. G. Digweed to find out to whom the reports are to be sent, and to see that they are sent two weeks before the district convention, June 9.

It was decided to have Bill Wood put in two plugs in the Institute room, one to be heavy duty for the electric kettle. Mrs. Wismer was appointed to contact him.

It was agreed that money from the recital last year should be spent on four screens and one screen door for the hall. The hobby basket for the July meeting was discussed and it was decided that the assistant convener for that meeting, Mrs. H. McPhee, be responsible for organizing and looking after that sale. Mrs. Wismer offered to send sympathy cards to Mrs. E. Doris and Mrs. J. Bolin on behalf of the W.I.

A letter from Mrs. Fred Neilson, secretary of Westwood WI, was read, accepting the invitation of the Keene WI, to join them in their meeting June 3, when Mrs. Maurice Holt of the Canadian Cancer Society will be guest speaker and show slides of their work.

The exhibtion list from Mrs. Digweed was to be passed on to Mrs. H. McFarlane convener of the committee to look into the possibility of making an entry at the Peterborough Exhibition. Mrs. J. McFarlane and Mrs. W. Drummond are to be her assistants.

Mrs. A. Eason and Mrs. R. Wood were appointed as an entertainment committee and are to choose two or three more members. A map of the community park was displayed by Mrs. George Hawkes, who is to find out the cost of hard maple trees and crimson king maple.

Plane Landing Or Buzzing Still Questioned

The two passengers in a Rockland Airways float-plane that crashed into 30 foot-high hydro wires on Stony Lake, July 30, 1951, were recalled to the witness box Friday afternoon to swear that the pilot did not attempt to dive at or scare an American tourist who was cruising along in a motor-boat.

Evidence in the three-day trial was all in shortly after 5 p.m. Friday and arguments of opposing counsel will be heard Wednesday morning by Mr. Justic McLennan who is presiding at the non jury sittings of the Supreme Court.

Rockland Airways—owned by the pilot, Tom Mathias and George A. Stephens, a retired Anstruther lumberman—are suing Oscar B. MacMillan and his wife, Iva, for $7,502 and costs, to recover damages for loss of their aircraft. Mr. and Mrs. MacMillan own Lindsay Island which is some 350 feet north of the south shore of Stony lake and a mile west of McCracken's Landing.

The MacMillans had the hydro wires installed in the spring of 1950. Rockland Airways, the plaintiffs, say that erection of the hydro wires from the mainland to the island was illegal; that the MacMillans by doing so had committed a public nuisance; that, in effect, they were blocking a navigable body of water; and that they had neither asked for nor received federal permission to put up the wires.

The MacMillans counter with the charge that Mathias was low flying and "buzzing the area", and he happened to forget that the wires were there and crashed into them. As they see it, the accident was his own fault.

DIDN'T KNOW

Mathias, a veteran pilot who had never had an accident before, said he knew that similar hydro wires stretched from the mainland to nearby Davis Island, but he didn't know about the installation at Lindsay Island.

Two of the defendants' witnesses claimed otherwise. They said that as Mathias was being helped out of the water after the crash he was asked by Russell Carveth, boat livery operator, what had happened.

"I forgot those wires were there," Mathias was reported to have said.

George Thomas, a Canton, Ohio juke box operator, was the nearest person to the crash. He was still indignant at the memory as he gave his evidence and declared that the pilot "was either trying to give me a good scare or run me down".

He had seen the float-plane zooming around the area and as he started back through the channel to take some ice-cold soft drinks to his wife, who was sunning herself on Rock Island, he saw the plane again. It was coming down and seemed pointed straight at him.

"I turned to the left and the plane dipped its wings, following me; I turned to right, and it then I turned left again and the plane passed overhead."

Thomas testified that he was unable to judge how low the plane was when it passed over his head because he ducked.

Almost immediately after this incident, imagined or real, the aircraft flew into the low-lying wires (Thomas said they stretched with the impact).

CRASHED ON ROCK

The aircraft nosed over and crashed into the channel on a sloping shelf of rock.

Mathias was thrown clear through the windscreen of the aircraft. The two passengers, Orville Braden and Kenneth Wyatt, were temporarily trapped but managed to free themselves.

Thomas said he turned his 10 H.P. outboard around and went back to the crash. He was only 30 yards away when he turned after the crash.

"I saw Mathias in the water; he was starting to swim back to the plane; Iasked him if he wanted to get into the boat and he said 'No'. I asked him if there way anybody in the plane and he said 'Yes'."

Russell Carveth, the boat-livery operator, then came to the scene in his outboard motor. Thomas related this conversation:

"What happened?" asked Russell

"I forgot those wires were there," Mathias answered.

Carveth corroborated this statement by Mathias when he entered the witness box.

In cross-examination Alex Elliott, QC, counsel for Rockland Airways, gave Carveth a severe grilling. At a previous trial Carveth didn't quote Mathias as saying he "forgot" the wire. Carveth's words were "they (i.e. the plane's occupants) said they didn't see the wires and that was all that was said".

Carveth said he was confused at the first hearing and Mathias did use the word "forget".

BOTH INJURED

Both Mathias and Wyatt were injured in the crash, though not seriously. Braden, who was riding in the rear seat of the four-passenger float-plane, was not injured. The two passengers, Braden and Wyatt, were recalled to the witness box Friday. They said Mathias didn't fly tree-top level and his approach, just before the collision with the wires, was normal. He didn't try to chase or scare Thomas in the boat.

During the three-day trial members of the Peterborough Bar filed in as time would permit to hear the evidence. No matter which way the decision goes the case will make legal history.

There are two particularly tricky issues that have to be settled: whether the channel between Lindsay Island and the southern shore of the lake is a navigable body of water, and whether the wires are a public nuisance.

Mr. Elliott, Rockland Airways' counsel is relying heavily on the Navigable Waters Protection Act. Besides deciding if the channel is a navigable body of water as set forth in the Act, Mr. Justice McLennan must decide if the Fairchild aircraft which crashed could be considered a "vessel". Plaintiffs claim that their float-plane was making a normal landing in a navigable body of water when it struck the wires.

HISTORY OF SYSTEM

Mr. Elliott got Thomas Ryan, superintendent of engineering, Trent Canal, to outline the history, past and present, of marine navigation on Stony lake. More specifically he endeavored to show that boats — outboard, inboard, cruisers and sailing craft—can and do use the channel.

T. J. Carley, QC, counsel for the MacMillans, endeavored to show that the channel is full of rock shoals, stumps and shallow patches which make navigation with larger craft—sailboats and large cruisers, tugs, etc.—navigation is impossible, he contended.

Mr. Carley, who is being assisted by Robert Carley, also filed a copy of the official Air Regulations, the relevant section being the one dealing with landing an aircraft at other than a recognized airport.

Mathias admitted he had never landed in the channel before but he said that because of the direction of the wind it was the only logical choice when his destination was McCracken's Landing.

Meanwhile opposing counsel are preparing their final arguments. Mr. Justice McLennan, presiding at the two-week sittings, will hear some divorce cases Tuesday afternoon. And he will hear the arguments Wednesday morning.

There will be no Supreme Court on Monday, the 18th.

IT IS BETTER to encourage small boys to climb carefully than prohibit all "high adventure."

For Parents Only

Giving Too Much Direction In Children's Activities

BY NANCY CLEAVER

"Do this, Junior!" Many times a day Mother gives her son explicit directions. If he is a preschool youngster, she may issue far more orders than he actually needs. When Junior receives a constant stream of commands, if he is a strong minded youngster, he is apt to turn a "deaf ear" to his mother's guidance.

The school age child is rebellious about always being told to do things. "Why are you never in sight?" an irate Mother asked her eleven-year-old daughter. "Because you always have something for me to do whenever you see me," the girl replied with unexpected frankness. No wonder she did not seek her mother's companionship!

TOO MUCH DIRECTION

Children do need a good deal of direction in their activities. Only through their own experience will they acquire knowledge and learn new skills. Mary learns to count, not by hearing her mother repeat "one, two, three" but by counting articles herself. Tommy discovers how to lace his shoes, not by watching his parent do them up, but by struggling with his own laces. Children need supervision by an adult when they are first learning to play with each other—otherwise a two-year-old may give another small child a resounding whack over the head with a toy shovel.

In directing a child, a parent must always keep in mind that the goal of child training is not just a "good" child in the present. Mothers and fathers are trying to help their child to become a self-disciplined adult who will take responsibility for his own actions and exert wise direction in what he chooses to do. Small boys just will climb trees and roofs and it is more to the point to encourage them to watch their footing and be careful not to fall than to prohibit all exciting excursions.

FEAR OF PUNISHMENT

Methods of directing their children. Some put their faith in strict and sometimes severe punishment. There is little doubt that much mental illness in adult life can be traced back to the too great use of fear of punishment as a "Big Stick" held over a child by an adult in authority. A child should not be scared into being good by threats of a whipping or a bogey-man!

An ineffective method of control is deceiving a child,—because every child needs the security which comes from knowing that his parent is one in whom he can have faith, confidence and trust. Rewards and bribes have the distinct disadvantage that a bright child is apt to hold out for a bigger reward, a better bribe each time. Blackmail is not just reserved for grown-ups. Reasoning, like the river, can go "on and on forever", is also a poor way to control a child in a situation where obedience is essential.

Control of a small child by a parent cannot be maintained by an adult who cannot say "no" because he is afraid to make a decision and see to it that the child follows it. A command should never be given unless it is necessary. Neither should a parent ever "leave himself out on a limb" by giving an order which he cannot see to it that the child carries out. Getting rattled, or angry or unloving are all mistakes in control. After all "the ruler must be able to rule himself." The parent must have a mixture of decision and authority, along with a serenity of spirit. Children with few exceptions, respond to parents expecting that they will conform to a reasonable behaviour requirement.

Woman Acquitted Of $400 Theft

MONTREAL (CP)—Mrs. Edna Casselman, 22, of Montreal was acquitted Friday of theft of $400 in February, 1952, from A. S. Armstrong of Brockville.

Armstrong, only witness heard for the prosecution, said the woman took the money while they were drinking in a hotel here. Mrs. Casselman denied the charge and Judge Irenee Lagarde ruled there was insufficient evidence for a conviction.

Quit Torch Commando

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — The Torch Commando—active opponent of Prime Minister Daniel Malan—appears to be coming apart at the seams. Several of its key leaders resigned.

Among those who quit the veteran's movement, dedicated to battle the policies of Malan's Nationalist regime, were Nicholas de Wet, former chief justice of South Africa, and Gen. George Brink, commander of Union forces in North Africa during the Second World War.

Film Industry Moves Closer To All-Color

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Movies are looking rosier in Hollywood these days, but that doesn't mean that business is on the upswing. It's just that the film industry is moving closer to an all-color output.

All signs point to color. Observers note there will be a paltry nine feature films shooting in town next week. That's the lowest figure since anyone can remember. Production will doubtless pick up a bit, but Hollywood may never again see the fat shooting schedules of the lush days.

The new-dimensional pictures appear to have more staying power than the flat-screen films. Cinerama may have a two-year run in New York. "House of Wax" is playing extra weeks in all locations. Such films as "The Robe" will probably have runs of many months.

MAKE FEWER

Since pictures can be played longer, fewer will be made. And it is logical that most if not all of those will be in color.

Color advocates argue this way: TV is the movie industry's biggest competitor for the public's interest. Since TV cannot yet offer color, the films should give it to the public.

The new techniques are most effective in color. The aim of 3-D pictures is the illusion of reality. The stereo effect gives the depth, but color is also necessary—So the viewers will seem to see life as it really is.

The wide-screen methods also aim at reality, for which color is necessary. They also feature scenes of great scope, action and beauty. Color is an essential element in the kind of spectacle which the wide screens will offer.

We may yet see the day when the black-and-white movie is as outdated as the silent film.

Niagara Falls Repair Job Will Cost $17,536,000

OTTAWA (CP)—The international joint commission has recommended development of a $17,536,000 repair job to preserve the scenic beauty of Niagara Falls, the external affairs department announced Friday.

The recommendation was made in a joint report to the governments of Canada and the United States, following a two-year study of the corroding crestline by commission engineers.

The commission suggested that the repair job be divided between the two countries in such a way that each country completes the work required within its national boundaries. Costs would be divided equally between the two countries.

The repair job, to be developed during a four-year period, would include:

1. Construction of a $14,594,000 weir about a mile above the Horseshoe Falls scenic portion of Niagara. The weir would be about 20 feet wide and about 1,550 feet long. It would have movable sluice gates.

2. A $1,582,000 excavation and fill-in job in the cascades on the Canadian flank of Horseshoe Falls.

3. A $1,360,000 excavation and fill-in job in the cascades on the Goat Island flank of the Horseshoe Falls. Goat Island is located at the edge of the crestline on the American side of Horseshoe Falls.

The commission suggested that the two governments establish a control board to supervise operation of the proposed weir or control structure in the water above the falls. The board would ensure that the control structure accomplishes its intended purpose and that the levels of the Niagara river and Lake Erie are not adversely affected.

Engineering studies were launched after officials expressed concern over the way the pressure of the water, particularly in the centre of the Horseshoe Falls, was knocking out chunks of the crestline.

The commission estimated that the new works will cost about $100,000 a year to maintain.

Had No Profit On Land Sale

TORONTO (CP)—Highways Minister Doucett Friday said the Ontario government made no profit on the sale of 20 acres of land adjacent to de Havilland Aircraft of Canada Limited in suburban North York.

It was reported earlier this week that the province made $300,000 profit on the land, which the province bought in 1946 for $100,000 resold this month to the federal government for $400,000.

"After the land was purchased the province expended many times that amount in various improvements on the buildings," said Mr. Doucett in a statement. "In due course, it is true, the property was resold as stated. But just as the land and buildings' purchase price was no steal in 1946, no profit was made by Ontario in reselling it for $400,000."

Much Of What Paul Wrote Has Been Misunderstood

read the Epistles of St. Paul is just to read them. But it is not as simple as that.

Peter, who commended the wisdom of "our beloved brother Paul" (II Peter 3:15, 16), also said that in Paul's Epistles were "some things hard to be understood," and such misunderstanding, he aded, might have serious consequences.

As a mater of fact much that Paul wrote has been misunderstood, both in letter and in spirit. Paul was supremely a great apostle of divine and brotherly love. Yet much that he wrote has been made the occasion of bitter controversies in which there has been little of brotherly love or understanding.

Insofar as Christian doctrine is concerned, and especially the doctrine of the Atonement, I think one great source of misunderstanding is in the failure to always recognize to whom Paul is addressing himself and what is the nature and purpose of his argument.

A part of his purpose, especially in the Epistle to the Romans, was to interpret Christian truth in relation to ideas and rites deeply embedded in Old Testament religion. Among these ideas was that of the Scapegoat. His was the conception that sin could not be forgiven unless someone bore the penalty and suffered for it. There was also an insistence on the need for sacrifice and appeasement.

53:6? Great Old Testament saints and prophets were somewhat at variance with the prevailing ideas of sacrifice and appeasement in proclaiming that "The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit; a broken and a contrite heart, O God, Thou wilt note despise." They even insisted that outward sacrifices on the altar were in vain unless there was the altar in the heart (Amos 5:21, 22).

But Paul went considerably beyond this. To those who thought a sacrifice was needed before God could forgive sin, Paul said that Christ is the sacrifice. But not, as you may think, a Christ being punished for sin. On the contrary "God was in Christ, reconciling the world unto Himself" (II Corinthians 5:19). It was man, not God, who nailed Jesus to the cross.

I think two major suggestions may be made concerning the reading of Paul's Epistles. Much light will be thrown on hem by constant reference to Paul's travels and the events recorded in the Book of the Acts.

And, while it is not so necessary for understanding and interpretation, I think that much additional interest is to be found by reading in encyclopedias, Bible dictionaries, or in other sources, the often very vivid and graphic descriptions of the areas and cties that Paul visited in his journeys and in his founding of churches.

Hard To Decide Who'll Build Niagara Project

WASHINGTON (AP)—A congressional committee found itself Friday in the difficult position of having to decide whether private enterprise, New York state or the federal government should build new hydro-electric facilities at Niagara Falls.

The committee heard no arguments that the estimated $400,000,000 project—to triple Niagara's present power output—should not be built.

The only question was who shall build the project?

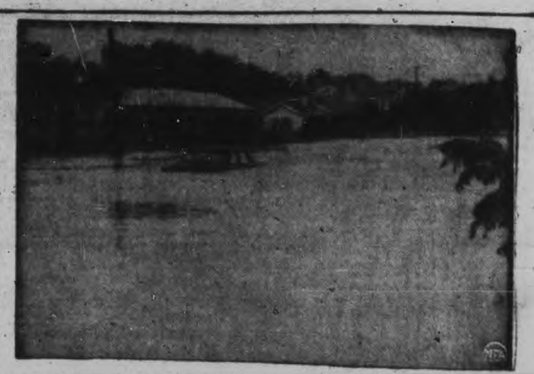
John E. Burton of the power authority of New York state said his group, if allowed to construct the project, would not be in competition with private industry. He said the authority would put Niagara's power into the transmission systems of the private companies in New York at cost.

Senator Homer Capehart (Rep. Ind.), supporting the private enterprise approach, said: "Here is a situation where private industry is willing to expand existing facilities that it pioneered 80 years ago. They are ready, willing and able to do so. They should be permitted to do so."

Certain Drugs Can Aid Children

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. J. D. McLachlan, president of the Ontario Agriculture College, suggested Friday that certain antibiotic drugs could have beneficial growth and health effects when added to the diet of stunted and sickly children.

Addressing one of the final sessions of the Ontario Medical Association convention, Dr. McLachlan said with developments in research on poultry and animal diets some of the most noted modern strides had been made in modern medicine.



He further suggested that the diet additions of certain antibiotic drugs might be of valuable use among children in the undernourished world areas.

Dr. McLachlan mentioned bacitracin, Pencillin, teramycin and aureomycin as among antiobiotics having profund influence on growth and health of poultry and some domesticated animals.

Regular Army Adopts Olive Drab Ties

OTTAWA (CP)—The defence department which has been criticized in Parliament for buying 1,000,000 neckties announced Friday that the regular army is adopting a new tie.

It will replace its black cotton necktie with olive drab ties with soldiers getting two apiece. Reserve force units and regular rifle battalions will continue to wear black ties.

TROUBLE ON TROUBLE—A car in Waco, Tex., stands in window-high flood waters that followed in the recent tornado's path. The tornado, which whipped through the city, left at least 45 dead and 300 injured.

LOST BOYS STOLE CAR

TORONTO (CP)—Parents of two juveniles, who reported their sons missing in the early hours of Friday morning, found them later in the day locked up by suburban York township police on car theft charges. Police said the boys—one 11 and the other 14—shared the steering and gear-shifting when they stole a car. They were picked up when the crew of a police cruiser saw them peeking over the dashboard to keep on the roadway.

Boat Overturns Boy 17 Drowns In Baptiste Lake

BANCROFT (ENS)—A 17-year-old Toronto boy drowned Saturday night in Baptiste Lake when the boat he and three others were in overturned. He was John Pietro, and his companions were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Spencer, and William J. English, all of Toronto. Pietro, an orphan, lived with the Spencers. The 22-foot craft capsized when Pietro was trying to free a fouled fishing line from the propellor of the motor. He made a move that threw the others off balance, the three survivors said.

The trio spent nine hours in the water, huddled close together as they clung to the overturned boat in the 40-degree water. Ironically, they were only 75 feet from shore.

FORCED TO RETURN

Pietro struck out for the shore, but shouted that he couldn't make it. English swam after him, but his clothes hampered his movements and he was forced to return to the boat.

The three didn't see Pietro again.

Hugh Peever, who had rented them a cottage Saturday afternoon, started to search for them when they did not return. He searched the lake until 3 a.m., then went out again with his son Stanley with the first morning light and found them at 5 a.m. 75 feet off shore in Hay Bay. They had pushed the boat along by kicking their feet in an effort to reach shore.

The bay the three were found in is about three miles north of the cottage they had rented.

After taking them to Bancroft Red Cross Hospital, Peever and his son, with Ray Lush and OPP Constable John Hawkins, searched for Pietro's body and found it about 9 a.m. near the spot where the three survivors were found.

During the night, they heard motor boats twice come close to them in the search that went on over the whole lake, which is a few miles north of Bancroft.

They shouted, but couldn't make themselves heard above the noise of the motors.

HUDDLED TOGETHER

Spencer said that after the last motor boat came near them and they failed to make themselves heard, they spent the rest of the night huddled close together, and keeping as still as possible.

They found the cold affected them less when they were still than when they were moving about.

Mr. and Mrs. Spencer and English friends drove them to their home in Toronto.

APPLE BLOSSOM TIME—During the holiday weekend many Peterborough residents took time to travel leisurely throughout the countryside to see the various signs of spring and early summer. Apple and wild cherry trees were out in full bloom. Sandra Davis of the Coronation School (above) despite bees buzzing about her head gets among the tree branches to smell the apply blossoms.

Budget Cuts Will Delay Atomic Planes

Congress Expected To Protest Reduction Of 30%

WASHINGTON (AP) —Eisenhower administration economies in the atomic energy program will postpone construction of nuclear-powered aircraft and ships and will delay development of peacetime atomic power.

But there will be no reductions in atomic weapons or power plants for atomic submarines, Representative W. Sterling Cole (Rep.-N.Y.) said Monday in announcing that the budget for the year beginning July 1 will carry cuts "on the order of 30 per cent" under the $1,600,000,000 recommended by former president Truman.

Cole is chairman of the joint congressional atomic energy committee which keeps watch on the country's atomic program.

EXPECT CRITICISM

Despite his assurances that the administration will ask sufficient funds to "carry on the weapons phase of the program without any curtailment," the decision seemed certain to stir up the same kind of congressional criticism which followed the announcement that new air force funds would be cut by $5,000,000,000.

A cut of 30 per cent for atomic energy is far more than the approximately 12 per cent cut made in the Truman defence budget and 23 per cent in the related foreign aid program.

Cole told newspaper men the reductions would mean:

1. Postponement of the construction of nuclear-powered aircraft carriers. Research and development on these projects will continue "pretty much as planned," he added.

2. "Some curtailment in the studies and work" on development of a reactor for industrial use, which Cole said is directly related to the development of power for surface ships.

3. No curtailment or elimination of the AEC's new $1,000,000,000 plant at Portsmouth, O., and no change in the construction of two submarine power plants, now proceeding at "full tilt."

"This is a very minimum program and any further cuts would materially affect the program," Cole said.

Will Likely Consult Commonwealth Statesmen First

LONDON (Reuters) — Political sources today predicted that Prime Minister Churchill will seek an early meeting with President Eisenhower to discuss the international situation. They said, however, that the prime minister likely will consult the Commonwealth prime ministers first when they confer here after the Coronation next month. A Churchill-Eisenhower meeting would enable the two statesmen to discuss Anglo-American differences which were brought into the open by last week's foreign affairs debate in the House of Commons.

The debate showed that Britain and the United States do not see eye to eye on some aspects of the Korean truce talks and other issues, although Churchill took pains not to stress the differences.

TEST VIEWS

A meeting with Eisenhower would also give Churchill a chance to test personally the president's views on a high-level conference between East and West.

This question of talks with Russia will be in the forefront of the Commonwealth conference and Churchill will develop points which he made in his recent speech to Parliament.

Each of the Commonwealth statesmen will give his government's views on the question of an East-West meeting. Prime Minister Nehru of India has already supported the idea.

Churchill said Monday in the House of Commons that it is Britain's "duty" to speak plainly to the U. S. on Korean truce developments but not to "appear to go on nagging" about it.

At he same time, Churchill hinted he favored a return to India's proposal, approved by the United Nations, for repatriation of Communist war prisoners unwilling to go home.

SAY PLAN ABANDONED

Labor party critics of the new at Panmunjom had abandoned the Indian plan. Arthur Henderson, air minister in the former Labor cabinet, asked Churchill if he did not consider it advisable to propose a return to the Indian plan.

"I will bear that suggestion in mind so far as it has not already been in my thoughts," Churchill said.

Former war minister John Strachery then asked: "Don't you think it makes our support of the war in Korea very much more difficult when proposals which we think are

Duchess Acts As Stand-in For Elizabeth

LONDON (Reuters)—The Duchess of Norfolk, surrounded by six of London's most beautiful society girls, stood in for Queen Elizabeth II at today's rehearsal of the most sacred and private part of the Coronation ceremony, the anointing.

The attractive 37-year-old duchess, in a modish blue suit and hat with veil, sat under a canopy held by four Knights of the Garter during the rehearsal, in the grey quietness of Westminster Abbey. Her husband, the Earl Marshal who is chief Coronation planner, directed the rehearsal.

The dowager Duchess of Devonshire who will bear the Queen's train June 2 and her six assistant maids of honor were with her.

CLERGY PRESENT

The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, will perform the anointing with sacred oils. He was at the rehearsal with other senior clergy and participants in one of the few sections of the two and a half hour service which will not be televised.

The Queen chose the six blue-blooded girls herself. They are all young, gay and from families deeply rooted in British history. All are close friends of Princess Margaret, the Queen's sister.

Duke of Marlborough and a relative of Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill. She is five foot, 10 inches tall. Smallest is Lady Mary Baillie-Hamilton, 19, daughter of Lord Haddington. She is five foot, three.

The four Knights of the Garter are Lord Allenda, the Duke of Wellington, Earl Fortescue and the Duke of Portland. They will hold the canopy of rich silk and cloth of gold over the Queen sitting in St. Edward's chair while the archbishop anoints her in the form of a cross.

Oatis Questioned 8 Hours A Day Before Trial

NEW YORK (AP)—William N. Oatis says he was questioned many times for as much as eight hours a day during a two-month period before his "espionage" trials in Communist Czechoslovakia.

The 39-year-old AP correspondent who returned Monday to the United States after spending 25 months in a Prague prison indicated there are two things high on his agenda for the new days of freedom—first, an effort to regain the lost moments of separation from his wife, Laurabelle; and, second, a study of the record of his trial.

Oatis was freed by the Czechs Saturday. He had been serving a 10-year sentence for engaging in what the Communists called "espionage" while working as an AP correspondent in Prague.

The slight, bespectacled newspaper man met with reporters in an hour-long press conference at New York's international airport shortly after his arrival by plane from Germany.

REFUSES TO ANSWER

Although speaking at length on many phases of his experiences, Oatis declined at times to answer questions or to go into details. He indicated that he himself was not fully acquainted with all aspects of his case.

He spoke of his treatment by his Czech jailers, saying they had effective methods of obtaining confessions. However, he added that to the best of his knowledge no drugs were used on him. He said:

"They gave me about 10 injections which they said were sugar solution and vitamins to build up my weight—and I'm convinced they were. I felt no effects from these injections whatsoever.

"They also put me under a sun lamp to give me a tan. I think they wanted me to look good at the trial."

"40 pills a day until I got well."

His desire to look again at the record was evidenced in a number of instances during the press conference. He said it frankly was hard for him to decide if he were justly arrested as a violator of Czech law and added:

LOOK AT THINGS DIFFERENT

"In certain things it could be considered from their point of view that there were violations. They look at things differently.

Death Toll 43 In 3-Day Nigerian Riots toll in three days of rioting over Nigerian independence mounted to 43 today with more than 200 injured.

Kano, a city of 107,000, largest city of North Nigeria and centre of the disturbance, looked like a battlefield. Barbed wire entanglements created a no-man's land between embattled factions, and troops patrolled the lines to keep the factions separated.

A state of emergency has been proclaimed throughout North Nigeria. Troops were called out Monday when the death toll reached 20.

The riots started Saturday when the local government at Kano cancelled a permit for a political meeting by a group agitating for self-government for Nigeria by 1956.

S. L. Akintola, former minister of labor in the Nigerian government who was to have addressed the meeting, denied a government statement that the fighting was inter-tribal.

He said the clash was between "those who wanted self-government in 1956 and those victims of imperialism who have lived so long in bondage as to lose every taste of liberty."

There are about 24,000,000 people in the British colony and protectorate of Nigeria.

Report UN Now Considering Freeing 34,000 Prisoners

TOKYO (AP)—The Korean truce talks were recessed for another six days today and an informed United Nations command source said if negotiations collapse, the Allies probably will release the 34,000 prisoners they refuse to repatriate.

The source said Tokyo that the Allies were preparing a revised armistice plan that might set a time limit on the peace talks. The UN command asked an extension until next Monday of the three-day recess that was due to end Wednesday. The Reds agreed at a liaison meeting at Panmunjom.

A spokesman close to Gen. Mark Clark's headquarters said the UN command is considering turning loose as civilians balky North Koreans.

The ultimate disposition of these and 14,500 Chinese captives who also have renounced Communism is the last major block to a truce.

The spokesman said a precedent for freeing captives already had been set by the Reds.

FOLLOW PRECEDENT

"They say they freed 'at the front' 50,000 Allied prisoners they grabbed early in the Korean war," the spokesman said.

"There is no reason to keep holding these North Korean prisoners. They hate communism and will not go back to it under any circumstances.

"They are anxious to get back to their wives and families and be assimilated in South Korea among people of their own nationality who also are opposed to communism.

"The 14,500 Chinese prisoners held by the UN command are another thing. They do not want to return to communism either. But their future is something to talk about."

The UN command said it asked for the extended recess in the truce talks for "more time to review past efforts and reconsider completely the present position of both sides" with regard to the prisoner deadlock.

Name Yoshida Prime Minister

TOKYO (Reuters)—Shigeru Yoshida, 74, today stepped back into office as prime minister of Japan, helped by the abstention of Socialist opposition deputies who could have tipped the scale in favor of his only rival for the job.

Early balloting in the Diet (Lower House) to name a prime minister left it a straight contest between Yoshida, leader of the Liberal party, and Mamoru Shigemitsu, leader of the Progressive party.

Yoshida commands only 202 seats in the 466-member Diet, and had the opposition combined against him, Shigemitsu would have been able to deprive him of his fifth term as prime minister.

But 141 Socialists abstained from voting and Yoshida regained the post with 204 votes against 116 for Shigemitsu.

The Lower House nomination later was confirmed by the Upper House, where the Liberals command a working majority with the help of friendly parties and the independents

Yoshida, a peppery middle-of-the-roader, is the first man to be prime minister five times running since Western parliamentary methods were introduced in Japan in 1885.

Top Jet Ace Ordered Home

SEOUL (AP)—The U. S. Air Force today told Capt. Joseph McConnell, Jr., the world's top jet ace, to fly no more combat missions over Korea. The Sabre jet pilot shot down his 14th, 15th and 16th MiGs Monday.

The air war was quiet today after six days of savage sky battles, but on the ground two Chinese battalions hit Allied positions in central and eastern Korea.

Col. John Mitchell, commander of the 51st fighter wing, announced McConnell soon would head for home.

"He is more valuable to the air force alive than dead," said Col. [illegible] duty commander. "Mac is so far out of reach for MiG kills now that there's no use pushing it."

Spend $50,000,000 On Highway Links

OTTAWA (CP)—Some $50,000,000 will be spent this year on the various provincial links of the Trans-Canada highway, the biggest annual construction program since work on the road began three years ago.

The resources department announced today that latest provincial estimates bring total commitments for work on the road to $108,527,972. The federal share of this is $54,263,936 of which almost $34,000,000 already has been paid to the provinces.

Ambitious program of reconstruction have been mapped by all provinces for the 1953 construction period.

Contracts to the value of more than $35,000,000 for Trans-Canada highway construction in Ontario have been let. About 126 miles have been built and a further 280 miles are under construction. Plans for [illegible] to begin immediately on the 150-mile section between Chapleau and White River.

Told To Load Butter Market

BELLEVILLE (CP) — District cheese producers were told Saturday to load the market with butter in an effort to boost cheese prices.

W. R. McCreary, cheese buyer, told salesmen at a meeting of the Belleville cheese exchange that cheese factories should separate their milk and then sell the cream for the manufacture of butter.

"By loading up Ottawa with butter," Mr. McCreary said, "the cheese industry would get the co-operation of the government quicker than by running around in circles."

Government price support for cheese, 24 cents a pound from the federal government and six cents more from the Ontario government, was dropped last week. Government price support, however, is still maintained for butter.

A flood of butter on the market would send prices down and would force the government to make large expenditures to maintain the guaranteed price.

Royal Children Back After Balmoral Visit

LONDON (Reuters) — Prince Charles and Princess Anne arrived today from a week's vacation in Scotland to prepare themselves for their mother's Coronation, just two weeks off.

Anne, 2, favored a small crowd of onlookers with an elaborate pirouette and wave after she had walked unescorted from their special coach to a waiting limousine.

Charles, 4, more shy than usual, simply walked self-consciously to the car, but recovered his composure in time to wave cheerily as he drove off.

The Queen returned from Balmoral Castle Monday and the Duke of Edinburgh Sunday.

Postal Employees Ask Wage Boosts

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Canadian Postal Employees' Association decided Monday to press for wage boosts of $480 a year for each member.

Delegates to the central provinces convention—Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Northwestern Ontario—also asked that only first class mail be sorted Sunday, wickets be closed on holidays and Sundays, maximum salaries be reached in three years, time-and-a-half for overtime, and double time for Sunday and holidays after completion of a 40-hour week.

Editor Dies

MONTREAL (CP) — Roderick Stuart Kennedy, 64, editor-in-chief of the Family Herald and Weekly Star since 1939, died Monday. Born in Montreal in 1889, Mr. Kennedy was a past president of the Canadian Authors' Association. He wrote fiction articles, agricultural theses and literary criticisms for Canadian and American magazines. He was the author of The Road South, a novel which won the Quebec award for literature in 1948.

A-Blast Felt For 200 Miles

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—An atomic blast powerful enough to shake buildings in Bishop, Calif., 200 miles away, flared over the Nevada desert before dawn today.

The unusually bright shot also rattled buildings in this gambling community 75 miles from the proving ground, but there were no immediate reports of damage.

Police in Bishop said the shock wave came in two or three short jolts, rumbling klike cannon shots, and were the strongest ever felt there.

The blast, ninth and next-to-last of the spring test series, was set off from a 300-foot tower at Yucca flat, with 28 congressmen watching from the control centre and 1,000 armed forces observers in trenches 4,000 yards away.

The shot was primarily for scientific and observational purposes. The atomic energy commission said 60 tests were conducted.

30 Parents To Celebrate Coronation In Canada

LIVERPOOL (CP)—Thirty parents left Liverpool today to celebrate the Coronation in Canada with their war-bride daughters.

The party is the second since May, 1952, helped by financial aid from the United States and Canadian War Brides and Parents association.

The procedure is a two-way business between the 14-branch, 800-member British association and its Canadian counterpart, totalling 50 branches and about 1,000 members.

The Canadian association has aided numerous brides to get home for a visit. The British body has contributed £5 to £10 toward the cost of any parent wanting to go to Canada. Groups over 21 in number going to or from Canada are allowed one free passage.

The organizations, headed in Canada by Mrs. Wynn Ellis of Ajax, Ont., see that every bride or parent on such a trip is met on arrival.

Included in the party today aboard the Empress of Australia were Mrs. F. Burgess, for Goodwood, Ont., and Mrs. M. E. Norman, for Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

At least 300 Canadian and United States war brides have arrived for a Coronation year visit and the association has planned several social events for them. A dance May 30 will feature a draw for a free one-way passage back to Canada or the U. S.

Claxton Congratulates Jacqueline Cochran

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton sent congratulations to Jacqueline Cochran today for cracking two records in a Canadian-built jet fighter of a type slated to start coming into general RCAF use this fall.

He sent the American flier "warmest congratulations on your fine performance," setting a speed record of 652.337 miles an hour for a 100-kilometre closed course and smashing the woman's speed record.

His telegram was released though his office here along with a statement that "it is encouraging to know the Orenda-equipped sabre fighter has lived up to our expectations."

11 People Shaken Up As Cars Plunge 10 Ft.

GUELPH (CP)—Eleven persons were shaken up Sunday night when two cars plunged over a 10-foot embankment on No. 24 highway, about seven miles north of here.

A family of seven were spilled into a water-filled ditch when their car was struck by an automobile occupied by four army men from Camp Borden. The soldiers were trying to pass the car of Daniel Winter when they struck it from the rear.

Winter, of Rockwood, Ont., was taken to hospital with broken ribs and possible internal injuries. His wife, Niellie, and his sons, Gordon, four months, Kenneth, 12, and Dan Jr., 14, suffered minor injuries. Alfreda Winter, 14, a niece, and Clark Winter, 11, a nephew, also received minor injuries.

Carl Beacon, stationed at Camp Borden, was arrested on charges of dangerous and careless driving. Only one of the army men required emergency treatment.

Full Reports On Debates To Be Sent To Washington

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Churchill today announced steps to insure that Washington is kept fully informed of all statements on foreign affairs made by himself and Clement Attlee, leader of the opposition.

He told the Hous of Commons that in future full texts of all such statements would be cabled promptly to the British embassy in Washington.

(Last week both Churchill and Attlee spoke in a foreign affairs debate. Attlee's comments on the U. S. political scene evoked considerable criticism in the United States. Some American newspapers subsequently complained that the text of what he said was not available until several days later.)

The question was raised today by Laborite Emrys Hughes, who suggested that the British ambassador in Washington should arrange for members of the U. S. Senate to be supplied with copies of the official report of last week's foreign affairs debate.

He said this would enable senators to see exactly what was said about the United States in last week's debate.

Churchill replied that texts henceforth would be sent to Washington. MPs cheered, but Hughes said that the action should be made retroactive, so that last week's full statements would be available.

If that were done, he said, critics like Senator Joseph McCarthy, who strongly attacked Attlee's speech, could have "some clear idea of what was said."

Clings To Gas Can, Escapes Drowning

SAULT STE. MARIE (CP) — A 32-year-old fisherman escaped drowning by clinging to a half-empty gasoline can Monday after his boat overturned at a lake 71 miles north of the Sault on the Algoma Central Railway.

One companion swam to shore and two others clung to the boat Joe Treppasso of the Sault said the first thing he saw after the boat tipped was the three-gallon gas can. He grabbed it and hung on.

Sy Poloway, 30, the only swimmer in the party, aided the others to find grips on the boat and then swam 400 feet to shore for help.

Fishermen in a power boat rescued John Thompson, 35, and John Spatafore, 18.

Top Woman Pilot Uses Canadian Jet To Smash Record

LOS ANGELES (AP)—For years North America's No. 1 woman pilot, 43-year-old Jacqueline Cochran has achieved a much cherished goal. Monday she became the first of her sex to fly through the sonic barrier and surpass the speed of sound. She did it in a Canadian-built F-86 Sabre jet. The speed of sound at sea level is approximately 760 miles an hour, depending on temperature. Miss Cochran followed this "first" by flying the Sabre around a 100-kilometre closed course at a speed of 652.337 miles an hour, a world record for the distance. She flew over a course only 300 feet above the sun-parched Mojave desert.

National Aeronautical Association timers said she shattered the all-time jet record for a 100-kilomtre course—635.686 miles an hour—set in 1951 by Col. Fred Ascani, United States Air Force. She also surpassed the women's jet record of 534.375 miles an hour established last December by Mme. Jacqueline Auriol, daughter-in-law of the president of France.

TRAINING FOR WEEKS

Miss Cochran, wife of financier Floyd B. Odlum, multi-millionaire founder of one of the largest investment trusts in the United States, had been training for several weeks for her assault on the sonic barrier. The man who helped her prepare for the test is Maj. Charles Yeager, the first pilot to fly faster than the speed of sound.

He flew alongside her in preparatory runs around the 12-pylon course at Edwards air force base and radioed instructions to her. He was in the air near her Monday, "just in case of emergency."

Miss Cochran was quick to learn, as ever. Back in 1932 she got her pilot's licence after only three weeks' training. She has flown commercial, transport and army pursuit planes and bombers and holds several national, transcontinental and international flying records, in addition to the two she added Monday.

"Passing the sonic barrier, with its shock waves and other strange effects, was the most exciting and interesting experience in my 21 years of flying," she told newspapermen. "Just for good measure, I bettered the speed of sound twice yesterday. I don't expect the records I set to last long, however, for faster jet planes and more powerful engines already are showing up on the flight line."

BUILT IN MONTREAL

Miss Cochran's jet was built in Montreal by Canadair. She has been a flight consultant and adviser to Canadair for more than a year.

The Sabre was powered by an Orenda engine, manufactured by A. V. Roe at Malton, Ont.

It was Col. Ascani, a good friend of Miss Cochran, who urged her to use the Sabre in an attempt to beat his record. He offered to help her do it shortly after he established his mark. Although she is a lieutenant-colonel in the air force Force jet plane solo, so she acquired the Canadair.

Boat Hits Wall Driver Killed

TRENTON—The sport he loved brought death to Dr. John E. Renton, 55, Sunday, as his 7-year-old son watched from the dock.

Known throughout the Quinte district as Trenton's boat racing dentist, Dr. Renton was fatally injured when the throttle of his new speed boat jammed in the Bay of Quinte, causing the craft to smash into a concrete wall of the Trent dock at an estimated 45 miles an hour. His head was split open by the impact.

The unconscious driver was dragged from his sinking boat and rushed to Trenton Memorial Hospital where he died soon after arrival.

Dr. Renton was responsible for organizing the Trenton Centennial Festival to be held here next month, and he had planned to enter his speedboat in the centennial races.

The trip on the bay was to have been a trial run for the speedy craft. While spectators watched, the boat gathered speed and then suddenly seemed to go out of control. In the space of a second or two the racing craft rammed the concrete wall, throwing Dr. Renton half out of the cockpit.

"The boat splintered like a matchbox," said Mel Mountenay, an eye witness.

Winner of a score of races, Dr. Renton had many spills in his racing career. Last summer he narrowly escaped death when he was thrown out of his boat and his head barely missed being struck by the propellor.

Pearson Warns Western Unity May Be Broken

TORONTO (CP)—A warning that Russian peace moves may be disruptive to western unity was voiced Saturday night by External Affairs Minister Pearson.

In a dinner speech to delegates attending the annual Ontario Liberal Association convention, Mr. Pearson said differences of opinion as to the meaning of Soviet strategy provide the greatest danger.

"As the tension and fear seems to ease, we may yield to the temptation to be more critical of each other—to engage in useless bickering and backbiting," he said.

"This would be a great tragedy for us and a great victory for those who may have altered their tactics for this very purpose. Good relations between friends may be easily spoiled if we mistake fierceness for frankness in our discussions or if we substitute violent condemnation for honest criticism."

MORE FOR EDUCATION

In Saturday business sessions, delegates approved resolutions calling for increased provincial spending for education and for provincial payment of construction and maintenance costs of municipal roads connecting provincial highways.

Delegates also favored increased immigration and amendment of the Ontario Mining Act to provide protection and encourage individual prospectors.

City Accidents Do Damage, No Injuries

Holiday weekend rain and traffic resulted in several accidents on city streets although no injuries were reported. Damages to vehicles were estimated at more than $500.

One accident, involving Ernest Barr of Oshawa and Thomas Dawson of R.R. 1, South Monaghan, resulted in damages to the Barr car of $150 and, to the Dawson vehicle, $35. They were both driving west on Clonsilla when Dawson stopped. Barr skidded on the pavement and rammed into the back of the first auto.

A second accident of a similar nature occurred at Park and Wolfe Sts. Robert Eagleson of North York stopped at the corner and was hit by a car driven by John Stewart of R.R. 7, Peterborough. Eagleson's auto escaped undamaged but damages to the Stewart car were estimated at $150.

A parked car owned by Coleman Blewett of 113 McDonnel received damages of $45 when it was clipped by a second car driving west on Hunter. Driver of the second car was Mrs. Alfrieda Milliken of Willowdale and damages to her vehicle were set at $75.

Queen Mother Leaves Palace Home

LONDON — (Reuters) — Queen Mother Elizabeth moved out of Buckingham Palace Monday, leaving behind rooms filled with the memories of 16 years.

Her new address is Clarence House, the neat modern house where the new Queen used to live. She will be joined there this week by her other daughter, Princess Margaret.

Since Feb. 6, 1952, the Queen Mother has been a guest in Buckingham Palace, the cold old structure that had been her official home since she moved in 1937 with her husband King George VI.

For the first time, crowds thronging the Mall Monday saw the Queen Mother's standard flying above Clarence House.

QUEEN'S FIRST HOME

Designed more than 125 years ago, Clarence House was the first home occupied by Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh after their marriage. Before the young royal couple began housekeeping, they had the bombed, part-Georgian, part-Victorian house completely renovated.

By the time they moved in July 4, 1949, electrical wiring had been laid properly for the first time, a modern bathroom was installed to replace the bathtub in a small, cold room, and the kitchen was shiny with stainless steel and yellow tiles.

There is even central heating throughout the house, unlike Buckingham Palace, whose halls are unheated.

Much of the familiar old furniture which the Queen mother has lived with during her married life at the palace has been moved to Clarence House.

Excess Profits Levy Extended To Jan. 1

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today disclosed his tax program extends the excess profits levy on business, now due to expire June 30, until Jan. 1 and keeps individual income taxes at present rates until that date.

His program was laid before Republican congressional leaders at a White House conference and immediately ran into important opposition.

Chairman Daniel Reed (Rep. N. Y.) of the tax-writing House of Representatives ways-and - means committee told reporters "not a thing" happened at the conference to change his determination that the excess profits tax must die June 30, or his belief that individual income taxes ought to be cut sooner than Jan. 1 when they are due under existing law to drop about 10 per cent.

IT'S A BIG RACKET TO THEM—Loud noises and shoving crowds at the coronation in London won't bother these horses after they've completed their special "racket rehearsals." The horses are getting their "soundproofing" at Woolwich, England, by being driven past men who shout and clang garbage can lids together. One horse can't take it, but he'll learn.

Fabulous Reign Of Gentleman Gambler

By BERNARD REDMONT

PARIS (Reuters)—Flying from the mast of a luxurious yacht in the harbor at Cannes is a mysterious flag bearing a replica of the nine of diamonds.

This emblem, the yacht, a few legends and several million dollars are the visible souvenirs of the fabulous reign of the gentleman gambler known as "Nick the Greek," alias Nicholas Zographos, Zagraphos and Zagropolos.

Nick died recently at Lausanne, Switzerland, aged 67.

STAR OF GAMBLING

For 15 years between the two world wars, Nick was the star of the gaming tables at Deauville and Cannes. Unlike many other gamblers, Nick died rich, with many friends and few enemies within what he called his "profession."

French tourist officials privately admit he attracted more moneyed travellers to the playgrounds of France than the Folies Bergere and the Louvre combined.

A short, dapper brown-haired man with a small moustache, Nick carried an aura of mystery around with him. Little is known of his early life beyond the fact he came from a good family which lost its money in the depression following the First World War.

STAKED BY FRIEND

A friend is reported to have staked him for his first bet. An obscure figure at first, he gained notoriety after the opening of the Deauville casino in 1922 with the then sensational "sky's the limit" policy.

Nick installed himself at Deauville with a 15,000,000 franc bankroll—then worth $2,500,000—loaned by a wealthy friend, and a "system." He proposed to act as banker at two baccarat tables simultaneously, a feat which Nick's early engineering training told him would give a 0.06 per-cent advantage.

One of his first opponents, an American millionaire, wagered 1,000,000 francs, worth at the time about $170,000, on the turn of the card. "Agreed," said Nick, "on condition we play three times." The Greek lost the first million, won back on the second card and won again on the third.

Asked his profession, he always replied simply: "Gambler."

Nick explained he began gambling young, watching others. "Soon I was sad whenever I was not playing, like a morphine addict between hypodermics. And like an addict, I increased the dose each time."

1926 WORST YEAR

One day he decided to stop, going to the casinos only occasionally to dine. He lived quietly in a hotel or aboard his yacht with his pretty wife and a nephew. He went to Switzerland three years ago.

The gambler often reflected on his worst year, 1926, when he lost 30,000,000 francs in one week and was down to his last million. He played his last two tables and won—with a nine of diamonds. After that, he went on winning until he amassed a fortune estimated at one time at $100,000,000.

The nine of diamonds became a fetish. Nick embossed it on his yacht pennant, his cuff links and his cigaret case.

"Nick the Greek," left this epitaph:

"Good luck and bad luck do not exist. What people call luck is only the faculty that some people have for knowing what's going to happen in the immediate future. It's more often a form of intelligence than a manifestation of fate."

Alberta's Attorney-General Leading Horse Breeder

EDMONTON (CP)—On a slight knoll on Edmonton's northeastern outskirts lies Murray Hill Farm which is developing into one of the leading horse-breeding establishments in Western Canada.

Attorney-General Lucien Maynard of Alberta, owner of the farm, is gradually introducing all the conditions which make it ideal to raise the animals.

For instance, many leading prairie horsemen believe that early foals are practically of no account.

The basis for this belief is that baby colts and fillies born before the spring w[illegible]up are denied adequate exercise, sunlight and green grass because of the severe prairie winters.

BUILDS FINE BARNS

But Maynard, who believes that foals born as early as possible in the year grow bigger and stronger, figures he has all the disadvantages beaten.

The barns are built so there is a paddock for the mare and her colt to frolic until they can get out to pasture. Windows provide sunlight. Special gimmicks ensure ventilation. Instead of green grass, the foals are fed a special formula to supply the necessary vitamins.

The 55-acre farm also has other innovations One is a special oat-bin attached to a board which swivels out of the stall. Feed can be given an animal without going into the stall. This makes for speed and also avoids the possibility of struggling with cantankerous animals.

To provide water, a pipe runs the full length of the main barn and hoses at each stall enable attendants to fill a horse's water-container merely by moving the hose.

A communications system links the Maynard home, the homes of the four married couples on the farm staff, and the various barns to the foaling stable.

When a foal is about to be born, a buzzer rouses everyone. "Without this inter-com, we would have lost three mares and their foals this year," Maynard said.

HAS TWO STUDS

The farm has a three-eighths-of-a-mile track, two studs and 13 brood mares. So far this year there have been 10 foals and one to come. The farm has seven yearlings, five of them fillies.

The Maynard racing string is at Calgary preparing for the summer campaign. The stable, trained by Bob Deans of Vancouver, consists of six two-year-olds, a pair of three-year-olds and 10-year old Texas Son.

The juveniles are Mr. Speaker, Silent Hour and Mon Premier, all colts, and Killadream, Contented and Wee Miss Boo, three fillies. The three-year-olds are Gala Easter and Miss Merrynose.

The studs at the farm are Gala Hour, a son of Sir Galahad III, and Sudani. The latter is owned by an Edmonton syndicate.

"Now we're ready for a beautification program," Maynard told a group of newspaper men who visited his farm. "So far we've put in a few windbreaks and we have lots else in mind."

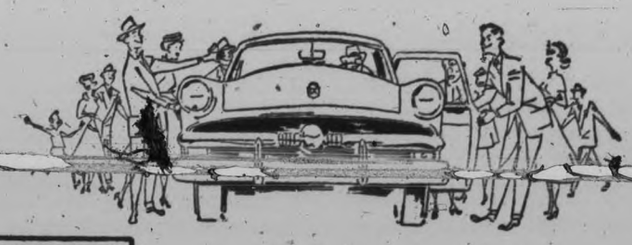
Why drive less than a V-8? this year go FORD

CRESTLINE VICTORIA



*Fordomatic Drive, Overdrive and white sidewall tires optional at extra cost.

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY OF THE GREATEST NAME IN MOTORING

V-8

The best way to measure Ford's dollar-for-dollar value is to compare it feature-for-feature with other cars that cost as much or more. We think you'll be surprised at what you'll find. For example, you'll discover that Ford's Strato-Star 110-Hp. V-8 engine is the kind of engine you've always associated with the most expensive cars . . . that it delivers the kind of power and smoothness you never hoped to find in a car that's priced as low as Ford. When you try out Ford's relaxing "Wonder Ride" you'll immediately sense that "big car" feeling that's so satisfying to a driver. When you take into account Ford's choice of Fordomatic*, Overdrive* or Synchro-Silent transmission (no other car at any price can offer more)—and realize how many attractive extra features Ford includes (like Full Circle Visibility, Centre-Fill Fueling, Key-Turn Starting and foam rubber seats) . . . well, then you'll understand why more and more motorists are making Ford their new first choice!

What Is Wrong With Compromise?

Government is not an exact science. It is the art of the possible, not of the absolute. It may be informed by ideals but it must conform to reality. These things are true, whether in government of a nation or in international government.

• • •

Some American senators seem to be alarmed because President Eisenhower has not excluded a possibility of Red China being given a seat in U.N. (after a Korean peace), the seat now held by the ineffective and discredited government of Chiang Kai-shek, which has not a shred of control over any part of the vast mainland of China. Senator Bridges of New Hampshire spoke for several of his colleagues when he said he was categorically opposed either to U.S. recognition of Communist China or to its U.N. admission under any circumstances. Some of these American senators are reported to feel that the President may have left the gate ajar for future compromises. Well, what is wrong with that?

• • •

Compromise is the sane and pacific way nations advance their relationships. If there is no compromise, only two ways of resolving disagreement are possible. One is that the weakest goes to the wall. This is possible only in a disagreement between unequal powers. The strong coerces the weak. However, if both sides are powerful, if neither is so impotent that it must bite the dust at the behest of the other, then war follows. The Second World War was the greatest exhibition of the result of No Compromise that mankind has witnessed. The Allies insisted on unconditional surrender. They got it—with all its attendant ills. For the last eight years the world has been trying to pick up the pieces.

• • •

Politicians and statesmen talk nobly of no compromise with evil. This high and mighty doctrine is false in practice. The very minute a nation adopts such an unrealistic policy it is itself compromising with evil for it is using a policy of subjugation by force—existing or to be demonstrated in war. Nations protesting that there can be ... rests wholly on the side of the Devil. Events after a war demonstrate this. The evil nation becomes an ally: as France did of Britain following nineteenth century wars, as Russia did during the last war; as Germany has now become.

• • •

The dictatorship of Russia was considered almost benign from 1942 to 1945. Now the heroic, good Russia has become bad, and the bad Germans good. What sort of absolute virtues are these?

• • •

One cannot escape a feeling that the Americans are arrogant or inept if they rest on a policy of no compromise with China, if they insist on an armistice in Korea only on their own terms, if they are so stubborn as to refuse to confer with Russia. Compromise is a civilized agency of international dealing; "no compromise" is bludgeoning and barbaric.

• • •

Compromise is agreement obtained by mutual concessions. Is this too high a price to pay for agreement—for a possible generation of peace?

Atomic Energy Of Canada, Limited

Last February a special parliamentary committee was appointed to examine the Government operations in the field of atomic energy. Last week the committee presented its report. It is an interesting sketch of the atomic energy developments in Canada.

The immediate reason for constituting a parliamentary committee to investigate atomic matters under Government control was the reactor at Chalk River, the one known as the NRX reactor, which had been brought to a standstill. To repair it, if possible, would cost a great deal of money; to build another would cost even more. Parliament wanted to assure itself that all was well as could be. The Committee's report gives this assurance.

For five years the NRX has been "the outstanding research reactor in the world due to its 'high flux' and flexible design features. The experimental results obtained from NRX constitute a major contribution to atomic research." The report states that its predecessor committee was told in 1949 that NRX had a life-expectancy of perhaps five years, "after which time it would probably be necessary to write it off." It served for five years before it developed leaks, through an extraordinary combination of circumstances. The committee found, to its relief, that the Chalk River scientists and engineers were able to repair and rebuild the machine. It will not have to be written off. It will be restored to service "with improved operational and safety factors."

It seems that the experience gained from reconstructing the NRX provided invaluable information; for the first time, scientists were able to examine a reactor after it had been in operation. This is proving of great value in the new and more powerful reactor which is being built at Chalk River—the NRU.

Our palaver about reactors—whose operation we do not pretend to understand—has been given with a deliberate purpose: to call attention again to the facts that Canada is in the forefront of atomic energy research, and that its work is not directed to the horrid aspects of atomic energy—the preparation of terrible weapons—but to the beneficial. The new reactor, says the committee report "will enable Canada to stay in the forefront of atomic energy development and research and to meet the growing demands in the industrial, medical and agricultural fields."

One further point in the report is especially interesting. Here it is: "From the evidence it is clear that the large-scale application of atomic power is closer at hand than had been expected when the previous Committee met. Your Committee notes with interest and approval that the Board of Directors of Atomic Energy of Canada Limited has on it several persons with an intimate knowledge of development, distribution, and economics of industrial power. Your Committee recommends that any possible development of atomic energy for industrial power be pressed forward with vigour." These are not visionaries speaking, but sober Members of Parliament making a routine report to the House. Lo! the new age.

Money In Soybeans

A new circular which the Ontario Department of Agriculture has just issued contains some fetching information. It is called Soybeans as a Cash Crop in Ontario.

It—the cash crop—looks attractive. The gross return on an acre for the four years 1946 to 1950 in Essex and Kent counties was $52.95—compared with oats yielding $30.37 and fall wheat yielding $49.18. Only grain corn gave a higher gross return on the acre, $63.87. The pamphlet remarks, however, that the difference in net returns for an acre of corn and of soybeans is much less, since the labour, machinery and fertilizer requirements for corn are considerably greater than for soybeans.

Since the price is good, and the crop can be handled almost entirely by ... provided the market is assured. It is, on two counts. First, an orderly system of marketing has been devised in this Province, to prevent gluts. Soybeans are marketed largely through local elevators and the Ontario Soybean Marketing Board has power to establish maximum rates for handling and storage.

The general market for the beans is big. Ontario produces nearly all the soybeans grown in Canada. The Ontario crop last year was more than four million bushels. But this was not nearly enough to fill the demand. Canada imported another four million bushels for crushing and also fifteen million pounds of imported oil—the yield of approximately two million bushels. Thus Canadian producers have a potential market for ten million bushels of soybeans right now. That market is expanding because of the increasing use of vegetable oils in a wide variety of foods and products.

Here, then, seems to be a golden crop for farmers of this district. Yet almost no soybeans are grown in Peterborough county commercially. Why not? Why not take advantage of this good cash crop? There are two reasons against it. First is that Peterborough county is primarily a livestock area. The farmer's first concern is to grow enough fodder to feed his livestock. As it is, he has to bring in and feed grain from western Canada.

A second reason against heavy commitments to soybeans in this district is that the land has too many stones. These interfere somewhat with planting and cultivation, but their real hindrance is to the harvesting of the beans. The combine tries to harvest the stones as well as the beans—and stones are not a sound paying proposition.

If conditions in some counties for planting and harvesting the golden soybean crop are not as favourable as in Kent, Essex and Elgin counties, farmers in the other Ontario districts can at least tuck soybeans into the backs of their minds as possible good dollar-earners should the market fall in livestock and grain.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

LOOKING IN at intervals at the Peterborough Kiwanis Musical Festival I could not help being impressed with a number of things. In the first place the Kiwanis have managed to secure a really fine auditorium in the shape of the new St. Peter's School Auditorium in place of somewhat inadequate accommodation in the past. Entries were slightly down in numbers, but my impression is that the quality has improved over the previous year. I was pleased to observe that the boys of the district are taking a much more active part in singing and playing. The old idea that music is somehow unfitted for tough straight-shootin' guys and is best left to the girls is dying out rapidly; there was certainly nothing of the effeminate milksop amongst the young fellows that I saw competing. Nor, might I add, did the girls have it all their own way in the results, which were in many cases won by boys. This is a very healthy sign, and augurs well for the future, for music cannot be said to flourish as the exclusive preserve of the distaff side. Another promising sign was the two classes for young baritones and tenors, which revealed a batch of young singers in the making and served to show that our young men still feel the need to express themselves in song in spite of television, radio, records and so on.

❖ ❖ ❖

MR. HEATH-GRACIE, one of the adjudicators, brought out the interesting point that our local performances seemed to be for the most part on the slow side. There are fashions in tempi as there are in most other things. Nowadays a composer can indicate his wishes exactly by the use of metronomic indications (though even these must be modified in actual performance in accordance with the resonance of the room and other factors), but we have no exact idea of the tempi prevalent in the eighteenth century and have to rely mainly on subjective judgments of fitness. During the nineteenth and the earlier part of the twentieth centuries a curious thing happened. A whole complex of emotions of reverence had grown up around Handel's Messiah (though strangely enough not to any comparable extent around his other works), and as a result of this it became fashionable to take it slower and slower. Now there are some movements that are positively gay and light-hearted in this monumental work. Perhaps that is what is wrong—the word "monumental": one hardly expects a monument to come alive and trip daintily like the chorus "His Yoke is Easy". We take our "masterpieces" and turn them into cold mausoleums of indiscriminate and dumb reverence. I am all in favour of reverence in the right place; there is too little of it in our calm assumptions and smart-alec snap judgments of today, whose bible is Time Magazine. Yet reverence is such a fundamental human emotion that it cannot be entirely suppressed. Unfortunately it sometimes pops up in the wrong place. The sort of misplaced reverence that turns the light-hearted effusion of a great man into a fossilized "masterpiece" smacks of idolatry rather than intelligent enjoyment.

❖ ❖ ❖

THERE ARE SIGNS that this sentimental "ancestor-worship" is giving place to a saner attitude. As I said above, this question of tempi is governed more by fashion than we might care to admit, but there is a good case to be made out for a general speeding up. To be sure, there are some exceptions, notably of works that have for some time been taken at a break-neck speed ... purpose of showing ... of virtuosi rather than ... warhorse as the finale of the Mendelssohn violin concerto played at a reasonable speed in place of the undignified scramble that we hear too often. It is hard to believe that so keen a judge of effect as Mendelssohn should have gone to so much trouble, in designing such delightful early Victorian tracery in order that it should never be heard except as a confused scurry. It should go at the maximum speed practicable, but the maximum should be based on the most involved passage rather than the opening bars.

❖ ❖ ❖

A COMMON FAULT amongst younger performers in the Peterborough Festival has been rhythmical faults in 6/8 time. Some of these competitors were perhaps a little too young to undertake a systematic course in the rudiments of music such as is covered in the Grade I Theory examination of the Toronto Conservatory. But it should be instilled firmly into their small heads from a very early stage that 6/8 time means two beats in a bar (or pulses to a measure, according to the phraseology taught). The heresy that there are six should be eliminated. Personally I have found the French time names (tah, ta-ah, ta-fa-te-fe, etc.) quite helpful, though I must admit that when I as introduced to them by my teacher in my extreme youth I did not take to them particularly well and thought that they were a beastly bore, an unnecessary extra mystery which I never quite understood. Perhaps my teacher did not explain them very well—I cannot say, for it was so very long ago! At any rate whatever method is used the difficulties of compound time (which reside largely in our peculiar system of writing down notes rather than in intrinsic problems) must be faced squarely and dealt with. It is probably better to take well-known nursery rhymes and the like, such as "Pop goes the Weasel", to illustrate what one has to say than to theorize first. The young mind goes from the particular to the general (something like the scientific method); it takes a trained mind to go in the opposite direction with any degree of ease.

❖ ❖ ❖

I HAVE BEEN LOOKING at Healey Willan's Homage Anthem that he composed specially for the Coronation. As we have been led to expect from numerous examples of his work it is brilliantly and effectively laid out for voices, which are used mainly antiphonally with the orchestra. Looking at the vocal parts alone it appears somewhat disjointed; the "cement" that binds this short anthem together is to be found in the accompaniment, which constantly harks back to a motif that appears first in the two bars of introduction and reappears in many different guises. I would not say that it is a great little work, but it bears the hallmark of quality and distinction and is admirably fitted to the slendour of the occasion and more than holds its own amongst other pieces specially commissioned for the occasion, one or two of which are rater feeble. Amongst the new pieces I am perhaps most anxious to hear Herbert Howells' Introit. Howells was in his youth acclaimed as the Great White Hope. During the twenties and thirties he fell out of fashion but continued writing sterling music in a very personal vein of late Romanticism. Once again his true worth is beginning to be realized. A self-effacing man, he has shunned the limelight that other less gifted than he have sought. This introit is a little gem—listen for it on June 2.

LILIES OF OUR WOODLANDS

As Others (Don't) See Us

(OTTAWA JOURNAL)

PRIME MINISTER ST. LAURENT recently spent two days in Washington, was a guest at Blair House, lunched with President Eisenhower, dined with State Secretary Dulles, spoke to the National Press Club, returned to Ottawa on Saturday to report on his mission to Parliament.

Canadians believed Mr. St. Laurent's mission to be vasty important concerned as it was with the St. Lawrence seaway and with trade between two countries which have a greater two-way trade than any other two countries on earth. In Canadian newspapers there were headlines and long despatches from Washington correspondents, in Parliament anxious discussion. Mr. St. Laurent, it was said, might bring home to the American President, and to Congress and the American people, how vital were such things as Canadian-American trade.

Herald Tribune on "Good Neighbours," couched in general terms, hardly compensated for this. For if the greatest of American newspapers does not consider an importnat mission to Washington by the Prime Minister of Canada worthy of mention in its weekly review of international events, then how are we to bring home to "the American Congress and people" the importance of the St. Lawrence seaway and of freer trade between the U. S. and Canada?

Sadly the truth is that American newspapers do not consider Canada newsworthy. We do not have revolutions, we only occasionally produce quintuplets prizefighters or gangsters, so while Wall Street knows about our oil and ore, and Park Avenue knows much more about us than Broadway or Middle West main streets, the young men on the news desks of New York and Washington, Chicago and Balti... to get along despite snow in June and July.

Sometimes we wonder, too, whether in all of the diplomatic machinery we have set up between Ottawa and Washington we succeed in reaching the right people. Mr. St. Laurent saw President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles; did our ambassador in Washington contrive to have him meet Senator Taft? Senator Taft happens to be the most powerful figure in the Congress which deals with such things as tariffs.

Apropos this it is curious to observe so many members of Canada's Parliament seemingly discovering for the first time and with great surprise, that it is Congress, not the State Department, which writes U. S. tariffs, which will decide whether there are to be higher U. S. rates against our cheese and butter, our livestock and flaxseed and oats.

Canada needs an ambassador in Washington (even though the U. S. curiously has been getting along without one on Ottawa ever since last November) and undoubtedly it is part of his task to know who is who in the State Department. We have an idea, however, growing of late that a bit more Canadian contact in Washington with the men who make laws in Congress might not be amiss. It might even get more Canadian news in the U. S. newspapers.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Behold, I shew you a mystery; we shall not all sleep but we shall all be changed, in a moment, in a twinkling of an eye, at the last trump: for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed .... So when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortarity, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory. (I Cor. 15: 51, 52, 54.)

And I looked, and lo, a Lamb stood on the mount Sion, and with him an hundred forty and four thousand, having his Father's name written in their foreheads. And I heard a voice from heaven, as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of a great thunder: and I heard the voice of harpers harping with their harps: and they sung as it were a new song before the throne and before the four beasts and the elders; and no man could learn that song but the hundred and forty and four thousand, which were redeemed from the earth .... And in their mouth was found no guile: for they are without fault before the throne of God.

And I saw another angel fly in the midst of heaven, having the everlasting gospel to preach unto them that dwell on the earth, and to every nation, and kindred, and tongue, and people, saying with a loud voice, Fear God, and give glory to him; for the hour of his judgement is come. (Rev. 14: 1-3, 5-7).

And I saw as it were a sea of glass mingled with fire: and them that had gotten the victory over the beast, and over his image, and over his mark, and over the number of his name, stand on the sea of glass, having the harps of God. And they sing the song of Moses, the servant of God and the song of the Lam, saying, Great and marvellous are thy works, Lord God Almighty; just and true are thy ways, thou King of saints. (Rev. 15: 2, 3.)

Letter To The Editor

FIRE WATER INDEED

Sir: Every spring there is a rash of bush ... whisky bottles left by hunters from the previous fall. Many hunters take a flask with them and, when it is empty, toss it carelessly aside, where frequently the bottle is broken.

In the spring, a strong sun shines through the glass fragments and ignites dry leaves or moss to start a bush fire. Just try it with a piece of glass and dried leaves on a hot, bright day. It works just like a magnifying glass in the sun.

What the solution is I don't know, except to warn hunters that if they must drink on their watches at least bury the empty bottle afterward.

Victoria Warden Vincent Fee Feted At Dinner

OMEMEE (ENS)—Emily township council arranged a banquet, Thursday evening in honor of Reeve Vincent Fee who this year was appointed Warden of Victoria county.

In attendance were all who have been in the Emily council or associated with it by employment or appointment during Mr. Fee's term of office; also the village council. Approximately 60 were served.

The Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt was master of ceremonies; Bill D. Weir led the sing song. Paul McGuire, former Reeve of Emily, spoke highly of Mr. Fee's qualifications for Warden. The township was honored, he said, by his appointment.

This is Mr. Fee's sixth year as Reeve and he was a councillor for the seven preceeding years. Mr. McGuire said that the Victoria county elected its first council in 1861. The first Warden from Emily township was Wm. Cottingham who held that office in the years 1866, '67 and '68. The other Emily Reeves to get the appointment were Thomas McQuade in 1890, Wm. Switzer in 1896, Robert Wilson in 1920, Joseph Guiry in 1937 and now Vincent Fee in 1953.

Elwood Faulkner, who has been on the Council for the past six years, proposed a toast to the Warden. Mr. Fee, in his reply, gave much credit to his associates, stressing the importance of working together for the common good.

Councillor Elmer Mahood spoke of the moral support lent Mr. Fee by his wife and his son Glenn who kept all running smoothly on the farm while he was occupied with the affairs of local government.

At this point Mrs. Elwood Faulkner presented Mrs. Fee with a beautiful bouquet of white and pink carnations. Both Mrs. Fee and Glenn replied.

Councillor Edward Lowes thanked the ladies of the Women's Institute for serving the delicious banquet.

Other speakers were Harry Deyell, Reeve of Omemee; Robert Wallace, new manager of the Omemee branch of the Bank of Toronto; and Medical Health Officer, Dr. G. N. Earle.

The male quartet of Trinity United choir, Sherman Harrison, Bill Weir, Laverne McKee, and Mr. Zufelt, sang two spirituals—"Somebody's calling my name" and "Standing in the need of prayer". Marion and Ted Bradshaw of Peterborough entertained with clever magician's stunts.

Spring Cleaning Becomes Difficult Task For Flood-Devastated Town

By DAVID SHEARS

ZIERIKZEE, Holland (Reuters)—Spring cleaning in the flood-devastated towns and villages of the southwestern sections of The Netherlands this year is a task few housewives are likely to forget.

This little market town on Schouwen-Duiveland Island, home of 7,000, was before last January as spick and span as any Dutch town.

Months after the raging floodwaters tore down the dikes in the "terror days" of early February, Zierikzee is still a shambles.

Only 500 out of its 1,750 houses are undamaged. Whole rows of buildings are devastated, while the once-spotless streets are littered with rotting furniture, general debris and endless piles of mud.

The great majority of Zierikzee's 4,000 evacuees have come back from the mainland and are busy wrestling with the long task of restoring order.

They resented leaving their semi-isolated island home when floods struck and the burgomaster ordered compulsory evacuation. A group of them even sued the burgomaster for unlawful action and abuse of authority.

When they returned, broken doors and windows gaped forlornly. Plaster lay hidden beneath a deep layer of hardening mud.

Undaunted, they set about cleaning up.

Scrubbing has begun in earnest, an almost endless task when mud has permeated every crack and cranny. Husbands taking time off from dike repairs and other outside jobs are doing all they can to help.

Zierikzees 300 children have gone back to school in temporary buildings, stores have reopened.

But the flood's aftermath is still very real. "On this island about 500 people died in the floods, and to this day about 100 bodies are still beneath the ruins or under water," a local doctor said.

Schouwen - Duiveland, the worst affected of all the country's flooded areas, is still wide open to the sea at several places, so that only hastily-bolstered inland dikes save the whole island from inundation.

Engineers hope to close the breaches before the end of the year.

To prevent a recurrence of the tragedy, Zierikzee plans to build a ring-dike around the town measuring nearly two miles and costing 250,000 guilders (about $70,000).

Have Three New Weapons To Blunt March Of Polio

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—For the first time, science this year has weapons to blunt the feverish march of polio.

There are two of these long-sought defences:

One is the first preventive against polio—Gamma Globulin, the miracle medicine from human blood.

The second is the first test to diagnose polio quickly.

Like brand new guns for an an army, both these weapons are in scant supply. This year they may slow, not halt, polio.

A third weapon, and the best, is promised from the laboratory—a vaccine to prevent polio altogether.

SEE TURNING POINT

But in these weapons experts now can see the turning point and ultimate triumph over polio.

This is the picture, from authorities of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis:

In tests on children last year, Gamma Globulin, or G. G. for short, proved its worth as a preventive. Children who got G. G. shots during an epidemic had significantly less paralytic polio than youngsters, also picked at random, who did not.

This year up to 900,000 children and adults under 30 will get the G. G. shots—all the G. G. there is available.

G.G. is a protein, in blood, which carries antibodies created against natural infection from polio. Most of us have such polio antibodies, because at some time we have been invaded by the virus, usually in such slight cases that we never knew it.

By pooling G. G. taken from the blood donations of many people, science gets G. G. carrying antibodies against all three polio viruses affecting humans.

FIVE WEEKS PROTECTION

The protection from a shot of these borrowed antibodies lasts five or six weeks.

The second defence, the diagnostic test, was developed at the University of Minnesota. It can tell within 12 to 72 hours whether a person has polio virus in his intestines so treatments can be started to minimize paralysis.

The test uses a strain of human cancer cells, growing in test tubes. A sample of bowel excretion is added to the test tubes. If polio virus was present in the intestine, that virus will grow in the test tube and the growth can be detected quickly.

A vaccine to end polio is almost a reality.

BEST PROSPECT

The best immediate prospect is one developed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk and associates of the University of Pittsburgh. It protects animals even when they're fed live polio virus.

By all present knowledge, it should protect people. But thousands of persons must be tested first, to make certain it's perfectly safe, that it can't cause polio, doesn't produce strange allergic reactions in some people.

8,000 Candidates Entered Lists In Italian Election

By PATRICK CROSS

ROME (Reuters)—Italians will go to the polls June 7 in one of the most complicated, confusing elections in their country's history.

They will be electing a Chamber of Deputies on a new principle which will give about two-thirds of the seats to that group of parties which manages to get a bare majority in the voting.

They will have to elect a new Senate at the same time.

In all, some 8,000 candidates have entered the lists. About 6,000 of them are contesting the 590 seats of the Chamber of Deputies. The rest are competing for the 237 seats in the Senate.

The Italian constitution, drawn up after the war, carefully laid down that the two houses should be elected separately. It was the turn this year of the Chamber of Deputies.

The fragility of the young Italian democracy had already been demonstrated in local government elections in 1952 when it was shown that only 51.70 per cent of Italian voters were then prepared to support the Western democratic system.

Communists and neo - Fascists have already shown their readiness to work together to bring down the democratic structure, as a first step towards trying to destroy each other.

REFORM ELECTION LAWS

Powerful forces within Premier Alcide de Gasperi's huge Christian Democrat party, impressed by the growing power of the neo-Fascists and Monarchists, seem on all cessfully resisting Communism.

To secure another five years of stable government de Gasperi reluctantly decided to reform the election laws of the Chamber.

With the help of Ugo la Malfa, minister of foreign trade, he devised a law which would transform the slim majority of votes which the democratic alliance expects to win into a stable majority in the Chamber.

The law laid down that any group of Allied parties which won at least 50.000001 per cent of the nation's votes, or one more than half the total votes, would be accorded 380, or about two-thirds, of the 590 seats in the Chamber.

The figure of 380 would guarantee a stable majority, without giving the Christian Democrats an absolute majority on their own.

Last winter when the agreed version was passed to Parliament, the Communists, left-wing Socialists, neo - Fascists and Monarchists raised an uproar.

SESSION HALTED

As the bill passed to the Senate, the Communists halted a session with two hours of noise and Senator Giuseppe Paratore resigned.

After two days' search, the government found a brave man to succeed him, Senator Meuccio Ruini, also 76.

Immediately, the Communists launched their biggest filibuster yet, lasting non-stop for 78 hours. At the end of it, Senator Ruini announced the final vote would be taken.

The bill was passed by 174 votes.

The government decided that things had gone so far that the same Senate could never meet again and the upper House was dissolved at the same time as the Chamber of Deputies.

Normally, the Senate's life would have ended next year.

The first complication involved in the re-election of the Senate was that the new electoral law applied only to the Chamber of Deputies.

The system of election of the Senate, drawn up six years ago, provides for one senator to be returned from each of 237 electoral colleges.

In the final result owing to the two systems of election, it is possible that the two chambers may differ widely in their composition.

Indian Field Ambulance Helps Commonwealth Men

IN KOREA (CP)—A cluster of tents at a medical centre here symbolizes the Commonwealth effort in Korea.

It is the advanced dressing station of the 60th Indian Field Ambulance. Patients under its canvas one day recently came from Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Great Britain and India.

The ADS, as it is called, just now is treating Canadian casualties not evacuated directly from the front, and minor sick.

That can happen occasionally because medical units are divisional, not brigade, troops and take their turns in forward areas as Commonwealth divisional headquarters decide.

FARTHER BACK

These days the Canadian Field Ambulance is farther toward the rear, caring for Canadians likely to be sick longer than the seven days an ADS is allowed to keep them. Canadian casualties, therefore, together with soldiers suffering from such minor complaints as colds, sore throats, boils and some skin disturbances, are treated by the Indians.

The unit is no stranger to Canadian troops. Most of its officers and other ranks have been here 2½ years, and treated sick and wounded from the 2nd battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, when the battalion fought with the Commonwealth brigades in 1951.

Patricias always spoke highly of their treatment, especially of the brew of tea they received—even before being registered in.

The Indian Field Ambulance is an airborne unit, and medical detachments from it dropped with United States troops at Munsan in 1951.

It is commanded by Lt.-Col. M. B. K. Nair, who served near the Canadians in Italy.

Nair's unit comprises bearded, turbanned Sikhs, Hindus, Christians and Mohammedans—"everybody except the Jains, who are not a soldiering class," he says.

"As far as religion is concerned India is a conglomerate nation and we are exactly the same as a unit. I'd have to have seven chaplains if everyone was to be looked after. Only the Christians have chaplain services. For the rest, we live together and follow our faiths as best we can."

HAPPY PATIENTS

Happy patients were L.Bdr. Delbert Jones, 20, of Liverpool, N.S., and Pte. Henry Fitzgerald, 20, of Wolfeville, N.S. The two Maritimers were in with tonsilitis. Jones, nine months with the 1st regiment, the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, has another three months to do in Korea with the 81st Field Regiment, RCA, while Fitzgerald is with the 3rd battalion, the Royal Canadian Regiment.

In charge of their ward is India-trained Capt. C. R. Narang.

Nair's ADS cares for the battle casualties of four infantry battalions (Canadian, Australian, British), two artillery regiments (Canadian and New Zealand) and two tank outfits (Canadian and British).

Canadians handled by the Indian ADS may go to any of three installations—the 43rd U.S. Surgical Hospital Mobile (if immediate surgery is needed), the 25th Canadian Field Dressing Station, or the 37th Canadian Field Ambulance. The Canadian FDS still does all Canadian elective surgery, as well as treat sick likely to be well within one month.

UE Soccer Squad Victors Against Trenton Club In Eastern Loop Contest

Peterborough UEW swamped Trenton Merchants 10-1 Monday in King Edward Park in a scheduled Eastern Ontario Soccer League encounter. Although outclassed, the visitors turned in a real sporting game right to the finish. Referee was E. Cotton. On Saturday, UE yanked out a close decision over the Scottish Canadians in a City League fixture. The city schedule will follow the account of the Monday melee.

Hoyle, at centre forward, opened the UE scoring after eight minutes, and he came through with another six minutes later. After some short passing in front of the goal, UE were awarded a penalty and Croll scored from the spot. Ryan was the next as he worked out wing and took a hard shot from near the touch line. He just missed with another which was over.

HOYLE SCORES

The Trenton goalie had a miskick and Hoyle took it and shot in No. 4. Strong almost tallied and the Trenton centre made Titshall jump to save on a hard shot. Holroyd was next to score on a kick from near the corner flag which beat the visitors' goalie. The half ended 5-0 for UEW.

The second half was still young when Holroyd passed to Hoyle for the sixth. Trenton broke away then and Jones got their lone goal Steel, Holt and Hoyle completed the scoring later for UE to wind it up with a 10-1 margin. Teams:

Trenton: Goal, Carswell; backs, Hedges, Helyer; halfbacks, Lydiatt, Defosse, Beattie; forwards, Coss, Smith, Clough, Smith, J. Beattie.

UE: Goal, Titshall; backs, Croll, Davies; halfbacks, Steel, Murray, Smith; forwards; Holt, Strong, Hoyle, Ryan, Holroyd.

Sleater Worth $20,000, As Leafs Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The $20,000 Toronto paid for pitcher Lou Sleater was worth it. At least that's the impression the big right-hander gave Monday in winning his initial International Baseball League start.

The Maple Leafs Monday swept a doubleheader from Syracuse Chiefs and swamped the Chiefs 15-1 in the nine-inning opener that starred Sleater, purchased from Washington Senators of the American League.

Sleater practically won the game by himself. He held the Chiefs to four hits and had a perfect day at the plate, hitting four times in four trips and leading the Leafs with runs batted in, sending four men home. He fanned seven and walked only two.

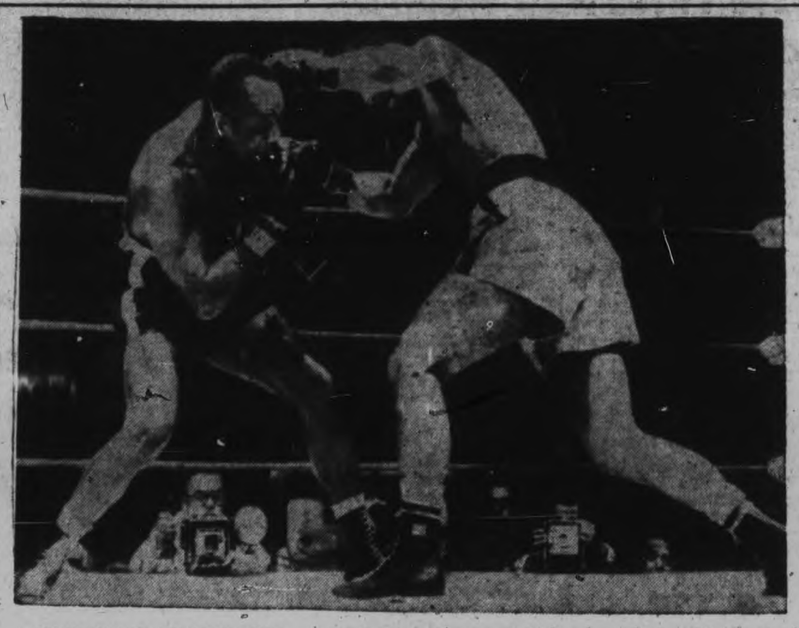
TAKE NIGHTCAP

The Leafs took the abbreviated nightcap 6-3, though the Chiefs outhit them 9-7. Forrest Main, who relieved Stubby Overmire in the third inning, also made his first start a good one.

Toronto third-baseman Mike Goliat whacked two round-trippers, one in each game.

Dennis Reeder of Rochester Red Wings, with help from reliefer Bob Tiefenauer, turned back Buffalo Bisons 8-3 and gave Rochester the league leadership. Reeder had a 6-0 lead before an error, a walk and two base hits brought on Tiefenauer in the sixth. It was Lefty's third win against one loss.

Baltimore Orioles and Montreal Royals split a night double-bill, the Orioles winning the opener 1-0 and the Royals grabbing the second game 11-2.



Ben Flowers, who joined the Orioles Sunday from Boston Red Sox, gave up only four hits in taking the victory in the opener. Two Montreal hurlers allowed six hits, with starter Tom LaSorda charged with the loss.

GET 10 HITS

The Royals belted four Baltimore pitchers for 10 hits in the nightcap with Jack Sanford suffering his third loss against three victories.

Ottawa Athletics and the tail-end Springfield Cubs split another night doubleheader, with the Cubs blanking the A's 3-0 in the opener and losing the nightcap 11-4.

Reliefer Tony Jacobs won the opener, his first victory against no losses. An eight-run eighth inning rally gave Ottawa the second contest. Ed Hrabscak notched his second win against one loss.

BEGINNING OF THE END — Rocky Marciano, the Brockton Bull, right, moves in on old Jersey Joe Walcott. Seconds after this picture was snapped, the Rock delivered a savage right hand to Walcott's chin that dumped him on the dock for the full count to make Rocky's first heavyweight title defence a successful one.

Middlecoff Wins Golf Tourney

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP)—Dr. Cary Middlecoff won the Meadow Brook round-robin golf championship Sunday with a seven-point edge over Jimmy Demaret.

The 32-year-old Memphis dentist, regularly a leading money winner on the pro circuit, clinched the rich first prize in the $17,500 event by firing a four-under-par 66 for the final round and winding up with a 42-total plus points.

Demaret shot a last round 69 for 39 plus points.

Jackie Burke, Jr., Demaret's cohort at Lake Kianesha, N.Y., finished third with plus 23 and Lloyd Mangrum was fourth with plus 14.

The point standings are gained by matching one player's score with that of the other three in his foursome. Middlecoff, with his 66, thus picked up one point from Ferrier, who shot a 67 and three each from Sam Snead and Dave Douglas, who had 69s.

Local "A" Club Gets Cricket Victory Easily

By C. H. IRESON

The Peterborough "A" cricketers scored a substantial council victory Saturday here over Toronto St. Simon's by 163 for one wicket to 16. Next Saturday the local "A" team plays Toronto Grace Church "B" club at the Oval, while the local "B" team meets St. Simon's in Toronto.

Going in first here Saturday, B. Roberts and Rev. G. Smith took the score to 35 before the latter was out for 16. F. Booth joined Roberts and the pair took the count right to 163 when the inning was declared closed.

When the visitors went to bat they failed badly against the bowling to go out for 16. Score:

Peterborough. Batting — Rev. G. Smith 16, B. Roberts 84 (not out), F. Booth 57 (not out); extras 6. Total 163 for 1 wicket declared.

The fall of wickets was 1 for 31, while the bowling was: H. Smith 0 for 42, J. Stanfield 0 for 43, R. Crawford 1 for 36, F. Patenden 0 for 36, F. Bedford, R. Smith, H. Dibben, T. Scott, E. Cotton, W. Wright, B. Ward and T. Clark did not bat.

St. Simon's: Batting total 16; fall of wickets: 1 for 4, 2 for 4, 3 for 5, 4 for 5, 5 for 14, 6 for 15, 7 for 16, 8 for 16, 9 for 16, 10 for 16. Bowling: T. Clark 2 for 4, B. Ward 2 for 1, G. Smith 1 for 10, E. Bedford 3 for 1.

Durocher Fined $10 For Fraternizing

CHICAGO (AP)—Manager Leo Durocher of New York Giants was fined $10 by president Warren Giles of the National League Monday for fraternizing with manager Eddie Stanky of the Cardinals before Sunday's game in St. Louis.

Durocher explained that Stanky had cut the Giants' batting practice time from 40 minutes to 30 and he wanted to know why. The reason was, Durocher explained, a directive from Giles permitting the shorter time because all clubs have cut their playing rosters to 25 players, plus a limited number of returned servicemen.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

Nice to sit out in the sun Saturday afternoon and watch a local baseball game again. Our junior Liftlocs lost it 6-2 to the Cobourg intermediates as the Lakeshore League schedule opened, but 'twas an interesting tilt just the same. Local boys will beat that club more than once as the season progresses just as they did last season after absorbing some early losses. There is no reason why good young ballsters 19 to 20 years of age should lose too often to older players. Latter have more confidence and experience, maybe, but the young guys have more hustle. They're coming up while the oldsters are on the way back. Port Hope plays here Wednesday night.

* * * * * *

Pitching was pretty even Saturday, Ingamells having a shade over Frizzelle for the opener, but the latter not getting the support his rival did. Those errors figured in all six Cobourg runs, too. Kearns and Foley led the home hitters, and the former was smart in the field and on the runways. While our side didn't cash in once when they had an opponent trapped off base, they did make the most of some dumb Cobourg base-running another time to pull off a double-play. The visitors weren't too wise on the paths on several occasions, once having two guys on second at the same time! But there was some good ball seen on both side in the first fray, and it'll be better yet as the season progresses.

The Offical Opening

Dr. Cliff McKee spoke briefly to inauguare the diamond semester once more at Riverside before several hundred fans. Not a big enough crowd at all for the weather and the game. Ald. Doug Miller, acting mayor, did the pitching for the official opening ceremony, and better he should have used his lacrosse stick! Hugh Campbell caught and Don McGillis, Sr., proved a potent clouter with a screaming liner to centre. Howie Dalton had a couple of flingers nursing sore flippers, but they'll be ready shortly to take their turn. We really think the Liflocs— our seniors in another year or two— will make an excellent showing in this good intermediate loop. They rate support.

* * * * * *

Haven't all the weekend holiday results in the lakeshore loop, but a report from Lindsay indicates that Oshawa Transporters will be tough to take. They ruined the opening hind six-hurling by young Ted Stone. Doug Loucks toiled six frames for the losers, and Hal Williams finished up in moke shaky style. Joe Lowrey and Joe Stewart of the ex-Petes were mentioned as going well for Lindsay. Local Liflocs' tussle in Colborne on Monday was called off owing to wet grounds. The game with Port Hope here on the morrow is at 6:30 p.m. touch, and Roger Lee, former Port Hope southpaw, is slated to twirl for Peterborough. Incidentally, Bryon Young is due to turn out shortly with the local team.

In Accustomed Spot

Senior OLA standing released yesterday showed Petes and St. Kitts atop the heap at this early date with four points each after two victories in as many starts. Fergus and Toronto have each won and lost a game for two points on the right side of the ledger. Brampton has fallen twice so far, and Hamilton and Mimico dropped one apiece in their only games played. Toronto Yorks— playing out of Orillia— have added a couple of more players and are still building up. They might be a right hard crew for the Petes to tackle here Friday in the locals next lacrosse scrap. On Saturday, the Thorpe team treks to Brampton and a week from tonight Fergus is here. Hm, three games in four nights.

* * * * * *

Annual men's openings at the Peterborough Golf Club and the Kawartha Golf Club went over good on Saturday afternoon. Fine turnouts and excellent weather for the most part. Few cloudy intervals didn't dampen the enthusiasm of the golfers, and quite a few newcomers took in the affairs. Club presidents welcomed the players, there were the usual field day competitions, lunches and sociability in the evening. Kawartha Club has its opening dance slated for May 23, and it is also known as guest day. That is national golf day at the northend links with members playing against a score by Julius Boros. Midland League opening at the Peterborough Club goes on May 30. Lots of local golf activity from now on.

Liflocs Beaten By Cobourg In Opening Tilt

The Lakeshore Baseball League started its season here Saturday with Cobourg Legionnaires defeating the Peterborough Liflocs by a 6-2 count. Club president Dr. Cliff McKee welcomed the fans and introduced the officials for the opening ceremony. Acting Mayor (Ald.) Doug Miller did the ceremonial pitching with Hugh Campbell the catcher, and D. A. McGillis drew a hand for slashing a sharp single to centre. He had earlier purchased 25 season tickets at five dollars a copy.

Jim Ingamells gave up nine hits on the Cobourg mound and three walks while fanning eight. Jerry Frizzelle allowed but one more hit, walking five and whiffing eight. His support was wobbly as the losers kicked in 5 miscues to Cobourg's one, and none of the winners' runs were earned, an error figuring in all. The locals earned two in the eighth on a walk to Kearns, a single by Byrne, a wild pitch, a fielder's choice and a safe blow by Foley.

SCORED EARLY

Legion got one in the first on a walk, sacrifige, an error by the pitcher and a single by Huskelson. In the third, a walk, hit by Huskelson and error in right let another in. An error at second put Turpin on in the fourth, he moved up on a walk and raced in on Campbell's clout. Their last three came in the sixth on hits by Ingamells, Beckstead, Harnden and Huskelson, with an error at short figuring in each of the three runs as the runners moved up.

Lloyd Huskelson led the winners at bat with three for five, driving in three runs. Gary Kearns got two for three to lead Howie Dalton's juniors and Larry Foley hit safely twice in four tires. Kearns went good in the field and in base-running, pilfering one sack. The locals reeled off a twin-killing, Frizzelle to Lingard to Kearns, as Cobourg pulled a skull on the paths. The visitors stole four bases and left 11 stranded to nine for Liflocs. Beckstead was beaned once on third and returned to the game shortly.

The teams:

Cobourg: Beckstead, rf; Campbell, lf; Hardnen, cf; Huskelson, 3b; McIvor, c; Casey, 2b; Young, 1b; Turpin, ss; Ingamells, p.

Parkdale Takes Win Over "B" Cricketers

Parkdale defeated Peterborough "B" cricketers in a match in Toronto on Saturday by 69 for four wickets to 65. The match listed for Monday here with Wentworth county team was defaulted by the latter, and the local club instead went to Port Hope to play TSC.

The P-W "B" team batted first were all out at 65. W. Freeman had 31 and R. Rollwagon 16 and the score was 56 for four wickets but the rest did little. Parkdale's opening batsmen played steady defensive cricket with P. Armstrong 20 (not out) and they passed the home team's score with just four wickets down. Score:

Peterborough: Batting— W. Freeman 33, W. Cridland 5, K. Illingworth, R. Rollwagon 16, F. Dyer 2, S. Jennings 4, J. Wild, 2, W. Norman, J. Fraser 1, P. Harding 0 not out; extras 2. Total 65.

Fall of wickets: 1 for 9, 2 for 9, 3 for 44, 4 for 56, 5 for 58, 6 for 60, 7 for 64, 8 for 65, 9 for 65.

In a brief address, President Don Anderson yesterday afternoon declared the 1953 lawn bowling season officially open. He welcomed the old members and said he was glad to see so many new ones. He paid tribute to all who had worked hard to have everything in good order for the opening day.

He referred to those who had passed on since last opening day, and asked the bowlers to bow their heads and stand for two minutes' silence.

The winning rinks were skipped by R. F. Downey, A. Jackson and Joe Adams.

UE Victorious Over Scots In Soccer Tilt

UEW edged out a 4-3 City Soccer League victory Saturday over Scottish Canadians at King Edward Park in a fine match. An oldtimer player and referee, Alec McKinley, was busy shaking hands all around at the game.

Gilchrst first and then a Holroyd-Strong attack started it off and play moved up and down at an even pace. Holt, and Hoyle drove but it resulted in a corner. Gilchirst's shot just skimmed the bar, Strong nearly scoring on the return attack, but both goalies were on their toes. Hoyle scored first with a close-in shot after passes with Ryan and Strong. Strong scored another for UE with a head-in on a centre from Holt.

GOOD, IN GOAL

Woodcock went good in goal and robbed Holroyd and then Strong. A penalty awarded for hands was taken by Croll to put UE up 3-0. Attard came out for Scots, at outside right, to threaten. A free kick just outside the penalty area was awarded the Scots but when taken a penalty was awarded against UE and Daly made no mistake with his kick. Scots having much more of the play now. Another penalty was awarded, and this time Woodcock made a brilliant save by pushing the ball over the cross-bar. From the resulting corner, the ball went out to the UE left back, Croll, who scored with a heat shot from 35 yards out.

One more penalty was given and Titshall made a fine save from Daly. A free kick by Ryan was save next. Then Attard tore up to finish with a shot that had the goalie beaten all the way. Scots really drove then and Caldwell counted a nice one from a centre by Attard. Scots tried hard to even the score but could not make it.

Scots: Goal, Woodcock; backs, Downer and Boyd; half backs, Ballantyne, Burnett and Daly; forwards, Cameron, Gilchrist, Dunn, J. Gilchrist and Caldwell.

UE: Goal, Titshall; backs, Croll and Allan; half backs, Hillier, Davies, Steel; forwards, Holt, Hoyle, Strong, Ryan and Holroyd.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

A legend of professional sport died when, in the most amazing sport upset of the 1953 Stanley Cup series, the powerful all-star Detroit Red Wings were humbled, and knocked out of hockey's classic by the no-stars Boston Bruins.

The legend is that all professional sports managers possess rasping tongues, acid vocabularies, that they drive their charges mercilessly by torrents of abuse and threats. It's a legend that has gained through imaginative fiction, but if it ever was true, and we believe it was correct only in some isolated instances, it doesn't hold in professional hockey today. A player may be sharply reprimanded in private for some misdoing, some breach of training rules, but intelligent analysis and conferences in which coach and manager submit their plans and discuss these with the players have replaced old-fashioned and out-moded bullying, if this ever existed generally.

This legend of managerial abuse was punctured right in the Detroit Red Wing camp. Jack Adams, former playing star, who as manager has been one of hockey's greatest builders, is a fighting leader. He is forthright, he is experienced, he doesn't hesitate to speak his mind. Indeed, he has the reputation, outside his club, of being a hard driver.

Before the second-last game of the Bruin-Red Wing series, a game played in Detroit, it was apparent the great Red Wing machine was grinding its gears. Bruins had already won three games. Another defeat would put Wings out of the series. Jack Adams [illegible] existence. There were those, on the fringe, who thought that the Wing leader would rant, roar, abuse the players, seek to inspire them by threats. But, as it turned out, Adams talked to his players as a kindly father might talk to a beloved baby son who had slightly misbehaved.

As he talked, the Stanley Cup stood in the room with him. And Adams said, quietly, sincerely: "This Stanley Cup is yours now. You won it last spring and you know there's fun in winning it. Every kid in Canada wants his name on it. You're the greatest team today and your names should be on it. But a third place team is on the verge of preventing that. I want you to know that no matter what happens tonight, you are still my boys and you're the best boys I know on and off the ice."

No threats, no abuse. But the psychological appeal of the quiet Adams' speech was far stronger than any fulminations could have been. There wasn't a dry eye in the Wing dressing room. And Wings went out, fought furiously, won the game, kept their hopes alive until these were snuffed out by the driving Bruins in Boston two nights later.

The days of abusive leaders are over in professional hockey, if they ever existed. In hockey today, the potential awards are too great, the athletes playing a game that constitutes a career in itself and a springboard to the future are too aware of these facts to require, or perhaps to tolerate, the driving, abusive, blustering coach pictured in fiction.

Buhl Helps Braves Down Philadelphia 4-0; Tied For 1st

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

Parachute jumping isn't included in the normal course of instruction on how to become a winning major league pitcher, but young hurlers may consider it when they study the amazing development of blazing Bob Buhl. The 24-year-old righthander is one of the newest reasons for the surprising success of Milwaukee Braves.

Monday night in biggest test so far, Buhl whipped Philadelphia 4-0 and pulled the Braves into a first-place tie with the Phillies in the National League.

The former paratrooper scattered seven hits and has now worked 17 scoreless innings out of a possible 18 as a starting pitcher.

Two years in the United States Army—much of it in Korea—worked a big change in Buhl. Although 19 battle jumps didn't give him time to do much pitching, he somehow developed a good curve and a change of pace to go with his good fast ball.

AMAZING IMPROVEMENT

"The improvement in the kid is amazing," said his manager, Charlie Grimm. "Bob pitched for me when I managed Dallas in 1950. He was a wild youngster then."

Monday night's victory, which included a home run by Del Crandall, gave the Braves an even split in their first home series with the Phils.

The third-place Brooklyn Dodgers lost again Monday night to Cincinnati Red Legs, 2-1, in 10 innings. It was the Dodgers' fifth loss in six games. New York Giants rallied to defeat St. Louis Cardinals 8-6 in the only other National League game.

In the American League Detroit split a doubleheader with Boston, taking the first game 5-2 and losing the second 8-5. Washington Senators cooled off Chicago White Sox 3-0 and the other clubs weren't scheduled.

Ted Kluszewski homered with with one out in the 10th inning for the Cincinnati triumph as the Dodgers equalled a modern major league record by leaving 18 baserunners stranded in the first nine innings.

WALKS 13 MEN

Bud Podbielan pitched an amazing game for the Redlegs. He walked 13 men in the first nine innings—one short of the modern National League record—gave up six hits and saw one man get aboard on an error. Yet he was scored on only once, in the first inning when Jackie Robinson followed two walks with a douhble.

The Giants put together five straight hits after two were out in the seventh at St. Louis. The big blow was Monte Irvin's home run with two on which broke a 5-5 tie.

Connie Marrero had the White Sox fanning the night air trying to hit his "nuthin'" balls at Washington. He struck out nine and allowed five hits.

Detroit jumped away to a three-run lead in the first inning of its first game at Boston when Fred Hatfield led and Johnny Pesky and Walt Dropo singled. Mel Parnell scored his fifth straight victory in the second game, but he needed help in the seventh from Ellis Kinder.

BOXER DIES AFTER FIGHT

RHEIMS, France (Reuters)—Jean Innocenti, Paris bantamweight, died after being knocked out by Emile Hautois of Rheims in the fifth round of an exhibition bout here Saturday night.

Marylebone Club Gives Shoddy Batting Display

LONDON (Reuters) —The Marylebone Cricket Club, including the cream of England's cricketers, put on a shoddy display of batting and fielding against the Australian tourists at Lords Monday.

On a pitch which favored the bowlers, the Australians dismissed the MCC for 80. The Australians then stroked 179 first-innings runs assisted by the fact that the MCC fielders let at least four catches go astray.

In a high-scoring county match, Somerset's 347 was topped by Yorkshire's 525 for four—including three-figure totals by Len Hutton (178) and Willie Watson (162).

Close of play scores in Monday's first-class cricket:

MCC 80 and 19 for two, Australian tourists 179.

Essex 357, Middlesex 395.

Northamptonshire 180, Sussex 202.

Lancashire 400, Kent 236 and 10 for one.

Cambridge University 99 and 194, Worcestershire 89 and 59 for no wicket.

Gloucestershire 185 and 47 for one, Nottinghamshire 181.

Leicestershire 179 and 84, Hampshire 68 and 134 for no wicket.

Somerset 347, Yorkshire 525 for four.

Glamorgan 299 for nine declared and 121 for three, Derbyshire 182.

HIGH POINT—One of the high, dramatic points of a new religious film, "Venture Into Faith," as the parents of a tubercular son rejoice after he has received prayer for divine healing at an evangelistic meeting. The picture, built around the evangelistic ministry of Rev. Oral Roberts, features the noted evangelist and his entire party, in addition to professional actors who have previous religious film experience. Stars of the picture, shown above, are Charles Gibb, David Day and Dorothy Ritter. The picture is being shown throughout the country at churches and auditoriums, but will not be shown in theatres.

Scout Field Day Success Peterborough Groups Win

Peterborough groups won all four sections of the Scout field day, held Saturday in the Exhibition grounds. St. Andrew's won in the brownie events; Salvation Army in the Guide events; St. John's among the Cubs and Trinity Church among the Scouts.

Representatives of the various divisions of Scouting were present from Baltimore, Cobourg, Lakefield, Lindsay, Port Hope and Omemee. They marched from Confederation Square to Morrow Park. Parade Marshal was Assistant District Commissioner Earl Westman.

After lunch on the Exhibition Grounds, Gordon K. Fraser, MP for Peterborough West, declared the field day open.

Main speaker was Major-General D. C. Spry, executive commissioner for Scouts for the western hemisphere, who told the assembly that, "Everywhere I have been, I find that what I have seen here today compares to that all over the world, and the similarities are greater than the differences."

CITIZEN INTEREST

He regretted that there were not more of the citizens of Peterborough present to witness the field day, especially parents, who should have been more interested in seeing what their children were doing.

Also present were Captain Stewart, commissioner for Salvation Army Guides for Eastern Ontario, Mrs. Stewart, Girl Guide Commissioner, Bobcaygeon, and Mr. Griffiths, district commissioner for Boy Scouts, Cobourg.

Sacred Scrolls To Be Given Funeral Rites

HAMILTON (CP)—Two of the most important and sacred documents of the Hebrew faith will be given funeral rites at the Beth Jacob synagogue this Sunday and buried in the congregation's cemetery.

The two documents are scrolls or torahs. Written by hand in Hebrew on parchment, they are copies of the five books of Moses.

The scrolls were removed from the ruins of the Welland synagogue after it was razed in a recent fire. They were damaged by flames and water.

Under Jewish law and traditions, the scrolls must be given the same rites as a human. The funeral service will be held in co-operation with the Welland congregation, with Rabbi Jacob S. Green of Beth Jacob assisting in the service.

Rabbi Green said that the Welland congregation was almost ready to rebuild its church after an intensive campaign for funds.

At the present, the congregation is using a scroll borrowed from Beth Jacob, but will order two more from New York for use in the new synagogue. The scrolls are prepared in either New York or Israel.

They were riding in a car which collided with a vehicle driven by Elmer Wambough, 34, of Sarnia. Mr. Wambough, his wife and another passenger, James MacDonald, 54, of Thettford, suffered minor injuries.

Mrs. Thomas Smith

WARKWORTH — (ENS)—The funeral service for one of Warkworth's oldest residents, Mrs. Thomas Smith, 90, who died Thursday at her home, was held Saturday at the Allen funeral home, Warkworth.

Careless Picnickers Cause Cottage Fire

SAULT STE. Marie, Ont. (CP)—A fire started by careless picnickers Monday afternoon destroyed a cottage and burned over two small islands, near Kensington Point, east of here.

Flames raced across mixed growth on heavily-wooded Weller Island, and sprang to a second in the group between the mainland and St. Joseph Island.

Hundreds of volunteers from St. Joseph communities joined to prevent flames from spreading to the larger island.

Bi-Partisan Push Coming For Project

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—A bipartisan push behind New York state's bid to develop power at Niagara Falls was in the making today, after Governor Thomas E. Dewey agreed to join Senator Herbert Lehman and Representative Franklin D. Roosevelt in the effort.

The Republican governor Monday night invited the two New York Democrats to talk over presentation of a joint case to Congress with Senator Irving Ives (Rep. N. Y.) and John Burton, chairman of the state power authority.

In letters to Roosevelt and Lehman, Dewey suggested a conference next Friday in New York city. The governor did not say whether he would attend.

The two Democrats last Saturday suggested bipartisan support of a bill that would permit the state to build a hydro-electric project at the Falls. They invited Dewey and Burton to confer with them "at a mutually convenient time and place."

OFFERS OFFICERS

Dewey replied he would be "most happy to see a bipartisan effort to bring this program to an agreed basis," and offered his executive offices in a hotel as a meeting place.

Lehman and Roosevelt said in Washington Monday night that they had not yet received Dewey's letters. Neither raised an objection to the time and place, although Roosevelt said the governor should be present.

A proposal to triple Niagara's output of electrical energy, at an estimated cost of $400,000,000 has been the centre of a three-way debate among utility companies, the two Democratic legislators and the Dewey administration.

Lehman and Roosevelt have introduced bills that would authorize the army engineers to build the plants and sell them to the state.

The state power authority wants to build the plants and distribute power over the transmission lines of private companies.

Senator Homer Capehart (Rep. Ind.) and Representative William Miller (Rep. N. Y.) have offered a bill to permit private interests to do the job. Five New York state utilities would pool resources in the project.

Tehran Expels AP Reporter

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—The government announced today it is expelling Marc Purdue, Associated Press correspondent, for sending abroad what it called "false and provocative news against the interests of Iran."

Hossein Fatemi, foreign minister, said Purdue has received notice to leave Iran within three days. He gave no details of the government's charge.

Purdue is the latest of a number of foreign correspondents to be expelled since the Iranian government took over the holdings of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. He has been in this country since last September.

Purdue's home is in Evansville, Ind. He has been a member of the AP's foreign staff since th

Les Groombridge Elected Jaycee Region President

Les. G. Groombridge was elected president of Region VI, Junior Chamber of Commerce of Canada, at its annual convention at Brockville Saturday and Sunday. Mr. Groombridge is the immediate past president of the Peterborough Jaycees. It is the first time a regional president has been selected from the Peterborough Junior Chamber.

Other delegates were: Doug. Landry, Ron Balaam, and A. D. Vaisey.

Highlights of the business program were two clinics: rules and procedure by the Ottawa Jaycees and a Jaycee Forum organized by the Peterborough unit. Chairman Dick Barber (Ottawa) and seven members demonstrated the proper methods of conducting an organization meeting to set up a Community Chest campaign.

Assisting Les. Gromsbridge in the Peterborough clinic were: Tom Whellams, Montreal; secretary-manager of the national office; Harry F. Smith, Toronto, national vice-president; Ivan Sparks, Ottawa, secretary-manager, Junior Chamber International and A. D. Vaisey.

PARADE OF UNITS

After the official welcome by Mayor Graeme Gorrie the parade of units was held. It was the longest parade (about a half mile) in the history of regional conventions. Peterborough delegates draped their cars with Junior Chamber banners and a sign "Home of the Mann Cup champions—1951-52-53". The delegates raced throughout sections of the parade dressed in sweaters of the Mann Cup champions and staged lacrosse face-offs at the intersections on the parade route.

At the regional banquet Mrs. Kate Aitken addressed the delegates on her recent trip to Africa. Doug. Landry presented Mrs. Aitken with a sketch drawn during her address.

In the oratorical contest four speakers delivered addresses n the subject, "Canada's Business Opportunities For Young Men." Winner was Ed. Matthews, Kingston. Other speakers were Clarence Marshall, Brockville; Bill Wright, Ottawa, and Doug. Vaisey, Peterborough.

D. Leo. Dolan, Director of the Canadian Government Travel Bureau, was the key-note speaker at the Sunday luncheon. Mr. Dolan in an address finted with humor maintained a serious theme: the preservation of the traditions of Canada, the discovery of the outstanding features of many parts of Canada, and the development of historical sites.

Elected as vice-presidents of the region were: Jack Gray, Arnprior; J. De Witt, Brockville, and Andre Paquette, Hawkesbury.

Two Russians Drop In At CC Meeting

VIENNA (AP)—Two Russians sauntered into a meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce today and listened for two hours to the latest capitalistic doctrine on "economic development and private enterprise."

The two were economic experts of the Soviet high commission in Austria. Their surprise visit coincided with unconfirmed reports that 40 trade experts from Russia and her European satellites had arrived here in an effort to make contacts with the 1,000 business men attending the chamber's congress.

The Russians heard a speech by Dr. Michael Heilperin of New York, economic adviser to the United States council of the chamber.

Dr. Heilperin said the next two years may bring either "the fulfilment of our fondest aspirations" or "a major economic crisis."

"A major crisis in international payments is by no means out of the question," Dr. Heilperin said, "and if it should occur, it would deal a severe body blow to surviving capitalism."

A Canadian delegation of 17 business men is attending the conference. The main Canadian pronouncement will be made Friday in a speech by D. P. Cruikshank of Ottawa, president of the Canadian council of the ICC.

Waves Swept Lifeboat Away

CLEVELAND (AP) — Storm waves on Lake Superior swept away one lifeboat of the Henry Steinbrenner, and the ore carrier listed too much to launch another, a cook Monday told a coast guard board inquiring into the sinking that cost 17 lives a week ago.

Bernard Oberoski, second cook on the Stenbrenner, said after the ship went down the lifeboat the men had tried to launch stayed afloat and he climbed aboard it.

Oberoski and Kenneth L. Kumm, a deckhand, testified at the concluding session of a marine board of investigation. The two men were among 14 who survived the sinking.

When the 4,350-ton Steinbrenner went down, Oberoski said "I was still standing on the deck. . . I was sucked down under and I don't know how long it was before I came up. I saw my life pass before me."

The Steinbrenner was in Lake Superior off Isle Royale when it went down last Monday.

Five Canadians Mentioned In Dispatches

By BILL BOSS

IN KOREA (CP)—Mentions in dispatches of one officer and four men were announced today in a sequel to the May 2 victory of the Royal Canadian Regiment over Chinese attackers.

The attack was hurled back after 2nd. Lieut. Edgar Hollyer of Toronto ordered a curtain of Canadian shell fire over his own forward positions which had been over-run. Hollyer earlier received the Military Cross for his presence of mind.

Today's mentions in dispatches:

Capt. M. J. Mullin, Charlottetown; Pte. V. E. Colyer, Medrum Creek, B. C.; Cpl. Ronald Brayton, Halifax; Sgt. Gerard J. Ha. nois, Calgary; L. Bdr. Robert Walsh, Windsor, Ont.

Capt. Mullin commanded the RCR company which held the ridge which was the major Chinese objective. Brayton, a medical assistant, and Colyer, signaller for Lieut. Hollyer, were the only ones left with Hollyer in his forward position after the intensive Canadian shelling filled the Canadian trenches with Chinese dead.

Sgt. Harnois, of the Lord Strathcona Horse, organized his crew into an ammunition party when his own tank was disabled. When the crew of another tank was wounded he took the vehicle over and kept it in action.

Walsh was one of three signallers, two of whom were killed, who helped hold an artillery observation post closest to the battle scene. It took 25 direct hits.

Flying Bishop Dies Suddenly

TORONTO—The Rt. Rev. Archibald Lang Fleming, 69, known as the flying bishop for his flights over the northland and sub-Arctic, died of a heart attack Sunday.

He had been living in Goderich and was visiting Toronto.

Bishop Fleming was the first Anglican bishop of the Arctic and he ministered to a diocese covering 1,250,000 square miles inhabited by 10,000 Eskimos. He was known by them as In-Nook-Tah-Kaub, meaning one of the family of the Eskimos.

Born in Greenock, Scotland, he offered his services as a missionary to the Eskimos and came to Canada in 1908 and entered Wycliffe College. He spent two years in Baffin Land before graduating. He was made a deacon in 1912 and a priest in 1913, the same year he married Helen Grace Gillespie.

Bishop Fleming visited the Arctic annually. His diocese stretched from Aklavik to Labrador and south to Fort George on James Bay.

Sales, Ad Club Suggests Sales Courses At Collegiate

In co-operation with the collegiate, the Peterborough Sales and Advertising Club hopes to have courses in advertising and selling as part of the vocational curriculum. The club plan was presented today to the senior assembly at PCVS by Russ Baer, club president.

Mr. Baer pointed out that a similar plan is already working effectively at the Kitchener-Waterloo Collegiate Institute. There all courses in advertising and selling conform to Department of Education approval, night school, a one-year course, and a three-year course at day school.

The night school teaches salesmanship, he explained, adding that the three-year course of 12 subjects includes retailing, display and salesmanship.

PROVIDES SPEAKERS

The Kitchener Sales and Advertising Club assists actively by providing speakers at assemblies, giving instruction, having students at club meetings, providing merchandise displays, helping with a part-time employment programe and giving sales demonstrations.

The speakers, said Mr. Baer, give special talks at meetings of the entire body and are to inspire the students "with an awareness of advertising and selling as an admirable, desirable and profitable career."

The instructional aids would provide modern ideas on present-day selling and do much to keep the course fresh by supplementing the class textbooks.

During the speech period at all Sales and Ad club meetings the senior students hear top-flight speakers on selling and advertising, helping to develop a proper background for the students.

Mr. Baer said their display instruction program there has several important features. With the instructor a member of the club, the display, a modern-styled display window, is set up in one of the classrooms. Materials and merchandise are provided by the Sales and Ad club members.

In Kitchener, said Mr. Baer, the Department of Education has sanctioned as part of the curriculum two afternoons a week when senior students work in stores at the nominal rate of $1 an afternoon. There they learn store procedure.

"Since these students are employed during school hours, the school has an interest in their progress," said Mr. Baer. He explained that the employers make out regular reports.

"The plan generally has been found so effective that a number of the merchants hire students for the rest of the day and on Saturdays at current rates of pay."

Mr. Baer said the broad scope of advertising and selling, both in industry and in retail business has an unlimited future for young Canadians, boys and girls.

On Friday discussions on sales and advertising will be led by John Madden, sales manager outboard division, Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co., and by Andrew Rutter, advertising manager of the Quaker Oats Co., at a special meeting for students interested in those fields.

56 Fatalities Over Holiday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

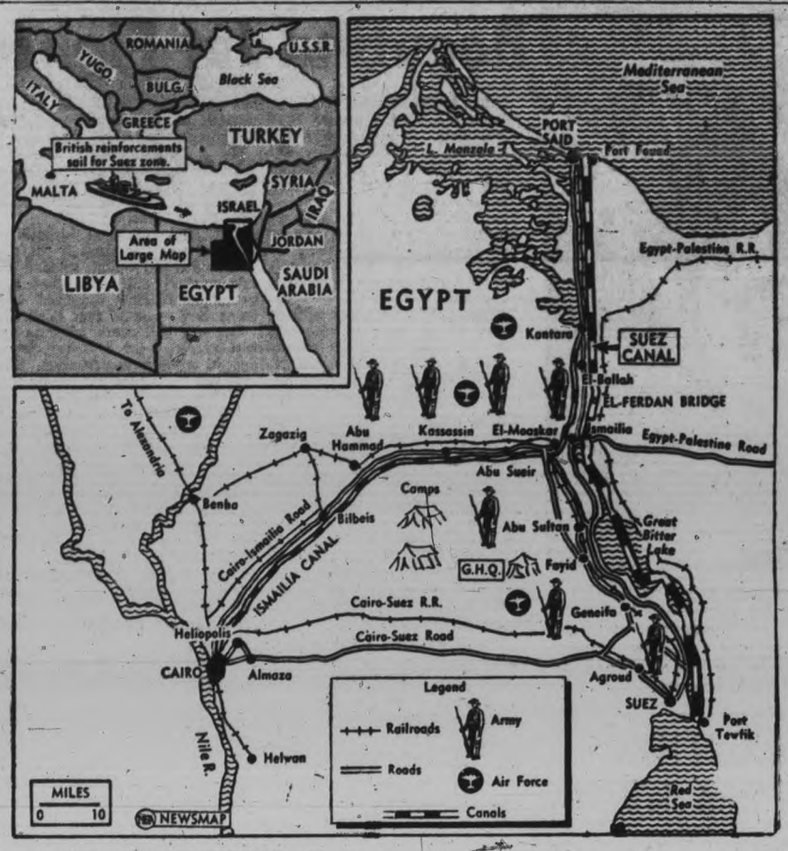
The number of violent deaths across Canada from midnight Friday to early Tuesday—Victoria Day weekend and the first big holiday of the summer—reached 56.

The big figure is a sharp increase over last year's total of 33 for the same period.

Traffic and drowning accidents accounted for 32 lives. A Canadian Press compilation showed 22 persons died in highway accidents and 10 were drowned, several in boating accidents.

Five persons lost their lives in fires and 10, including eight airmen, were killed in two separate plane crashes. Of the remaining nine, one, a guard at a mental hospital in Ontario, was killed by a patient.

There were 24 deaths in Quebec, 16 in Ontario, four in each of New Brunswick and British Columbia, three in Nova Scotia and two each in Prince Edward Island and Alberta and one in Manitoba.



Must Keep Guard Up Chevrier Tells Cadets

CORNWALL (CP) — Transport Minister Chevrier told an army cadet rally Sunday that the western countries "must not let our guard down" despite Russia's peace moves.

More than 1,700 cadets of eight affiliated corps—one of the largest rallies held in Canada—listened to the minister, who represents Stormont riding here.

"These are difficult days," Mr. Chevrier said, "because the Soviet Union has changed its policy from one of violence in words and deeds to a much softer policy.

"This they have done in an effort to lure us into trusting them. But we must not let our guard down."

EGYPT PUTS SQUEEZE ON—The fate of the Suez Canal, the Western world's most strategically placed military bastion in the stormy Middle East, was again in jeopardy after Egypt's strong man, General Naguib, threatened war unless Britain removes her garrisons there. The Egyptian army immediately imposed rigid controls along the canal and all supplies provided by Egyptian dealers to the British garrison are banned unless a special permit is obtained. To meet the crisis, 80,000 British troops in the area were alerted for action, and reinforcements were being shipped in from Malta. Above Newsmap shows location of British forces in Suez Canal zone. Inset shows strategic importance of the area, considered the keystone to the defence of the Mediterranean area.

U.K. Schoolboys Sail For Canada

LONDON (CP) — Forty British schoolboys sail for Canada late in July for a two-week tour of Ontario and Quebec.

The visit will be the fifth under an educational trust fund established by W. H. Rhodes, Yorkshire industrialist. The tours were suspended during the Second World War and remained in abeyance until 1951 because of currency difficulties.

The boys, drawn from secondary schools in London, Birmingham, Bradford and Glasgow, will be given a send-off at a civic reception in London's county hall. They sail from Southampton July 30 aboard the liner Scythia.

The tour includes visits to the Plains of Abraham at Quebec, stops at Toronto, Montreal, Hamilton and Niagara Falls, Ont., and a steamship trip across Lake Temagami in Northern Ontario. The boys will spend three days in camp and then go to Ottawa.

The party returns home from Montreal Aug. 19 on the liner Franconia.

The Cathedral of St. Lucius at Coire in Switzerland was begun in 1178.

$30,000,000 Copper Development To Change Economy Of Gaspe

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A $30,000,000 copper mining development in the wilds of Gaspe peninsula will bring some big changes to the area's economic life.

Fishing, agriculture and lumbering for years have been main sources of revenue in Gaspe. Tourist business flourished during the summer months in dozens of small towns and villages along the shores of the St. Lawrence river, the Gulf of St. Lawrence and Baie des Chaleurs.

The copper development, including mining site, smelter and town, all in Holland township, about 60 miles west of Gaspe village, now is expected to open up the vast, rugged interior.

The development is no fly-by-night affair. An estimated 50,000,000 tons of copper ore have been proven and Premier Duplessis has given the mining operations, scheduled to start next year, a 100-year life span.

USE 1,000 WORKMEN

About 1,000 men now are working at building mine establishments and the town. Gaspe Copper Mines Limited, a subsidiary of Noranda Mines Limited, is committed to construct all public services.

Construction is carried out under the supervision of both the Quebec mines and municipal affairs departments and will be paid for from money from sale of housing lots.

The Quebec legislature adopted a government bill at the last session establishing the town, which probably will be called Rossville, after the Most Rev. F. X. Ross, late Roman Catholic bishop of Gaspe. The town will have a population of 5,000 persons.

A smelter soon will be built for preliminary processing of the copper ore before shipment to the firm's Montreal East refinery.

The provincial government and the mining company will share the cost of building a road from the mine site to Anse Pleureuse, near Mont Louis, on the St. Lawrence river. The ore will be trucked from the mine to the St. Lawrence river harbor for shipment to Montreal.

POWER LACK PROBLEM

The lack of electric power in Gaspe peninsula was one of the toughest problems in getting the development under way. It was decided finally to bring electricity to Gaspe peninsula by underwater cables from St. Lawrence north shore hydro-electric developments.

At first, part of the output of a 100,000 horse-power development on the Manicouagan river, to be inaugurated next July, will be carried by four 31-mile-long cables laid across the St. Lawrence river bed.

The cables will link Chutes aux Outardes on the St. Lawrence north shore and Les Boules, near Matane, where a power plant will redistribute electric power.

Later, when a hydro-electric development on the Bersimis river is completed, it will become the source of power for Gaspe peninsula.

The Bersimis development will have an initial output of 200,000 horse-power, but its ultimate production will probably be 1,700,000 horse-power.

STATE COACH IN SUGAR—John Wattinger, of Winnipeg, an artistic cake maker, has sculptured in icing sugar a model of the state coach to be used in the Coronation procession. The coach is pulled by eight postillion-driven Windsor Greys and Wattinger also made a copy of the St. Edward's crown. Among his previous works were models in sugar of Winnipeg's city hall, Buckingham Palace and the Crown jewels. For the coach and horses it took 60 pounds of sugar and 120 hours of work.

Mexicans Want Children To Be Educated In Canada

MEXICO CITY — "Mexicans have the highest regard for your educational system in Canada and we want very much to have our children educated there. But the difficulty is getting any information about what schools are available," Sr. Jose Patino of Cia Mexicana de Aviacion told me.

"I have a daughter, 13, who is going to attend a school near Toronto, but I have had a terrible time finding it. You never see any advertisements or literature about Canadian schools here and the only way we are able to find out is if we are lucky enough to know someone who has had his children in school there. I think Canadians are overlooking a good bet Many more of us would be interested if we could obtain some data.

"Canadian schools are much better than United States schools," Sr. Patino declared. "They have higher educational standards and are much stricter morally. When our children are so far away we want to be sure that they are as well looked after as they would be at home. Most Mexicans are anxious, too, for their children to learn French. We feel it broadens them a great deal to have English and French as well as Spanish."

Two of Sr. Patino's sons attended school in the U.S. When they came home after two years, he found they were away behind their Mexican comrades in the to send his daughter to Canada.

HARD TO BE SEPARATED

It is not easy for Mexicans to part with their children for they have a closely knit family unit. In this case, Miss Patino will have to remain in Canada for two years before she will be able to see her family again. I am hoping that if she visits me in Peterborough that citizens will be as kind to her as Mexicans have been to me.

In the same vein, Sr. and Sra. Fernando Reyes, of Taxco, have a young daughter about that age whom they are planning to send to a school near Chatham in the next year or two. They chose Chatham because they are well acquainted with an MP from there and they want their girl to know at least one person in this new country.

Mexicans show how highly they value the education Canada offers because of the expense they are willing to undertake. Mexican currency has a much lower value than the Canadian dollar — roughly about 8 pesos to the dollar —and it takes a lot of money to keep a youngster away from home that length of time. So with no effort on her own part, Canada's reputation has been growing.

BUS RIDE FUN

One of the most interesting ways to see Mexico City is to take a two-hour bus ride by first class bus to the outskirts of the city, passing along the Paseo de la Reforma. The fine buildings and homes along one of the loveliest boulevards i nthe world is an enjoyable scene. Every little way there are beautiful fountains with water spraying out, and the one to the oil workers made of copper is the finest.

As you pass along this route you will see the new civic auditorium being built which will hold 18,500. It is fashioned in the most modernistic of designs. It seems to be all glass. There are so many buildings along the Paseo—apartments and offices—that are mainly glass, taking full advantage of light and air. Towards the end of the belt line there is the huge army hospital and the big army building housing the Secretariat of War. It is beautiful to look at and has the best equipment. The newspaper colonia is along this way, too. Here the government has given the union land and buildings for newspaper employees. "Newspapertown" extends over several blocks and there are some fine homes.

Riding the buses is a wonderful way to see the Mexican people. That day there were young soldiers about 18, just coming off duty. Army service is compulsory there as in the United States and many European countries. There are people such as you would find in any Canadian city on a similar conveyance and Indian women carrying babies in their robozos. A ride teeming with color—all for the price of about 25 or 30 centavos (5 or 6 cents).

Canadian frogs finished far down the list.

Can't Take It, a local frog owned by Roy Weimer, won the $250 first prize with a distance of 16 feet 6½ inches in three hops. That's well short of the record 16 feet 2 inches set by Maggie in 1946.

Slough Foot Sue, owned by R. E. Whiting of Sacramento, managed 14 feet 3 inches for second place and $125. Lightning, owned by Walter Day of Gustine, Calif., hopped 12 feet 11 inches for third and $60.

Top Canadian entry was King of Georgian Bay, owned by Ben A. Graham of Owen Sound. The King placed 13th with 9 feet 6½ inches.

IODE Regent Supports Empire Day Idea

HAMILTON (CP) — If Empire Day is "baloney," it is the kind of baloney the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire is proud to serve, Mrs. M. C. Dorsey, regent of the Hamilton chapter of the IODE, said Saturday.

She was commenting on remarks made Friday by J. W. Chafe, principal of Alexandra School in Winnipeg. Mr. Chafe told his students that Empire Day is "a lot of baloney. . . as dated as the penny-farthing bicycle and the bustle."

Mrs. Dorsey said that while it is true that Canada now is a nation in its own right it would not be well for her to turn "scornfully" away from the country from which Canadian traditions had sprung.

Walks 62 Miles To Celebrate Birthday

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Brandt Johnston, 62 Monday, celebrated her birthday by travelling 62 miles by automobile in the direction of Welland.

Then she laced on running shoes and walked the 62 miles back home to Toronto.

To keep up her strength and spirits during the 16-hour hike, she ate dates, whole wheat buns and a black olive sandwich. When she got thirsty she took a drink of water and a tall glass of buttermilk.

Back home, she said: "I've felt more tired after some 50-mile walks."

Beautiful Jet Fighter Camp

By ARCH MacKENZIE

ZWEIBRUCKEN, Germany (CP) —More than 700 RCAF personnel settling in at this third Canadian airbase in Europe will be on top of the world if they appreciate material comforts.

The men and women who fly and maintain the Sabre jets of Canada's No. 3 fighter wing officially took over this German-built, French-financed base late last month.

Visitors here for the international ceremony saw enough to convince them that the spacious, cream-colored offices, barracks and recreation centres add up to something hard to beat in service set-ups.

"They haven't missed a thing," said a touring RCAF officer, eyeing the amenities of theatre, gymnasium and working and living premises.

Barracks features include tiled bathrooms, carpets, easy chairs and two-bed cubicles. There is a Protestant and Roman Catholic church. Asphalt roads and cement sidewalks are installed and there is visible evidence of extensive landscaping plans.

SUMPTUOUS LIVING

"This is the sergeants' mess," said a guide, indicating a sumptuous, roomy lounge, its walls banked with chesterfields, easy chairs and low tables. Other messes, he said, are on similar lines.

Sunshine streamed through half-wall windows, except where black-out curtains, doubling as shades, served as a reminder of why Canadian airmen are here.

No. 3 fighter wing is Canada's third European aerial contribution to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. A fourth wing will be added this year.

This first Canadian airbase on German soil lies atop a plateau, surrounded by rolling, wooded terrain pocked with the ruined pillboxes of Hitler's Siegfried line. Some had walls 11 feet thick.

German bulldozers bit into the rust-colored Saar soil two years ago to initiate construction. German labor moulded French designs into the virtually finished project at undisclosed cost. The expense is being met by France from German war-reparation payments.

HOUSING TIGHT

Quiet, 30,000 - population Zweibrucken, nearest city, was nearly destroyed by Allied bombs just before the war ended. The raid was summoned to try to smoke out a pocket of diehard Germans, but when the bombs dropped they were gone.

War devastation makes for tight housing. That's the complaint of personnel looking for accommodation for the limited number of dependents that now can be brought from Canada at government expense under certain conditions.

It adds, too, to the wing's diplomatic problems. Most of the Canadians are too new here to assess their position. One young officer said Zweibrucken is a conservative town—"you meet girls in the family home, not in the street."

Perhaps the best illustration of German reaction to the past is the story, perhaps apocryphal, of a house-hunting RCAF man and his landlady. She said it was too bad the Allies had bombed Zweibrucken so heavily. The RCAF man replied quietly that places such as London, Coventry and Liverpool had suffered, too.

"Ah yes," said the German woman, "but the Allies used such big bombs."

Hundreds Welcome Old Locomotive

AURORA (CP)—Hundreds of citizens, many in costumes of a century ago, crowded the Canadian National Railways station Saturday to welcome old 674, an 1899 model locomotive.

At the throttle of the antique engine, which towed a string of gaudy, yellow coaches at seven miles an hour, was Premier Frost of Ontario. The arrival of the museum train signalled the opening of a two-day celebration marking the 100th anniversary of the steam railway in the province.

The first locomotive chugged over the 30-mile line from Toronto, first section of the Ontario, Simcoe and Huron Railway, 100 years ago Saturday.

As late as 1817 no maps could give a definite outline of Canada's arctic coastline.

Lili St. Cyr Doesn't Strip, She Dresses

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This might be called the life and times of a strip-teaser, except that Lili St. Cyr says she doesn't strip. She dresses.

Lili, star of burlesque, is now going in for the higher type of things. She is playing an Oriental vamp in a Howard Hughes epic called "Son of Sinbad." This sounded as though it might be newsy, if not educational, so I arranged a meeting with her.

"How do you like acting?" I asked.

"I don't know yet," she replied. "I'll wait and see how this turns out. I don't like the hours. Up at 6 and work for 12 hours. It's hard work."

Lili is a tall, ample blonde with a classical kind of face. Nice ankles. She didn't display much enthusiasm for her film career, but she seemed at home when talking about her usual profession. Not stripping. Dressing.

NOT A PEELER

She wants it known that she isn't a peeler. She starts out her act with little or nothing on and then puts on a chic wardrobe that is admired by the women. How did she get started with this routine?

"I was going to open at a club in New York," she said, "when the police passed a regulation. They said no performers could leave the stage with less clothes than when they came on. No clothes could be removed; a man couldn't even take off his coat!

"I was moaning about it at the bar, and a drunk said 'Why don't you dress?' I laughed it off, but that night I thought about it. It was something new and different. (Also legal.) So I started doing my act in reverse. The police thought it was okay, and I've been doing it ever since."

NEVER HAS COLD

I asked Miss St. Cyr about various aspects of her work. Does she catch colds with all those clothes off?

"No—knock on wood," she replied, tapping her forehead. "Sometimes I get a backache or stomach ache from the drafts backstage, but never a cold."

How did she get started in this line of work?

"I started in the chorus at the old Florentine Gardens," said Lili, a Los Angeles girl. "I managed to work into specialties. Whenever they needed a girl in a sketch to stand sexily with few clothes on, I was chosen. Then I gradually worked into my own act."

Malan Still Lacks Votes To Implement Program

By ASTLEY HAWKINS

PRETORIA (Reuters)—Despite its victory in the country's recent national elections, Premier Daniel F. Malan and his Nationalist party still lacks the votes it needs in the South African Assembly to implement its program.

Malan now controls 94 of the assembly's 159 seats compared with 86 in the last Parliament but he is still short of the two-thirds he needs jointly in both Houses of Parliament to pass certain legislation without the fear of it being rejected in legal test cases.

In the 48-member Senate which was not involved in the recent general election, the Nationalists held only 27 seats at the end of the last Parliament in February.

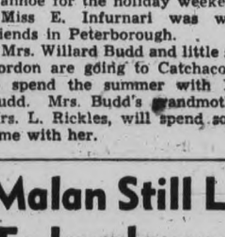
The government's immediate problem is its colored voters bill, a measure to transfer mixed blood voters from the common voters roll to a separate register. Their plan to carry this out was thwarted in the last Parliament by Appeal Court decisions that it was invalid because it had been approved by only a bare majority.

SPECIFICALLY PROTECTED

The "colored voters," a centuries-old mixed racial community living mostly in Cape Province, with male members granted traditional voting rights by early settlers, are specifically protected by the South African Constitution.

The Constitution of 1910 established that any law seeking to disqualify voters in Cape Province on racial grounds must have a two-thirds majority vote of the Assembly and Senate in joint session.

Similar provisions applied to any law seeking to repeal or alter the status of English and Afrikaans (a Dutch-based dialect) as South Africa's official languages. These voting and language rights are known as the "entrenched clauses" of the constitution.



WOULD LIKE CHANGE

Pressing their "apartheid" (complete segregation) policies for nonwhites in South Africa, the Nationalists feel that the "Cape Coloreds" should no longer be permitted to vote with whites on the common roll in elections but have their own register to elect four representatives of their own in Parliament. Africans already have a similar restricted franchise giving them three white members of Parliament.

More than doubling their majority in the last election with apartheid as their main platform, the Nationalists see a clear mandate to pursue their racial legislation but face a recurring impasse in the Constitution.

The government's next move is awaited with international interest.

Ask Lake Level Be 247 Feet

TORONTO (CP)—Property owners along the shore of western Lake Ontario last week urged that the level of the lake be regulated so that it is no higher than 247 feet above sea level.

The international Lake Ontario board of engineers, which will write a report on the St. Lawrence seaway project for the international joint commission, conducted a survey last week and had a mixed reception, although all groups favored regulating the lake at that level.

At Rochester, N. Y., Norman Atterby, president of the Lake Ontario Land Development and Beach Protection Association, charged that the board was interested only in higher water levels in the lake.

S. H. Fleming, secretary of the association, told the board in St. Catharines that he refused to be a party to its survey because it showed "no real desire to seek the facts."

W. J. A. Fair Condemns State Health Insurance

W. J. Arthur Fair, QC, spoke out strongly in opposition to the schemes of state health insurance at the Saturday noon luncheon of the Accident and Health Underwriters Association of Ontario at the Empress Hotel.

"I am in accord with the Canadian and American Bar Associations when they take the view that we are drifting towards a form of socialism and bureaucracy fast enough that anything your association can do to stop the drift will be of benefit to us all," Mr. Fair said.

He told his audience of health and accident insurance men from across the province that he had recently studied the attitude of the American Bar Association towards health insurance plans and had discovered hat they were opposed to state schemes because they could become tools of government. He believed that the majority view of Canadian lawyers was the same.

He said that the Workmen's Compensation Act was introduced to avoid hearings cluttering up the courts and that lawyers were still visited by people who claim they had not got just compensation for their injuries but "we will not handle them because as soon as the board gets a letter from a lawyer the red flag goes up.

"When there is free competition, as there should be, among companies who insure people for specific amounts, then a man can cut his cloth to fit his needs.

CAN'T ALL AFFORD IT

"Unfortunately," the speaker said, "only a certain class of people can afford health insurance. But the others can go to the welfare authorities and receive the care they need."

Mr. Fair was introduced by Ken Kingston of Peterborough, who was chairman of the meeting, and thanked by J. Idris Williams, Toronto, president of the association.

A civic welcome was extended by Acting Mayor T. D. Miller.

Others at the head table were Reginald Sprung of Toronto, secretary-treasurer, Mrs. J. Idris Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Rea of Toronto, and Earl Putnam of Waterloo.

The association, which usually holds its monthly meetings in Toronto, has 108 members. John Ingle is first vice-president, and Harry Cheetham is second vice-president. Both are from Toronto.

Plowmen's Secretary Asked To Open Fair

ROSENEATH (ENS. — C. W. Varcoe, secretary of Roseneath Agricultural Society, has extended a personal invitation on behalf of the Fair Board to Mr. Hall, of Workington, Cumberlandshire, England, secretary of the World Plowing Association, to officially open Roseneath Fair October 3.

It is hoped that the overseas delegation of plowmen to the world plowing match will also be guests at the Roseneath Fair.

The plans that this delegation will attend the Fair has been endorsed by he Counties' Plowmen's Association and the Ontario Plowmen's Association, but not yet by the World's Plowmen's Association.

Hopes are running high in the Roseneath Agricultural Society, with A. J. Campbell as president, that with these added attractions the Roseneath Fair of 1953 will be bigger and better than ever.

Waves To Friend, Then Falls To Death

BELLEVILLE — David Derlaw, 18, waved to his girl friend to join him for a swim in the Moira river Saturday afternoon, slipped on the rocks and fell to his death.

Coroner Dr. J. Russell Scott, who pronounced the young swimmer dead after more than two hours of inhalator treatment, said he apparently injured himself in the fall from the rock edge.

Young Derlaw, who lives in Belleville, was swimming in the Moira just below Lasiers Dam north of the city. He was in swimming trunks and ready for the swim with his girl friends.

He came to the surface once, shouted, and then disappeared. His body was recovered in 15 minutes and the Belleville Fire Department applied inhalator treatment for an hour. Officials at Belleville General Hospital tried to revive him for another hour.

Dr. Scott said the young swimmer had injuries on his forehead. There will be no inquest.

OLD HOMES

At the meeting of the Peterborough Historical Society Wednesday evening in the Public Library, Mrs. Gordon Maniece will give a paper on houses of Peterborough.

ON STATE BOARD

Ernest J. Wolff, of Peterborough, was elected to the Ontario state board of the Knights of Columbus at the 50th anniversary convention in St. Catharines during the holiday weekend. Attending from Peterborough were: Mr. Wolff, Joseph Paquette and P. J. Anglesey.

SIGN OF SUMMER

A week early or not the 24th of May is looked on as the first harbinger of summer. That's the way the OPP look on it anyway because Monday they put on their summer issue—light tunic and pants for the first time this year. The Peterborough City Police however will have to sweat it out a while longer. Generally by the end of June or early July — when the real dog days are here —they are permitted to shed their heavy tunics. If the hot sun continues that's going to seem like an awfully long time for them.

MISSING VEHICLES

Provincial Police are alerted to the possibility of a new wave of motor vehicle thefts hitting the district. A four-ton truck parked at Stenson's Garage in North Monaghan township, was stolen early Saturday morning. The truck, owned by Floyd Dunford, contractor, has not been seen since and the OPP are asking people, particularly those in rural areas to keep a lookout for a dump-truck answering this description. The licence number is 4927-B. A pick-up truck, owned by J. H. Coomes of Lakefield was stolen almost exactly a month ago. No trace of it has been found either. It carried licence plates 64221-B.

Eager Donors

NORTH LUFFENHAM, England (CP)—In a single day more than 250 members of the RCAF's No. 1 fighter wing here gave blood donations to a British Red Cross clinic. Sqdn.-Ldr. D. Owen Coons of Hamilton supervised the operation.

Find Boy's Body In Trent River After Two Days

CAMPBELLFORD— (ENS) — The body of three-year-old Bobby Pantetla was recovered from the water of the Trent River about 3 p.m. Sunday.

Volunteers, under the direction of Provincial Constable George Rose, had been dragging the two-mile stretch of water continually since the child disappeared from his father's cottage early Friday afternoon.

Bobby was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert "Rockey" Panetla, 3 Faircrest Circle, Toronto. The family had come down from Toronto Thursday evening for the holiday weekend.

IN DEEP HOLE

The body was discovered lodged in a deep spot in the river bed, only a short distance from the cottage. First to make the disovery was Walter Scott, lockmaster at the locks just above the cottage. Mr. Scott called to Donald McArthur, who waded out from shore and recovered the body.

Later coroner Dr. D. M. Dure of Brighton released the body to Bennett's Funeral Parlours, in Campbellford.

SEARCHED WOODS

Boy Scouts combed the woods behind the cottage early Saturday morning in case the child had wandered in and become lost. Each day, through the co-operation of the Trent Canal and H. E. P. C. officials, the water was lowered to facilitate the dragging operations. On Sunday, the reach was almost drained and this led to the discovery. Large numbers of citizens spent Friday evening, all day Saturday and most of Sunday dragging the river. Resort owners nearby aided the search by lending boats and outboard motors.

It is believed that the little boy fell into the fast water in front of the cottage when he lost his balance while fishing. He was out of his father's sight only a few minutes when the accident happened.

Body Found In Moira R. Not Identified

Believe Swimmer Drowned Last Autumn

MARMORA (ENS)—The body of an unidentified man was discovered at Bronson's Rapids in the Moira River about five miles southwest of Madoc about 11 p.m. Sunday.

The body, which was found against a rock in about three feet of water, was discovered by Carl Reynolds and I. V. Harrington of RR 4, Madoc, who were spearing suckers in the river. They called provincial police and Corporal John Hatch and Coroner Dr. S. R. Beatty recovered the body which was taken to Madoc.

An autopsy, conducted by provincial pathologist Dr. Hans Lucke of Belleville, revealed that the body had been in the river since last fall.

The body was that of a man about 25 years old, about five feet 10 inches tall and weighing 150 to 175 pounds. He had been well-built and muscular and apparently in very good health. He had a good set of teeth with only one upper back tooth missing and two fillings. He appeared to have had brown eyes but this was not definite. He had a thick neck and the hair was thought to have been dark brown but pigmentation tests will be made to determine the color of the hair.

SWIMMING TRUNKS

The body was clothed only in a pair of sand-colored nylon bathing trunks. Tied around the neck on a piece of nylon fishing line was an imitation diamond-shaped emerald about a quarter inch wide in an inexpensive mounting which appeared to have been a clasp or an ear-ring.

The area in which he was apparently swimming is wilderness and police, who made a wide search, found no trace of any clothes.

No one from the Madoc district was reported missing about the time the man is thought to have drowned. A province-wide check is being made by the OPP but so far no one answering the description of the body has been reported missing in the province.

Driver Thrown From Car, Neck Dislocated

LINDSAY (ENS)—A 35-year-old Toronto man, W. Ladyslaw Trzetaez, is in serious condition in Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay, following a Sunday evening mishap on Highway 35, north of Lindsay, when his car left the road as he was driving back to Toronto and rolled into the ditch.

According to Provincial Police at Lindsay, Trzetaez was thrown clear of the vehicle and the car rolled partially over him. He suffered a dislocated neck, and is at present paralyzed from the waist down.

Taken to the Ross Memorial Hospital immediately, Trzetaez was treated by Dr. H. G. Metcalfe and is under the care of Drs. Metcalfe and Gorman of Lindsay.

Trzetaez's wife, Hildur and their child were also riding in the car at the time of the accident. They received only minor bruises. The family live at 199 Borden Ave., Toronto.

At present, Mrs. Trzetaez and the child are staying at a Lindsay motel.

Provincial Police in the area, despite a heavy flow of traffic, found drivers behaving themselves for the most part, and handled only four accidents on local highways during the weekend.

One of them, a head-on collision Saturday morning sent five persons to hospital for treatment and the most serious was that involving Mr. Trzetaez, on Sunday night. Two other minor accidents were reported.

Fishermen Crowd Rivers, Lakes Catch Few Fish

Holiday weekend pickerel fishing was poor.

And there never were so many fishermen trying in the Kawarthas. The most likely spots that usually produce fair luck proved disappointing and by late Monday afternoon fleets of anchored boats moved ashore, their occupants disgusted.

No one has been able to account for the unprecedented number of American fishermen who came into the district for the opening of the season. Many of them, resort operators say, were regular customers, with new customer-friends, and who will come back for their regular vacations later in the summer, some even for a third try in September. They, too, had poor luck but many of them are staying in the district for a week and may have some trophies to take home with them.

BOATS IN DEMAND

Resort and boat livery operators were able to rent anything that would float to accommodate fishermen who thought their best chances were at the foot on long rapids in fast deep water.

At Young's Point, 24 boats at one time could be seen bobbing in the swift current and filled with fishermen with long faces.

Rapids shorelines were also well filled wtih eager fishermen. The best pickerel reported, so far, was taken by Harry Samuels, of Toronto, 8½ pounds, taken with a worm lure 20 feet off shore. There were one or two in the same size class taken at Bobcaygeon but names of fishermen are not available.

The majority of fishermen were using live minnow bait but, in the opinion of experts, pickerel schools are gorging themselves on minnow schools and solitary minnows on lines are not attractive to them. One amateur biologist opened a fish at the Lower Locks and found the stomach full of small fry.

Such a rush of trying fishermen had resort operators predicting the best tourist season in the making that the Kawarthas has seen in many years. They cannot see anything to prevent a boom year from developing healthfully.

TROUT CAUGHT

The pressure on pickerel fishing dimmed the try for trout in this immediate district. In North Hastings County, however, many troutmen are reported. In the St. Ola area Mac Cook, Norm Bennett, Jack Lee and Jim English took 46 speckles and, though there were not many on their lake, water to the south of them attracted a great many.

The uncertain weather kept many summer cottage owners indoors over the weekend. From the water, many establishments seen had family cars in the yards and smoke coming from the fireplaces. Few could be seen braving the rainshowers and mosquitoes while they cleaned up their grounds. A bright day would have shown a great deal of activity around their places but, as one cottager remarked, "It's not 24th weather; it's a week too early."

Bottomless Pit Needed To Bury City's Garbage

What Peterborough's sanitation department could do with is a broad deep pit, preferably bottomless, Superintendent Elmo Pierce suggested to the committee Friday. Such a pit would come in handy for winter, in fact it appears to be almost a necessity for facility in disposing of the city's garbage when the frost comes. Mr. Pierce was recently given authority to enquire into the realities of the landfill system when the snow flies.

Recourse to handy depths is the general practice in the cold weather. Brantford is filling a lake with its garbage, Woodstock a ravine, Oshawa an old gravel pit, Kingston a marsh.

Eight of nine cities around Buffalo simply fill and pack in winter, but they don't cover the trenched garbage. Convenient ravines in the Cleveland section of Ohio are a sanitation asset, "but we haven't anything like that here," Mr. Pierce said.

WORKING SMOOTHLY

The landfill plan is working smoothly on the property east of the old dump and fires in North Monaghan, but Mr. Pierce is worrying about winter obstacles, although the ground doesn't freeze until late autumn. Trenches can be dug beforehand but what about the covering fill? It can be stock piled through summer, but what happens if the frost binds it?

Cinders as fill might be just as pervious to frost, so Ald. W. J. Beggs was asking Friday; who's got an old ravine they don't want. The Pierce plans indicate that a lot of trenching will have to be done in anticipation of winter, apart from the mileage of trench that is required for filling through summer and autumn.

It seemed to the committee that landfill method of garbage disposal requires a larger bulldozer than the city bought. For the present, the need of a gargantuan garbage container for winter was viewed from the experience of other cties.

DISCUSSION TIME

"This has been only a discussion," Acting Mayor Miller said, "and it is the right time to have it." Ald. Beggs presided and Aldermen Rehill and Graham were present.

The committee is recommending to council that garbage be barred from all other municipalities except North Monaghan township. Mr. Pierce said people had been carting refuse to the fires from Keene, Lakefield, Otonabee, Smith and other sections of the community.

Hand Mangled By Saw Amputated At Hospital

MARMORA— (ENS)— Nineteen-year-old Glen Pressick had his left hand badly mangled Saturday by a wood saw. Rushed to Belleville Hospital, the youth had his hand amputated at the wrist.

Pressick had been sawing wood at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Burns when the accident occurred. He was treated by Dr. H. G. Parkin. Pressick is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Pressick of Marmora.

31 APPLICATIONS

Assessment Commissioner received 31 applications for the vacancy in his department caused by the resignation of his deputy, Cyril Agnew, who left at the weekend for Port Colborne where he has been engaged as head of the recently organized assessment department as a separate branch of the municipal administration there.

Derek Holme Second In District Roadeo

A Peterborough boy, Derek Holme, 525 McKellar St., placed second Monday in the Eastern Ontario teen-age roadeo. Winner was Don Pryer, of Brockville. The roadeo was held in Ottawa.

Pryer took 541½ points of a possible 623, and Holme took 533. The winner goes to Washington next August to compete in the United States finals for young drivers. Doug Laird, 190 Brock St., also competed in the roadeo.

Holme won first place in the local roadeo, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and Laird was second.

Outbreak Of Hog Cholera Closes Auctions Indefinitely In District

Lindsay, Campbellford Weekly Sales Affected By Wellington Epidemic Putting Auction Barns Under Quarantine

Sale of hogs at community livestock auctions has been indefinitely suspended as an immediate effect of an outbreak in Wellington county, Dr. George Penhall, V.S., said today. At Lindsay this morning he placed an official quarantine on the swine barn at the auction property opposite the Exhibition grounds. Similar sales establishments are affected at Campbellford, Orono and Belleville in the central Ontario district.

"Community sales barns are under quarantine in so far as accepting and selling hogs is concerned," Dr. Penhall said. He is district supervisor for the health of animals branch of the federal Department of Agriculture.

These community livestock auctions have sprung up around the province in the last few years, and have developed as a rather important agency in the selling and buying of farm stock and implements.

700 WEEKLY

"I understand that between 600 and 700 hogs changed hands weekly at the Lindsay auction," Dr. Penhal said. "Obviously, that business has been quite an advantage to farmers. However, hog cholera is a contagious disease, and in the interest of the farmers themselves it demands the quarantine that has now been ordered on these livestock exchanges. It applies only to swine."

The community auctions attracted the attention of many farmers as a local outlet for cattle while the U.S. embargo was in effect. During the early months of this year hog producers took advantage of it in disposing particularly of brood sows and weanling pigs, until in recent months the major livestock markets have been quoting favorable prices for hogs fitted for sale.

It is understod that there is restriction on deliveries of hogs to packing plants, at least there was no contrary information today regarding that business. The outbreak of cholera in swine was reported from Guelph at the week end.

NAMED TO COMMITTEE

Mrs. H. S. Dunham, 509 Homewood Avenue, was named to the central co-ordinating committee of the newly-forming ladies' auxiliary of the Ontario Medical Association. Some 80 doctors' wives attended the organizing convention in Toronto held in conjunction with the 73rd annual convention of the Ontario Medical Association.

Civic Ceremony For Coronation Moved To Bowl

Two changes in the city's Coronation Day program for Tuesday June 2 have been announced by Ald. Syd Black, chairman of the Coronation Day committee.

It has been decided that there will be no program for schoolchildren in the afternoon. Secondly, the evening ceremony, which was to have been held in the market square opposite George St. wharf, will be held in Miller Bowl instead.

ATTEND WITH PARENTS

Mr. Black said that, in view of the very adequate instruction being given in the schools prior to Coronation Day, it was considered unnecessary to have any special ceremony for them on the day itself but that they could attend the evening ceremony in Miller Bowl with their parents.

Tentative plans had been made for special entertainment for schoolchildren at Exhibition Park on the afternoon of Coronation Day, Mr. Black said, but after consulting with other members of the committee this morning, it had been decided to drop them.

The evening events will get under way at 7.30 p.m. with a parade from Confederation Park. City Assessor Ed. Davis will be in charge of the parade which will march to Miller Bowl for the public ceremony in which local civic and religious leaders will take part. The celebration will wind up with a display of fireworks on Little Lake.

Native Dancer Wins Withers Mile Race

NEW YORK (AP)—Native Dancer bounced back into the winner's circle Saturday after his Kentucky Derby defeat, winning the $2,150 Withers Mile in ridiculously easy style from two lesser opponents at Belmont Park.

Alfred Vanderbilt's big grey colt finished four lengths ahead of the Saxon Stable's Invigorator.

Mrs. George Fl. Spear's Real Brother, the only other horse beside Invigorator to tackle the Dancer in the 78th running of the mile race, was third, 2½ lengths farther away.

KEEPING SCORE, Saturday, at the district Scout and Guide field meet on Exhibition Park were (above) Mrs. G. R. Langley (left) and Mrs. Joan Stewart, district Guide commissioner. They watched approximately 1,500 Cubs, Scouts, Guides and Brownies take part in dozens of events, many of which were connected with outdoor skills. At back watching the scores pile up are (left to right) Marion Routly, Marlene Tippet and Carole Routly of the Salvation Army Guide Company.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Walcott Protest Rejected, Urged To Quit

By CHARLES CHAMBERLIN

CHICAGO (AP)—The Illinois Athletic commission, voicing disappointment of Jersey Joe Walcott's showing against Rocky Marciano and urging his retirement, Monday rejected a protest of the fight by the aged ex-champion's manager.

There was little drama at the commission's hearing as chairman Livingston Osborne ruled that Marciano's knockout of Walcott in Chicago Stadium Friday night "stands as official" and all five points of a written protest are "disallowed."

Unless Felix Bocchicchio, Walcott's manager, and his lawyer, Angelo Malandra, decide to seek legal action against the decision in the courts, the case is closed.

Both men attended a special showing of three-dimensional films of the heavyweight title bout prior to the hearing, and charged they had been edited. Bocchicchio then went to Chicago Stadium and picked up a cheque from the International Boxing Club for $250,000 as Walcott's guarantee, before appearing at the commission with Malandra.

CONCLUSIVE PROOF

The moving pictures showed conclusively that Walcott stirred only slightly at the audible count of 10 and then arose, somewhat wobbly, after being waved out by referee Frank Sikora.

In slow motion and conventional speed they showed that Rocky's kayo punch in 2:25 of the first round was a left hook partially blocked, followed by a combination right cross-uppercut sort of blow to the chin.

The right did not appear to be as devastating as the head-snapping right cross Rocky landed eight months ago in Philadelphia to put Walcott away in the 13th round. But it was the damaging blow, and not the left hook that most television fans thought did the trick.

HE SHOULD RETIRE

At the protest meeting, Osborne praised Walcott—who insists he is 39—as a one-time great fighter and then added:

"I think Walcott was through when he went into the ring and I was very disappointed in his performance. . . He should retire."

Bocchicchio's only main utterance before the commission was that "the referee should have wiped off Joe's gloves and continued the fight."

The visitors garnered four runs off three hits in six innings pitched by Doug Loucks for the home crew. Then they jumped on young Hal Williams for five hits and five runs in the seventh and eighth to set up the ball game. Crabby Joskoki with two for four and Nick Mrozek with two for five led the winners at the plate. They collected eight hits, all told, but also received nine walks and the Merchants three costly errors behind their pitchers. Joe Lowery, one for three, Hank Debois, with some solid clouting, and Joe Stewart, were best for the losing home stars.

3 WAYS BEST FOR WHIPPING

1 NO SPECIAL ORDERING— You're always ready to make whipped toppings, whipped cream desserts, when you have Carnation.

2 IT'S SURE TO WHIP— if Carnation, bowl and beater are cold. Never goes buttery.

3 YOU SAVE UP TO 75%— Carnation triples when whipped . . . and costs less than ⅓ as much as whipping cream.

HOW TO WHIP CARNATION
For dessert recipes — chill undiluted Carnation in freezing tray until crystals form around sides. Or chill unopened can several hours on ice. Chill bowl and beater. Whip rapidly. Use in place of whipped cream. For topping — when whipped as above to foamy stage, add 1 tbsp. lemon juice for each ½ cup Carnation used; whip stiff, sweeten to taste.

Fickle Weatherman Spoils Many Holidayers' Plans

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bright spring sunshine in the West, drenching rain in most of the East—that was the setting Monday for Canada's celebration of Victoria Day.

A Canadian Press survey of the observances, which also marked the official birthday of the Queen, showed that most Canadians enjoyed an outdoor holiday in areas where the weather was good and headed for cottages or picnic grounds. Travel was heavy and nearly 60 persons died violently from highway mishaps and other causes. Salutes of 21 guns boomed out in provincial capitals and some other large cities.

Victoria Day is traditionally May 24 but, by government proclamation last January, it was moved ahead this year to coincide with the official birthday of the Queen, who was 27 April 21. To some Canadians, the first big holiday of the summer season seemed a week early, particularly in those areas where the weather proved unfavorable.

CLEARED AT NOON

In most areas of Southern Ontario the rain which started Sunday night cleared away at noon Monday and bright sunshine lured out the motorists, the gardeners and the golfers. However, in many cases the good weather came too late for holiday makers to make up their minds about an outing. The Toronto Island ferries, for example, carried only about 1,500 Victoria Day passengers, compared with the normal holiday volume of 20,000 to 30,000.

Winnipeg's Victoria Day activities included a big welcome for the 1st regiment of the Royal Canadian Heavy Artillery on its return from Korea. The reception was held on the legislative grounds.

The weekend weather in Manitoba was mostly cool and cloudy, although Sunday saw some sun, and rain fell Monday night Travel was fairly heavy, some holidayers heading for the beaches and others just enjoying drives.

Rain forced postponements of sports events and otherwise dampened the holiday spirit in Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, London, Windsor and other centres in Ontario and Quebec. A steady downpour washed out most celebration plans in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. There was no celebration in Newfoundland which, by provincial legislation, will mark Victoria Day May 25.

In Saint John, N. B., where the holiday coincided with the anniversary of the arrival of the first United Empire Loyalists in 1783, a wreath was placed on a memorial at the spot where the Loyalist landed.

The temperature reached 80 Monday in the Edmonton area, the high 70s elsewhere in Alberta and in Saskatchewan. The British Columbia interior also had hot sunshine, but driving rain that started about mid-morning on the lower mainland spoiled many holiday outings. Celebrations in the coastal province included a rodeo at Cloverdale and an Indian pow-wow in North Vancouver.

XI

Friends often ask me how things are arranged at Buckingham Palace. Is there someone for every job that has to be done? Indeed there is.

One day Princess Elizabeth came to me very worried because she had been kept awake most of the night by the scraping and scratching of a mouse.

"I'll send for the Vermin Man," I said.

"Oh, Crawfie, do you have to? Couldn't we just catch it ourselves," she said, "and then let it loose in the garden? I'm sure it doesn't mean any harm."

I am not afraid of mice. But I did not welcome the prospect of spending half the night on my knees coaxing a mouse into a bag and then smuggling it out into the garden.

"I think we'd better get expert advice," I said. "He knows how to do it better than we do."

The Lord Chamberlain's Office publishes a little book stamped with the Crown entitled, "Offices and Addresses of Their Majesties' H- seholds and Officers of State and other Royal Households."

It is known in the Palace as the Green Book, and contains, as it says, the names and addresses of all who work in or are connected with the Royal houses.

It is a useful volume, because one can turn in a second to the appropriate person to solve any problem.

There in the front is a list of The Cabinet, followed by a list of Ministers not in the Cabinet. Then comes a detailed list of the Royal Household, starting off in alphabetical order with the Aides de Camp, First and Principal Naval —through to Keepers of the King's Archives, Resident Factor at Balmoral, Clerk of the Closet, Equerries, Extra Equerries, Gentlemen Ushers, and so on for 72 pages.

But there are several people who attend the Household whose names do not figure in the Green Book. The Vermin Man is one

Like most old buildings with many cupboards and corridors, Buckingham Palace is on constant guard against mice. If you thought you had heard one, all you had to do was summon the Vermin Man and he would undertake to rid your room of the pest.

I told the footman that we wanted to see the Vermin Man and would he please ask him to come to Princess Elizabeth's rooms.

✧ ✧ ✧

At 2:30 exactly there came a knock on the door and the man appeared, carrying his tools in a large bag.

He inspected the floorboards and wainscot and said he saw definite evidence of a mouse being there. Then he brought out his traps and asked the Princess which she preferred.

One was the kind with a spring clip which is released when the mouse tries to get the piece of cheese it carries as bait.

The other was what he called the Treacle Trap. It was built on a piece of wood about a foot square covered with a sticky mess of glue-like substance surrounding a little platform on which was some food flavored with aniseed.

Apparently aniseed is as irresistible to mice as it is to dogs. "The mouse is lured by the smell," the man explained. "It tries to get to the aniseed, and is caught in the treacle."

"What happens after that?" asked Princess Elizabeth.

"It is trapped and dies through exhaustion in trying to get away," the man said.

I saw the 'rincess shudder and knew that the thought of the little creature fighting for its life would torture her.

"I'll have the other sort," she said, without comment.

It is hard for a sensitive person whose feelings are a barometer upon which other people's hard-luck stories play to keep their sympathetic approach.

Mothers would often write to Princess Elizabeth appealing to her to get their sons out of jail. "He has so little and you have so much. . . ."

And occasionally would come graver appeals for her to save a man sentenced to death. Always these letters would grieve her deeply.

She would try to understand why people committed crimes and even when that was beyond her comprehension, still keep her sympathy for them.

"They don't know what they're doing," she would say. "No one could really kill another human being if he was in his right mind."

It distressed her that there was nothing she could do to help these troubled mothers. All such letters were passed to the Home Office.

But no one who wrote to her, whatever the request, had the letter cast aside. Princess Elizabeth would always read the letters through most carefully.

✧ ✧ ✧

XII

At the age of 18 Princess Elizabeth came of age and achieved the dignity of a "Household" of her own, although she continued to live at the Palace.

For her it was the official end of girlhood and the beginning of her career as an important public figure. From then on, as one of the four Counsellors of State who would act for the King in his absence or other emergencies, she would take an increasing part in public affairs.

She was at the age when other girls could expect to enjoy new freedom of choice and action, to make new friends and to go about with them. For the Princess, her coming out meant also the assumption of new and heavy responsibilities.

It came to pass shortly before the Allied landing in Normandy—when many Royal activities had to be veiled in wartime secrecy.

For example, nothing could be revealed publicly of the visit the whole Royal Family made to H.M.C.S. King George V at Greenock, or of the Princess's return to Scotland a few weeks later, to launch at Clydebank the world's greatest battleship Vanguard, which in peacetime was to take the King and Queen and their daughters to South Africa.

That memorable tour was a foreshadowing of the visit of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip, as Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh, to Canada and the United States.

But already, at 18 she had been assigned her own armorial bearings consisting of the Royal Arms differenced by her own heraldic bearings, displayed on a lozenge instead of a shield—and her own Standard which flew wherever she went in Canada and the United States. It is the Standard which flew above Clarence House when she was at home.

From the end of the war Princess Elizabeth had her own Ladies-in-waiting and her own Private Secretary. And immediately after her marriage General Sir Frederick Browning, K.B.E., C.B., D.S.O., was appointed Comptroller to her Household.

Sir Frederick was best known for his gallantry and tenacity in command of the Airborne troops who fought so heroically at Arnhem. Married to the famous novelist, Daphne du Maurier, he was living quietly with her in Cornwall when he was summoned to Clarence House.

I had personal reasons to be pleased to hear of his appointment for I cherished an association with his charming sister, Miss Grace Browning, from the days when Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret, as children at Buckingham Palace, were enthusiastic members of the Palace Company of Girl Guides.

✧ ✧ ✧

There was some talk among the Household about it. Some people wondered why such a man should accept a comparatively self-effacing post when others with far more opportunity for personal advantage must have been open to him.

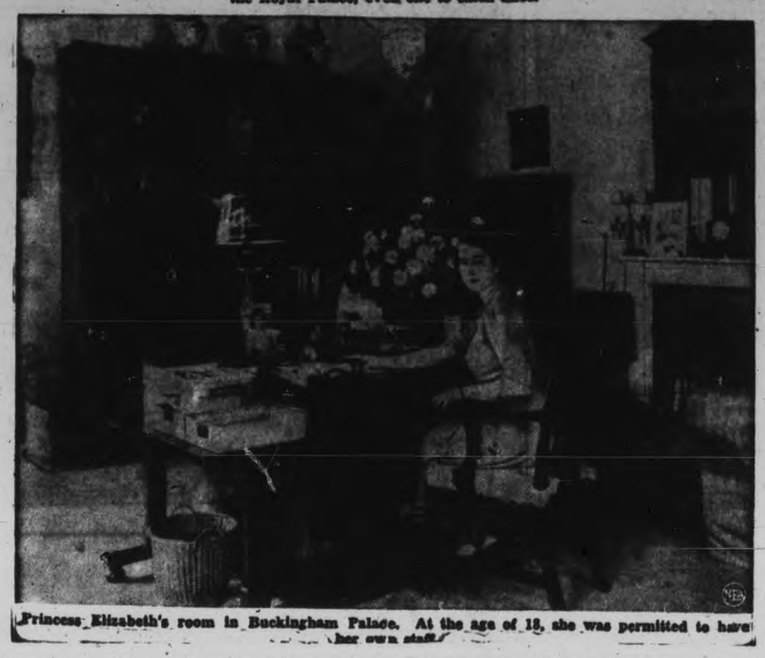
But I welcomed the appearance of an experienced man whose interests lay outside Court routine. I thought he would bring Princess Elizabeth a breath of air from the world outside. It is hard for a Princess nurtured in the hothouse of a Palace to get a true sense of values.

I had always tried to show her that Palace life was not like that which others led, and in her careful, considerate way she had listened to me.

Some time later I received a note from Sir Frederick. Would I kindly meet him so that he could learn a little about the character of the Princess? He had been told that I was the best person to approach, and remembering what his sister had told him about me, he looked forward to the meeting.

I replied that I would be delighted to give what information I could. But I must have hinted at the thought which Members of the Household had been puzzling about. Why should he, a man of action and ability, choose such a comparatively sedentary position?

I had a charming little letter posted from the house in Cornwall in which he and his wife, Daphne du Maurier, were living. It was dated Jan. 10, 1948:



I do not think you need assuring that, when I was approached about being Princess Elizabeth's Comptroller, I realized very fully that I was undertaking what I consider to be the most honorable and important appointment which could be offered to anyone in the world.

The sincerity of that paragraph made me more than ever keen to meet him. Here was someone, I felt, who would be coming to Princess Elizabeth full of enthusiasm for the job.

Army Denies Buying Land

WASHINGTON (AP)—A U. S. Army spokesman Saturday denied published reports that the army is buying land for location of guided missiles anti-aircraft batteries.

An announcement last March said the army plans to establish anti-aircraft battalions equipped with nike guided missiles around principal population and industrial centres. The first of the units are expected to be ready this summer. The Nike is reported to be capable of knocking down airplanes and other missiles travelling at supersonic speed.

Surveys for locations are being made, but the spokesman said most of the sites probably would be used under a lease or other agreement rather than through purchase.

Of Canada's 30 active feldspar and quartz mines, 17 are located in Quebec province.

Canada Right To Give Opinion

KINGSTON (CP)—Canada, as a partner with the United States in the North Atlantic alliance and the United Nations, has the right to examine what U. S. leaders say and to express frank judgment of U. S. policy, Hume Wrong said Saturday.

The Canadian ambassador to the United States was addressing members of the graduating arts class at Queen's University annual convocation.

He added: "But our growing stature as a nation and our own increasing international responsibilities require that our judgment should always be tempered with sympathetic understanding which is by no means always the case."

Fire Takes Three Lives

ALMA, Mich. (AP)—Three children perished in a bedroom fire Saturday night and the Alma county prosecutor ordered their 23-year-old mother held for investigation. Victims of the fire were five year-old Kayleen Rouse and her sisters, Patricia, 3, and Lewanna, 2. Police said the bodies of the girls were found in one bed and a blanket covering them had been saturated in coal oil.

Outdoor Cafe In Hot Season Created On Your Terrace

Fresh and jaunty as a Parisian sidewalk cafe is the pretty, summery setting for outdoor refreshment you can pull from the discard pile. Even if you put a high price on your time, the cost will still be very low.

Old kitchen chairs and a beat-up wicker table, the kind which you can find going begging in almost any junk shop or second-hand store, are the raw materials. You achieve the Paris touch with white paint, plywood and a few yards of canvas in bright new colors like raspberry and chartreuse.

Don't be discouraged, as I have been up to now, by scarred warped tops most wicker tables have by the time they come to rest in the second-hand store. Canvas provides a gay and speedy camouflage. Glass protects the canvas.

If you want a smooth professional-looking job remove old paint from the table and chairs before you sand and repaint them. On the other hand if you're not too fussy just sand the surface to dull the gloss and smooth the rough spots. Repaint over the old finish.

THIS GAY AND COMFORTABLE TERRACE, just right for summertime relaxing, is furnished with discarded pieces of furniture which have been brought up to date with the addition of paint, bright-colored canvas upholstery and miner carpentry. An old rocker was converted to the attractive chaise longue, seen above, by extending the chair seat with plywood nailed to a heavier wood frame. A blue canvas skirt hides the carpentry. Another rocker was upholstered in chartreuse canvas. The end table, formerly an old laundry rack, has a matching green canvas-covered plywood top.

To fix up the table top, remove the rush border. Draw a paper pattern and cut the canvas circle an inch larger than the tracing. Stretch canvas across the top and tack it to the table edge. Put the rush border back on the table. Transparent glass for the top, cut to the exact size of the tracing can be salvaged from an old mirror by removing silver from the mirror-back with a razor blade.

To put a padded seat on an old kitchen chair, make a pattern of the chair seat. Cut a plywood circle and cotton batting to size. Glue batting to the plywood. Canvas should be cut two inches larger than the pattern, then stretched over the plywood and glued to the underside. Tack the cushion down with colored metal-head nails.

A similar procedure will give you a cushioned back for the chair. Saw two pieces of plywood to fit the pattern of the chair-back. Pad one with batting glued in place and nail it to the front of the chair-back. Cover it with canvas which is pulled taut and tacked to the back of the chair. Canvas-cover the other piece of plywood and tack it to the exposed chair-back with colored metal-head nails.

If you want to convert a rocker to a chaise longue, you'll need a couple of 2x4's seven feet long. Small pieces of tin, heavy wrapping twine, and assorted nails and screws will be needed to repair fractured chair arms or legs.

To mend a break, you unwrap the rush until the wood is exposed, then wrap a piece of tin around the fracture. Screw tin to wood. Rewrap the wood with rush and heavy twine.

Make the chaise longue by extending chair seat with plywood nailed to a frame made from 2x4's. First the lattice skirt is ripped off, rockers sawed off and legs evened up. Saw two lengths of wood the height of the chair seat, partially hollowing one side of each so that they will fit around the front legs where a stove bolt secures them to the chair. The sides and front of the extension frame are straight pieces of wood nailed together. Extra legs for the front of the extension may be cut from an old broom handle and nailed inside front corners.

To pad the seat, glue three layers of batting, which have been cut to fit and sewed together, to plywood. Scissor the canvas two inches longer and wider than the plywood and stretch it taut over the batting. Tack it to the seat with colored nails. Canvas-covered plywood and batting sized to fit the back and arms and nailed in place complete the upholstery.

For a skirt, split two-and-a-half yards of canvas lengthwise. Tack strips in place around chair and frame, folding into pleats at legs and front.

An old laundry rack with its folding crosspieces secured by nails takes its place on the terrace as a table. All that is needed here is a coat of paint and a plywood top to fit across the rungs. Half a yard of canvas to match the upholstery is folded lengthwise around plywood and glued underneath. With the top in place fold sides of canvas around wooden rungs and nail it in place.

Airman, Airwoman Wed In Lovely Ceremony Here

Miss Phyllis Louise Whyte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan K. Whyte of Peterborough, became the bride of Corporal Kenneth Gordon Lowe in a lovely wedding ceremony Saturday at Knox United Church. Both the bride and groom are in the RCAF and are stationed at Edgar, Ontario. The groom is son of WO2 and Mrs. Thomas C. W. Lowe of Galt and Ottawa.

Mauve stocks and ferns formed the background for the wedding party as the marriage was performed by the Rev. H. G. Douglas assisted by the Rev. Wm. McDonald. Mr. Wm. Potter, organist, played the wedding music and Mrs. James Goldie sang "The Lord's Prayer" at the beginning of the service and "Where'er Ye Walk" during the signing of the register.

The bride wore a lovely gown with a bell skirt fashioned with tiers upon tiers of ruffled lace to the floor. It had a strapless bodice and bolero of taffeta and she wore mittens to match. Her hand-made Bo-Peep bonnet was made of matching lace caught with lily-of-the-valley and lined with tulle illusion. The elbow length veil was also of tulle illusion. Her white satin and lace covered Bible had white satin ribbon streamers with lily-of-the-valley and on the top was a corsage of gardenias and white 'mums. She was given in marriage by her father.

Attendants were Miss Mary Lowe, maid of honor, and Miss Janet Gledhill, bridesmaid. They were frocked alike in mauve taffeta ballerina-length gowns and had matching mittens and shoes and flowered tiaras in mauve. Each carried a nosegay of pink and mauve sweet peas and pink sweetheart roses encircled with pale green tulle.

The groomsman was Mr. Ronald Blank and the ushers were Mr. John Herd Jr. and Mr. Ralph Lowe. F/C Larry Rodewolt was master of ceremonies at the reception.

The guests were received, following the ceremony, in the church parlour. Mrs. Whyte was wearing a gown of grey Mathisie with a hat of mauve flowers and she had a bouquet of mauve sweet peas on her purse. Mrs. Lowe, mother of the groom, was gowned in blue crepe and wore a white flowered hat and a corsage of pink roses.

Later the bride and groom left by motor to honeymoon in the United States. The bride travelled in a grey and pink suit and matching tocoat and had pink and black accessories. Her going-away corsage was of pink carnations.

They will live in Barrie while continuing their duties with the Air Force at Edgar.

Margaret Dawson Is Bride In Millbrook Nuptials

Pink and white blossoms and vari-colored tulips formed the setting for the marriage Saturday in St. Andrew's United Church, Millbrook, of Margaret Joan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce B. Dawson, to Robert Henry Rehder, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Rehder, of Bowmanville.

A candelabra of five lighted candles was in the centre of the altar table with single lighted candles at each end. The Rev. A. M. Butler performed the wedding rites, assisted by the Rev. A. L. Sisco, of Warkworth, a former pastor.

Before the bride entered the church, Mr. Fraser Carr, of Cavan, sang "The Lord's Prayer," and during the signing of the register, he sang "O Perfect Love." The wedding music was played by Miss Mabel Clarry.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of lace and net over satin. The tight-fitting bodice had a round neckline with the lace outlined in silver. The long sleeves ended in lily points over the hands, and the full skirt had fan-shaped insets of pleated, embroidered net, and ended in a train which also had a fan-shaped inset of the same material. Her fingertip veil of embroidered net fell from a tiara of stiffened satin and she carried a bouquet of pink carnations and Sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Harold Lunney of Port Hope attended her sister as matron-of-honour, and Miss Betty Wright was bridesmaid. They wore strapless gowns of net over taffeta, made with fitted bodices and full skirts in shades of mauve and green with matching boleros. Their headdresses of pleated net, in the same shades as their gowns, were flower-trimmed and they carried bouquets of mums and spring flowers. Little Christine Rehder of Bowmanville, niece of the grooms, was flower girl. She was dressed in yellow net over taffeta with fitted bodice, short puffed sleeves and bouffant skirt. She wore a matching head-dress and lace mittens and carried a basket of pansies and lily-of-the-valley.

Mr. Tom Rehder of Bowmanville, brother of the groom, was groomsman and ushers were Brenton Dawson, and Ned Rehder, brothers of the bride and groom.

The wedding reception was held at the home of the brides' parents where her mother received in a gown of mauve lace over taffeta with small matching hat, white accessories and a corsage of Johanna-hill roses. Receiving with her was the groom's mother who wore a gown of navy nylon net over flesh pink with flesh pink yokes and matching hat. Her corsage was also of Johanna-hill roses. There were guests present from Bowmanville, Montreal, Toronto, Peterborough, Port Hope, Bailleiboro, Warkworth, Bewdley and Millbrook.

The bride and groom cut their wedding cake with an heirloom knife which had been used at the wedding of the bride's parents, and at those of two of her brothers and two of her sisters.

For the wedding trip by plane to New York city the bride chose a wool cashmere suit in mauve taupe shade with a pink sequin beret and tan accessories.

On return they will live at 1109 Hilltop Street, Peterborough.

Wedding Reception Menu For Seventy-Five Guests

Every mother of a marriageable daughter is asked to clip this and file it away, for I am flooded with the following type of request:

"Dear Mary: We are planning a June wedding with 75 to 100 guests, and did not want to set tables if we could help it.

Could you suggest a menu and the amounts of food required for that number of people . . Betty S."

It is the large quantity recipes that are difficult to locate, so if you are in for planning a wedding reception take my tip and clip this.

OR
Chicken or Turkey a la King (hot) in small patty shells
Stuffed Celery Curls OR Perfection Salad
Assorted Olives and Pickled Watermelon Strips
Fresh Strawberry Ice Cream OR Rich Vanilla Ice Cream with Crushed Strawberries
Orange Pecan Cookies (ice box)
Angel Food Cake
Salted Pecans
Wedding Cake

Reception Punch

DIRECTIONS

LOBSTER SALAD LOAF

This amount serves 25. Make this amount three times to serve 75.

Four cups soft fresh bread-crumbs, 4 six-oz. tins of lobster, 2 8-oz. tins best quality salmon, 1 cup canned mushrooms chopped, 1 tablespoon finely grated onion or chopped chives, 8 beaten eggs, 2 cups rich milk, ¼ cup chopped pimientoes (or finely chopped stuffed olives or crisp green pickles), salt and pepper. Remove liquid and bones from lobster and salmon and flake them and add them to the chopped mushrooms and the crumbs. Beat the eggs, add them and the remaining ingredients, tasting for salt and pepper. Turn into greased loaf tins. Stand these pans in a very large shallow pan containing hot water and bake in slow oven of 325 deg. Fahr. until set—about 40 minutes. Chill. Slice and serve on delicate lettuce leaves garnished with lemon slice and parsley. The salmon takes on the flavor of the lobster and reduces the cost.

CHICKEN OR TURKEY A LA KING
(serves 25. Triple this amount for 75)

Ten cups cooked chicken. (A 4½ lb. chicken when cooked yields approximately 4 cups, well-packed, diced meat.) ½ cup chopped drained, canned pimiento, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 teaspoon pepper, ½ lb. sliced mushrooms sauteed in 3 tablespoons butter, gently for 10 minutes, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, 6 cups white sauce. Cut chicken in cubes before measuring. Make white sauce by melting ¾ cup butter, stirring in ¾ cup flour, and when blended, 5½ cups whole milk, until thick. Add salt and pepper to taste to the white sauce. Now add the mushrooms, which have been sauteed, to the white sauce with the chicken and all other ingredients. Heat through in top of large double boiler. Do not heat this over direct heat. Serve this on biscuits or patty shells daintily garnished.

ORANGE PECAN COOKIES
(4 dozen)

One cup best quality shortening, ½ cup each white and brown sugar, 1 beaten egg, 2 tablespoons orange juice, 1 tablespoon grated orange rind, 2 cups flour, ¼ teaspoon soda, ½ cup chopped pecans. Cream shortening and sugar until fluffy, then beat in egg, orange juice and rind until smooth. Sift the unsifted flour and soda together then add them with the pecans. Shape dough into long rolls 1½ inches in diameter. Wrap well and chill overnight. Slice thin and bake on ungreased cookie sheet at 375 def. Fahr. for 10 to 12 minutes.

RECEPTION PUNCH
(serves 50)

Boil together for 10 minutes 1¼ cups water and 2½ cups sugar. Cool. Add 7 oz. lemon juice, 20 oz. orange juice, 48 oz. grapefruit juice (canned if desired), 16 oz. grape juice, 1 cup sliced maraschino cherries plus juice, 1 cup fresh strong tea. Let stand 1 hour. Add ice to make this up to 7¼ quarts liquid. Ginger ale may be substituted for some of the ice.

DOROTHY DIX:

Parents Of Teen-Age Girl Object To Daughter's Beau

DEAR MISS DIX: While we don't go steady, Fred and I have been dating for several months. He is 18, I am 16. He drinks quite a lot, although not when I am with him. Also he is very shy. Though he has met my parents, he won't come into the house when he calls for me. My parents say this is rude, and consequently have asked me to stop seeing him. I don't think they are fair to make me give up a good friend, do you?

M. M.

ANSWER: Your friend's "shyness" is not the major objection of your parents. In fact, I doubt if Fred is shy. It is more likely that he is aware of his unpleasant drinking reputation, and is actually ashamed to face the parents of a nice girl. Your folks are concerned with guarding your good name, and you would be wise to follow their advice. They are a bit too easy with you; instead of asking you to give up the boy, they should insist upon it.

At your age, you are facing the most pleasant years of your life and a preference, at this time, for the wrong company can damage all future possibilities for good friends, happy times, and popularity at school. Don't be so foolish as to continue seeing someone who shows that he isn't worthy of your concern.

Few people are infallible in their judgment of others, and certainly not a girl of sixteen. Be guided by the experience of your Mon and Dad. They are deeply interested in your welfare—not so your drinking, boorish boy friend.

While it's true that many a boy who has developed bad habits has been set straight by the example of a fine girl, I think sixteen is too young to undertake the responsibility of such reform. Don't try it.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I came to this country seven months ago and have been unable to make any friends. I have received a good education in my own land and am a skilled worker, am 30 years old, and would like to meet people here. My English isn't very good, and I'd like to meet a family who would help improve it. I'd like girl or boy friends.

H. M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: For a girl who has been in this country such a short time, you write English very well, though, of course, there is room for improvement. Why not try contacting people through a newspaper or magazine published in your own tongue? You might also get in touch with the consulate of your country, or its tourist agency, and ask for suggestions on getting to know people. They will be able to help you. Best of luck in your quest.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: We have been dating for three years and, since we are sensible persons over 25 years old, we should be able to work out our own future, but we can't. My fiance feels that someday his parents will be dependent upon him, and therefore he hesitates to take on the responsibility of marriage. His parents are fine people. My fiance and I are devoted to each other, but I feel that since his father is still working, the contingency of dependence is remote, and we should go ahead with our plans.

ADELE R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your ideas are much more realistic than your fiance's. I suspect there is something he has not disclosed to you. He may fear marriage and its responsibilities, and is using his parents as an excuse to evade matrimony for a while. Better make sure of his reactions before giving him an ultimatum about marriage.

6—In Memoriam

DECK—In loving memory of Daddy, Grover Deck, who was killed 19th of May, 1951.
Silently the angels took daddy,
Into the mansion above,
There shall he rest from earth's toiling,
Safe in the arms of God's love.
—Ever remembered by Judy, Gail, Faye and Jacqueline, Danny and wife Betty.

DECK—In loving memory of a dear son, Grover, who lost his life in the Zack's fire, May 19, 1951.
He has gone across the river,
To the shores of evergreen,
And we long to see his face,
But the river flows between.
Some day, sometime, our eyes shall see
The face we loved so well,
Some day we'll clasp his loving hand
And never say farewell.
As angels keep their watch up there,
Please, God, just let him know,
That we down here do not forget
We love and miss him so.
—Ever remembered by Mom, Dad and brother Doran.

DECK—In loving memory of Grover and his pals who died May 19, 1951.
Your not forgotten, Grover dear,
Nor ever shall you be,
As long as life and memory lasts
We shall remember thee.
—Faye and Art Dwyer.

DECK—In loving memory of our brother, Grover, who passed away May 19, 1951.
Sweet memories will linger forever,
Time cannot change them, it's true;
Years that may come cannot sever
Our loving remembrance of you.
—Ever remembered by Colin, Bernice and Coleen.

DECK—In loving memory of our brother, Grover Rudgins Deck, who died 2 years ago today, May 19, 1951.
There is a link death cannot sever
Love and remembrance last forever.
—Ever remembered by sister, Edie and brother-in-law Orville.

SPENCLEY—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Earl Spenclay, who lost his life two years ago today.

—Lovingly remembered by wife Florence and daughters Susan and Margaret.

SPENCLEY—In memory of Earl.
Sometimes a note of a song
Brings us a thought of you,

Knows just what should have been.

3 Boys Stage Raid Successfully On Fort

Car Somersaults Lands On Wheels Four Injured

Four people required outpatient treatment early Sunday night after the car in which they were riding ran off the Lakefield Highway, somersaulted, and then landed upright on its wheels.

The injured were James Bleaney, 25, of 266 Gerrard Street E., Toronto, a cut on his back and bruises; and three passengers — Gordon Blake 20, of Lakefield, cuts and scratches on his left elbow and knee; Donna Edwards 20, of Lakefield, scratches on her left leg and a back injury; and Evelyn Clark 23, of Hartley Street, bruises on her head.

Bleaney, a salesman for a Toronto contracting firm, told the OPP that he was driving south on Highway 28 going from Lakefield to Peterborough. About 7:30 p.m. he saw a westbound truck pull out of a sideroad at Nassau, and to avoid an accident he steered into the west ditch.

His car went 48 feet, turned over, and landed upright on its wheels. The glass was knocked from the windows, the roof was estimated at $900.

All four occupants were slightly injured and shaken up and later they were taken to Civic Hospital for outpatient treatment.

OPP Constables Don Lacombe and John Cawood investigated.

OUT OF CONTROL

Another car that went out of control — this one late Saturday afternoon — received $250 damage and also damaged a wire fence owned by Lorne Kempt of Douro Township.

Theodore Hartley, 30, of Armour Road, was driving to Peterborough along the Warsaw Road at 5:30 p.m., when he applied his brakes to avoid another car, he told the OPP. One brake grabbed and he plunged into the north ditch after skidding 90 feet.

The car broke a fence post and part of a wire fence owned by Kempt.

Hartley, alone in the car, was not injured.

OPP Constable J.G. Healey investigated.

165 At Picnic At Camp Red Patch Club

A hundred and sixty-five members of the Originals' Club and the Peterborough Red Patch Club attended the latter's annual picnic Sunday at their convalescent lodge, 30 miles north of the city.

The camp site on Eels' Creek was obtained so ailing veterans, particularly those belonging to the 1st Division in both First and Second World Wars, could spend an inexpensive vacation away from home with their families. It is also becoming increasingly popular as a social centre for the Red Patch members.

Fifty of the Originals' Club—all members of the 1st Canadian Division, enlisted in 1914—made the trip from Toronto. Four others came from Guelph. Among the Guelph visitors were Harry Worton, provincial president, and Sam Hillen, vice-president.

Heading the Toronto contingent was Frank N. Ball, president of the Toronto branch which is located on Elm St.

Guests were welcomed by Bruce Rollins, president of the Red Patch Club. Lou Durkin, president of Peterborough Branch 52, Canadian Legion, was also invited.

The main lodge which has a recreation centre and a communal kitchen has been operating for some time. In a couple of weeks one of the cottages will be completed. Equipment and decorations are still lacking. Two more cottages will be available. Red Patch officers anticipate, before the vacation season ends.

The camp offers free accommodation to veterans and their families. Those using it need only pay for their own food and upkeep.

All labor on the lodge and cottages has been voluntary and the buildings materials used in construction has been paid for by Red Patch draws, social evenings and other projects, as well as by public subscription.

Alderville Quartet Have Busy Day

ROSENEATH (ENS)—On Sunday the Alderville mixed quartet had a busy day.

They sang at Roseneath United churh at the morning service, in the afternoon at Alderville United church, and in the evening at Gore's Landing United church.

This quartet, organized last year, is rapidly becoming extremely popular and comprises Misses Della and Carolyn Marsden, Messrs. Robert Marsden, Sr., and Thomas Marsden. Percy Marsden is the accompanist.

Last fall Robert Marsden, Sr., and his son Percy came to Alderville to reside. It was a return to his home for the elder Marsden after residing in Christian Island upwards of 40 years. Father and son were choir leader and organist at the United church on Christian Island.

Shortly after his arrival here Robert Marsden, Sr., organized the Marsden quartet. Ever since they have been giving freely of their talents, not only in their own church at Alderville but in other churches, where they have received invitations to sing and play.

Swerved To Avoid Porcupine, Truck Rolls Over

Three people were injured in motor vehicle accidents near Apsley over the holiday weekend.

John Ross Oliphant, 33-year-old service station operator who lives at 716 Chesterfield Ave., received several broken ribs early Sunday when he swerved his pick-up truck to avoid a porcupine and the vehicle struck some guide rails and rolled over on the highway

The accident occurred about 5 a.m. Sunday, three and a half miles north of Apsley, as Oliphant and a companion, Anthony DeCarlo, 25, of 583 Downie St., were heading north on a fishing trip.

Oliphant was rounding a curve in the highway when he saw the porcupine on the highway, directly in front of him. He swerved the one-ton pickup truck to miss it but the vehicle went out of control, ran into guide rails on the west side of the highway, and then rolled over on its roof. Damage is estimated at $400, mostly to the fenders and left side.

TREATED IN HOSPITAL

The injured man was treated at the Red Cross Hospital and then he returned home to Peterborough, nursing several broken ribs, scrapes and bruises. DeCarlo, the passenger, was only shaken up.

A father and daughter were injured 8:45 p.m., Saturday, when the car they were passengers in went out of control and rolled over on the east side of the Coe Hill-Apsley Road, three miles north-east of Apsley.

James Johnson, 49, of Apsley received cuts and scrapes on his forehead and a severe shaking up. He was treated at the Red Cross Hospital. His 19-year-old daughter, Evelean, also received scrapes on the left side of her face.

The 1939-model car was wrecked in the accident.

The driver, John James Ireland, 31 of Nassau, told OPP Constable Jack McKendry that he was driving south from Apsley when suddenly on a straight stretch of road, the steering wheel went slack. Immediately the car went out of control. It travelled to the east side of the road, ran up a slight embankment and then rolled over on its roof.

McGill Professor Leaves Teaching After 19 Years

MONTREAL (CP)—W. Lloyd G. Williams, professor of mathematics at McGill University for the last 19 years, is retiring this year.

Prof. Williams was born at Friendship, Kas., in 1888 and began teaching a t16, following a family tradition. His parents both were teachers.

He obtained his BA from Haverford College, Philadelphia, was awarded a Rhodes scholarship and attended Merton College, Oxford, where he gained honors in mathematics. He obtained his PhD in mathematics at the University of Chicago.

Prof. Williams began teaching at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, and came to McGill in 1924. He was instrumental in bringing in the Canadian Mathematical Congress in 1945 and will continue to operate its national office here on retirement.

He says Canada, while lagging behind Britain in the development of mathematics, is ahead of the United States at the undergraduate level. This was proven because Canadian students have won the William Lowell Putnam Prize in mathematics as often as those of the United States, despite the discrepancy in numbers.

Earl Alexander Attends First Abbey Rehearsal

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON (CP)—Earl Alexander, Britain's defence minister and former governor-general of Canada, who will play an important role in the Coronation June 2, attended his first rehearsal in Westminster Abbey Monday.

Dressed in the red robes of an earl and the uniform of a field marshal, Lord Alexander will carry the golden orb, one of the "ensigns of royalty" which the Queen receives after she is anointed.

The orb is shaped like a globe, surmounted by a jewelled cross. This signifies, in an old tradition, the domination of the world by the emblem of Christianity. The orb will be placed in the Queen's hands after she is invested with the royal mantle, but will then be handed back to leave her hands free to receive the ring and the two sceptres.

PRECEDE QUEEN

On Coronation Day, Lord Alexander and other peers charged with specific tasks in the ceremony will arrive at the abbey ahead of the Queen, assemble in the nave, for a procession in the annex and move down the aisle of the abbey followed by the Queen.

Lord Alexander will be followed in the procession by his youngest son, 11-year-old Brian, dressed as a page and carrying his father's coronet.

Monday's rehearsal was for the aristocratic attendants who must carry such objects as crowns, sceptres, orbs, spurs, rings and bracelets from the abbey annex about 100 yards to the high altar on a split-second schedule.

It's HARD to realize that less than one hundred years ago aluminum was a precious metal, priced at $17 an ounce. In fact, Queen's University at Kingston, Ont., presented the first graduate from its chemistry course with an aluminum medal in 1858.

Nowadays the price of aluminum is 18c a pound. How is it that a dollar buys as much aluminum today as it did before the war, while it buys so much less of most other things? One big reason is the increasing use of aluminum—ten times that of 15 years ago. Volume production keeps production costs down. Aluminum is not only light and strong—it is low in price too. Lt.-Col. Nasser No. 2 Man Now In Egypt

CAIRO (Reuters) — Lt.-Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser, a young, strapping six-footer who looks like a movie star, was appointed Monday to the No. 2 role in the Egyptian administration.

His appointment as vice-president of the 13-man military junta revolutionary council, the country's controlling body, confirmed his position as the right-hand man of Prime Minister Mohammed Naguib, president of the council.

In recent weeks, Nasser has presided over the daily meetings of the council when Naguib could not be present, and has come to be regarded as the top policy-maker in Egypt's military administration.

WIELDS VAST POWER

Nasser, a modest man of 35, wields vast power in the fast-moving regime of the new Egypt.

After Naguib's coup d'etat last July, when the coup leaders vacillated on whether to shoot, imprison or exile Farouk, it was Nasser who largely influenced the decision to spare the pudgy monarch's life. His reason: "History will sentence him to death."

Now Nasser is the right-hand man of the premier. But, unlike Naguib, Nasser's power is directed from behind the scenes. He rarely makes public appearances.

J. Diefenbaker PC Candidate

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—John Diefenbaker will be the Progressive Conservative candidate in Prince Albert in the coming federal general election.

Mr. Diefenbaker, the successful candidate in Lake Centre constituency in three successive federal elections, was nominated Saturday at a convention attended by more than 300 delegates.

Lake Centre, which Mr. Diefenbaker represented in the House of Commons for 13 years, was wiped out in the recent redistribution.

Supporters of the 58-year-old lawyer said the Prince Albert Progressive Conservative organization as such, will drop out of the picture and Diefenbaker clubs, organized last November by members of all parties, will take charge of the campaign.

Huge Diocese

MONTREAL (CP)—An Anglican bishop whose diocese covers more than 600,000 square miles mentioned the need for more clergy there. Rt. Rev. Reginald J. Pierce, bishop of Athabasca north of Edmonton, who delivered a sermon here, has 14 assistants to minister to people in 23 parishes and 61 missions.

MASTER CRAFTSMAN—Aurelio Hernandez, 43, has brought his ancient craft with him to Canada from his native Spain. For 25 years he has made by hand gold and silver chalices and other delicate pieces of art. In his Quebec City studio he puts the finishing touches to a gold chalice he will sell for $250. He is training his elder son, Henri, 17, in the craft which Aurelio learned from his father.

Master Craftsman Is Expert On Coffee-Making Machines

By KEN STEWART
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—Aurelio Hernandez, 43-year-old Spanish immigrant and master craftsman who came to Canada about 15 months ago with his wife and two sons, has started in the right direction toward making his work as well known here as it is in Europe.

Hernandez, whose handmade mechanical coffee-making machine gained fame for him in many European countries, says he likes Canada and wants to bring his brother here from Toulouse, France, where he is an expert machinist.

Hernandez, born in Barcelona, learned his trade from his father and has been in the business of making chalices, crucifixes, brooches and coffee machines for more than 25 years.

He now is teaching his elder son, Henri, 17, the trade. They work together in a small workshop in Quebec's Lowertown district. His younger son, Emile, 10, is still in school but, says Hernandez, maybe one day he will be a craftsman too.

ELABORATE CHALICES

Since settling here with his family in December, 1951, Hernandez has made many gold and silver chalices, elaborately carved and engraved by hand, which sell for anywhere from $100 to $400—depending on the size.

Last year he did a reproduction in copper of a portrait of Prime Minister St. Laurent, which he sent to him as a gift. He now is putting the finishing touches to a reproduction of a photograph of Msgr. Maurice Roy, Roman Catholic archbishop of Quebec, colored by hand with special powdered paint, and another of the Queen.

Hernandez displayed a gold and silver chalice with the 14 Stations of the Cross chiselled in the gold base. He plans on doing a similar one in chased copper.

"I have sold as many as 15 chalices—sometimes more — in a week," he said. "A chalice like this one can be made in two or three days if I work steadily at it."

Everything that goes into the making of his objects of art, from brooches to coffee machines, is home made, including the tools he uses.

The dapper, dark-skinned man who talks with a mixture of Spanish and French—he speaks no English—has just started on another copper Herlio coffee machine his 41st, but the first one he has made since coming to Canada.

POPULAR IN EUROPE

"I don't know how well I'll do with them here," he said, "but in Europe they are very popular. They can be made in about 15 days and sell for about 60,000 francs—$200 in Canadian money—but it would actually cost more here because of higher cost of materials."

Another coffee-making machine which he invented—the Expres—is almost completely automatic and can be operated either by gas or electricity. It can produce either one gallon or one cup at a time—either black or with milk—simply by making a few mechanical changes and flipping a couple of switches and levers.

The expres would cost about $800 in Canada. In Europe, says Hernandez, they are extensively used in hotels and restaurants.

Hernandez and his wife, Rita, recently adopted a baby girl. They always wanted a girl but only had two boys.

"Now we have a real French Canadian in the family," Hernandez exclaimed proudly.

Queen's Golden State Coach Said Nightmare To Ride In

By SONYA YOUNG

LONDON (Reuters)—The golden state coach which will carry the Queen to her Coronation June 2 is a dream to look at—and a nightmare to ride in.

Only Kings and Queens of Britain are allowed to use it, but to many this has been an ordeal rather than a privilege.

The main discomfort is that the four-ton monster, 192 years old, is inclined to sway and rock like a ship in a storm as it is pulled through the streets by eight horses. Even the Queen's bows to the crowds may be enough to set it in uncontrollable motion.

Queen Victoria refused to use the state coach more than three times in the last 30 years of her reign. Kkng George VI, after one ordeal in it, said: "It was the most uncomfortable ride of my life."

But to the spectators watching the Queen pass by on her Coronation Day, the sight of the coach will be enough to make them gasp, especially if the sun is shining and the gold glitters.

For, if ever there ws a carriage straight out of a fairy tale this is it. From the golden palm trees flanking its doors and corners to the four fearsome sea-gods at the front and rear of the under-carriage, the coach is a magnificent and imaginative creation.

BUILT BY DANE

It was built by Laurence Andersen Holme, a Danish coach bilder who lived in London, to the order of the neurotic King George III who thought it woul please the people at his coronation. But he never went to Westminster Abbey in it, for the coach took two years to complete and was delivered 12 months after he had been crowned.

The King paid the bill of 7,587 19s 9½d five years later. This is equivalent to $21,246.54 at current exchange rates.

Delighted by his gorgeous toy, George drove out in almost as soon as it was delivered to him and it was damaged right away by crowds who surged forward and in their curiosity broke a handle and a pane of glass.

The leading Italian artist of the day, Giovanni Cipriani, painted the panels on the coach. They symbolize industry, justice, and the arts and sciences.

The coach is so heavy that it can only be drawn at walking pace.

During the last year the iron-rimmed coach wheels, copies of those of an ancient triumphal chariot, have been evened up with a plastic solution and fitted with rubber.

A microphone has been fitted inside the coach so that the Queen will be able to give orders to her postillions if she feels that the gaudy old vehicle is going too fast or too slow for comfort.

The coach will be drawn by eight horses known as Windsor greys from the royal stables.

They are 18 hands (six feet at the shoulder) high and full of stamina, a blend of daintiness and strength. For months past they have been rigorously trained to face anything that might happen at the Coronation without blinking an eye.

Marshal Plan Era Over Envoy Declares

DETROIT (CP) — Sir Roger Makins, British ambassador to the United States, said Monday the Marshal Plan era is over.

Addressing the Economic Club of Detroit, he said that era has achieved its objective in recreating Europe's capacity to earn its own living and pay its own way.

Now we have the capacity, he said, we need one thing more and that is the opportunity to use it.

This year marks a turning point in Britain's affairs, Sir Roger said.

END OF RECONSTRUCTION

"We have come to the end of the period of reconstruction, during which our power to expand exports was limited by the amount of goods we could produce. From now on, our power to increase exports will depend more and more on the amount of goods we can sell.

"We are grateful to you for the Marshal Plan is, in a broad sense, over."

Ask Fluorine Put In Salt

TORONTO (CP)—A suggestion that Canada might pioneer in research into the possibility of adding fluorine to table salt, as iodine is, was made Saturday at the annual meeting of the Canadian Society of Dentistry for Children.

Dr. E. W. McHenry of Toronto, who offered the suggestion, said that, because 40 per cent of Canada's children live in the country, they wouldn't benefit from the fluoridation of common water supplies.

Milk also was suggested as a medium for fluorine but Dr. McHenry said that 30 to 40 per cent of children don't drink milk.

Dr. E. R. W. Bilkey of Toronto was elected president. Other officers included: Dr. F. E. Dawe, St. Catharines, honorary president; Dr. Lorne Scott, Brantford, president-elect.

New Fruit Source

BROCKVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Peach trees are difficult to grow in this part of eastern Ontario, so citizens watched with interest as blossoms appeared on the tree at the home of former magistrate George Wright. The sturdy tree is five or six inches thick at the base.

Siamese Twins Born To Woman 19; Condition Weaker

INVERNESS, N.S. (CP)—With tears in her eyes, a 19-year-old mother learned today that her first born were Siamese twins. Mrs. Max Wyrwas sobbed as Dr. A. R. Billard, who helped deliver the twins Tuesday by caesarean section, exploded her belief that she had given birth to a normal boy.

Later, however, she said she was happy. Dr. Billard told her the twins, christened Frank Albert and Edward James, were perfectly formed babies —"husky, healthy and with jet black hair."

Earlier today doctors said the twins had weakened slightly during the night.

"Although it was quite a shock when he told me, I feel better now," said the raven-haired wife of a garage mechanic.

GO ON FORMULA

Dr. Ronald Ritchie, pediatrician at the Children's Hospital, Halifax who was called in on the case, said the boys, weighing a total of 13 pounds at birth, are resting in a hastily - fashioned incubator. They are being fed glucose in water by mouth and will go on formula tonight.

Dr. Billard said the twins are joined at the upper part of the normal breast bone. From there to the navel the structure has not been determined.

Frank Albert is named after the two doctors who assisted in the delivery, Frank MacLeod and Albert Miller. The other is named after his grandparents on his father's side.

The first baby started to breathe about a minute after birth. The other began breathing four to five minutes later, after artificial respiration had been applied.

GOOD CHANCE OF SURVIVAL

Dr. Frank MacLeod, chief surgeon of the Inverness County Memorial Hospital, gave them an excellent chance of survival "I can't see any reason why they won't live," he said. "They are perfectly healthy."

Hospital officials said it was too early to discuss a possible operation to separate them.

The twins are joined face-to-face from close to the neck to the navel by a bone. "Otherwise," says Dr. MacLeod, "they are perfectly healthy.

"It was a bit of sixth sense and a bit of luck that we decided to go ahead with a caesarean."

SPECIAL INCUBATOR

Edwin MacLean, husband of one of the attendant nurses, took one look at the only incubator available at the hospital, then rushed to his woodworking shop to make a larger one. He finished the job in 2½ hours.

Mrs. Wyrwas entered the hospital shortly before midnight Monday. Dr. MacLeod said the birth was slightly overdue. Dr. A. R. Billard, who assisted at the delivery, said the twins were first fed by injection, but later took the normal glucose and water diet by mouth.

Truck Overturns 3 Teen-Agers Dies In Accident

THORNBURY, Ont. (CP)—A 15-year-old girl died early today, the third victim of a dump truck accident which killed two teenage hockey players Tuesday night. Two of the nine persons in the truck were hurt.

Reita Sadler of Thornbury, died in hospital several hours after the vehicle went out of control and overturned 3½ miles east of here.

Gary Dillon, 16, a member of a juvenile hockey team here, and his teammate, Ronald Harmer, 15, both of Thornbury, were crushed to death.

Dillon, whose father, Cecil Dillon, once played for New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, died under one of the duel wheels and Harmer under the dump box.

Reita's sister, Audrey, 15, suffered a broken collar bone and a broken arm. She was not in serious condition.

DRIVER INJURED

Beverly Skinner, 21, of Kirkland Lake, who police said was the truck driver, was taken to hospital with back injuries. Police said they will question him.

Riding in the cab with Skinner were Doug Harmer, Dorothy Sadler and Marlene Heasman. They were shaken up. Bruce Langtry, riding in the dump body with the two who were killed and the two Sadler sisters, was thrown clear and only bruised.

Dorothy Sadler told police the group left Thornbury to drive to Collingwood, 14 miles southeast of here. She said the truck went out of control after Skinner decided something was wrong with a tire and opened the door.

Police said the shoulder of the road was wet following Monday's heavy rain.

The two boys were dead when pulled clear of the truck.

Caterpillars Worst In Years

OTTAWA (CP) Federal district commission crews armed with DDT sprayers are battling an invasion of tent caterpillars which they say may become the worst in years.

W. M. Croskery, local agricultural representative, said "the whole area must be sprayed, including trees, bushes, grass and even fence rows.

"In the rural districts there's going to be a real battle."

Quebec Man Given £1,500 For Invention

LONDON (Reuters)—The royal commission on inventors today recommended an award of £1,500 to J. J. Denovan, of Lachine, Que., for his work on armored assault vehicles.

Denovan was responsible for converting Churchill tanks into armored assault vehicles for special use by the Royal Engineers.

In his evidence before the commission, Denovan told how in 1942, in order to carry on his research, he "borrowed" one of the 32-ton Churchill tanks from a British armored unit, arranging for it to disappear from the army inventory. To do this, he had the assistance of a Women's Army friend who happened to be transport officer of the tank unit.

His improvements were later incorporated in the Churchill tanks which took part in the Normandy invasion.

Monster's Marks Case Of Frustration

MANILA (AP)—Two government physicians said Tuesday a woman who complained that an invisible curly-haired monster and a "tall man with a big moustache" were biting her was only suffering from frustration because she no longer enjoys the hectic life of a taxi-dancer.

Manila mayor Arsenio Lacson, after viewing one of the "attacks" said that he had seen teeth marks mysteriously appear on the body of Clarita Villaneuva, 18.

Two experts from the national psychic hospital, Dr. Jame Zagiurre and Dr. Cesaria Goducoagolar, examined the girl at city jail.

They said she was suffering from "hysterical fugue," a nervous condition. The "attack marks," they said, were only changes in skin coloring caused by the nervous fits.

Free Beer For Coronation?

Furore Invades Commons In Britain

LONDON (Reuters)—A great debate stormed over the brass-railed bars of Britain's pubs today on a subject of fascination to the customers: Should the landlords shell out free beer to mark the Coronation?

The question was asked in the House of Commons Tuesday by Jimmy Glanville, Yorkshire Labor member and self-professed expert on beer drinking.

The furore he started foamed into headlines this morning.

Glanville, a miner, threw his weight so vociferously against the "vested brewing interests" that twice he had to be called out of order by the Commons' chief of procedures, Sir Charles Macandrew.

When the House began to discuss whether to renew the duty on hops, Glanville saw an opening.

"I know nothing about hops," he bellowed, "but I do know something about beer."

He then challenged Britain's brewers to hand out "the first half dozen pints to every customer free, gratis and for nothing on Coronation Day."

It can be done, he said, pointing ominously toward the Conservative party bench.

Up Lancashire way it will be done, he said, by the 370 private "workers' clubs" in the northern counties—at least 15 pints of brew for every man wishing to become jubilant in honor of Her Majesty.

Today a spokesman for the brewers' society said the brewers had no plan to provide free beer on the big day.

Allies Adopt India's PoW Plan

Hint Authorities May Agree To Let Reds 'Explain'

TOKYO —(Reuters)— The Allied high command, drafting a new proposal for the deadlocked Korean truce negotiations, is expected to adopt without major revision India's plan for the repatriation of war prisoners, authoritative sources said today.

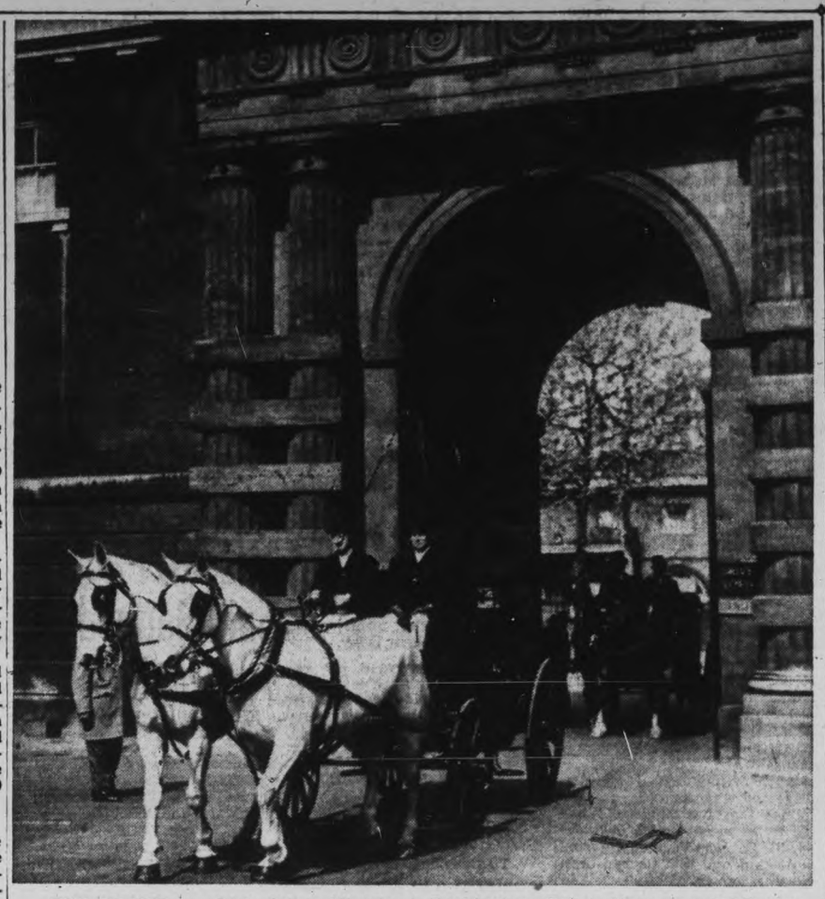
The Panmunjom talks were suspended for eight days at United Nations initiative to enable "higher authorities" to work out a new approach to the Communists. The negotiators will meet again May 24.

India's proposal, solidly opposed by the Communist bloc when voted on in the United Nations last December, provided a repatriation commission of Czechoslovakia and Poland, both Communist, and Sweden and Switzerland to arrange the return of all prisoners within 90 days of an armistice.

CHANGE IN STAND

After that a political conference would have 30 days to decide the fate of prisoners still refusing repatriation. Any remaining prisoners would then become the charges of the UN.

This would mean a retreat from the Allied stand against determining the prisoners' final fate at a political conference. Informed sources said the Allies might even be prepared to agree to the Communist request for members of such a conference to make "explanations" to prisoners still unwilling to go home. So far Allied negotiators have rejected this as likely to lead to coercion.



U.S. Not Likely Favor Meeting

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Eisenhower's assertion that there is no reason to hope the Russians have changed their aim of destroying freedom left some doubt today that he would accept any Russian bid for a Big Three meeting.

The British foreign office denied that Prime Minister Churchill had been in touch with the Kremlin with the idea of arranging such a meeting. "I am authorized to state that no approaches have been made to the Soviet authorities and that none is being made," a foreign office spokesman said.

Officials here said the U. S. is not particularly interested in a meeting that would include only the U. S., Russia and Britain—implying that France and possibly other countries should be represented.

Eisenhower said in a radio address Tuesday night he had little hope that the Russians have changed their course.

THE COACH in which Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent will ride on Coronation Day to Westminster Abbey is shown leaving Buckingham Palace Mews on a routine exercise to get in readiness for the grand parade.

Says Eisenhower Visit Welcome

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Churchill said today he noped Gen. Eisenhower will visit Britain while he is president of the United States, but not because it is necessary to patch up relations between the two countries.

Churchill told a questioner in the House of Commons that Eisenhower was always welcome here, but said that he did not feel that any difference in Anglo-American relations would "justify a procedure of such magnitude at the present time."

He said that if and when Eisenhower came, the visit would stress the great body of agreement between the people of the English-speaking world.

The possibility of a visit by the president was raised by Labor member Woodrow Wyatt, who asked if the prime minister would issue an invitation at an early date.

Churchill said that if he thought there was a chance the president could detach himself from Washington, he would "certainly make the necessary submission to the Queen so that an invitation could be sent from one head of state to another."

Europe Will Need Aid For Long Time—Ridgway

WASHINGTON (AP)—American troops and military aid may be needed in Europe for a long time, Gen. Matthew Ridgway said Tuesday. He told the Senate foreign relations committee he could not now foresee the time when Western Europe could take over its own defence without help and said Russia's peace offensive is cutting down the European desire to re-arm.

Ridgway, retiring as commander of North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in Europe to become U. S. army chief of staff, supported the administration's request for a $5,800,000,000 foreign aid program for the year starting July 1.

TO TAKE LONG TIME

"It is going to take a long time," he told the committee, for Europe "to develop self-sufficiency in the military field" so that Allied troops can come home.

President Eisenhower, when he was NATO commander preceding Ridgway, had expressed hope that withdrawal of U. S. troops could be started in 1954.

As to the European Defence Community being able to take over Western Europe's defence alone, Ridgway said "I don't see it for the foreseeable future."

The EDC agreement, now in course of ratification, provides for inclusion of armed forces from West Germany as well as other European powers in a unified military force.

Bread Price May Go Up Cent

WINNIPEG (CP) — A 20-cent boost in the price of domestic wheat, announced Tuesday, may tack another cent on the price of a loaf of bread to Canadian consumers.

After Canada formally accepted the new international wheat agreement Monday, the Canadian wheat board said it was instructed to sell wheat in Canada for $2.05 a bushel of No. 1 Manitoba northern, basis Fort William-Port Arthur or Vancouver.

Officials of flour milling companies said the new price, which is 20 cents more than the $1.85 they paid previously, will mean an increase in the price of flour to bakeries. The increase to milling companies will be effective immediately.

Canadian Writer Enjoys Talk With Tito

This is the eighth of a series of articles by I. Norman Smith, of Ottawa, newspaperman, who is touring Europe. He is spending several weeks in Belgrade.

By I. NORMAN SMITH

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia — (By Air Mail)—Today my wife and I were received by Marshal Tito, the president of Yugoslavia and a key man in European politics and peace.

I had requested an interview, playing a long chance for he doesn't give many. Yesterday word came that it had been granted, and this morning at 9:00 the President's secretary phoned to say that Marshal Tito had just heard that my wife was with me and that he would like me to bring her along.

The appointment was for 10 a.m. and morning sunshine was playing upon the white and pink chestnut blossoms on the hill in suburban Belgrade atop which sits the White Palace where Tito receives guests. The palace, comfortable but not grand, was built in the thirties by Prince Paul when he was regent for young King Peter. It isn't Tito's office, for that is down near parliament and he goes there only infrequently. Nor is it Tito's home, for that is a modest suburban residence a little nearer the city wherein he also does most of his work. "The White Palace is the marshal's ceremonial office", said an official in explanation yesterday, and it sounded rather frightening.

NOTHING FRIGHTENING

But aside from the three armed guards at the outside gates, who smiled and saluted but not both at the same time, there was nothing frightening nor even stiff about the palace or the visit. In the palace drive were flowers and trees and a nondescript fawn cat. Tito is said to be the best guarded man in Europe, but we glimpsed no barbed wire, no frowning walls other than the normal-looking garden wall. Around and in the palace we saw not one guard or soldier except the aide-de-camp. But doubtless there were plenty.

"The Marshal regrets he has an appointment at 11," said a secretary as we entered the palace, "so he will have only 50 minutes for you." As we walked up a broad winding staircase and my mind was a vacuum bereft of all the bright questions I planned to ask, 50 minutes seemed an interminable expanse of time to expose my empty mind to the sharp eye of this hard guerrilla fighter and Communist leader.

But there he was, standing by the door to his large office-sitting room, shaking our hands and welcoming us to chairs ranged around a small centre table. We exchanged cigarettes—though probably each preferred his own. This, together with some chat about two big dogs, a four-month Newfoundland pup and a new "Tiger" to replace Tito's favored police dog "Tiger" that had been with him from the guerrilla days right up until its death a fortnight ago—this broke the ice and the interview was on. For it had been explained to me on the way to the palace that the presence of Mrs. Smith needn't mean that I couldn't ask the Marshal "serious" questions. In short, Tito meant it to be a busines-like interview.

WRITER FRANK

I told him that what we had seen of Yugoslavia in five days—co-operative farms, folk-dancing, the May Day parade, the opera, market places, a football match, and many miles of walking in the busy streets—impressed us with the vitality and individuality of the people. Moreover, they seemed always to be smiling. I hinted that this wasn't quite what we had been expecting in a Communist land.

Marshal Titol, by now into the second of what must have been six or seven cigarettes he smoked while we were there, grinned at my boldness and, through an interpreter replied something like this:

It was precisely to encourage individuality and personal freedom that the people of Yugoslavia had turned to communism. It had liberated them from old regimes which had held them back or impressed them in moulds. Western people made the mistake of thinking the negativism and oppression of Russia was communism. It was not but only a distorted form of Communism. And as to his people looking happy: there was no mystery about that, it was because they could see a future, both for themselves and their country. It had not been so in the past.

(There will be some who question that statement, but this whole despatch is a report of what Tito said and of Tito's case. After more experience here this reporter will try to do some analyzing of both sides of the story.)

UNITY EXPRESSES

I said that Canadians were impressed by the fact that out of its tangled and tortured history Yugoslavia was now one country instead of many or instead of the football of many, and specially we were impressed by their stand against Russian imperialism. But now that unity had been gained, and considering trade with the Russian bloc was ended and friendship with the aid from the Western democracies were increasing, was it not possible that Marshal Tito would further liberalize his regime and perhaps make it a kind of Attlee socialism?

Will Hold Canal If Fight Starts Brigadier Declares

CAIRO (CP)—A high-ranking British officer said today at an army base in the Suez canal zone that "if trouble is forced upon us we are ready to counter it." He spoke a few hours after Premier Mohammed Naguib urged Egyptians to prepare for a "life or death" right to drive British troops from the canal zone. "We are prepared to defend oursevles and are fully confident of our capacity to do so," Brig. Robin Goldsmith, chief of staff of British troops in Egypt, said at Fayid.

He said anti-British incidents in the zone had declined as the result of precautionary measures taken by the British army since Naguib broke off discussions over the future of the base. More reinforcements arrived Tuesday.

NEW INCIDENTS

A few new incidents were reported Tuesday night. A truckload of British troops was stoned, some shots were fired without causing casualties and some cables were cut by saboteurs.

Naguib's call for a continuing struggle to regain control of the zone for Egypt was made by radio.

In a broadcast to the country, the Egyptian premier said "we shall not open the battle before we are fit and ready." Warning that it would not be any easy fight, Naguib urged Egyptians to train themselves to sustain hunger and deprivations.

The premier asserted that he and his revolutionary government believe that "Egypt's rights should be taken by force and not given by the enemy."

TO SHOW UP BRITAIN

"God knows," he added, "we entered with the British into talks on the evacuation of the British troops, not because we believe in the talks as a means of attaining our rights but to reveal Britain's intentions to the whole world and to save Egypt the responsibility of the inevitable consequences of British policy."

Drive Chinese Troops From Allied Outpost

SEOUL (AP)—United Nations infantry today chopped down more than 200 of 300 Reds who battered their way into an Allied outpost in western Korea.

A U. S. 8th army officer said 45 Chinese were killed, 33 probably killed and about 130 wounded in the bitter 25-minute battle for outpost Yoke at the base of T-bone hill.

Allied Sabre jets scoured northwest Korea without finding Communist MiGs. It was the second straight day of aerial inactivity after six days of furious combat in which 36 MiGs were shot down and 18 damaged.

Allied fighter-bombers struck at Communist supply areas across the narrow waist of North Korea, destroying buildings, supply dumps and trucks and cratering roads and railways.

Seamen's Strike Threatens Many B.C. Areas

VANCOUVER (CP)—The threat of a seamen's strike hangs today over the many British Columbia communities accessible only by ocean or air.

The three major steamship lines operating on Canada's West Coast are wrestling with timetables to ensure that all their vessels are in port when and if the strike comes.

Negotiations are stalemated and Saturday midnight has been named as the strike deadline for 700 seamen represented by the Seafarers' International Union (AFL).

The Canadian Pacific Railway Tuesday night ordered immediate embargoes and the Canadian National, although not involved to as great an extent, is expected to announce similar action.

NEGOTIATIONS FUTILE

The CPR embargo is on shipments from the East of livestock and perishable goods if the shipments are destined for points served by coastal steamships.

The announcement of embargoes followed apparently futile negotiations Tuesday between union officials and representatives of the three companies involved in the wage dispute—the coast steamship service of the CPR, Canadian National Steamships and Union Steamships.

Hardest hit by a strike of the deck and engine-room crews would be Vancouver Island. Dozens of up-coast fishing villages and lumber camps would also feel the pinch. An estimated 25 passenger, freight and barge vessels would be tied up.

The seamen voted in favor of strike action after the companies rejected their demands for a wage increase of $50 a month on a basic rate of about $180. The union rejected a majority report of a conciliation board which called for a $30 monthly increase.

The new company-union talks started after Labor Minister Gregg sent telegrams to both sides asking them to get together again "for the benefit of everyone concerned."

Actor Couldn't Live On Big Income

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"I know it sounds ridiculous," movie actor John Wayne told the court, but he and his wife "just couldn't make ends meet" on his income of several hundred thousand dollars a year.

In 1951, for instance, the actor testified Tuesday, his wife's extravagances "ate up my $160,000 net income—and some of my capital, too."

Wayne in disputing his estranged mate's demand for $9,000 a month allmony pending trial of her suit for separate maintenance, His wife, former actress Esperanza Bauer, estimates his income at $500,000 a year and says they spent more than $13,000 monthly during their six-year marriage.

Escapes With Soviet Jet

Polish Pilot Flees With Plane To Denmark

ROENNE, Denmark (AP)—Another Polish pilot crashed through the Iron Curtain today to land a Soviet-built Mig-15 jet fighter on this Danish island 100 miles southwest of Copenhagen.

Roenne police, who immediately took the young pilot into custody, said he had asked for political asylum. The plane was surrounded by military guards with orders to keep reporters and press photographers away.

An unconfirmed report said the plane was of a newer type than the one landed on this Baltic island March 25 by Lieut. Franciszek Jarecki, the first Polish Air Force escapee.

Jarecki's plane was later returned to Poland after a thorough examination by Western air experts. Jarecki was granted asylum and since has gone to the United States.

The speedy Russian-built fighter was first sighted by observers in the control tower of the airport at Roenne, the island's capital. The pilot apparently was unable to locate the field and headed for a training ground at nearby Almegaard military camp.

The MiG swayed violently after nitting the edges of several ditches and small bushes, then roared over the knotty ground before coming to an abrupt halt in the midst of a group of trees.

One of its wings was hit by a tree branch, but damage was reported only slight.

The young Polish pilot, unhurt, climbed out of the cockpit and greeted the camp commander with a smile.

Police said the pilot told them he broke away from a formation of MiG fighters flying over Polish territory.

Meanwhile, jet fighters experts from the Danish Air Force flew to Roenne to investigate the MiG-15, generally considered a prize catch by Western military experts.

Place Ban On Shipment Of Live Hogs

Don't Think Disease Will Disrupt Industry In Province

TORONTO (CP)—Shipment of live hogs outside Ontario has been stopped while veterinarians fight an outbreak of hog cholera. The federal agriculture department announced on Tuesday the outbreak occurred at the farm of Willard Cressman at Breslau, near Kitchener. Twenty-one of the hogs involved died and the other 29 exposed and infected animals were slaughtered and buried under supervision of federal experts.

Serum was given to all hogs within a mile of the Cresswell premises in an effort to prevent spread of the virus. Farms and sales arenas in the district will be quarantined until the outbreak has been halted.

The disease cannot be transmitted to humans or to animals other than hogs.

ANOTHER OUTBREAK

Another outbreak was reported Monday on the farm of Aaron Kipfer, near Milverton, about 15 miles north of Stratford. Kipfer has 75 hogs. Exposed animals will be slaughtered and buried under lime.

Dr. Glen Collacutt, federal agriculture department inspector in Toronto, said the disease also has been reported in the Guelph and Seaforth areas.

He said the last big outbreak of hog cholera in Western Ontario occurred in 1940. There was an outbreak in Newfoundland last year.

Dr. Collacutt said farmers receive $50 for each purebred registered hog that has to be killed and $30 for grade hogs.

WON'T DISRUPT INDUSTRY

Agricultural experts said the disease is unlikely to disrupt the hog industry in Ontario, one of Canada's big hog-producing provinces. The only hogs that leave Ontario for slaughter are those from eastern sections of the province that go to Montreal, while a few others are shipped to other Canadian provinces and to the United States for breeding purposes.

Shipment of such hogs will be delayed, probably only for a short time if the outbreak is cleared up swiftly.

W. P. Watson, Ontario livestock commissioner, said the outbreak presents no cause for alarm. He was sure it would soon be stamped out.

Federal authorities said the outbreak might be traced to improperly cooked garbage fed to hogs.

Plane Crashes 1 Dies, 3 Hurt

TECUMSEH, Ont. (CP)—One man was killed and three others suffered minor injuries Tuesday night when a privately-owned, two engine sea plane crashed into nearby Lake St. Clair.

Trapped in the Grumman Widgeon float plane when it sank about a half hour after making an unsuccessful practice landing was Lenis Hansen, 31, of Detroit.

Injured were Clifford Trevillian, 29, and Ken McConnohie, both of Detroit, and Mel Searway, 36, of Rochester, Mich.

The survivors said they struggled to release Hansen until minutes before the plane sank. They freed him from his safety belt but were unable to untangle his legs which were caught in wreckage. They said they believed he was dead, before they were forced to abandon him.

Wrong Type Of Blood Caused Cpl's Death

OTTAWA (CP)—A coroner's jury found Tuesday night that a wrong type of blood used in a transfusion at the Rockcliffe RCAF Hospital here brought about the death of Cpl. John S. Hughes of Pembroke, 12 days after a stomach operation.

The jury's verdict in an inquest said the wrong blood type was used because blood for matching had been taken from the wrong patient. A nursing sister wrote the wrong bed number on a laboratory requisition for a blood test before the operation.

The soldier, from Petawawa military camp, underwent an operation March 24 and died April 5 from a kidney failure.

Couft Reserves Judgment On Liquor Case

In a special sitting of county court today, Judge John deN. Kennedy reserved judgment in an appeal by Norman Manley, 206 Lansdowne St., of a conviction by Magistrate W. R. Philp.

Bail was extended for Manley who was sentenced on January 30, 1952, to two months in jail for selling liquor illegally.

Edward Fanjoy, Manley's counsel, submitted that the amount of liquor found in the appellant's home on January 12, 1952, was not sufficient to indicate that it was for sale. Evidence at the original hearing was that four cases of beer, six cases of empties, including seven full bottles, and five bottles of wine were found in the house.

"I would suggest that there would be 500 houses in Peterborough that would have that much," Mr. Fanjoy said.

He also argued that Crown evidence given by Alexander Williams should be "completely discounted" on the grounds that it conflicted with that given by Detective Farthing who, shortly after midnight on January 12, 1952, had seen Williams come out of Manley's house with Manley. When he accosted Williams he had found a bottle of whiskey in his pocket.

Williams had said that he paid Manley $7 for the whiskey but Manley said he had given the liquor to Williams.

"If Manley had been selling liquor, the chances are there would be a fair amount of cash in his pocket but there was only about $7.50," Mr. Fanjoy said. "Williams didn't remember in what denominations he paid for the liquor I submit that indicates he didn't pay anything."

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC, pointed out that, in the section of the Liquor Control Act under which Manley was convicted, the onus of proof was as onerous on the accused as any he was aware of.

"Moreover, there is a rule of procedure, based on sound common sense, that a court of appeal rarely interferes with findings of fact of a tribunal which has had witnesses before it," Mr. Bradshaw said.

Mr. Bradshaw asked for dismissal of the appeal on the grounds that the magistrate had seen fit to accept police evidence and, by implication, had rejected Manley's denial that he had been paid any money.

Angry Farmers Halt Bulldozers

COMBER, Ont. — (CP) — Anger over delays by the Ontario department of highways in making a settlement for the land used for the new superhighway, about 100 farmers turned up at the place where the highway will intersect with the Rochester town line and stopped two bulldozer crews from working.

Property owners on whose lands the new highway will pass, claim the government has been using delaying tactics and that some of the land for the highway has not been paid for, though agreements with the farmers were reached last fall.

The highways department has been offering $300 an acre for tilled farm land, and $250 an acre for land which is not under-drained. The farmers are not quibbling too much over the price per acre, but in many cases say they can't come to agreement with the department's land buyers because of damages they may suffer when the limited access highway bisects farms.

In some instances, a farmer finds himself with 100 acres of farmland on one side of the highway, and his farm buildings on the other.

"Churchill showed his grievance against the German experts working in Egypt because he wished the Egyptian Army to depend on British experts instead. But British experts could neither benefit Egypt nor help her against Britain."

Lindsay Court Jails Man Year For Theft

LINDSAY—(ENS) —A 39-year-old Toronto man, James McHugh, who was sentenced to a three-months reformatory term in Peterborough court a week ago, was sentenced to one year consecutive to his current term when he pleaded guilty to car theft today.

McHugh was alleged to have stolen a car belonging to Mrs. Edna Fisher of Fenelon Falls on May 9.

Mrs. Fisher, who, with her husband, operates a cabin business near the village, told Police Chief Dave Gordon of the theft and also that McHugh, who had lived with the couple in Toronto and followed them to Fenelon Falls when they went there to prepare for the opening of the tourist season, was also missing.

An alarm was sent out over the OPP radio and three hours later the car was found in a ditch near Burleigh Falls damaged to the extent of some $435.

CAUGHT BY OWNER

Evidence was that McHugh had gone to Burleigh Falls and taken a truck from a garage there to tow the Fisher car in for repairs. He was caught by the owner of the truck, arrested and tried in Peterborough a week ago. He was then sentenced to three months definite and three months indefinite for taking the truck, without the owner's consent.

Chief Gordon also told the court that the accused, a former aircraft inspector at a large plant near Toronto, had purchased a large bottle of rubbing alcohol the night before the theft and had consumed most of it when he was found.

Weekly Paper Said Banned For Soldiers

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—An American woman publisher said today that the U. S. Army has banned her weekly newspaper for U. S. troops because of its stories about Christine Jorgensen, Pat Ward and the like.

Mrs. Marion von Rospach of San Francisco, said a letter from the army's European headquarters had ordered her to stop printing and distributing her overseas weekly to the troops because its "stories of sex and prostitution" had "raised a storm of protest from commanders in the field and others concerned with the moral welfare of military and dependent personnel."

The 27-year-old woman said a colonel to whom she complained told her: "You know what you have done—stories like Christine Jorgensen and Pat Ward —."

NO COMMAND

A spokesman at the army's Heidelberg headquarters refused to comment on the matter.

Mrs. von Rospach is the wife of Cecil von Rospach, information officer at the U. S. consulate here. She started her paper in 1950, and now it has a circulation of about 40,000.

The paper is printed on the press of the unofficial army newspaper, Stars and Stripes, and is distributed on Stars and Stripes newsstands in all military posts.

Stars and Stripes printed only brief U. S. news agency accounts of Christine Jorgensen, the former soldier who underwent sex operations and treatments in Denmark, and Pat Ward, key "call girl" witness in the Mickey Jelke vice case in New York.

Mrs. von Rospach said she had been ordered to stop publication on June 30 but that she had been told a final decision still was up to Gen. Charles Bolte, commander of the U. S. Army in Europe.

4 New Senators Named As PM Leaves For Britain

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent left Ottawa Tuesday for the Coronation and a London conference of Commonwealth prime ministers. His departure was marked by announcements of a series of cabinet decisions, including appointment of four new senators.

The prime minister, who sails from New York Thursday, told reporters the Coronation is the "real object" of his trip. At the ensuing conference, he said, he hopes Canada can help in expanding world trade.

The new senators are Premier Walter Jones of Prince Edward Island, 75; Mrs. Marianna Beauchamp Jodoin, 71, of Montreal; Mrs. Muriel McQueen Fergusson, 54, Fredericton, and Allan L. Woodrow, 67, of Toronto.

Other cabinet decisions, made during the holiday weekend and announced as Mr. St. Laurent left, included:

NEW COMMISSIONER

1. Appointment of Dr. Albert W. Trueman, 51, president of the University of New Brunswick, as the new commissioner of the National Film Board. He succeeds W. Arthur Irwin, 55, expected to leave Canada next month as the new high commissioner to Australia.

2. Proclamation today of the International Rapids Power Development Act of 1951, by which the federal government turns over to Ontario the right to develop Canada's share of hydro power in the international section of the St. Lawrence river.

Government officials and others were on hand as Mr. and Mrs. St. Laurent boarded their private railway car. In the car was a bouquet of 45 roses, marking their 45th wedding anniversary Tuesday. They were accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. Frank Lafferty of Montreal.

The prime minister told reporters that at the prime minister's conference from June 3-9, Canada would make her "usual contribution" but he said he has no specific proposals to present.

FILL 4 VACANCIES

The Senate appointments filled four of the record 23 vacancies in the Upper House. They were the first appointments since early in 1951.

Magistrate Dismisses Careless Driving Count

A charge of careless driving against Michael Paranuik of Belleville was dismissed in magistrate's court Tuesday. Paraniuk was on his honeymoon the night of last April 8 when the accident from which the charge arose, occurred.

The accused was driving west on Highway 28 and making a left turn into a motel two miles west of Peterborough when the accident happened.

On the stand, Paranuik said no cars were coming but as he started to turn, an eastbound car driven by Lewis Varty of Toronto crashed into the corner of his car.

The accident occurred at the crest of a hill. The defendant claimed Varty's car did not have its lights turned on at the time and Magistrate Philp dismissed the charge.

Fined $10, Costs Leaving Scene

LINDSAY (ENS)—Wesley Dancey of this town was fined $10 and $21.50 costs today for failing to remain at the scene of an accident on May 9 when his car struck 5½-year-old Garfield Babcock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Babcock of Lindsay.

Evidence was that, after striking the boy, Dancey had left the scene without getting out of his car and then driven to the Lindsay police station to report it. The boy suffered lacerations about the legs and other cuts and bruises.

R. I. Moore, QC, who defended Dancey, indicated he would appeal the conviction.

Reinstate Permits For News Services

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—The Argentine government has opened the way for United States news agencies to distribute news to Argentina again, after having banned incoming news through these agencies since May 12.

Permits of The Associated Press and United Press to operate their own communications stations here were reinstated Tuesday night by Antonio Navatta, director of telecommunications.

The news agencies had been under pressure since President Peron, in his May Day address opening Congress, accused the agencies of conducting a campaign to defame him abroad and of accepting orders from the U. S. state department.

Congress appointed a commission to investigate the president's charges.

Decide Soldier Unfit Stand Trial

STRATFORD (CP)—A Supreme Court jury early today decided that Pte. Ruben Henry Norman is mentally unfit to stand trial for murder in the Feb. 2 slaying of 17-year-old Jean Satchell.

Mr. Justice J. M. King ordered Norman held in custody to await the pleasure of the lieutenant-governor. It is expected he will be confined to an Ontario hospital.

Before retiring the jury was addressed for 55 minutes by Mr. Justice King who reviewed evidence given in the day-long hearing.

15,000 Flee Flood Waters In Louisiana

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Louisiana's coastal lowlands faced a new flood crisis from the Gulf of Mexico today as rising streams to the north forced 15,000 persons from their homes in a $100,000,000 flood.

While swollen bayous and rivers poured tons of water toward the gulf, the coastal residents braced against the possibility of inundation from wind-whipped tides.

Streams were higher at some points than in 1940, when high tides blew into already-flooded sections and covered several coastal communities with six feet of water.

Observers believed the crisis would come today. If tides remain moderate another 24 hours, they think there is a chance that streams and backwater areas can handle tidewater.

DANGER POINT

The threat centres around Crowley, in southwest Louisiana. Overflowing bayous have forced evacuations at Mermentau, Evangeline, Midland and Esterwood and sent the flood lapping into the outskirts of Crowley.

The weather bureau predicted winds from the south, putting the area in extreme danger if tides are higher.

The stricken area was a broad belt arching from the southwest corner of the state, near the Texas border, through central Louisiana to the east central boundary with Mississippi. The belt is more than 200 miles long and 100 miles wide at points.

Four big caro planes flew to the quartermaster depot at Carswell air force base near Fort Worth, Tex., to airlift 27,000 pounds of tents and cots to flood victims.

See No Sign Of Depression During 1953

MONTREAL (CP) — Two top credit men predicted today there will be no recession in 1953 in the United States or Canada.

They are E. B. Morin, secretary of the National Association of Credit Men of the United States, and L. T. Allen, president of the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association. They were interviewed at the current international credit congress.

Mr. Morin said sales volumes in the U. S. this year may exceed those of 1952 although profits may be smaller.

NO SIGN OF DEPRESSION

"In the immediate foreseeable future there is no basis for anticipating a depression," he said. "There may be a shakedown in some industries, such as household and electrical appliances and to a lesser degree in clothing, but generally business will prosper this year."

Mr. Allen said Canada's economy is sound although some industries may experience readjustment. He said Canada's position is slightly different from that of the U. S. economy: Canada is more dependent upon foreign trade and in this country defence expenditures differ from those of the U. S.

PCVS Boys Lead In Points For Track And Field In COSSA Meet Held Here

PCVS intermediate and senior boys piled up most points in the COSSA district elimination competitions at the high schools track and field meet held in Morrow Park last evening. The three local high schools and a few of the district high schools had entries in the various events, other district schools sending their contestants to eliminations in Oshawa. The COSSA meet will be held this weekend in Oshawa, the first two winners of each of the district events taking part. High School teachers, assisted by several of the Jaycees, handled the local meet Tuesday.

LARGER ENTRIES

Keenest competition here was supplied by PCVS and St. Peter's runners, jumpers, etc., with Kenner Collegiate having a smaller and younger entry. Port Hope had one representative, while Lakefield and Bancroft, from North Hastings, had a few in some of the track and field competitions. This meet was to have been run in conjunction with the Recreation Commission and Junior Chamber of Commerce as a holiday field day Monday, but wet grounds forced the postponement of the big meet. However, the COSSA eliminations had to be worked in this week, and the smaller meet was rushed in last evening. To relieve congestion, some of the district competitors were switched to an Oshawa meet.

Following are the local results, first, second and third, with initials of schools after the names:

Intermediate: 100-yard dash, Martin (SPS), Fitzpatrick (SPS), Pullyblank (PCVS); 220, Martin, Pullyblank, Livingstone (PCVS); 440, Martin, Landon (Bancroft), Northrop (Kenner); half-mile, Kelly (PH), Forestell (SPS), Livingstone; mile, not run; running broad jump, Fitzpatrick, Masterson (SPS), Hale (PCVS); running high jump, Masterson, Hale, Moore (Lakefield); hop, step and jump, Masterson, Buckley (SPS), Pullyblank; pole vault, Davis (PCVS), McClenaghan (PCVS), Pearson (Lakefield); shot put, Bruce (Bancroft), Druery (Kenner), Hurtubise (SPS); discus, Druery Hurtubise, Fitzpatrick; relay, SPS; javelin, Merrett (PCVS), Burrett (Kenner).

IT WAS A BIG DAY for the kindergarten of the public school when their teachers, Miss Bernice Corbett and Mrs. Myrtle McClelland, took them to visit the fire department Tuesday. The big fire truck was driven out in front of the fire hall and the kids were turned loose after the fire chief had given them a little talk on what it was all about. After the visit was over it was found that the fire pumper would still run. Feeling very much like regular firemen, three of the volunteers from the kindergarten are shown, Bruce Ravensdale at the wheel; Richard Irvine in the fire chief's cap, and John Bell with a helmet on. Children's Aid Asks Larger Municipal Grant

Due to rising costs the Children's Aid Society are requesting that the daily rate of $1.21 a child paid by city and county to help support the children be raised to $1.25.

There was a total of 89 families, 151 children in the care of the society and 39 unmarried parent cases were given service during the month of April, reported Miss Rachel Young, superintendent of the society.

Eight families were referred to the society by neighbors, relatives, service clubs, other agencies and by personal application and all received assistance.

Biggest problem the society is encountering is the problem of inadequate clothing for the children, delinquency of youths drinking and inadequate maintenance.

There were two requests received for formal recommendations in regard to the adoption of children by relatives. Three children were taken into the care of the society. Two being made temporary wards and one a permanent ward, due to the fact that the society has as yet been unable to obtain the necessary information concerning the child's father, but has been placed in a home, where he will be adopted if his development warrents it. One child has been returned to its mother, who has been able to make satisfactory plans for the child.

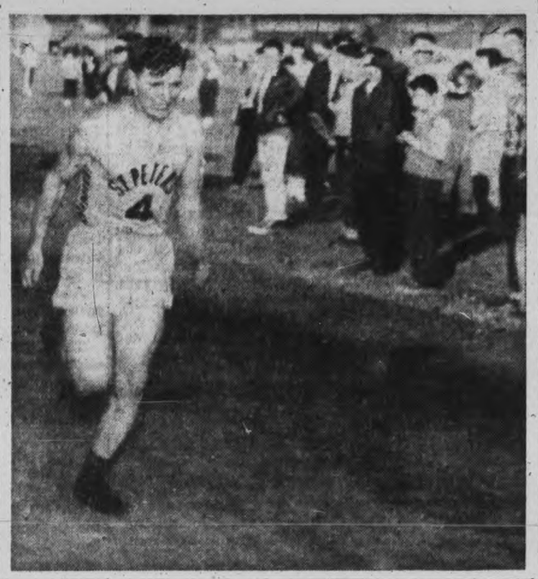
Two adoptions were completed during the month of April, one being a ward of the society. Seven were placed in foster homes, four for the first time.

Nine unmarried parents' cases were referred to the society. One was a request to plan for a child for whom the mother was tired of providing. There was a request from another agency to interview a father of a child in regard to maintenance. One girl returned to her own community; and five wish to assist with the Children's Aid in planning for a baby and one girl will need the assistance of the society for some time, in regard to the future planning, both for herself and her children.

There were five children in the home on April 1 and two were admitted during the month. Two had left the home through the month and there were five children in the home and under the care of the society at the first of May.

It was reported by Mrs. Lynch that 240 articles of clothing had been contributed to the society by sewing groups.

Must Pay Back Stolen $10,000



WINNIPEG (CP)—A 31-year-old Winnipeg cashier, who claims he was a victim of blackmailers, may spend the next 67 years paying back more than $10,000 he pleaded guilty to stealing.

Louis Wigginton, father of two children, was given a five-year suspended sentence and ordered to pay back the sum he stole from Western Grocers Ltd. between Dec. 1, 1950, and July 5, 1952.

He was ordered to make restitution of $2,000 at once and pay the rest at $10 a month. If the payments are not increased, he will be 98 when he is finished.

Defence counsel said three of Wigginton's co-employees found out about the thefts and blackmailed him for most of the money. Police said this charge could not be substantiated by evidence.

World Needs Greater Faith Sales And Ad Club Told

An enthusiastic new American Tuesday night outlined his solution to the troubles of the world to the Sales and Advertising Club.

Imre Kovacs, Hungarian-born speaker, called for a more dynamic democracy, a touch of fanaticism about the democratic way of life, and a greater faith.

He termed the present generation "resigned, apathetic and cynical" and suggested it would be a difficult job to shake such a generation out of its complacency.

In Canada, and in America, there were freedoms that citizens generally did not appreciate fully because they are too familiar with them.

But the essential freedom, he felt, was the freedom to be different from others in the community. "Be glad there are differences, so we can learn something from each other," he said.

There was a need to overthrow communism. As an unrealistic and too-strictly-controlled way of living, it did not answer the needs of man.

DOUBTS SINCERITY

Mr. Kovacs cast a generous doubt on the sincerity of Russia in its present moves that are apparently aimed at peace.

"This baloney of Malenkov's is the effort of the octopus to arrange his tentacles in a more comfortable position—around our necks."

To combat communism, people had to study it to know its weak points; with this knowledge, communism could be destroyed. By this he did not mean that communism should be taught in schools; it should be studied.

PRAYER EFFECTIVE

Prayer was one of the most effective weapons against communism. Mr. Kovacs urged the formation of religious "cells", like the communists' insidious cells, which would be designed to further spiritual faith.

As a third method of combatting Russia, he suggested that country be bombarded with leaflets stating the wish of the democratic world for peace and for the opportunity to offer freedom to the Russian people.

Canada and the United States had greatness, he said, which could be measured "by your degree of compassion and generosity. There is no country in the world where your money and United States money has not helped people and fed children and bound up wounds."

Mr. Kovacs was introduced by Lionel Browne.

Byrne Appeals To CAHA On New Team

QUEBEC (CP)—Frank Byrne, owner of Quebec Citadelles, said Tuesday night in a statement he has appealed to the Canadian Amteur Hockey Association the decision of the Quebec Junior Amateur Hockey Association to admit a new junior A club to the league as a replacement for his team.

The JAHA announced in Montreal Tuesday it has given Emile Couture of Quebec a league franchise with the rights to Citadelle players.

League officials have claimed Byrne automatically lost his franchise when he defaulted a playoff game with Montreal Canadiens juniors and entered the CAHA Memorial Cup playoffs from which the Quebec league had been barred in a sweeping suspension of Quebec Hockey leagues, teams and players.

FRANCHISE 'NOT LOST'

The Quebec Amateur Hockey Association has been readmitted into the CAHA.

Byrne, who has announced his intention of selling his club and getting out of junior hockey, said he does not consider he has lost his franchise.

He did not indicate any change in his decision to sell.

Byrne said that before the new franchise can be operated it must be approved by the CAHA.

A New Locarno For Germany?

There can be no permanent and full settlement in Europe until Germany is re-united. This is almost a truism, considering how German the Germans are and remembering that only a few tens of thousands of them in the Sudetenland across the Czech border were sufficient to cause the Munich crises and to lead to the Second World War. Both East and West have been doing their best to integrate the earlier Occupation Zones into their own economies and politics; East Germany into the Russian hegemony, West Germany into the Anglo-American. But even as the dividing line across the centre of the old Germany has been more strongly etched, the deeper nationalism uniting the two has been more strongly felt.

* * *

It may seem anachronistic in these days when other nations are surrendering some of their sovereignty and planning European federation, that Germany could not return to a pre-1870 state of separate principalities. There are, however, twentieth century economic forces at work in Europe to make the reunion of Germany inevitably necessary. Yet neither East nor West, nor East Germany nor West Germany, has any practically acceptable plan for reunion.

* * *

Churchill threw out a notable hint last week, as part of his somewhat vague and general conception of a piecemeal settlement between East and West. He suggested an understanding resembling Locarno with the Soviet Union on the future security of both Russia and Germany. The Locarno Treaties, it will be remembered, were made at Locarno, Switzerland, in 1925, between Britain, France, Germany, Italy and other powers. They provided for mutual guarantees against aggression. That is, signatories would support France if she were attacked by Germany, and Germany if attacked by France. A new agreement on such lines for the mutual security of both Russia and Germany would provide a framework for the reunion of Germany. It is an interesting suggestion, and one which, it is believed, the Kremlin has been considering for several months as a possible basis of a four-power agreement.

Welcome To "Canada Review"

We have received and read the first issue of Canada Review, the new weekly which is being published in England by Mr. Roy Thomson. Its purpose is to give Canadians resident in Britain the news of their own land in a convenient and regular form, and also to keep British people who are interested in Canada abreast of developments in this country through a paper which is of Canadian ownership, and which is edited and prepared by Canadians.

This is an excellent idea, and it has been partly realized for several years through Canada's Weekly; this latter paper, however, has not survived the postwar period in good condition, and it has not shown itself equal to reporting the widespread new development in this country. There is a great place for Canada Review, and we wish it well.

Every newspaperman knows that the reporting of Canadian news in British papers is scanty and unsatisfactory. Difficulties of production, and an understandable desire to concentrate on the news of the greatest immediate interest to their subscribers, have confirmed British papers in this custom. And there is also an impression, which anyone who has lived for long in Britain will have discovered, that not a great deal that is of real interest happens in Canada. Canada Review can do much to counteract that belief.

Canada needs an authoritative journalistic mouthpiece in Britain, and here it is. We offer our congratulations to Mr. Thomson and his staff, and hope that his venture will prosper for the good of Canada and, let us add, for the information of Britain.

A Spanish-U.S. Agreement

There is considerable speculation as to whether the announcement of delay in the signing of an agreement between the United States and Spain means that the Government of either country has changed its mind. If it does, much work will go to waste, for two years of study and thirteen months of careful negotiations were required to bring the two as near agreement as they had reached last week. That agreement would have established air bases for both the United States and Spain on Spanish territory.

The negotiations have been conducted in Madrid, in remarkable secrecy. No details have been released about the number of bases or their location. Neither the name nor the nature of the treaty has been officially disclosed. As in the case of many international conferences, however, a few observers and correspondents claim they have managed to acquire certain information about the negotiations.

These claimants say the bases are not like those the United States is constructing or has constructed in other countries. The bases in Spain will be used by both Governments in the event of war. The U.S. may use them in time of peace only under well-defined limitations. As a further return, Spain will receive weapons and other supplies for the Spanish Army and other assistance for defence.

This does not mean that Spain becomes a member of the North Atlantic Alliance—not yet. Even this alliance with the United States will be criticized in some quarters; admission to NATO might arouse a storm of protest. The Fascist nature of Franco's regime cannot be overlooked. However, powers which have accepted the friendship of Marshal Tito and at least semi-alliance with his Communist regime should not find it difficult to conclude that Spain might prove an equally worthy defensive ally.

Young Eyes And Minds On Paper

Give a clear-eyed youngster paint and perhaps a brush, and a few skilful nudges from a sympathetic art teacher, and the results may be astonishing. They certainly are, as shown this week on the walls of the Public Library gallery. Here are two rooms full of the brush and finger-painting efforts of special Saturday morning classes for elementary school children showing a special interest in painting, and sponsored by the Recreation Commission.

The youngsters have made free use of big sheets of blank paper, lots of primary colours, their imaginations and their two eyes. The record of what they have seen and fancied is lively and fluent; fresh and sincere as a child's wide-eyed wonderment. There are some pretty discerning comments, too: mobile but faceless crowds; carollers all mouth; wind in the skirts on gusty George Street, with only the parking meter stable.

What a change this painting represents from school art classes a generation or so ago, when children laboured without permitted vision to copy a design from the teachers' blackboard. Here is enthusiasm, life, and patterns of colour and line beyond a teacher's dreams, but quite within the fantasy of a child's reality. Because it is theirs and not something seen dimly from an adult point of view, it has truth. This truth may be somewhat disconcerting, but it is refreshing and direct. The colours are clean, the designs big and there is a wonderful two-dimensional quality to most of it.

This emphasis on length and breadth, without any sophisticated pother with depth and distance, is enchanting and results in striking patterns. The third dimension is, after all, a modern discovery. Youngsters paint a world which our too-tutored minds are losing to sight. Some modern painters are trying to recapture the clarity and directness of primitive and medieval masters, whose springs were those of today's children. To see as a child, directly and sensitively, is a pretty good view, especially if we can at the same time bring to it adult capacity.

Dealing With Tent Caterpillars

We are assured by those who should know that the tent caterpillar will not be as numerous this summer as last summer in those areas where infestation was at its worst. This may still mean that we shall have plenty of these pests, however, and we feel that everyone who owns a garden should make a personal effort to get rid of them.

The simplest plan is to cut off the branch which is infested and burn it, but this is not always possible. It is often enough to make a torch of twisted paper and burn the nests on the branches. Where infestation is particularly bad a DDT spray, or a lead or calcium arsenate spray may be used, and care should be taken to spray the limbs and trunks of infected trees, as well as their foliage.

The tent caterpillar is an unsightly and disgusting pest. Its control in forests is a matter for governmental planning and treatment. But we must not expect governmental agencies to do everything. In city gardens the caterpillars can usually be checked by one or two determined assaults against them.

Mother Of A Family

Our obituary columns yesterday noted the death of a long-time resident of Smith township, Mrs. Sarah Ann Northey, in her 79th year. She will be missed by her sons, sisters and brothers, and other relatives. Her husband, Albert Northey, predeceased her. She was herself not a Northey of Smith township, having been born and raised in Otonabee, but what a remarkable Northey lineage follows her! She leaves twenty-one grandchildren and thirty-six great grandchildren. The name will long remain in Peterborough county and in Smith, to which the first Northey—James—came in 1843.

THE MYSTERY OF MYSTERIES

Philo Vance Pain In Pance

By PHILIP TOYNBEE

WHY do so many of us read so many detective stories every year. The output is enormous, yet the appetite remains unassuaged, and since the detective novel is, in origin, an English phenomenon, it is right that an Englishman should explain this peculiar genre to the world which it has corrupted—or, if you prefer, endowed.

* * *

AN ATTEMPT at explanation has now been made by an English writer of detective stories, Dr. Sutherland Scott, in a book called "Blood In Their Ink", which has recently appeared. Dr. Scott's book is part history, part analysis and part apologetics. But it answers none of our real questions, for it begins by taking the detective novel for granted. The subject is "The March of the Modern Mystery Novel", and only the briefest attention is paid to the pre-1914 classics. Dr. Scott is concerned with the vast, almost unchartable oceans of detective fiction which have ebbed and flowed between 1919 and the present year.

* * *

BLOOD IN THEIR INK is, perhaps inevitably, a rather clumsy book; a great deal of space is devoted to lists of authors and titles with only the briefest comments of their achievements. Dr. Scott writes jauntily, and he seldom makes the mistake of taking his subject too seriously. He has strong views about the ideal mystery novel, and the many, often deplorable, derivations from it. Most of his views seem to me to be unexceptionable. He is surely right, for example, to protect against the intrusion of love-interest, and doubly right to dislike the all-too-familiar type of amateur detective who is an amateur, as well, of Chinese vases, Zoroastrianism, Chemistry and the works of Donne. I am sorry that he failed to quote Ogden Nash's comment on the egregious hero of S. S. Van Dyne, which runs:

"Philo Vance
Gives me a pain in the pance."

* * *

AND, for my taste, he might have been much harsher to the well-born bores who figure so prominently in the admiring pages of so many English lady writers. I find Wimsey, Alleyn and Campion so intolerable that I am no longer able to read the works of Misses Sayers, Marsh and Allingham.

* * *

THERE is an interesting chapter on technique, in which the author annunciates severe views about what is fair and what is not. Some of these views seem to me to be pedantic, and, in particular, the insistence that there should be only one murderer. This instantly condemns The Mysterious Affairs at Styles, first and best of Agatha Christie's books and, in some sense, the model and archetype for the whole period under discussion. It seems to me, also, that Dashiell Hammett deserves even more praise than Dr. Scott gives him, if only because he alone of the writers discussed here has any right to be taken seriously for qualities other than those demanded of a mystery novelist.

* * *

IN FACT, where I totally disagree with Dr. Scott is in his occasional, and rather sly, suggestions that detective stories have proved to be an important branch of literature. He does this in two instances by quoting, with implied approval, from foolish statements by Somerset Maugham and Raymond Chandler respectively. "I have a notion," wrote Mr. Maughan in 1944, "that when the historians of literature come to discourse upon the fiction produced by English-speaking peoples during the first half of this century, they will pass somewhat lightly over the productions of serious novelists and turn their attention to the immense and varied achievement of the detective writers." This sentiment is echoed, in more vigorous language, by Mr. Chandler.

* * *

ARE we really expected to believe that Miss Ngaio March will be taken more seriously by future generations than Miss Virgina Woolf, that Perry Mason is more durable than Gatsby? The trouble about all but a tiny handful of these detective books is that they are abysmally lacking in every quality demanded of a serious novel. Dr. Scott should have read, and tried to answer, the brilliant attack of the American critic, Edmund Wilson, on the pretensions of detective writers to be taken seriously.

* * *

I DIFFER from Mr. Wilson in frankly and voraciously enjoying this type of fiction; and I have often been puzzled to define the nature of my enjoyment. Certainly I don't read them with any keen-witted ambition to penetrate the wiles of the author before reaching the end. In face, I try not to guess the murderer, so that I shall be as surprised as possible when the climax is reached. I believe these books satisfy for the male reader the same need which is satsified for women by writers such as Miss Ethel M. Dell. Because they are slack, lazy books, replete with fictional types, stock situations and unreal conversation, they are welcome reading when the reader himself is feeling slack and lazy.

* * *

WHAT is still needed—and Dr. Scott has made no effort to supply it—is a sociological study of this extraordinary and persistent phenomenon of detective fiction. One could have understood a detective "craze," lasting for perhaps a decade: I cannot understand why the taste endures, in myself as well as in so many million others.

Shades Of Sitting Bull

(New York Times)

They called him Tatanka Yatanka, Sitting Bull. A six-foot, deep-chested Indian who walked with a slight limp. He had a prominent nose, calm eyes and a deliberate manner. Today he is back in the news again. The Dakotas virtually are at war on the issue of which state should have the honour of tending to his grave. But in the Seventies, when he was raiding and agitating against the whites, those territories would have been glad to hear the last of him.

It is ironical that the quarreling is being carried on by such folks as Sitting Bull always despised and, mistrusted — lawyer Congressmen and judges. The Sioux chief never pretended about his hatred of the whites. It was the spark on which he rose to become the most powerful Indian on the plain and the United States Army's biggest headache after the Civil War.

Letters To The Editor

VERSES TO THE QUEEN

Sir: The Examiner readers will no doubt be interested to hear that today I received with much pleasure a letter of acknowledgment from Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth's private secretary through the Government House at Ottawa conveying the Queen's gratitude for a letter and a book of verse by local composers the latter which was made up in the year 1937, the time of her father's (King George VI's) coronation, mailed to her here about four weeks ago.

I shall here reproduce two of the poems that the book contained:

TO THEIR MAJESTIES ON CORONATION DAY

Oh! King and Queen of our mighty nation
A signal honour is yours today,
When myriads, their adoration
And filial homage to thee pay
And in addition for thee pray!

Oh! may your reign overflow with prudence
And high ideals and records true
So that it may engender credence
And a wealth of confidence in you!
May Heaven bless you your whole life through!

MUSKOKA

Fairer far than famed Avoca
Gleam thy verdant vales, Muskoka,
Land of mountain, land of meadow,
Land of forest, lake and stream!
Well I know thy distant marches,
Often, through thy twining arches
In the olden days I wandered,
Days that linger as a dream.

In thy many wildernesses,
Hoary hemlocks shake their tresses,
Nodding in their weedy vestments
Like the Druid priests of old,
Lordly pines and elms, gigantic
Wave their withered arms and frantic,
Shriek in Corybantic chorus
Tales, for countless years retold.

Who shall tell what golden glory
Crowns they patriarchal story?
Who shall tell what tales re-echo
From thy forest— from thy wave?
Tales, perchance, of days long ended,—
Of Arcadian plenty blended
With the death-dirge of the captive
And the war-cry of the brave—

Or mayhap, thy mystic pages
Glow with deeds of later ages
When ten-thousand tongues triumphant
Startled thy awakening dells,—
When thy settlers, self-reliant
Braved thy rigour, and, defiant,
Raised on high the flag of freedom,
Stemmed thy torrents, stormed thy fells,—

Land of silence, land of beauty,
Land where stern, enduring duty
Ill repays thy sturdy children
With the sunshine of its smiles—
Few I know there be who love thee
Save when skies be blue above thee
And thy waters gleam and sparkle
Lapping, laughing round thine isles.

Yet tho' some many speak unkindly
Or may criticise thee blindly
Thou canst smile at weakling pity,
Land of mingled frost and flame—
Tho' thy many moods and fancies
Change as change a maiden's glances
How shall human lips reproach thee
When the human heart's the same

The book which proved so acceptable had the King's Coronation picture on the front with a blue coronation seal on which was printed in gold the following: "Coronation" King George VI, Queen Elizabeth, May 12th, 1937, and with a golden crown in the centre. On the back of the book were four lovely pictures of the royalty: King George and Queen Elizabeth together, the two posing separately and a picture of the two Princesses: Elizabeth and Margaret Rose— Elizabeth, now our reigning queen, the cute little Princess in the picture.

CONTENT WITH KINGSTON

Sir: Regarding the proposed change of Veterans' files of Peterborough County from the D. V. A. offices in Kingston to Toronto District office.

I would like to go an record and state that I am perfectly satisfied to remain in the Kingston district, as I find no inconvenience in going to Kingston, and that I am perfectly satisfied with the treatment I have received from both the staff of D. V. A. Kingston, and the doctors and nurses of the Kingston General Hospital.

SAYS FLUORINE POISONOUS

Sir: Your editorials, agree with them or not, are always interesting, informative and amusing and after looking at the headlines in the front page I invariably turn to the editorials.

After reading your write up regarding the use of Fluorine Tuesday night I happened to pick up an American magazine that had a write up on the subject that is seldom given consideration, pointing out the use that Reds or saboteurs could make of large quantities of the deadly poison.

If Fluorination is quite generally adopted it will provide a perfect weapon for the Reds to take over our country— all at our expense. We provide the poison and they need only to dump it into our water supplies; the public cannot detect it until the damage is done then it is too late. A hopeful sign however is that many towns and cities that had fluorination are throwing it out— having sensed the danger of this poison to the human body even when taken in recommended concentrations. It is hoped that all cities and towns that have adopted this socialized dentistry scheme will wake up and throw it out both in the interest of people's health and in the interest of national security.

Fluorine is odourless, tasteless and does not discolour the water; it is a deadly poison and there is no known antidote for its victims; cities that fluorinate water keep large supplies on hand and it would be a simple matter for saboteurs to overcome the two or three men in charge at night and dump this deadly poison in the drinking water, killing thousands or even millions with the poison we had so conveniently supplied for them.

Trusting that with your usual policy of fairness and justice to look at all sides of a debate that you will insert the above.

Yours sincerely,
H. T. MILLARD.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Ye men of Israel, hear these words; Jesus of Nazareth, a man approved of God among you by miracles and wonders and signs, which God did by him in the midst of you, as ye yourselves also know: him, being delivered by the determinate counsel and foreknowledge of God, ye have taken, and by wicked hands have crucified and slain: whom God hath raised up, having loosed the pains of death: because it was not possible that he should be holden of it . . . Therefore let all the house of Israel know assuredly, that God hath made that same Jesus, whom ye have crucified, both Lord and Christ.

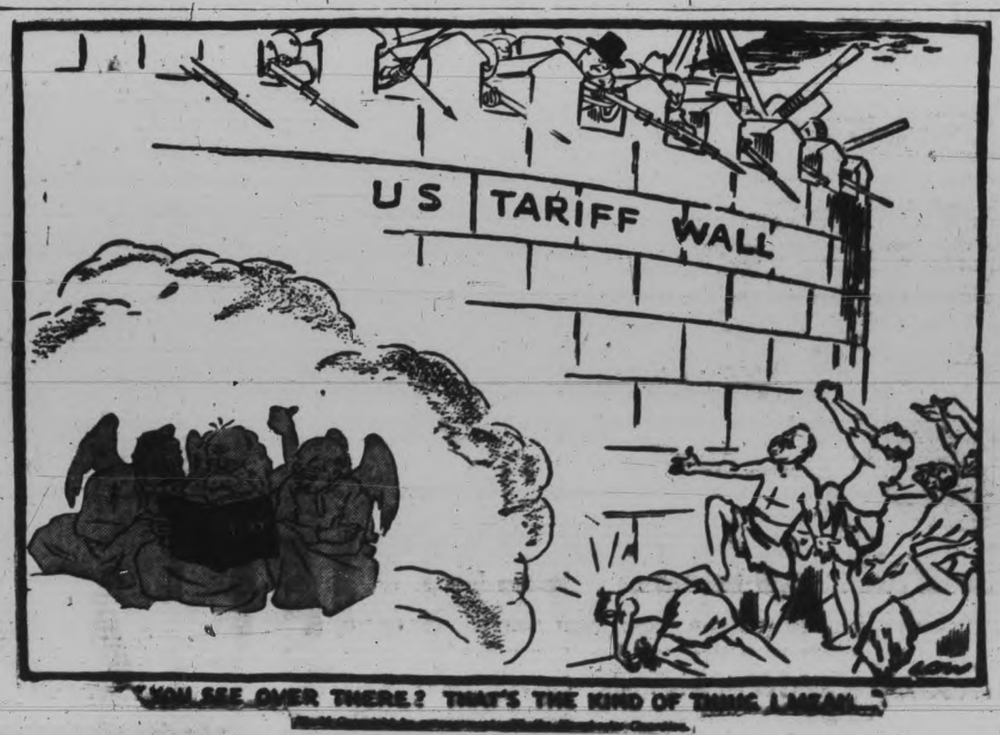
Now when they heard this, they were pricked in their heart, and said unto Peter and the rest of the apostles, Men and brethren, what shall we do?

Then Peter said unto them, Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost. For the promise is unto you, and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call. And with many other words did he testify and exhort, saying, Save yourselves from this untoward generation. (Act 2: 22-24, 36-40.)

* * *

And by the hands of the apostles were many signs and wonders wrought among the people . . .

There came also a multitude out of the cities round about Jerusalem, bringing sick folks, and them which were vexed with unclean spirits: and they were healed every one. (Acts 5: 12, 16.)



The Town Bell Of Paris

(Brantford Expositor)

In 1874 the Town of Paris acquired a bell for its municipal building, then in Uppertown, which was justifiably the pride and joy of the populace of that time and so remained for a long period thereafter. Even after the administration followed business establishments from Uppertown to Lower Town and the present quarters on Grand River Street, the bell continued to be rung thrice daily. Two years ago, however, the ravages of age took their toll and, if a pun is permissible that of the bell ceased for the first time in 80 years. Some of the mountings, rusted out, had broken. In 1952 the bell was removed from its tower for reasons of public safety.

Fortunately it was not broken up or discarded. Sentiment rules strongly in such cases. There were nostalgic requests for the resumption of the long familiar chime. Ultimately it was decided to have the bell restored so that it could be rung on Coronation Day.

However, projects of this kind cost money, even when skilled workmen do the reconditioning job free of charge. The main requirement is for a suitable tower in which the bell (now on display beside the Town Office) can be hung and rung. Altogether this undertaking will cost in the neighbourhood of $2,000 and an appeal has been launched for public support, financially. Already a gratifying sum has been contributed by interested organizations, firms and individuals, not only of Paris but of Brantford and throughout the County, as well as by former residents of Paris now living in various parts of Canada and the United States.

Soldier In Korea Tells Story Of Night Attack

A terse personal story of the medical side of the fierce Chinese attack against Canadian troops of May 2 was received today from a driver of the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps.

Attached to a regimental aid post of the Royal Canadian Regiment he wrote, "At approximately 11:30 p.m. the enemy started to shell the forward positions of the Charlie and Baker companies. At 11:45 we were ordered to stand by. At 12 p.m. we received our first casualties.

"When these boys started to come through to us . . . the padres of both faiths were there to give them spiritual aid and comfort.

"These (chaplains) helped us load the wounded onto stretchers, apply bandages and kept up our spirits through the long night.

"In the early morning of May 3 our jeep ambulances were on a hill about 50 yards from the crawl trenches, where heavy mortar and artillery shelling was coming in.

CARRIED OUT

"Our medical attendants and drivers waited there on the hill, while through this rain of death our boys were being carried out of the trenches.

"Those who could, walked, those who couldn't were being carried out on top of the trenches by brave men who were under continuous fire from the enemy.

"A call for help was sent out to other ambulance groups and they replied by sending us men, vehicles and medical supplies.

"In the early daylight hours American helicopters were coming in and out so fast that I lost count of them all. They were here to evacuate the ones seriously hurt.

"Two of our medical attendants were carried out of the lines in a complete state of exhaustion and to these men go credit to the lives that were saved that brutal and savage night."

Signed, "A soldier in Her Majesty's Army."

Coronation Medallions Ready To Be Given To School Pupils

OTTAWA (CP)—The mint has completed distribution of some 3,000,000 special Coronation medallions for Canadian schoolchildren, a mint, spokesman said today.

The bronze medallions, bearing the effigy of the Queen, crowned, on one side, and the royal cipher on the other, have been sent to provincial departments of education.

It will be up to the provinces to make their own distribution to each school.

The medallions will be about the only commemorative memento ordered by the federal government for the June 2 Coronation.

NO SPECIAL COINS

There will be no special silver coins nor any special markings or issues of new currency to mark the occasion.

Canada is designing new p currency bearing the figure of Queen, but the currency won't be ready until 1954.

However, the Queen herself has approved a Coronation medal, her personal souvenir of the Coronation. A number of these will be distributed to Canadians, probably to troops taking part in the Coronation procession as well as to prominent Canadian citizens.

Impaired Driver Claims 3 Beers

Convicted on a charge of impaired driving, G. A. Hickey of Ajax was fined $50 and $10.50 costs in Magistrate's Court Tuesday following a two hour hearing.

The charge was laid the night of April 7 after C. J. Watkins, a resident of R.R. 7, Peterborough, reported seeing the Hickey car weaving on No. 28 Highway, west of the city limits. He claimed the car was being driven in a very erratic manner and crossing from the road shoulder to centre line of the highway.

Subsequently OPP Constables John Cawood and Frederick Lund followed and stopped the Hickey car to find the driver unsteady on his feet, smelling of alcohol, incoherent, with glassy eyes.

Taking the witness stand, Hickey admitted having three bottles of beer while driving from Bancroft but said his condition could be attributed to the strenuous exercise he had taken that day, together with the fact he had slept only four hours the previous night.

James Hickey, a 75 year-old uncle, agreed his nephew "was very tired" at the time police stopped him on the highway.

Magistrate W. R. Philp commented that fatigue might have been one of the factors in Hickey's condition but attributed alcohol with doing its share, finding the defendant guilty and levying the fine.

BALM BEACH (CP)—Special police may be put on duty in this Georgian Bay resort near Midland until hooliganism which broke out during the week-end has been cleared up.

The board of police commissioners is reported to be considering asking experienced policemen who holiday in the area and war veterans to help.

Police chief Howard French said he laid 19 charges Saturday and Sunday, most of them against minors. Seven of the charges were for having beer and liquor in an illegal place, four for obtaining liquor for minors, two for impaired driving, one for common drunkenness and four for careless driving.

On hills, a good car driver shifts to second gear when the speed drops to around 20 miles an hour.

Two Men Fined For Having Liquor

Arthur Henderson of Burleigh Falls and Clifford Racine of 505 Aylmer St. were both found guilty Tuesday on charges of having liquor in a place other than their residences. Found guilty after pleading not guilty, Henderson was fined $15. and $2.50 costs. Racine was fined $10 and $2.50 costs.

Upon investigation of an accident May 2, OPP Constable Kenneth Barber found a part bottle of rye in Henderson's car. The accused offered no explanation on how it got there.

Examination of the accused's liquor book showed he had purchased liquor that day. On the stand, Henderson said the liquor found in his car was the same type as he had purchased.

Racine pleaded guilty to the charge and no evidence was offered.

Stubborn Stand Aids Marylebone To Gain Draw

LONDON (Reuters)—A stubborn stand of three hours 40 minutes at the wicket by Trevor Bailey Tuesday helped the Marylebone Cricket Club to draw with the Australian touring cricketers.

Bailey with 64 not out and Denis Compton with 45 showed that the hitherto devastating down-under bowling can be played.

The MCC, out for 80 in their first innings, scored 196 and left the Australians to get 98 in about half an hour to win. They made 13 for two when time ran out and the match was drawn.

Close-of-play scores in Tuesday's first-class cricket:

MCC 80 and 196, Australian tourists 179 and 13 for two Match drawn.

Lancashire 400, Kent 236 and 81. Lancashire won by an innings and 83 runs.

Cambridge University 99 and 194, Worcestershire 89 and 205 for three. Worcestershire won by seven wickets.

Duke Of Windsor Enjoys Baseball Game

NEW YORK (AP)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor attended their first major league baseball game together Tuesday night, between New York Yankees and Detroit Tigers.

The Duke acted like any ordinary baseball fan, asking for an autographed baseball and requesting to see "that switcher fellow that everybody is talking about."

After dining with Dan Topping, owner of the Yankees, the Duke visited the New York Yankee clubhouse where he was granted his wish, meeting the switch-hitting star, Mickey Mantle, as well as many of the other Yankees He also received the requested baseball, autographed by all the Yankees.

The Duke admitted he knew little about baseball but showed great interest when southpaw Eddie Lopat volunteered to show him how he pitches his various assortment of "stuff."

LIKED KNUCKLER

Lopat demonstrated how he holds the ball when throwing his fast ball, curve, screwball and knuckler. The Duke was especially interested in the knuckler.

"That's the serve those cricketeers find the most difficult to hit, isn't it?" he remarked.

"That's also the 'serve' we pitchers find most difficult to throw," Lopat replied.

Mantle showed the Duke the cricket bat he received from Sir Don Bradman and asked him to demonstrate his swing.

"I'm afraid I'm not sure I can use it," apologized the Duke "You see I never was much of a cricket player."

PINT SIZE DODGERS—These Cornwall, Ont., youngsters, members of the Dodgers in the Little League, take their baseball as seriously as their big-league brethren after whom their team is named. The cheeks of Remi Leger (left) bulge as he munches a wad of gum—a concession because chewing tobacco might get his suit dirty. He listens to advice from team-mate Billy Fox.

New Que. Team Joins League

MONTREAL (CP)—The Junior Amateur Hockey Association—the Junior A circuit in Quebec province—announced Tuesday that a new Quebec City team has been admitted to the league, replacing Quebec Citadelles.

The announcement by secretary Paul-Marcel Raymond said the owner of the new team is Emile Couture of Quebec and that the team "will work with" Quebec Aces of the Quebec Senior Hockey League.

As far as the league is concerned, the new team will have the right to Citadelle players and other teams in the circuit cannot tamper with or "steal" them.

About 50 golfers teed off in perfect weather Saturday to officially open the season at the Peterborough Golf Club. The course was in excellent condition although the same cannot be said for some of the golfers. Some good scores were turned in, however, and everyone had a very enjoyable afternoon.

Jim Clarkson took top honors in the 1st flight with a 79. Jim, who came to this country recently from Scotland and is co-holder of the course record (66) at his home club there, says he is after the big prize this year. He could do it too.

MANY AT DINNER

A large number stayed and were treated to an excellent turkey dinner served up by our poplar stewart, John Lavictoire. Mr. Jack Pratt and Joe Frost assisted by Frank Jobbitt kept everyone in high spirits with their story-telling. Alf Hill and Randall Stacey were congratulated for their efforts in getting the course in top shape and they did an excellent job. If opening day was any indication, we are going to have a very successful season. Don't forget National Golf Day next Saturday when every golfer in Canada from scratch to 36 handicap has a chance to beat Julius Boros. Let's have a good turnout as all proceeds go to charity and the R.C.G.A. for the development of golf in Canada. Entry sheets for the various competitions are on the bulletin board now so get your name down early as the draws will be made in a couple of weeks. The qualifying rounds for the club championship will be played from June 6 to 14, so get out and sharpen up that game.

See you next week.

LADIES' GOLF

The lady golfers were fortunate in having a perfect day, also, on Tuesday for their opening. President Mrs. S. Williamson welcomed the guests after an enjoyable luncheon and a two-ball foursome was played, nine and 18-hole players joining forces. Winners were: Mrs. Williamson and Mrs. C. L. Upper, second Mrs H. Baptie and Mrs. J. Eastwood. Mrs. S. Pearson and Mrs. Hutchinson won the prize for most honest golfers. Putting competition was taken by Mrs. A. Larmers and Mrs. W. R. Howson.

Social members enjoyed an afternoon of bridge, winners being Mrs. A. Gibbs and Mrs. Alf Clark. Mrs. Birnie won the draw. The flowers were won by Mrs. O. M. Steer.

Arrangements for the day were capably undertaken by Mrs. C. G. Graham, assisted by Mrs. Alice Leech in the fridge arrangements.

Field days will be held every Tuesday from now on, and bridge games are also being planned.

Not Worried About Winning

TORONTO (CP)—E. P. Taylor, Toronto millionaire who is conceded a big chance to add to his bankroll June 2 when his filly, Canadiana, steps up for the 94th running of the Queen's Plate, isn't particularly worried about the rest of the field.

Taylor thinks that Food for Thot, owned by Dr. L. H. Appleby of Vancouver, will be about the only real threat to his fast-stepping three-year-old. Canadiana was the 8-to-5 winter-book favorite to win the $15,000-aded 1 1-16-miles race next month.

"I had a letter from Dr. Appleby and he warned me that Canadiana will have her work cut out on Plate day," Taylor said Tuesday. "I have great respect for Dr. Appleby's judgment."

Food for Thot arrived here Monday.

Bonsand, owned by Charlie Krupp of Winnipeg and a Queen's Plate entry, also has arrived here.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

By the score of 109 to 91, the vice-president leads in the first round of the annual president vs. vice-president competition.

There were eight games played and the president's boys won five of the eight. There were no one-sided scores and that shows that the bowling was good. All the rinks that did not play last night will play tonight. The result could change. Who knows?

The lady bowlers are holding a "draw from the board" tournament on Thursday afternoon at two o'clock. All lady bowlers are requested to came out. This tournament will be "on the house." Good prizes.

Cricket Club Wins Over Trinity Team

The local county cricket club took an exhibition win by 116 to 44 over TCS in Port Hope to start off the week. Good batting by T. Clarke 29, B. Cridland 25, G. Smith 21 and E. Bedford 17 took the score to 93 for five wickets but then the wickets fell fast for the total of 116. The school used seven bowlers and the best form was shown by Kilburn who in six overs took five wickets for six runs.

TCS batsmen had a rough time of it by the local bowlers and five wickets were down for seven runs. Later, Waterman did better and took the total to 44 with Seymour top scorer with 10. Bowling honors were shared by E. Bedford, 4 for 23, H. Dibben, 2 for 5, T. Clarke, 2 for 3, and G. Smith, 2 for 8.

Next Saturday, Peterborough "B" plays Saint Simon's in Toronto, while Peterborough "A" meets Grace Church at the Oval, both being council matches.

Jack Carpenter Signs Argonaut Contract

TORONTO (CP)—Jack Carpenter all-star inside wing, has signed a 1953 contract with Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four.

Big John came to terms after balking at the first contract offered him by coach Frank Clair. Although the coach did not reveal the terms, it is reported Carpenter likely received a pay increase on the strength of his outstanding work with the club last season.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

James Sutherland of Kingston's father of hockey's Hall of Fame, recently tried unsuccessfully to have the CAHA delete the first "A"—meaning Amateur—from its title. No soap. The Canadian puck body maintains that it is amateur, though of course everyone knows that the only puckists who don't get paid for playing today are the kids from junior "B" down or the village clubs which simply haven't the money to pay players. Junior "A" and senior "A" teams are paid just like out-and-out pro clubs. Dink Carroll (Montreal Gazette) wonders just who is an amateur. An AP reporter once sought the answer and he came up with several peculiar ones in the States, most of which apply in Canada, too. We'll cite a few of the oddities.

* * * * * *

An amateur is a tennis player who can accept $15 a day for expenses, but if he's a track man and pays $3.25 for a meal he's a pro. He's a golfer who pays his own tourney freight and, unlike the tennis chap, he cannot take free equipment from a sports goods firm. He's a trapshooter who can take cash prizes as an amateur but can't accept a thing as a professional! A star footballer is an amateur who may take an athletic scholarship, plus side money for books and board, but no golfer or tennis player may do so and stay amateur. If she's a figure skater, she must take no gifts ere turning pro—ala Barbara Ann Scott and that car in Ottawa.

* * * * * *

Tch, Tch, Such Goings-on!

Soviet Union subsidized their athletes in the Olympics, and an Australian tennis star may accept a wedding gift of $15,000 by equipment firms and tennis friends without losing his amateur status. In England and Scotland—as in Canada and the States—amateur hockeyists may take money and remain amateur, though not for Olympic purpose. Even there they may fool Olympic officials. As Carroll comments: "An amateur? It all depends on what country you're in and which sport you're considering. Capt. Jim Sutherland wanted to do something in the interests of clarification, but his fellow delegates wouldn't let him. They must like obfuscation." Yes, indeed.

* * * * * *

It is a safe bet to say that our junior baseballie Lifiocs are amateurs. They may not be in a year or two as senior ballsters, but it is a necessity of circumstances at present. They're a fine hustling bunch of young ball hawks around 19 and 20 years of age, and they'll make most of the intermediate Lakeshore League clubs hustle to beat them this summer. Roger Lee, former Port Hope lefthander, is due to pitch for them tonight at 6:30 in Riverside Park against the Port Hope Ontarios. The cocky Cobourg Legionnaires didn't look much better than the Lifiocs in the opener, but got the win. With okay weather, tonight's tilt should be worth viewing.

Taking 'Em Off The Ice

Haven't heard what the T-P-T Petes have on the softball diamond, but imagine they'll use a number of the hockey-playing Petes who are versatile athletes. They meet UEW at seven tomorrow eve in the Ashburnham Bowl, and we know that UE won the Dormer Trophy last year for leading the loop. Revoy's carry a number of last year's Lakefield squad and they'll take on Seabrooke's—city and Taylor Cup winners a year ago—in the 8:30 nightcap Thursday. Yeah, a twin bill to open the men's City Softball League schedule. Opening ceremony, 10 draw prizes, and two ball games, weather permitting. Umpires this semester in Bob Batley's circuit are Pat Calladine, Cliff Smith, Bill Leggitt and Arn Olmstead. It will be PA-ed by Fred Maybee.

* * * * * *

There's a strong suspicion abroad among other OLA senior clubs that Don Holden is building himself up quite an extensive "farm" or "combine" system to feed Toronto West Yorks in their drive to upset Peterborough as Mann Cup champs. Don has been accused of aiding financially, both Hamilton and Brampton and in return getting the pick of their players to line up with Yorks, who moved into Orillia this year over the protests of several other league clubs. Holden denies that he is spreading his dough around, but the fact remains that he is getting players from Hamilton and Brampton, and these teams could certainly use said players. The strong and scrappy Yorks show here Friday in what promises to be a hot tilt, a resumption of their grand playoff series up this way last fall.

Syracuse Halts Toronto 7-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rochester Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs both suffered defeat in International League games Tuesday, leaving the four top teams separated by only a half game.

Lefty Ken Johnson, with help from reliefer Milt Jordan, notched his third win as the third-place Buffalo Bisons halted Rochester's winning streak at four games, 7-4. The Wings lead the circuit.

With Hank Workman supplying the power at the plate—two home runs and a double for three runs batted in—John Griffore pitched the sixth-place Syracuse Chiefs to a 7-1 victory over Toronto. The Leafs are two percentage points behind the Wings in second place.

In other league games, Bob Ludwick, young rookie southpaw, pitched the fourth-place Montreal Royals to a 4-0 shutout over Baltimore Orioles and the cellar dwelling Springfield Cubs downed the seventh-place Ottawa Athletics 7-3. Dick Greco batted in all three Ottawa runs with a 350-foot homer, his third of the season.

Still Need Money But Festival On

TORONTO (CP)—Cecil Clarke, assistant director of the Stratford Shakespearian festival, said Tuesday night the festival still needs money but it must go on.

He said Alec Guiness, the British actor who will play leading roles, is in Canada and money is coming in.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the Canadian Association for Adult Education, Mr. Clarke said that 10 days ago there was doubt whether the festival would go on, but since then money had been received and although it still needs more "the festival is assured."

Queen Mary Victors

Queen Mary dumped Central "A" 19-11 yesterday in a senior Public School Softball League tussle. They shoved over two markers first time up, getting eight next time to bat, six in the third and three more in the fourth. Central got three at first, two next inning, one each in the third and fifth, with four tallying in the fourth. Seven of them were fanned by Haig. Teams:

Queen Mary: Goodfellow, Brisbois, Haig, Hendry, Perritt, Mann, Wilson, Jobbitt, Reynolds, Drury.

Central: Grey, Simpson, Aulbrook, Robbins, Armstrong, Barclay, Tetlock, Dunford, McDowell.

Umpires: J. Weir and H. Hempstead.

CAMPANELLA TOP SLUGGER

NEW YORK (AP)—Roy Campanella of Brooklyn Dodgers and George Kell of Boston Red Sox are setting their sights early for the 1953 major league slugging crowns.

Campanella, whose bat has been blazing during the first month of the season, has accumulated 79 total bases in 100 at bats for a lusty .790 slugging average that tops the National League.

Averages compiled by The Associated Press show that Kell is the American League pace-setter with a robust .620 slugging percentage, achieved on 57 total bases in 92 trips. Averages include Sunday's games.

Slugging averages are figured by dividing a batter's total bases by his number of times at bat.

Campanella's 37 hits includes four doubles, one triple and 12 home runs. The stocky catcher also leads the National League in both homers and runs batted in. His slugging mark last season was .453.

Kell, a veteran third baseman, has garnered 37 hits, including two home runs and 14 doubles—most in the American League. In 1952 Kell had a .423 slugging mark.

Runner-up to Campanella in the National League slugging derby is Gus Bell of Cincinnati Redlegs with a .667 average.

Al Rosen of Cleveland Indians is second to Kell for American League slugging supremacy with a .581 percentage.

OLDTIME PITCHER DIES

BATAVIA, O. (AP)—Sam Leever, 81, who pitched for Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League from 1898 to 1910, died Tuesday at his home in nearby Goshen. Leever, a native of Goshen, was a 20-game winner in the National League four times. He won 20 while losing 23 in 1899. His record was 25-7 in 1903, 20-5 in 1905 and 22-7 in 1906.

U.K. ROUTS NORWAY, 5-0

OSLO (AP)—Great Britain Tuesday completed a 5-0 victory over Norway in the second round European zone Davis Cup tennis match by winning the last two singles matches. Norway's Rolf Pape hurt his foot against Tony Mottram and gave up with the score 6-2, 6-3, 5-1. Gerald Oakley outplayed Nils Erik Hessen, 6-4, 6-2, 6-0.

The game is scheduled to start at 2:30 p.m., EDT.

Dodgers Slap Down Braves 4-1 Before Big Crowd

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

Now the folks in Milwaukee know what the rest of the National League fans found out a long time ago—as guests Brooklyn's Dodgers leave a lot to be desired. Before 36,439 fans, the largest crowd ever to pay its way to a sports event in the Wisconsin metropolis, the Dodgers slapped down the Braves 4-1 Tuesday night and knocked them out of a first-place tie in the National League. The victory was only the second for the Dodgers in seven road games.

After five scoreless innings, Andy Pafko put the Braves ahead by singling home Eddie Mathews.

George Shuba wiped out the lead with a home run after Jackie Robinson walked.

The Braves brought in Max Surkont to pitch in the eighth and the Dodgers greeted him with two more runs on Duke Snider's sixth homer of the season—a blast over the centre field fence that scored Peewee Reese.

PHILLIES GO UP

While the Braves went down, Philadelphia Phillies went up. Robin Roberts checked Cincinnati Red Legs 6-3 for his sixth victory against two defeats and moved the Phils one full game in front of the Braves.

St. Louis Cardinals edged Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1 and the improved New York Giants won their third in a row, a 6-4 decision over Chicago Cubs in 10 innings.

Hank Bauer homered in the 11th inning with a man on base to give New York Yankees a 4-2 triumph over Detroit Tigers while the second-place Chicago White Sox lost their second in a row, a two-hit 2-1 verdict to Harry Byrd and Philadelphia Athletics. The loss pushed the Sox two games back of the pace-setting Yankees.

Boston Red Sox defeated St. Louis Browns 4-3. Cleveland's game with the Senators at Washington was postponed because of rain.

TROUBLE IN ONE INNING

Roberts was in trouble in only one inning at Cincinnati. With two out in the third, Willard Marshall smashed a home run with a man on base and Ted Kluszewski followed with a bases-empty drive. The Red Legs got only three other hits. Richie Ashburn and Willie Jones homered for the Phils.

Johnny Lindell gave the Cardinals only five hits and struck out eight. Both St. Louis runs were unearned, coming after an error by Danny O'Connell, the Pirates' second baseman. A fly by Solly Hemus brought home one run and the other scored on a double by Stan Musial.

The Giants came from two runs behind to tie their game with the Cubs in the fifth inning, then added three more runs in the 10th to hand Warren Hacker his sixth loss of the season.

A double by Tom Umphlett followed by Mitt Bolling's single gave the Red Sox their winning run in the eighth inning against the Browns. The hits came off Satchell Paige.

Pete Latzo dethroned Mickey Walker as world's welterweight boxing champion 27 years ago tonight when he won a 10-round decision over the "Toy bulldog" at Scranton, Pa. Walker moved up to win the middleweight title from Tiger Flowers and later campaigned as a heavyweight but had small success in the top division.

World Court Rules Claim To Be Arbitrated

THE HAGUE, Holland (Reuters) —Grey-haired Nicolas Ambatielos, 69, won another round Tuesday in his life-time fight against the British government when the World Court ruled his $7,370,000 damage claim must be submitted to international arbitration.

The court accepted, by a 10-to-4 vote, the Greek government's contention that the dispute falls under the arbitration clause of an 1886 treaty and will go to one of the existing international arbitration courts.

Ambatielos claims he suffered "complete ruin" in 1919 when the British supply ministry delivered seven ships late, ignored his paid-up order for two more, then seized the seven because he could not make mortgage payments in the gap between the promised delivery date and the actual date, freight rates tumbled disastrously and he had to mortgage his ships back to the British government.

LOST OUT

His pleas occupied the British courts for years during the inter-war period. One by one, the courts ruled the British government justified.

After the Second World War the Greek government stepped in and demanded arbitration but Britain refused.

Early in 1951, both governments agreed to go before the World Court and the two-year proceedings opened in April.

Marshal Tito took a good sip of the plum brandy we had been served and replied something like this:

"That would be a step back." The Yugoslav or Tito brand of communism had passed and gone beyond the Attlee type of socialism. The latter was nationalization but it still meant the workers and people had bosses and peers. In Yugoslavia the people were their own bosses. Workers' councils ran the factories, farmers determined the policies and projects of the farms, collectively and individually. There had been liberalization in some directions—farms and factories and religion—but the people would not stand for abandonment of communism and Communist ideals, he said.

POWER OF PERSONALITY

It was while Tito was saying that that we sensed the power of his personality. The words just poured from him, his wide brow would wrinkle in sharp lines as he worked out his creed, his whole body would move about in his chair as he seemed to get carried away with his own faith and enthusiasm. He wasn't being the Hitler-type erotic or fanatic, he didn't shout or foam. He spoke firmly and assuredly and perhaps as one who would be impossible to cross once possessed of a conviction.

I said that his own popularity was known to be great but that possibly it was greater than that of his Communist party and therefore he might lead it into a democratic-socialism.

Marshal Tito at that ground out a cigarette with some show of feeling and said something like this:

We should not get the idea that Yugoslav people don't want Communism. There is a Communist party of 700,000 and there is a "Socialist Alliance of Working People" of 8,000,000 in a country of only 17,000,000. The latter set the course for the party and the government itself was following that course. It would not be possible for a small minority body of opinion to force its will upon a people like the Yugoslavs who had given every indication in the revolution against Russian imperialism that they would not submit to dictation.

POWERFUL APPEARANCE

As that was being said by the Marshal, and knowing that I would a few moments later hear it in translation, I ventured a closer study of the man himself. He is admittedly not tall, but when the Russians called him an "insolent dwarf" they must have referred to the size of his country rather than his body. For Marshal Tito is a sun-browned, hard, athletic-looking man with whom you would not want to trade punches despite his 61 years. His hair is greying but he has lots of it, his eyes are clear blue and rather softer and more sentimental than you might expect. His hands have worked long as peasant and metal worker. If you search for evidence of the hardness that must be in a man who has fought thruogh jails and cannonfire you can imagine that the large and firm jaw and mouth that smile so disarmingly could also set in severe judgment and decision. But you can only imagine that, for as he sits there in a simple greenish tweed sports suit, with silk socks and reddish tie clamped half way down, you see only a most engaging and enthusiastic and dynamic man-of-the-outdoors. The little coffee cup (which by now we were drinking as a chaser to the brandy) seemed tiny in his hand, and the pipe-like cigarette-holder which he has made so popular for all admiring Yugoslavs, seemed likewise out of place with so strapping a man.

But apart from those seeming incongruities there was nothing in the manner or appearance of Josip Broz, one of the hardest men in Europe, which would have seemed in the least out of place at a luncheon party with Queen Elizabeth in Buckinham Palace. And let's be frank about it: he's the kind of man whom you would probably not ask to lunch once. If he came once you'd want him to come back.

Marshal Tito cautioned me to keep in mind that each country must develop its political system according to its history and training and ability. He said it was not possible simply to "give" democracy to the people of Yugoslavia in the sense that they know it in England, for example. You could not suddenly take an area in dark Africa and give them democracy. Yugoslavia was not being compared with darkest Africa, said the Marshal, but he used the example to show that what could be done in England or Canada could not necessarily be done in Yugoslavia. It would take the Yugoslav people a while to develop the conscience and discipline of the English, for instance, who will not eat four lumps of sugar if the law tells them they may have only one. He said one must remember always that the Tito regime is trying to liberate the people of Yugoslavia and let them be their own bosses, but "there will be a long process of development". "We are children in some ways" said the Marshal with a great disarming smile.

BIG IMPROVEMENTS

I told him that the Canadian Ambassador here and others had been telling me for days of the improvements they had seen in the country in the last two years and even the last six months. Marshal Tito said with a wry grin that they should have seen it six or 10 years ago. Yugoslavia would like to be judged, he said, not only by where it is now but in relation to where it has come from and where it hopes to go.

Was there some kind of time goal, I asked, when Yugoslavia hoped to get along economically without Western (mostly American) aid? Marshal Tito said the goal was in two years, but it seemed to me the interpreter gulped. (The point is, though we didn't mention it, that Western aid to Yugoslavia in the present context of international relations in Europe is really not straight charity but another and effective form of Western defence.)

And speaking of defence, it was interesting to see that in this softly furnished parlor, with its gentle paintings and rich rugs, Marshal Tito had several miniature tanks and guns and railroad engines of about 15 inches in size lying about on shelves and tables, Yugoslav products, and above his head to the right of his desk was suspended a 36-inch model of a two-engine aircraft Yugoslavia is said to be producing. The luxury of office is all very well, but you get the feeling that Tito feels the fight is still going on and probably he keeps those things about him lest he forget.

Which brings us to Russia. I said that aside from particular issues it was an astonishing thing to look at a map of Europe and see a line drawn across its heart, the one side closed to the other. I asked him how long such an unnatural division could be expected to remain.

Marshal Tito broke in while I was speaking about the line and said "and it is very near to Belgrade". This was one of many indications that he understands English very well, but like most of us he is more hesitant to venture to speak in another tongue. As a matter of fact at one time he broke in on his interpreter to correct a translation the latter was giving me.

As to the division of Europe, Tito said it could not possibly be permanent. It was provisionally created by war and settlements by war are never binding or lasting if they go against history and race and culture. It was impossible to believe, said Tito, that the satellite countries would remain swallowed in whole fashion. It was against nature and the peoples would declare themselves eventually. But the Marshal said he would not want to pose as a prophet and he would not venture to guess when or how the Iron Curtain and Russian imperialism would be dispersed.

GREAT INTEREST

Marshal Tito showed what seemed to be great interest in the whole conversation and answered the questions with verve and speed and mounting enthusiasm. However the 50-minute mark was approaching so I threw my last question: what has caused Russia's new attitude and where will it lead? The man who has said the loudest "no" to Russia threw up his hands and laughed. I said in Canada we always saved the best questions for the end, and I was even getting ready to withdraw it under a protection of smiles, but Marshal Tito then spoke up with vigor, somewhat as follows:

The new Russian policy is not all friendliness and we may be sure it has been determined by internal affairs as well as external. There is inside weakness, and the external policies have been meeting great and growing difficulties. It is a time of pause and consideration. But the West would make a great mistake if it mistook that pause for any vital weakness. We should keep on guard and on the alert to see that our own policies are right.

SHORT TIME

By now, of course, the 50 minutes seemed like five and I would have like to press the last question further. However, it had been my own intent to talk to Tito not about Russia but about Yugoslavia and that's the way we played it. If Tito's answer to the Russian question seems evasive or brief, it is no doubt my own fault for not leaving enough time for it. I suspect had I raised it earlier he would have spoken with gusto and in detail, for references he did make to Russia during the talk were neither timid nor trite. Russian imperialism seems to be the greater fear of this Communist who is between the Kremlin and the Capitalist West.

Indeed, he didn't seem to fear the West at all. But he made quite clear that he aims to keep on with the Tito brand of Communism for he believes it "a step ahead" of our political democracies. If we care to join forces with him in pursuit of peace that's fine by him and he'll field a tough and well-trained team alongside of us. But he's not buying our friendship by selling out Communism. There was not a pleading or begging word in the 50 minutes, nor yet any arrogant boasting. He deals in a robust, healthy and fighting confidence—take it or leave it.

DYNAMIC POWER

We took his confidence and liked it, and we not only felt his dynamic power but were attracted to his personality. It wasn't just that he personally took us to the door and said farewell, and all that. And I am as aware as the reader of many of the things he has done which Canadians cannot approve, and certainly we came away knowing he is a Communist and proud of it.

But here surely, is a Communist that is worth appealing to, worth working with, worth trying to understand and to help. And he has a rugged crowd of people with him. If all we can do is remember the sins of his past or dwell upon the fact that he looks upon life as a Communist—then the line that now cuts the world in twain will hardly be removed by us.

Out in the garden as we came away I noticed a lot of evergreens just as they grow at my cottage in the Gatineau, and my wife looked at the pansies and wondered whether ours in Ottawa were out yet. If only we could all of us—all of us—think more about the things we have in common we wouldn't find the time to worship and multiply our differences.

Nova Scotia Apple Growers Hope To Recapture U.K. Market

KENTVILLE, N. S. (CP)—Nova Scotia's apple growers are still hoping they will some day recapture at least part of the once lucrative United Kingdom market.

The market was lost during the Second World War and remained dormant in the post-war period of Britain's dollar troubles.

For Nova Scotia's Annapolis valley apple growers it was a big blow.

New markets had to be found, but growers felt the pinch and many added sidelines to keep in business.

Nova Scotia's interest in the U. K. market will be evident at the British Empire Fruit Council meeting in London June 9-19.

TWO OFFICIALS ATTEND

The Nova Scotia Fruit Growers' Association is sending secretary R. D. Sutton to the meeting and Terry L. Meek, general manager of United Fruit Companies, also will attend.

F. Waldo Walsh, deputy minister of agriculture and marketing, will represent the province.

The United Fruit Company is Canada's largest apple co-operative and handles about 60 per cent of the valley's total commercial crop.

Growers are convinced that while other export markets have been sought during the last few years as outlets for Nova Scotia's apples, recapturing the U. K. market is the only hope for new life in the industry.

The province's apple orchards have been cut by more than 50 per cent since 1941.

In 1941 the province had 1,816,973 trees and produced apples worth about $1,703,750.

In 1951 there were 897,800 trees and produced apples worth only $1,250,000 despite the advanced value of the dollar.

Art Lovers Like Contemporary Eskimo Carving

By ARCH MacKENZIE

LONDON (CP)—London art lovers were introduced Tuesday to contemporary Eskimo carving and apparently liked the creative bent of Canada's most northern residents.

"It's real and it's good," commented a young viewer of the bone, ivory and stone figures.

What viewers saw most of were carvings—none more than a foot high—of humans, bears, ptarmigans, caribou and other Arctic denizens.

All were sleek. Most wore expressions ranging from outright merriment to sleepy boredom. Few typified the grimmer phases of Arctic life, although there were several hunting dramas in stone.

LOANED BY QUEEN

The display included a soapstone figure of an Eskimo mother and child, given to the Queen during her Canadian trip as Princess Elizabeth, and loaned by her for the exhibit. Lord Tweedsmuir, son of a former Canadian governor-general and himself an authority on the Arctic, loaned others.

The exhibition at the Gimpel Fils galleries just off Oxford street was officially opened by Frederic Hudd, deputy high commissioner for Canada, who spoke of the happy disposition of the Eskimo, borne out to such an extent by the exhibition.

Eisenhower Defends Cuts In Defence Spending

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said Tuesday night his administration, far from skimping on the air force, plans to put 60 cents of every United States defence dollar into offensive and defensive air power for the navy and air force.

He set the stage for bitter legislative battles by asking Congress to retain the excess profits tax and to postpone cuts in other levies. He asked for continued high revenues to keep "our nation secure and our dollar sound . . . in an age of danger."

In a Congress anxious to trim the tax burden, this brought a mixed reaction. Some leaders said the outcome appears in doubt, but that Eisenhower might get what he asked for after a tough fight.

In his first direct report to the country since taking office Jan. 20, Eisenhower described what he called a "middle way" military program. Evidently taking note of criticism in Congress and elsewhere of plans to cut the air force budget by $5,000,000,000, he said in his country-wide radio broadcast:

". . . Investments in air power represent and will continue to represent the heaviest single outlay of our government . . ."

NO SIGN OF CHANGE

There is no sign that Russia has changed her plans for destruction of freedom around the world, the president said. Government revenues must be maintained at present high levels.

He spoke against a drive in the House of Representatives to cut personal income taxes 10 per cent starting July 1. Instead, the 10 per cent reduction should be allowed to take effect on schedule next Jan. 1.

He called for a six-month extension of the excess profits tax on corporations, now scheduled to die in six weeks. He asked Congress to postpone indefinitely cuts scheduled next March 31 in regular corporation income taxes and excise (sales) taxes on scores of items.

He said he will submit a completely revised tax program next January.

The president offered to forego one small scheduled tax increase. That is the social security tax increase from 1½ to 2 per cent due to take effect Jan. 1. It is paid by both employees and employers on the first $3,600 of a worker's annual wage or salary.

HAVE BILLION MORE

The program he outlined would provide $1,000,000,000 more, compared with present law, for the fiscal year starting July 1, but would still leave an estimated federal deficit of about $5,500,000,000.

Opposition centred in the powerful ways and means committee, the group that starts all tax bills through Congress. All 15 Republicans on the committee, in a private caucus, already have lined up against an extension of the excess profits tax.

Many Democrats remained critical of the decision to cut air force goals from the 143 wings—set for mid - 1955 under the Democratic Truman administration—to 120.

Typical of Republican comment was the statement by chairman of the Senate armed services committee:

"On the basis of the facts as I know them, under this program we will be building as rapidly as we can a more adequate and more effective air force than was originally planned by the last administration."

In apparent reply to air force advocates, the president said it would be foolish and dangerous "to be hyponotized by magic numbers." He said one military man would argue hotly for a given number of aircraft as an "absolute minimum" while another might say plans of a different kind were "imperative."

Eisenhower said the government must equally avoid "a needlessly high rate of federal spending in excess of federal income" or "any penny - wise, pound-foolish policy that could, through lack of needed strength, cripple the cause of freedom everywhere."

"This middle way may lack drama and sensation, but it has sense and strength—lasting strength.

"It may not scream with shrill crisis and emergency. But it speaks with conviction and realism."

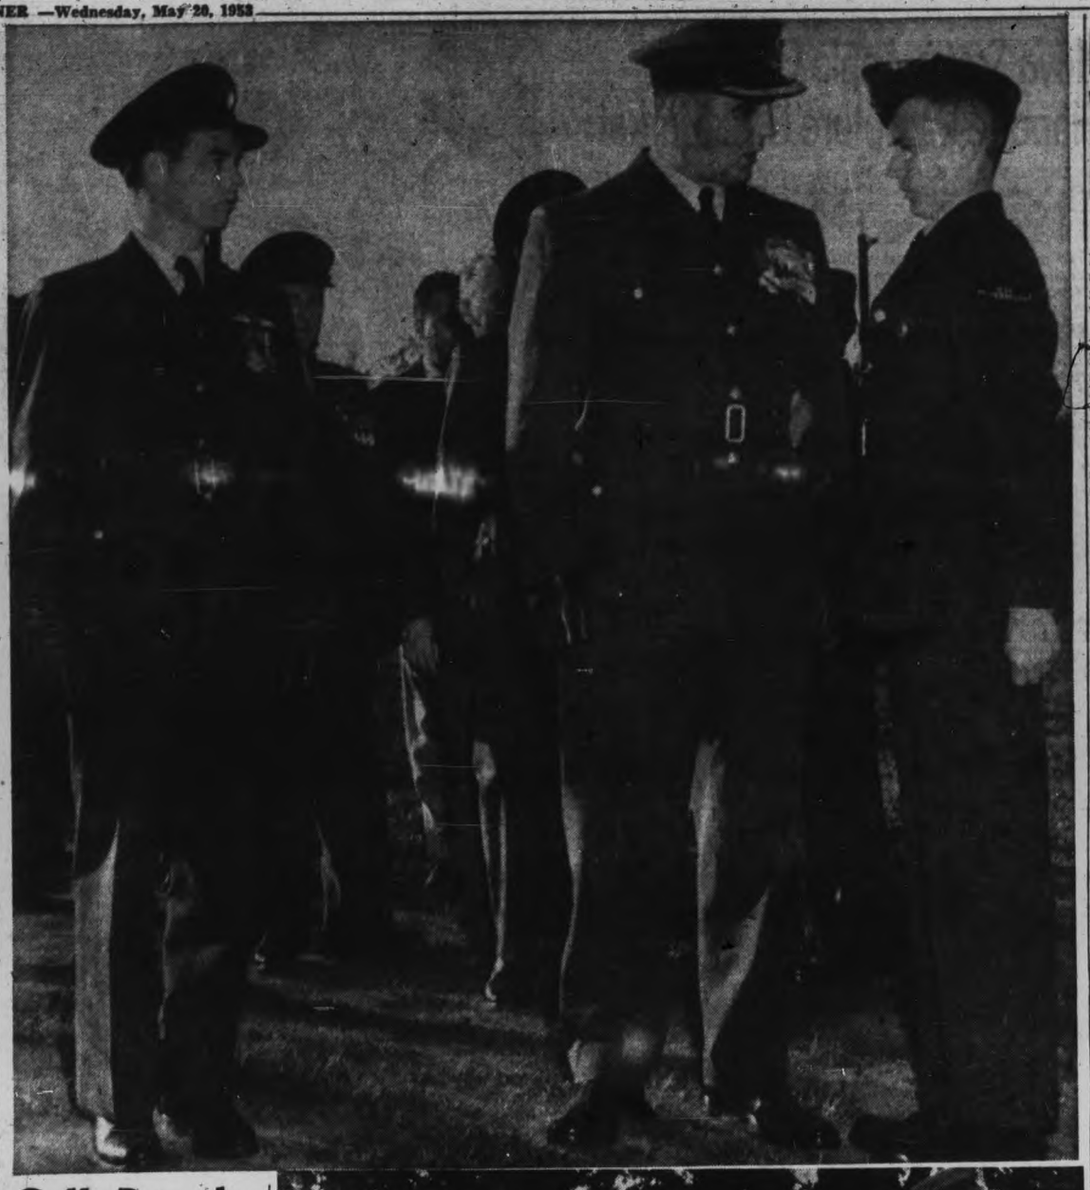
Need Industry To Experiment With A-Energy

MONTREAL (CP) — Industry must soon be allowed to experiment freely with atomic energy, John Jay Hopkins, chairman of the board of General Dynamics Corporation, New York, and of Canadair, Ltd., Montreal, said today.

In a speech prepared for the International Credit Congress here, Mr. Hopkins said the laboratories and factories in Canada and the United States "must be thrown open to unrestricted experiment."

"Government monopoly has performed a necessary and exemplary job under the urgent pressure o defense needs," Mr. Hopkins said. "In a large measure, it has succeeded so well because it has wisely enlisted the services of private industry to carry out its objectives.



"But the program must necessarily remain inhibited so long as objectives and goals are planned by the government, controlled by government budgets and geared to essential government needs."

Group Captain Calls Parade Of Air Cadets "Excellent"

Before the eyes of 200 spectators and a Trenton inspection party, Peterborough Air Cadets drilled and wheeled as they participated in their annual inspection at the fair grounds Tuesday night.

Called by Group Captain William Newson of Training Command Headquarters, Trenton, "an excellent one", the parade consisted of precision drill work and a march past to the music of the CGE Pipe Band.

Group Captain Newson commended the local cadets on their turnout and ceremonial drill, and outlined the formation and functions of the Air Cadet League.

He told Peterborough Squadron 534 "you will get as much out of Air Cadets as you put in," detailing the benefits such as exchange visits, summer camps and other cadet activities.

Also speaking to the group was H. L. Garner, past-president of the Canadian organization. Speaking on behalf of sponsoring bodies of air cadet work, he told the local cadets "you are to be contgratulated for what you have done",

In outlining the cadet program for the squadron and large turnout of spectators, Mr. Garner told them "we have a program we feel should appeal to any red-blooded Canadian boy".

He concluded: "I am proud of you tonight".

Also taking part in the inspection were Squadron Leader A. Ireland of Trenton and Flying Officer K. Rawlston of Peterborough, air cadet liaison officer.

Following the inspection, the Group Captain invited cadets to ask questions regarding the movement while parents of the boys were asked to inspect the cadet quarters.

GROUP CAPTAIN WILLIAM NEWSON, training command headquarters, Trenton RCAF, commended the Peterborough air cadet corps on its performance Tuesday at its annual inspection. The inspecting officer, Group Captain Newson (centre, top) chats with a cadet while walking through the ranks and (lower) stands on the saluting station as the corps passes by in review. H. L. Garner, past president of the Air Cadet League of Canada, (centre, lower) also commended the corps for its showing during the ceremonial drill. (Examiner Staff Photos.)

No Drop In Cheese Price Expected Before July

BELLEVILLE, Ont. (CP)—That tasty slab of Canadian cheddar cheese on a slice of apple pie probably will cost as much as ever until July, despite removal of the federal government support price of 30 cents a pound.

That's the opinion of Charles Heath, secretary of the Ontario Cheese Producers Association, who said in an interview Tuesday he thinks the price may go down then as much as five or six cents a pound.

Cheddar currently sells in Toronto stores at about 45 cents a pound.

Cheese lovers expected an immediate drop in the retail price after the government last week swept away the supports which had existed in one form or another since the Second World War.

NO DROP TO DATE

However, the retail price cuts did not come.

Mr. Heath said only about 16 per cent of the cheese offered last Friday on the first wholesale markets held after removal of the price supports was sold. Producers held on to most of their stocks despite offers of 24 cents a pound at Kemptville, Ont., and 25 cents at Belleville.

Wholesalers at Stratford offered 26 and 27 cents, but producers refused to sell, apparently hoping new price supports would be forthcoming.

Mr. Heath said that, as a result, farmers in the eastern Ontario areas of Brockville, Alexandria and Chesterville already are having to find other and less profitable outlets than cheese production for their milk.

FEEL REMOVAL MOST

He said dairymen in central and eastern Ontario probably will feel the price support removal more than those in other sections because in those areas cheese production is the main milk outlet.

Ontario cheese got its support last year through the federal cooperative marketing plan. Under the plan, the federal government guaranteed producers at least 24 cents a pound for cheddar. The Ontario government came through with another six cents a pound, making the total producer guarantee 30 cents.

Mr. Heath said the federal government again is prepared to extend the 24-cents-a-pound guarantee, but the Ontario government has declined to add the other six.

As a result, he said, the producers' association agreed to forgo all price supports in the belief the 24-cent support alone would have no value.

Ontario cheese producers have on hand about 30 per cent more cheese than at the same time in 1952, he said. This made the producers even more apprehensive and increased the likelihood of early cutbacks in the industry's production.

Pilots Pleased With New Bush Plane

By H. DENT HODGSON

GOLDEN LAKE, Ont. (CP)—RCAF pilots at No. 408 photo squadron's training detachment near here have a new "baby" and they're really tickled with it.

It's the new DeHavilland Otter, which is starting to replace the long-established and popular Norseman as the bush plane of the northland. Pontoon-equipped Otter aircraft will be used by the RCAF for the first time this summer for water-based operations.

At the detachment's base—two shacks and a handful of summer cottages three miles from this village 80 miles west of Ottawa—pilots who will handle summer operations from Labrador to the Yukon are practising on the Otter and finding it almost too good to be true.

UNBELIEVABLE PLANE

Flt. Lt. C. W. (Bounce) Weir of Dauphin, Man., officer commanding the detachment, says the capabilities of the new plane are "almost unbelievable."

Here's why:

1. The Otter can carry 10 passengers or a payload of 2,000 pounds with fuel tanks full. The Norseman can lift five passengers or a payload of 600 pounds.

2. To take off and clear a 50-foot obstacle the Otter needs a takeoff run of only 1,600 feet. The Norseman needs a mile and a half.

3. Cruising speed of 125 miles an hour is about the same for both. The Norseman's nine-hour endurance beats the Otter's 7½ hours, but the Norseman can't begin to match the Otter's ability to head into wind and hover over a spot by throttling back to an airspeed of 38 miles an hour.

Both planes have exactly the same engine—the Pratt and Whitney H-Wasp, but the Otter has a better propeller, different wing flaps, and a wing with better lift.

GIVE DEMONSTRATION

For a group of reporters Tuesday, Flt. Lt. Weir and his second-in-command, Flt. Lt. P. B. St. Louis of Ottawa, demonstrated by taking off side-by-side at the same time. By the time St. Louis' Norseman broke water, Weir's Otter was 600 feet off the lake.

The detachment operates here only for four weeks, training pilots who have had no experience with float planes on both Otters and Norsemen. The airmen get about 50 hours on each plane.

On May 24, the nine pilots under training will leave for various parts of the country. Two will be based at Churchill, Man., two at Whitehorse, Y. T., two in the Labrador area and eastern Arctic, one at Goose Bay, Labrador, one at Edmonton and one at Sea Island, Vancouver.

Crew men are also trained there.

Inequality Of Jail Terms Criticized By CCF Leader

TORONTO (CP) — William J. Grummett, leader of the CCF in the legislature, criticized Tuesday what he termed the inequality of sentences for the same offence.

At a meeting of the legislature's select committee on reform institutions, Mr. Grummett suggested that a panel of experts sentence men found guilty by magistrates or county court judges.

He also criticized the "lack of consideration" of some magistrates for the reform program and the sending of convicts to the wrong institutions.

W. M. Nickle (PC—Kingston) criticized the small amount of money a convict receives on his release from prison. It amounted to $2 a month of his sentence with a maximum of $20. "This is ridiculous," he said.

Mr. Nickle added that failure to give them enough to last a week while searching for work merely throws the ex-convict back with his old friends.

Opposition leader Farquhar Oliver urged more suspended sentences to enable probation work to be done before the necessity of imprisonment.

Mr. Virgin also told the committee the Bowmanville Boys' Training School has three television sets for inmates purchased by the boys themselves.

Mr. Stewart asked: "Are we pampering or reforming?"

BIG FAILURE

D. W. Coughlan, director of probation services for the attorney-general's department, said that during the last 20 years the Canadian prison system has failed to rehabilitate 70 per cent of the persons committed to its charge.

Mr. Coughlan said that in 1950, 19,879 persons were sent to jail in England and Wales, which had a population of 41,657,000. In the same year, Canada with a population of 14,000,000 had 98,602 persons sent to jail.

Urges Children Brush Teeth After Meals

TORONTO (CP)—Parents should teach their children to brush their teeth after every meal, Dr. M. G. Boyes of Toronto said Tuesday.

Because of the increase of sugar consumption in Canada "children's teeth are in the direct line of attack for dental decay," he told delegates to the annual meeting of the Ontario Dental Association.

"It would be ideal, of course, if all children were denied candy and not given a taste of ice-cream until they were at least four years of age," he said. "But not even the most idealistic dentist can expect this."

USES BALL

An ordinary rubber ball tied to the end of a baby's thumb was suggested by a Toronto doctor as a thumb-sucking cure.

Dr. Marjorie Jackson told the association that she has cured thumb sucking by slitting an ordinary rubber ball down the sides and then lacing it together. The child's thumb is put in and, as long as the ball is big enough, the infant will soon give up trying to suck it.

"I simply keep adding rubber balls until they run out of fingers," she said.

Dr. J. H. Johnson, professor at the University of Toronto, was elected president.

The board of governors includes J. A. Boyd, Stratford; K. M. Phillips, Welland, and E. E. Johns, Kingston.

Dr. F. L. Williamson of Hamilton and Dr. S. M. Kennedy of London, were awarded honorary life memberships.

Coronation Supper Held At Plainville

PLAINVILLE—(ENS) — The Coronation Supper Friday evening sponsored by the WMS and held in the United Church basement proved a plendid success.

The room and table were attractive with red, white and blue braided streamers, small flags, appropriate serviettes and spring flowers.

Besides the Plainville people, friends attended from Gores Landing, Coldsprings, Cobourg, Bensfort and Bailieboro.

After the supper, a program was presented in the auditorium.Edgar Buttars acted as chairman. A half hour play was given by a cast from Bensfort.

The Bailieboro male quartette favoured with several numbers and the local ladies' quartette, Mrs. Maclean Herriott, Mrs. Stuart Herrjott and Misses Marian and Margaret McKinlay, also song two selections.

Robbed Express Firm, Three Men Sentenced

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Three men, convicted last week of stealing a safe containing $137.60 from the Canadian National Express office June 1 and theft of an auto the same day, appeared for sentence Tuesday before Judge T. J. Darby.

Luigi Gallo, 51, of Hamilton, also known as Louis Gallow, convicted of being an habitual criminal, was sentenced to preventive detention at the discretion of the minister of justice.

Charles Elliotson, 31, of Port Weller, received sentences of 12 months definite and nine months indefinite in reformatory. Charles Conway, 36, of Hamilton received 30 months in penitentiary for theft of the safe and one year for auto theft.

Three Men Named To Defence Board

OTTAWA (CP)—Two scientists and an industrialist were named Tuesday to help direct Canada's efforts in military science as members of the defence research board.

They are:

Col. R. D. Harkness, DSO, MC, Montreal, president of the Northern Electric Co. Ltd., who has already served one three-year term as a board member.

Dr. Harold Smith, MA, PhD, Halifax, president of the Nova Scotia research foundation and a distinguished physicist.

Dr. R. C. Wallace, CMG, Scottish-born geologist and Arctic expert who retired recently as principal of Queen's University, Kingston.

HANDY-CYCLE—French inventor Charles Duval, above, thinks he's solved a big problem for cyclists. He claims that leg-muscle strain can be eased by switching to hand pedals which he has mounted on his bike's handlebars. Or, if you prefer to make like a jet, you can use both hand and foot pedals to increase your speed. The gadget is one of many shown at the annual inventors' exhibit in Paris.

Ontario Communities Plan Coronation Ceremonies

TORONTO (AP)—Ontario communities are arranging celebrations which will make the day of the Queen's Coronation one to be long remembered.

From big city to tiny hamlet they are preparing to mark with appropriate excitement and color the day when Elizabeth rides through London's teeming streets to ancient Westminster.

Although the pomp and pageantry in London will be unmatched in the Ontario celebrations, the spirit of the occasion should shine through in the glitter of military parades, gay banners and bunting and scintellating sky rockets of fireworks displays.

Ontario residents within range of television stations in Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal will be able to see films of British telecasts of the London Coronation proceedings the same day. Some communities are making provision for group viewing on banks of receivers, while others are fitting their Coronation Day programs around the times when residents will probably be watching TV sets at home.

There was not one dandelion on the City Hall lawn last night. That's a perfect score in the rating of Weed Inspector A. E. Two Boys, 14, Missing From Coldsprings

Police across the province were alerted this morning when two 14-year-old boys were reported missing from their homes in the Peterborough district. They are Leonard Thomas and Jim Locke, sons of Wilson Thomas of RR 6, and Bud Withers of RR 7, Peterborough.

According to Leonard's father, they told school chums at Coldsprings that they were going down to Montana.

Mr. Thomas could give no reason why they would want to run away, especially to Montana. Neither had ever shown signs of wanting to leave home before. They only had 75 cents between them.

The two boys were last seen about seven o'clock Tuesday night. Parents thought they might stop in Toronto where the Locke lad has a brother.

Both are in grade eight at Coldsprings public school.

$20,500 Bid Prompts City To Call Tenders On Hospital

Hyman Albert's offer of $20,500 for the city's vacant Queen Mary isolation hospital building at Tuesday night's meeting of the council in committee of the whole switched the property back into realty focus. The tender was accompanied by a cheque for $200 and the stipulation that the bid required acceptance by Friday, May 22 at 6 p.m.

Discussion recalled that the property, including the hospital site, was valued at $36,600 in 1951 by the assessment department.

The committee recommended that the building be again advertised for sale until June 15, and that Mr. Albert be requested to let his offer stand as a tender.

Ald. N. G. Grahm said he had received Mr. Albert's cheque Tuesday, "and I doubt if you'll get a better one". He seconded a motion by Ald. H. T. Rehill that the bid be accepted.

Subsequently an amendment by Aldermen Burrows and Anglesey advised renewal of advertisement carried. Aldermen Rehill and Graham did not vote for it.

ASK EXTENSION

Said Ald. Farquharson: "In view of the assessment department's valuation and the time which has elapsed since the last advertisement for sale, I think we should give this question some further thought, and also ask Mr. Albert to extend the time of his offer."

Ald. Graham said he had made an offer of $14,000 at the time of his resignation from the council.

The building has been advertised and kicked around for the last year or two. He said it was beginning to show evidence of disrepair and that it was time the council did something about it.

Ald. Burrows: "I think the advertisement will clear the air, and also let the people know we are not jumping at a conclusion."

"I don't feel that I am jumping at a conclusion," Ald. Rehill said. "The building has already been vacant quite a time and we have sat here for months on it. In the last two years it has been offered twice, as I recall."

REVIEWS ACTION

City Clerk Outram briefly reviewed council's action for sale since the property became vacant in 1950. The most promising enquiry was from the Ontario Department of Health through its minister, the late Russell Kelly. It was considered then as a nucleus for a provincial mental hospital which gave promise of developing into a large institution.

However, the minister became ill, and his succesor showed no interest in the Peterborough property.

It was then advertised for sale, but Mr. Outram said, apparently the council did not regard bids as high enough. More recently towards the end of the winter, another government prospect arose, but has gradually "cooled out".

Some recent enquiries through a real estate firm indicated interest in the hospital building.

Ald. Graham expressed his impatience at the continuing inaction with the comment: "It's a heluva looking mess, anyway."

Safety Checks Show 78% Of Cars Faulty

As the result of checking cars on Peterborough streets during the current safety drive, PC Don Mackay announced 78 per cent have been found deficient in some phase of operation essential for safety.

At the same time, automobile supply stores have reported a boom in the sale of brake linings, brake cables, lights and windshield wipers as the safety drive, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, Peterborough Automobile Club, Casualty and Accident Underwriters Association and Garage Operators' Association closes its tenth day.

The police plan to keep up a permanent safety campaign to ensure against the driving of unsafe cars on the road. Hoping to eventually check every car in the city, police are likely to stop a motorist at any time to have his auto checked.

CHECK 10 POINTS

There are 10 points of safety which undergo examination. They are brakes, emergency and foot; lights, front and rear; exhaust system; mirrors, glass, steering, tires, horn and windshield wipers.

Garage operators and licenced mechanics will also check automobiles. If found to be satisfactory, the motorist will be given a signed check sheet which can be exchanged for a safety sticker at police headquarters.

If unsatisfactory, drivers are warned to have their cars repaired under the threat of prosecution. Once repaired, the car is re-checked and a safety sticker issued if found satisfactory.

Five-Year-Old Bruised Running Into Auto

A five-year-old girl received minor injuries when she ran into a car driving on Sherbourne St., Tuesday. The girl, Nancy Hunter of 343 Sherbourne was treated for bruises following the accident.

Driver of the car, W. Earle Brown of Ottawa, said the child did not pause or look for traffic before starting to run across the road.

City To Pay Utilities For New Main

Will Take Water To Proposed Site Of Trailer Industry

City council and the Utilities Commission have separately agreed to terms for the extension of a water main from Ashburnham to Downer's Corners and the nearby property which H. B. McGinness Ltd. have selected for their new and enlarged manufacturing plant.

In committee of the whole council Tuesday night a motion by Aldermen H. T. Rehill and P. J. Anglesey approved the negotiated agreement, and recommended authority for signing it. At the same time it was reported that the Utilities Commission were assenting to the proposal by which the council assumes the financing of this project in improvement to the southeast area of the city.

Estimated cost of the laying of the water main is $51,000 for which the city undertakes to issue debentures in behalf of the Commission who will do the work. Immediate revenue to the Commission will be approximately $5,000 a year for providing water for fire protection.

CROSS UNDER TRENT

Route of the pipe line will be from Maria St., easterly, crossing under the Trent Canal to Armour Road, then south to Downer's Corners, on Lansdowne St. east. From that junction the Commission will extend lateral mains east and west on Lansdowne St.

Utilities income in excess of their service charge on new connections will be credited to the council.

Ordinarily, the Commission adheres to its policy of requiring prospective revenue of 10 or 11 per cent of expenditure in providing water accommodation. That is the established condition on which water mains are laid on any street in the city, and in this major projection they have not deviated from custom and in their terms with the council.

Ald. T. D. Miller, chairman, commented that the Commission is concerned about maintaining its water rates to consumers at their favorable level. In this instance they held that the financing of the Armour Road job should be guaranteed by the city council, representing the city as whole, and distinct from virtually the same citizens as water consumers.

The McGinness factory site, for the manufacture of automobile trailers, is on the south side of Lansdowne St. immediately east of the CNR to Belleville. It is directly opposite Club Aragon. Ultimate decision to construct there the two buildings which they have announced as primarily in their plans depended on tapping the city's water mains.

BOTH SIDES IN CITY

Both sides of Armour Road are within the city, but it was mentioned by Ald. Rehill that most of the west side extends along the front of the property bought by the Little Lake Cemetery Company. On Lansdowne St. the north side is occupied by residents of the city. Across the road is Otonabee,

Woman, 106 Dies In Kingston

KINGSTON (CP) — Elizabeth Richardson, 106, Kingston's oldest resident, died in hospital today.

Highlight of her last years was a cablegram of congratulations from Queen Elizabeth, sent last February when Miss Richardson celebrated her 106th birthday.

Miss Richardson operated a dressmaking business here and retired 40 years ago.

Blind for the last 10 years and crippled with arthritis, she attributed her longevity to "a good English constitution" and to the fact that she had "never been strong, so knew my limitations and kept within them."

She is survived by a sister here.

Charges Involve Fewer Children Report Reveals

Presentation of the Peterborough Family Court annual report Tuesday by W. R Philp, QC, judge, revealed a smaller number of charges during 1952 involving children, an increase in the number of charges of neglect and a large growth in the number of charges involving adults.

"The surprising growth in the number of adults who voluntarily made use of the counselling services of the probation officers and were not involved in court action (from 15 in 1951 to 78 in 1952) speaks well of the reputation the facilities of the court has among those interested in assistance of this nature," the judge pointed out.

47 IN COURT

The report showed 47 children were brought to court under the Juvenile Delinquents Act in 1952, compared to 94 in '51. Almost half were at the age of 13 or 14. Seven had previous records under the act. At the conclusion of 1952, 20 children were on probation, the same number as at the conclusion of 1951.

A total of 21 children were dealt with by probation officers with no court action as compared with five the previous year.

In 1952, 133 children were brought to family court as being neglected, an increase of 44 from 1951. In the same period, 150 adults were brought to court on charges ranging from non-support to assault, compared with 116 in 1951.

Exactly the same number of hearings, 453, were held in 1952 as in 1951. Of the cases heard, 184 originated in the city and 57 in the county.

Health Nurse To Join Staff

Miss Lois Galvin of London has been engaged as a public health nurse with the Peterborough Department of Health.

A member of this year's graduating class of the School of Nursing, University of Western Ontario, Miss Galvin will start with the department August 1.

The acceptance of her application has brought down to three the number of nurses needed by the department to carry out the services included in the agreements now pending between the Board of Health, the Board of Education and the Separate School Board.

Dr. J. P. Wells, medical officer of health, also reported today that the application of another public health nurse for the department is pending.

Ex-Oshawa Mayor Frank Mason Dies

OSHAWA (CP)—Frank Mason, 80, former mayor of Oshawa and for 47 years purchasing agent and a director of Pedlar People Ltd., a metal products firm, died Tuesday night.

He was mayor in 1918, warden of Ontario county in 1917 and an Oshawa councillor for several years. He held other public posts including the chairmanship of the Oshawa public utilities commission, and served as a member of the school board.

Province Lops $108,600 From City, County Road Estimates

County Officials Concerned Over Proposed Work On Buckhorn Road, Construction of Gannon's Narrows Causeway

The 15 municipalities in the County of Peterborough and the City of Peterborough itself have had a total of $108,000 lopped off their road appropriation bylaws this year by the Department of Highways. The net result can only be a heavy reduction in spending on the construction and upkeep of roads in the county and city.

Every one of the 15 municipalities in the county has been cut—from as little as $500 in Norwood to $5,000 in Douro township.

The approved expenditure for the city has been reduced $40,500 and the reduction on the approved expenditures for the county roads system is $33,000.

County officials are not only concerned about what is going to happen to their roads as the heavy traffic keeps pounding over them and the money is not there to maintain them. They are also concerned about two special supplementary projects that are now in the hands of the department—the $203,000 appropriation for the building of the causeway and high level bridge at Gannon's Narrows, and the $70,000 appropriation for the mulch-paving this year of the Buckhorn Road.

What will happen to these by-laws?

There is already an unofficial indication that the Hon. George Doucett, minister of highways, has turned thumbs down on the Buckhorn Road project, particularly in its present form.

CUTS GENERAL

Peterborough County has not been singled out for this economizing measure. The cuts have been general all across the province and municipal road committees everywhere are scratching their heads trying to devise ways to make their smaller budgets meet the ever-increasing costs of maintaining and building roads and bridges.

First of all, however, it should be pointed out that the $108,600 does not mean that much less money coming into the county and city from the department. It represents the surplus amount of money which the municipalities and the city felt they needed over the amount on which the department was willing to pay subsidy.

As far as the department is concerned the municipalities can levy for what they like to keep up their roads systems, but they won't get any departmental subsidy over the amounts approved in their appropriation bylaws.

On department-approved expenditures the county receives a 50 per cent subsidy on roads and an 80 per cent subsidy on bridges and culverts. So do the individual municipalities in the county.

CITY BETTER OFF

The city, however, only gets 33⅓ per cent on certain maintenance and construction items; so it does not stand to lose as much as the rural municipalities.

(The yearly appropriation which has to be approved by the Department of Highways is the total of all money spent on road work. It includes the money raised by taxes and by departmental subsidy. In the rural municipalities it also includes the amount raised by debentures.)

Here is an example of how the economizing measure affects one rural Douro township:

Douro's appropriation bylaw in 1952 was $17,000. As the township council wanted to keep the roads in good shape and also do some construction this year they asked the department to approve a bylay of $20,000.

The department, following general policy, cut them $5,000. And they will have to make do with $15,000, which is $2,000 less than last year and $5,000 less than asked for to look after the road system in 1953.

DO LESS WORK

"We'll just have to do less gravelling and do more grading, instead," said Jeremiah Mahoney, clerk of the township. "Some construction work had been decided on, but it will have to be cancelled now."

Douro council could go ahead if they wanted and spend more than the $15,000 ceiling approved by the department, but if they did they would have to finance it 100 cents on the dollar. As it is now, Douro gets 50 cents for roads and 80 cents for roads and bridges.

Prospects are that neither the county which was slashed from $235,000 to $202,000 nor the 15 rural municipalities will finance their own projects 100 per cent. That was made pretty clear at the April meeting of the county council.

At that time Reeve James Gifford of Ennismore, 1952 chairman of the county roads committee, said he didn't believe in raising a road levy and having to finance it 100 cents on the dollar. He thought the provincial government might find some additional type of revenue, such as a gasoline tax that included a cent-a-gallon rebate to the municipalities.

A paradoxical feature of this departmental economizing is the fact that, despite the province-wide reductions in appropriation bylaws, the total amount approved by the department this year for the municipalities is $54,575,300. This is $42,000 more than was actually spent by these same municipalities in 1952.

Where is the money going, then? Reeves of municipalities in the county are asking this question, and so are many others less affected.

FOR BIG PROJECTS

One answer is that the money is being channeled into a few big projects — major highways, for example. And in Peterborough County itself there will be a huge sum of departmental money spent on the bridges at Young's Point and Burleigh Falls, and if the Buckhorn Road and Gannon's Narrows projects are approved at Queen's Park.

The county as a whole may actually gain on a dollars and cents basis, but individual municipalities—not directly benefiting from the Buckhorn and Gan-

Decorations For Coronation

The co-operation of all citizens is requested to assist in dressing up Peterborough at this time, so that it may convey an impression of the gala spirit associated with the Coronation.

Peterborough citizens have every reason to celebrate at this time and to spread themselves a little on flags and bunting, since this is a great historic event.

Let us all get a little proud and gay about this rare occasion and string up flags and buntings.

T. D. MILLER,
Acting Mayor.

Chief Warns Merchants On Sidewalk Displays

Peterborough merchants were warned today to follow city by-law regulations regarding the displaying of merchandise on sidewalks by Police Chief John Thompson.

Under bylaw 4189 passed in 1941, it is illegal to display merchandise such as flowers, fruits and vegetables projecting more than 12 inches over the sidewalk and less than 24 inches high.

Chief Thompson said the bylaw provides for penalties up to $50 fines or 21 days in jail, and warned that prosecutions will be carried out against offenders.

ELIZABETH the Queen

XIII

Often, when the King and Queen were lunching away from Buckingham Palace, I would take the two girls to meals with the Household.

On these occasions Princess Elizabeth would take the head of the table in place of Sir Piers Legh, the Master of the Household, and swiftly arrange her table.

She played the part of hostess admirably.

Sometimes there was a new footman, rather pink in the face, as it was the first time he had waited at the Royal Table. The Princess would take extra trouble to give him room to serve her properly.

When he proffered her a dish she would take it firmly and let him know she had hold of it. If the man had dropped a dish and felt humiliated, she would have been more uncomfortable than he.

Her sympathy extended equally to animals. She would take endless trouble to see that the dogs were propely fed, for example. The Corgis, Susan and Jane, used to sleep in her room at the Palace. Feeding them was quite a ritual.

Promptly at five o'clock a footman would approach along the corridor carrying a large checked cloth which he would lay down on the boards between the wall and the carpet.

Then he would put down the two separate bowls of food and drink and knock on the Princess's door to let her know the dogs' dinner was there.

She would then come out and mix it for them herself—standing by to see they did not eat it too quickly.

If it was raining while she was taking them for a walk, she would be most careful to see they were dried properly treating them as carefully as babies.

Sometimes Princess Margaret took them out in the rain. Then Princess Elizabeth would inspect them to make sure they were dry.

"Did you dry the dogs, Margaret?" she would ask. And the younger Princess, in a voice of indignant innocence, would say, "Of course I did."

Then would come Princess Elizabeth's voice, very shrill. "You couldn't have done! The towel is absolutely spotless," and she would rub them again herself.

The elevators at Buckingham Palace are old and ponderous. They move slowly. But they are carefully looked after by two engineers.

Princess Elizabeth would always make sure that the dogs were kept far from the gates in case they got their tails or noses jammed. "Come here, Susan," she would say. "Keep still or you'll lose an ear."

When a bomb fell on Hampton Court in 1951, where the Royal horses had been evacuated, one of the carriage horses in the stables was injured and was sent down to Windsor Castle to recuperate.

The veterinary surgeon who had to operate on the animal asked us if we'd like to see it. The Princesses were excited and one day after lunch we all trooped out to inspect the invalid.

He was a large horse looking quite fit except for two gashes in his side where the splinters had torn holes in the flesh.

Princess Elizabeth was greatly concerned. "Oh, the poor thing!" she said, and wanted to know if there was anything she could do to help. "Is he quite comfortable?" she asked. "Can he lie down to sleep? Or does it hurt him too much?"

The veterinary made a good job and the wounds healed splendidly. But it was a long time before Princess Elizabeth lost her look of concern when anyone mentioned the horse.

Her interest in animals was not confined to horses and dogs. Lord Louis Mountbatten came back on leave during the war bringing as a present a large, scaly lizard which we learned was a chameleon.

Princess Elizabeth quickly had a box made in which to keep the creature. Princess Margaret rushed off and got a copy of Debrett on which we put him. He immediately changed to red.

I have a horror of all slimy, crawly things. When the King was still Duke of York he took us all to the Zoo, where one of the Keepers showed us behind the scenes at the Reptile House.

He brought out a very sleepy, sinuous python to show us which coiled itself lazily round him. I can still feel the horror I felt then. I was glad to see the others also turn a little pale, though they kept their courage under better control than I did.

The Princess assured me that the chameleon was not at all like that. "Just touch him, Crawfie," they urged. "Just put your finger on him. He's warm as anything and quite dry."

Princess Elizabeth used to carry him on a hand to the big windows in the dining room where there were always a few bluebottles buzzing round. Here she would hold the creature in a convenient position so that its long black tongue could snake out and seize one of these unfortunate flies.

I was grateful that they were both kind-hearted little girls and not the sort who would have put him in my bed. With Princess Elizabeth, at least, I had the feeling she would refrain from such tricks, as much out of consideration for the chameleon as for me.

Eventually it sickened. The Princesses were desolate. In the end I found a gatekeeper who had lived in the tropics and said he knew something about looking after chameleons so we handed the creature into his care.

Then one day the gatekeeper reported it dead. Princess Elizabeth was very sad. "We must bury him in proper state," she said.

The gatekeeper gave us a little white box about a foot long. It was sealed up at either end with a red seal, and looked rather like a package from the druggist.

Then the three of us marched into the gardens to find a suitable cemetery. We had not gone far when Princess Elizabeth stopped with a look of horror on her face.

"But how do we know he's dead?" she asked.

Then we had to undo the coffin and make sure. There was no doubt about it, so we buried him under a flowering shrub.

Hollywood Stars Help Boost Betting Business

By BOB THOMAS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—This must be what the gold rush was like.

You walk into any resort hotel at 2 a.m. and the joint is jumping. The casino is noisy with the clink of silver dollars, the shouts of the lucky players and the moans of the losers.

"Every day is a holiday in Las Vegas," comments one gambling hall operator in amazement.

Each week-end an estimated 25,000 to 30,000 citizens, the majority from booming Southern California, crowd into town, doubling its population. The pleasure-seekers or suckers—according to which view you take—sleep in hotels, motels or their own cars. Some don't sleep at all. They stand at the tables all night, transfixed by the frolicking dice.

IMPORTANT BUSINESS

As in the gold rush days, entertainment is an important commodity in the gambling halls. Stars of Broadway and Hollywood serve as the highest paid shills in the word. Shill: A person hired to stimulate gambling.

You may have heard of some of the fantastic figures paid to entertainers by the Las Vegas hotels. Some are inflated by a press agent's pipe-dream; others are fantastically true. Insiders here believe that the $25,000 weekly figure announced for Betty Hutton is close to reality.

"She might be worth that," said one operator. "But only she and a few others would be. The rest get around a third of her figure, which is an excellent salary for a week's work of an hour or two a night."

Current headliners are Eddy Arnold at the Sahara; Jane Powell, Desert Inn; Joe E. Lewis, El Rancho Vegas; John Payne and Lou Holtz, Flamingo; Rex Allen and Sons of the Pioneers, Thunderbird; Liberace and Phil Foster, Last Frontier; Peter Lind Hayes and Mary Healy, Sands.

NOT ALL

But that isn't all. Each place has two or three other topflight acts, plus eight to a dozen girls, most of whom could adorn any magazine cover.

"Booking talent is a headache," said one show producer. "You not only have to fight the other places in getting the best talent; you also have to find talent that will stimulate betting."

The best attractions for the heavy gamblers are oldtime nitery stars like Joe E. Lewis and Sophie Tucker. Oddly enough, Bob Crosby's engagement was a stimulus to the tables; the explanation was that the Crosbys have many well-heeled friends.

"Class" acts like Jeanette Macdonald and Nelson Eddy, who appeared separately at the Sahara, attract a big first-show business, meaning the well-heeled crowd who stay for dinner. Eddy Arnold, the Tennessee plowboy, is great for the second show—the folks who want to see entertainment for the price of one drink.

BACKDROP TO ATOMIC POWER—The U.S. Army's new 380-mm. "atomic cannon" stands in New York's Battery Park with the city's skyscrapers forming a dramatic background. The 85-ton, 84-foot weapon is part of the Armed Forces Day public display.

Bewdley Scholars Win At Cobourg

BEWDLEY—(ENS)—The junior pupils of Bewdley school were successful in winning first place in the Northumberland Music Festival for junior two-room schools and with their teacher, Mrs. Myrna Manly returned to Cobourg Friday evening to present their number in the final program and receive their shield.

The pupils of the senior room and their teacher, Mrs. Dorothy Gillen and Grade four from the junior room and their teacher, Mrs. M. Manley, enjoyed a bus trip to Toronto to visit the Royal Ontario Museum and a few other points of interest in the city.

Sweden's greatest natural resource is the timber which covers about two-thirds of the land area.

Trouble Ahead For Business Dept. Warning

OTTAWA (CP)—There may be trouble ahead for Canadian business, the agriculture department warned Tuesday.

Generally, the economy is still strong, the department said in its economic review for May, but there are three developments that may cause trouble, particularly in the second half of 1953.

These are:

1. Buyer's resistance—"For the first time since the outbreak of the Korean war, consumer resistance is causing business more concern than are the supply factors."

2. The peace offensive—"Recent and unexpected developments in the international situation and their likely effect on the economy are raising further problems."

MORE COMPETITION

3. Imports—"Competition from imported goods is expected to be stronger in some industries."

Meanwhile, the bureau of statistics reported today there still are a lot of goods on manufacturers' shelves.

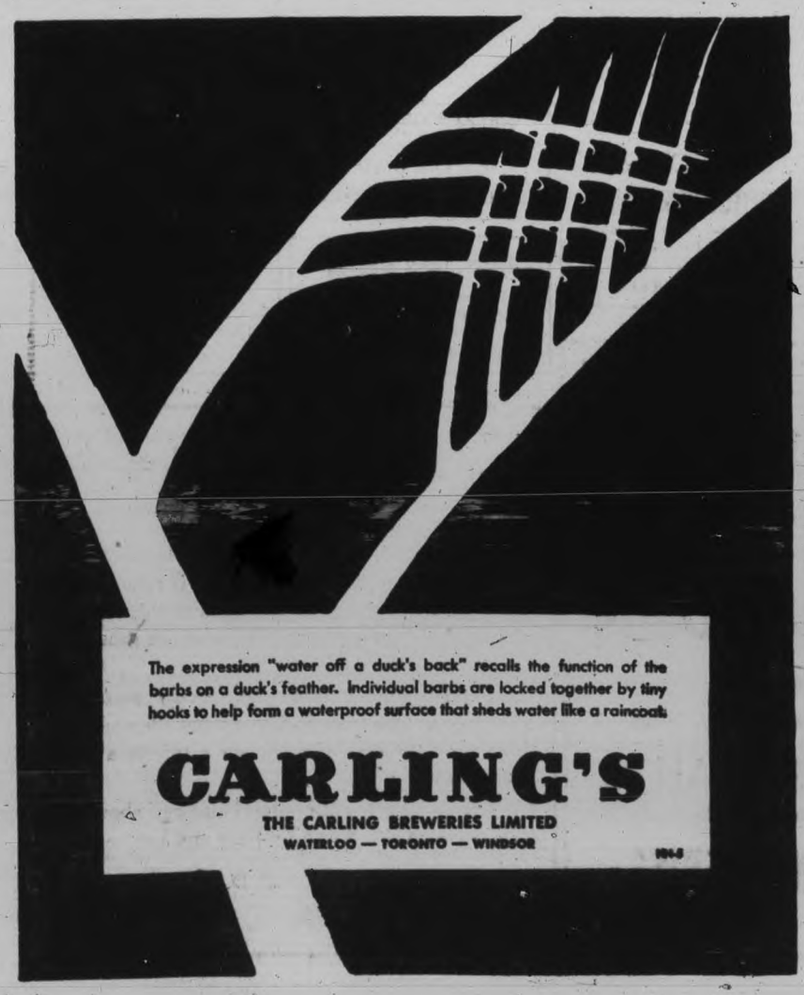
Manufacturers' inventories at the end of February totalled $3,909,900,000, up from $3,867,900,000 at the end of January and a jump of more than $180,000,000 from $3,727,100,000 at the end of February, 1952.

Cardinal Denounces Jehovah Witnesses

MONTREAL (CP)—Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, archbishop of Montreal, Monday night denounced the work of Jehovah's Witnesses and called on Roman Catholics to redouble their efforts to combat "these eager adversaries of the church."

Speaking to a meeting of parochial councils, sponsored by the diocesan committee of Catholic Action, Cardinal Leger said:

"Certain sects, and these are not made up of Protestants but of fanatics, are sworn to divide our ranks. There are active centres of Jehovah's Witnesses in this city. They have their army, their militant leaders and also money. They distribute Bibles, costing $2 each, to every family they visit. They are at your side. They are everywhere. All Roman Catholics should redouble their efforts to combat these eager adversaries of the church."



FUTURE ATOMIC PLANE—Some experts believe that the plane shown above in an artist's sketch will be a reality in 25 years, and will be flying across the Atlantic Ocean in 3½ hours. The atomic-powered transport will carry 125 passengers at a speed of 900 miles per hour. The triangle wing, set far back, offers less wind resistance than the conventional wing at supersonic speeds.

Blast Wrecks Room

WALLACEBURG (CP)—A small water heater exploded Tuesday and wrecked the interior of the boiler room at the Wallaceburg district high school. The blast blew out the windows of the room, wrenched two doors from their hinges and damaged a cement stairway.

10,000 Mexicans Living In Big Apartment Project

MEXICO CITY—To cope with the housing shortage and as a means of helping the low salaried worker and avoiding slum areas, Mexico has come up with an unusual housing project known as multifamiliares buildings.

The president, Aleman project, the first to be built, has about 10,000 people living in the more than 1,000 apartments. The buildings follow the modern type of architecture which is so striking in Mexico city and are completely self contained, even to schools.

There are nine buildings of 13 storeys with 936 apartments, serviced by 20 elevators. There are six buildings of three storeys containing 144 apartments. This makes a total of 1,080 apartments. The 15 buildings are equipped with hot and cold water, deep wells, telephones, light and gas service and a swimming pool. There are two schools, one for boys and one for girls with 12 class rooms. There is an auditorium, gardens, children's playgrounds etc., with a capacity of 1,200 students, completely equipped and furnished.

The general services building for the administration of the Centro Urbano houses medical services, sanitation equipment, postal and telegraph offices. There is also a little theatre and laundry equipped with individual machines and drying areas. The administration is responsible for paving and illuminating nearby streets; fire equipment; radio and loud speaker in each apartment. The ground floor is prepared for commercial premises. The total cost of the Centro Urbano Presidente Aleman with buildings and special services was $22,314,327.57 (Mexican) and the cost of the annexes and special services was $3,514,327.57 (Mex.).

COLLECTIVE HOUSING

This project has been so successful others have followed. It was thought that the solution to the housing problem would be great collectives and concentration of families in a single area to avoid distance and undue fatigue. The problem was to develop a type of dwelling with a uniform standard and predominantly functional. And the Direccion de Pensiones came up with the plan of single units of the multifamiliar type in single groups or simply single buildings.

To qualify for an apartment in this project requires the following things, only a part of the list:

(a) to be a state worker in good standing, active and contributing to the pension fund.

(b) officially a resident of the federal district.

(c) an applicant cannot possess property in the same federal district nor hold a big loan or mortgage with the Direccion de Pensiones.

(d) must be held in good opinion and have a good reputation.

(e) must have no contagious diseases.

(f) must have medical examination.

(g) must not have a salary of more than $640 month ($80 Can.).

(h) must belong to the Sindicato de Trabajadores (union).

(i) must have a rental contract with the Direction de Pensiones.

(j) must be subject to the rules and regulations enforced by the authorities.

The direccion des Pensiones contacts each Sindicato de Trabajadores in the Federal District and advises the number of apartments available for the use of its members and the requirements. Each union gives its workers the number of apartments available and advises re negotiations. Los Sindicatos Burocraticos give the other Sindicato lists to the Pension Boards with the members recommended. The number of apartments and aspirants are equal.

There are four different types of apartments: Type A with rent of $75 (Mex) monthly ($9 Can); Type B with rent of $100 monthly ($12.50 Can); Type C with rent of $115 monthly (Mex) ($14 Can) and Type D with rent of $130 (Mex) ($16 Can).

The administration provides the following services included in the rental price: cold water 24 hours a day; hot water from 6-9 a.m.; 14-16 hours and 18-22 hours; Sundays 7-14 hours. Elevators give 24-hour service in the proportion that the administration rules necessary.

They also provide: telephone and radio service; pool purification; attention for pre-school age children in the kindergarten and baby's school with a capacity of 200 children; primary schools with a capacity of 1200 youngsters; lighting of gardens and exteriors of buildings; public illumination of adjacent streets; garbage service; cleaning of staircases, patios etc.; general service building with medical and sanitation services, telephone, telegraph and police services; theatre and gymnasium.

TYPES OF DWELLINGS

The model unit has four types of dwellings that are directly related to the economic possibilities of each individual and yet have all the necessities of living. They are:

(1) tall multifamiliares buildings at least 11 storeys high.

(2) lower multifamiliares buildings of 3 storeys with different layouts to meet special requirements. Families with children and without children are considered; married couples where both have a profession; single people; old people, etc.

(3) Group houses of two different styles. Type A consists of a grouping of 8, 16 or more units on a ground floor plan with living-dining room, 2 bedrooms, bathroom, kitchen and interior patio. The price is around $16,000 (Mex) ($2,000). Type B has two storeys with four units to each one; the lower storey has the following: living room, dining room, kitchen, small bedroom and staircase. The upper floor has two bedrooms and bathroom. The price fluctuates around 18,000 pesos ($2,500).

(4) or isolated houses built by agreement.

In the Colonia de Guadalajara the front apartments have a total of 470 dwelling units for approximately 2,800 people with the price fluctuating between $11,000 and $20,000 (Mex.). The unit has its own school and playing ground. The Nuevo Laredo holds a total of 190 apartment units including the multifamiliares with a capacity of 30 apartments in each, for approximately 1,000 residents.

Report Band Not Wanted Now On Korean Trip

By BILL BOSS

IN KOREA (CP)—Some embarrassment has been caused in the Commonwealth division by the fact that the band of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry is coming to Korea soon, it is learned.

Somehow the Canadian chief of staff, Lt.-Gen. G. G. Simonds, got the idea that the band would be welcome in the divisional area around Coronation time although officers of the Canadian 25th brigade preferred an October date when, after a tour, the band could play the 3rd battalion of the Patricias home to Calgary.

Simonds, who has just visited Canadian units in Korea, sent out a message last Friday asking that special arrangements be made to get the band in Korea in time for a divisional Coronation parade June 2.

NOT WANTED

Brig. Jean Allard, commander of the 25th brigade, informed the divisional commander, Maj.-Gen. Michael West, who replied that the band was not wanted for the parade.

Although arrangements for the visit are complete, the band's first rehearsal still is a fortnight away and there is plenty of time to revise the program.

At Ottawa, an army official said no word about any embarrassment in connection with the movement of the band to Korea has reached national defence headquarters.

Believes Trade Still Key To Maintaining World Peace

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

VIENNA (CP)—"Trade is the key to maintaining peace," H. H. Lank of Montreal told Tuesday's general session of the International Chamber of Commerce.

Lank was chairman of the 2½-hour session, in which 10 speakers on "An Expanding Economy through Freer Trade" backed up the congress' general theme—that world trade is everybody's business.

Some 900 business men and economic experts from 34 free countries are attending the 14th congress of the ICC.

Warren Lee Pierson, airline executive and head of the United States delegation, gave encouraging words to the delegates, many of whom were apprehensive lest American protectionists might make their views effective with the U.S. government.

NEVER MORE OPTIMISTIC

Said Pierson:

"I have never been more optimistic over he prospect that American trade policies will gradually become less restrictive and more liberal."

He told other countries frankly, however, that even if the U.S. adopted complete free trade overnight, it wouldn't eliminate the dollar-gap problem, nor solve all the world's economic ills. Europe itself must do many things and with little assistance from the U.S.

"If substantially more goods are to be imported into the U.S., they must first be produced, then competitively priced and finally effectively sold."

"So far as Canada is concerned, its continuing policy is to support expansion and stabilization of world trade," Lank said.

NEED GOOD FOUNDATION

"In the Canadian view, it will only be possible to guarantee security and prosperity in the western world through establishing it on a foundation of a healthy system of mutually beneficial trade relations. Canadians look on international trade as a two-way boulevard to economic expansion. Canada not only believes in liberalization of trade but has done something about it."

Quintin J. Gwyn of Montreal brought up the problem of countries which have suffered through loss of trade with eastern countries.

"It is felt by some of us in Canada that more attention should be given this problem so as to provide these countries with genuine opportunity to find other markets replacing those from which they are now excluded," Gwyn said.

In an address prepared for a Republican fund-raising dinner, he said the seaway and power project has unanimous support of President Eisenhower's cabinet, and added:

"The cost, even in the present day, would be small compared to the great benefit which would accrue to the United States as well as to Canada."

Coronation Celebrations Showing Individuality

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

When Elizabeth goes to her crowning June 2 Canadians will celebrate with her.

There will be dancing in the streets 'midst the explosion of fireworks. Troops will parade. Beacons will light the night sky from coast to coast. There will be solemn church services, too, as Canadians pray for a long and happy reign for their young Queen.

With municipal and provincial plans for the celebration all but complete, a Canadian Press survey today showed that each locality will express its joy in its own individual fashion. For instance, High River, Alberta cattle town 40 miles south of Calgary, will feature a chuckwagon race and a horse show.

LONGEST CELEBRATION

Honors for the longest continuous celebration may go to Medicine Hat. That southern Alberta city plans a 15-hour parade of historical events, an open air church service, sports, band concerts, variety show, street dancing and fireworks.

Appropriately, Ottawa's television station CBOT opens officially Coronation Day. It will televise the impressive official ceremonies on Parliament Hill.

Simultaneously Coronation night, Boy Scouts across Canada will light beacon fires. From Newfoundland to Vancouver Island their flames will redden the evening skies.

Across the land, these are the highlights of Coronation Day plans:

Newfoundland: A giant fireworks display at St. John's,. There and in other communities, the program includes parades, speeches and church services.

Nova Scotia: A parade at Halifax by members of the army, navy and air force and the RCMP with an RCAF fly-past. All schools will have special programs.

New Brunswick: Special church services in Fredericton, Saint John and other centres. The armed services will hold church parades. Afternoon programs will include sports and parades, while at night there will be street dancing, formal balls, band concerts, fireworks and bonfires.

Prince Edward Island: Charlottetown plans a big celebration for the afternoon, with a parade of service men and school children to the exhibition grounds. Night celebrations will include a band concert, horse racing and fireworks.

Quebec: Church services, a military parade and fireworks at Montreal. Religious observances at Quebec City, as well as armed services parades.

Ontario: Between 5,000 and 6,000 members of the armed forces, active and reserve, will march through Ottawa streets and form up in front of the Parliament Buildings for inspection by Governor-General Massey. The ceremonies will include a fly-past and a 42-gun salute. Highlight of Ottawa's evening celebration will include a water parade of floats on the Rideau canal. Toronto will have military processions and artillery salutes.

Manitoba: Winnipeg's main celebration is expected to be a provincial-municipal half-hour ceremony about noon in front of the Legislative Building, preceded by a parade of service personnel through the centre of the city.

SASKATCHEWAN PLANS

Saskatchewan: Regina's program includes a parade and entertainment including Scottish and Ukrainian dances and a schoolchildren's pageant. Saskatoon will have a march-past, cenotaph service, fireworks and a Coronation b[all].

Alberta: Two thousand armed forces members will march in Edmonton, which also will have gunnery salutes, a long pageant, a religious service and fireworks. In Calgary a fireworks display will follow a military parade and an inter-denominational church service.

British Columbia: Victoria plans one of the biggest parades the city has seen in years, the largest naval turnout since the royal visit of 1939, with 1,400 navy men marching. Vancouver plans a giant parade with floats, folk dancing, motorcycle rodeo, a regatta, football and speedboat races, a night parade with fireworks and dancing.

Will Proclaim '51 Statute Authorizing Power Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—A 1951 federal statute authorizing the Ontario government to develop the Canadian share of power in the international section of the St. Lawrence river is to be proclaimed today, Transport Minister Chevrier announced Tuesday.

Te proclamation—making the statute operative — is aimed at stimulating action in the United States towards an early start on the St. Lawrence seaway, of which the power development is an integral part.

The measure is the International Rapids Power Development Act, passed in December of 1951, which approved an agreement between the federal and Ontario governments on the $450,000,000 power job. Ontario has adopted similar legislation.

The federal government's original intention had been to proclaim the act only about the time Ontario was ready to start the power works in conjunction with a United States agency, expected to be the New York state power authority.

Mr. Chevrier said the cabinet's decision to proclaim the act resulted from a recommendation to the U.S. federal power commission from FPC examiner Glen R. Law that the New York authority be named as the U.S. entity to divide the 2,200,000 horsepower of hydro with Ontario.

One particular reason for the move, officials said, would be to forestall any claims by seaway opponents in the U.S. that Ontario lacked full legal authority to go ahead with the power development.

Yorkshire Family On 2nd Lap Of Canada Trip

MONTREAL (CP)—The Whitford family from Yorkshire, England, is somewhere "west of Montreal" today on the second lap of their cycling trip from Quebec to Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. George Whitford and their two-year-old son Jimmy, stayed over night here Saturday. They left Sunday on their 14-year old tandem for Toronto. With 400 pounds of gear stored on the bike they don't expect to average more than 30 miles a day.

Whiteford said he believes the trip will be completed in about three or four months.

MUST GO SLOWER

They could go faster but they see that Jimmy, who sleeps in a special trailer, gets his proper exercise.

After struggling with a private business venture for three years following the Second World War, Whitford, who is a former British commando, brought his family to Canada last week and decided on the trip.

He has relatives in Vancouver. He said he doesn't know what he will do on the West Coast.

Sweeting-Hampton Rites

At Warsaw United Church on Saturday afternoon Barbara Joan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hampton, became the bride of George Norman Sweeting, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Sweeting of Peterborough. The ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Mr. Dyson, assisted by the Rev. B. S. Morwood of Peterborough.

Floral decorations at the altar were of gladioli, spirea, tulips and marigolds. Mrs. George Taylor played the wedding music and Mrs. June Clysdale sang during the signing of the register, "I'll Walk Beside You".

The bride's gown was of white satin with an overskirt of net and topped with a lace jacket. Her three-quarter length veil was caught in a Sweetheart headdress and she carried a bouquet of red roses. She was given in marriage by her father.

Miss Jean Payne as maid of honor wore a pink satin gown with overskirt and stole of pink net and a headdress of orange blossoms. Miss Frances Hampton as bridesmaid was in blue organdy embroidered with pink roses and wore a headdress of pink roses.

Groomsman was Lloyd Sweeting and ushers were Gerald Hampton and Morris Little.

A reception was held at the bride's home, her mother receiving in a blue wool gabardine suit and wearing white accessories and corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother wore a sky blue gabardine suit and navy accessories and had a red rose corsage.

As the bridal couple left to honeymoon at Niagara Falls the bride was attired in a navy suit and wore white accessories.

They will live at 219 Lake St.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Asparagus And Egg Special On Special-Purpose Menu

SUPPER-ON-A-SHOESTRING

Mary J.'s Spring Soup, Asparagus and Egg Special, Jellied Salads, Open-Face Rhubarb Pie, Tea, Milk for the children.

Here's the story: Gertrude wrote to me saying that food costs were so high she needed some real economy hints from me. They have plenty of their own eggs and other farm produce so this menu is designed to use the lovely fresh things many of you have in your gardens.

DIRECTIONS:

MARY J.'s SPRING SOUP

(to serve four generously)

Slice very thin carrots to make 1 cup, 4 radishes sliced thin, 2 finely cut stalks celery including leaves, 2 small green onions including tops cut as thin as possible, 1 cup fresh or frozen peas (or fresh finely sliced asparagus). To these vegetables add 1½ cups boiling water and boil about 10 minutes. (Mary J. says part of the goodness of this spring soup is the crispness of the undercooked carrots and celery. Mix together 1 tablespoon flour, ½ teaspoon each salt and sugar and a generous shake of pepper. Measure 2 cups milk, and stir a little of the cold milk into the flour to a paste. Add the milk to the cooked vegetables and liquor, then stir in the flour paste until a little thickened. This is ready to serve now but is improved a little by two things. Cook a little while longer in double boiler, and when served sprinkle a little finely chopped parsley or grated old cheese over each bowl.

ASPARAGUS AND EGG SPECIAL

This is simply asparagus and hard-cooked eggs on toast or patties or timbales with a rich sauce of some kind. But to make it as nourishing and attractive as possible I serve it on buttered whole wheat toast. On this I place about 5 fat barely tender stalks of hot asparagus, and pour over it a white sauce made with the asparagus liquor and milk which contains the chopped hard-cooked egg whites. I push the hard-cooked egg yolks through the sieve directly over the sauce. If you try to handle the sieved yolks with a fork they will pack, so work neatly.

JELLIED VEGETABLE SALAD

Soak 1¼ tablespoons gelatin in ¼ cup cold water 5 minutes then add to it 1 tablespoon sugar ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup boiling water and stir until dissolved. Add ¼ cup mild vinegar, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 tablespoon each lemon juice and grated onion, ½ to 1 cup very finely shredded cabbage, 1 cup finely chopped celery, 1 chopped canned pimiento or 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper or ¼ cup sliced stuffed olives, or cooked green peas. The vegetables will sink, so this must be stirred just as it begins to congeal, OR vegetables may be added just when it begins to congeal. Pour into 1 large mould or 6 individual moulds to chill until firm. Unmould on bed of lettuce or cress. For another meal this could be moulded in a ring and when turned out the centre filled with tuna or crabmeat salad. When tomatoes are in season they could be hollowed out and filled with the jelly before it congeals.

OPEN-FACE RHUBARB PIE

Line a deep 9-inch pie plate with rich pastry. Fill with this mixture: 1 1-3 cups sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 teaspoons each quick-cooking tapioca and flour, 2 tablespoons grated orange rind, 4 cups unpeeled washed rhubarb cut into ¾-inch pieces, 1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine. Spread this evenly in the unbaked shell. If desired cover with latticed strips of pastry. Sprinkle top with a little sugar and if desired, freshly grated nutmeg Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 40 minutes.

Foley-Plumpton

At St. John the Baptist Roman Catholic Church on Saturday the Rev. C. McCarney performed the marriage of Lavina Jane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Plumpton of RR 9, Peterborough, to Edmund John Foley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo J. Foley of Keene.

Spring flowers decorated the altar table and Mrs. George Carey played wedding music.

Given in marriage by her brother, John Plumpton Jr., the bride was in a gown of white satin with embossed nylon overskirt. The dress was strapless and topped with a jacket of embossed nylon. Her veil was caught to a white nylon headdress and she was carrying a bouquet of white carnations and red roses.

Miss Rita Mahoney as maid of honor and Miss Marie Foley, sister of the groom, as bridesmaid were in blue ankle-length gowns of net over taffeta embossed with white flowers. They wore blue tafefta jackets, headdresses of blue net and carried bouquets of pink and white carnations.

The groom's attendant was Fred Quartner and ushers were Jack Nelson and Jack McIntyre.

Following a reception held at the Assumption Hall the couple left on a wedding trip to United States. The bride travelled in a navy nylon dress and wore a pink topcoat and pink accessories.

They will live at Rice Lake, near Keene.

Wherever big things are going on there you'll find the engineer

Wherever you go in Canada today, you see the work of the professional engineer. A river's course is changed and its rushing power harnessed for man's needs . . . an oil pipeline scales a mighty mountain range . . . a highway is punched through the rocky wilderness . . . the skylines of cities are altered in a few short months . . . and behind each mighty accomplishment stands the engineer.

Behind our many new industries, unknown a decade ago, as well as the unprecedented development of our natural resources—stands the engineer. His is the vision and the orderly thinking that is contributing so much to Canada's phenomenal expansion.

WE OF CANADIAN GENERAL ELECTRIC never forget that ours is essentially an engineering organization. We know that our progress depends on the constant recruitment of young engineers and are proud of the contribution we are making to their training.

Engineering graduates join this Company each year

Each year, since its earliest days, engineering graduates have joined this Company to continue their training in special courses—nearly twelve hundred have already gained invaluable experience on the Company's well-known "Test" Course.

The purpose of the Course is primarily to ensure a constant supply of trained talent for this Company. A high proportion of the executives of this organization got their start on the "Test" Course.

The Course over the years has also contributed a constant stream of highly-trained graduates to fill the ranks of Canadian industry. In fact, it is a source of pride that not a few of them are to be found today holding important positions in many widely diversified engineering fields.

Everybody benefits from the engineers' work

Canadian General Electric currently employs some eight hundred engineers—that's one out of every eighteen employees—and is continually adding to their number. These men—whether they work as development, design, production, application, sales or service engineers, in the electrical, mechanical or chemical fields—are in the final analysis working for you.

They develop, design and manufacture the complex electrical equipment that generates power, transmits it across great distances, controls it and then puts it to work for the common good. They are constantly improving and simplifying existing products to increase their efficiency and lower their cost. They develop brand-new products to meet brand-new needs. In co-operation with our customers' engineers they design and install equipment to meet specialized needs—to raise productivity and to lower costs.

The engineers' part in Canada's rising prosperity

It is an important part of their work to find new methods of manufacture, and to develop new equipment and products that do more, last longer and cost less to operate. It is by employing outstanding engineers—the key men in Canada's progress—that we are able to play a worthy part in our country's industrial growth, and in the developments that are raising the living standards of all of us.

A. Mitchell and Mrs. N. Elliott summarized the last chapters of the study book "Along African Trails". Mrs. Wade quoted from missionaries' writings on the un-met needs in Africa. Mrs. McFadgen concluded with quotations from Aggray. Business included collecting for postage to send a 500-pound bale to Korea and a discussion of plans for the September tea. Talk On African Violets Draws Crowd Of 150

African Violets are still plants of mystery and interest to Peterborough housewives it seems since nearly 150 went to hear about them from an expert grower Mrs. Joan Copeland of Port Credit who was in the city Tuesday evening. Mrs. Copeland was sponsored by Peter Robinson Chapter, IODE, and gave her lecture in the Trinity Hall. Last year she was brought by the same Chapter and spoke in the YWCA at a dessert luncheon.

Mrs. Copeland gave numerous hints for amateur growers but told the ladies not to change any method which they have found successful. Her suggestion for watering is to cover the top soil with lukewarm water and she said that when the water runs into the saucer it is a danger signal.

However, in a house where plants may be suffering from gas or coal gas fumes or lack of moisture in the air, they should be watered from the bottom always.

To get rid of insects on the leaves Mrs. Copeland says to immerse the whole plant in warm, soapy water, rinse in clear water and dry out of the sun. For "ring tails" on the plant, she sets the pot in boiling water for three minutes. If there are worms in the plant, the only cure is to re-plant in sterilized soil she said.

Mrs. Copeland said that the African Violet was brought here in 1892, much to the surprise of the Africans who regard it somewhat as a weed for there it has only tiny pale blue flowers. The plant had been grown here for 30 years before the first pink violet was produced. She said one of the prettiest of nearly 400 varieties is the "Painted Girl", a white flower with pink edge. Newest varieties are the first "miniature plants" ever produced and are called "Baby Doll" and "Pixie". When two and a half years old the plant will be no bigger than a teacup but will have the same size flowers as larger plants she explained.

The plants do best in the old red clay pots she said. They should be in a mixture of two parts good garden soil, one of sharp sand and one of peat moss. If the plant has a thick, heavy leaf it should be fed every week, otherwise every two weeks. She said that all plants require plant food to bloom.

Ten prizes of plants, plant food and material for planting in were given out by Mrs. Copeland.

She was introduced to the audience by chapter regent Mrs. P. C. Sanders.

Althouse-Strain

At St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Norwood, on Saturday Sylvia Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Strain, became the bride of Lionel John Althouse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Colin Althouse, all of Norwood. The Rev. R. D. Dunlop officiated and Mrs. John Rogers played the wedding music. During the signing of the register Mr. Robert Tamblyn sang "Because."

The bride was wearing a cocktail length gown of blue satin with net overskirt and jacket of lace and a shoulder veil of blue net caught to a bonnet-shaped headdress. Her bouquet was of red roses.

She was given in marriage by her father and attended by Miss Mary Tamblyn who wore a pink satin gown with overskirt of net, cocktail length, and a matching bolero. She wore a headband of pink roses and carried a bouquet of the same.

Mr. Ross Althouse was his brother's groomsman. Ushers were Howard Scott and Sydney Strain.

The reception was held at the bride's home, her mother receiving in a nevy crepe dress and wearing a navy straw hat and corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother chose beige taffeta and a hat of natural straw and she wore white carnations.

For travelling to Montreal and points east on the wedding trip the bride wore a grey gabardine suit, navy straw hat and navy accessories.

They will live at Norwood.

Reception Given Father Lord By P-TA Council

A reception in honor of Father Daniel Lord, S. J., the widely known lecturer, writer and orator from the United States, was held following his address Tuesday evening in St. Peter's auditorium. Included was his companion, Father Walsh, who is also presently stationed at Sacred Heart Seminary in Toronto.

Mrs. W. H. Toal, president of the Parent-Teacher Association Diocesan Council which sponsored the lecture, introduced the guests to Father Lord. Those invited were executive members of the Council and presidents of the Peterborough P-TA units with their wives and husbands, out-of-town guests and members of the clergy. His Excellency, Bishop Berry honored the occasion with his presence.

Tea was poured by Mrs. Margaret O'Brien, new provincial president of P-TA, and Mrs. H. J. McLarnon, a member of the provincial executive.

The tea table was lovely with a centrepiece of tulips and spring flowers in a silver bowl and tall pink tapers in silver candelabra and was covered with a hand-made lace cloth.

The tea arrangements were in charge of Mrs. M. E. Readman, social convener of St. Peter's unit. She was assisted by the social conveners from other units, Mrs. Vincent Lynch of St. Francis de Sales, Mrs. B Rogers of Sacred Heart, Mrs. A. J. Atwood of St. Alphonsus, Mrs. W. Smith of St. Anne's and Mrs. A. Guerin of Immaculate Conception who were each accompanied by a member of the unit who assisted in serving.

Kelly-Leahy

Tht marriage was performed Saturday in the rectory of Immaculate Conception Church by the Rev. James A. Greenan of Mary Joan, daughter of Mrs. Wm. Leahy of Peterborough and the late Mr. Leahy, and Dean Boyd Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Kelly of Norwood.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Leo Leahy, the bride was wearing a waltz-length gown of nylon net over taffeta styled with a strapless bodice and short sleeve taffeta bolero. Her fingertip veil of French illusion was caught to a nylon coronet and she wore wrist length nylon gloves. She carried a prayer book covered with red roses.

Miss Isabelle Leahy attended her sister, wearing a frock of green nylon net and taffeta and headdress to match, gloves of white nylon, in wrist length, and carrying a nosegay of yellow carnations. The groom's attendant was Jack Robson.

For the reception at the bride's home her mother was wearing black crepe with a black straw hat and the groom's mother wore navy sheer and black straw hat. Each had a corsage of American Beauty roses.

Leaving latter for Toronto and points west the bride wore a suit in dusty rose shade and black and white accessories and she had a corsage of red roses when going away.

Granddaughter of Montreal Couple One of Queen's Six Maids of Honor

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Lady Mary Baillie-Hamilton, 19-year-old granddaughter of Montreal's Mr and Mrs. G. W. Cook, will be one of the six maids of honor carrying the Queen's train at the Coronation.

On Coronation morning, Lady Mary and her parents, the Earl and Countess of Haddington, must leave for the abbey at about 6:45 a.m. If they wait too long the roads will be closed. Gates have been built on the streets that form the Coronation route and these will be closed by the police about breakfast time.

Seated in a grey-and-cream lounge, overlooking the walled-in garden of the Chelsea town house her family bought last year, Lady Mary described what it feels like to have an important role in the Coronation. She said she will be a "bundle of nerves" throughout the ceremony.

PARENTS WITH PEERS

On what she regards as perhaps the most important day of her life, she will feel very much alone. Her parents sit with the peers, and Lady Mary will be in the forefront of attention with the other maids of honor.

The other maids of honor are girls of approximately her own age whom she has known mostly since childhood. They are: Lady Anne Coke, Lady Jane Vane-Tempest-Stewart, Lady Rosemary Spencer-Churchill, Lady Jane Heathcote-Drummond-Willoughby and Lady Moyra Hamilton.

On opening the Queen's invitation to take part in the abbey ceremony, Lady Mary was just as pleased and excited as her 11-year-old brother, Lord Binning.

So far, except for one or two fittings of the gown she will wear in the abbey, Coronation preparations have not taken up much of her time. Rehearsals for the abbey ceremony don't start till late May. Right now Lady Mary insists her life in London is thoroughly lazy.

TAKING IT EASY

She has quiet dinners with close friends, spends most week-ends at country house parties, and goes to occasional balls. At 19, she says she is "too old" to be included in the social round of the Coronation debutante season.

Most of her time is spent studying music—her outstanding hobby and interest. She can often be found playing in an upstairs room of the Chelsea house, last home of artist John S. Sargeant. This room was the painter's studio, and the grey, early-French panelling corniced in gold, the floor-to-ceiling windows that cover one wall, are his legacy to this old-fashioned house in London's arty section.

Dressed in a fully-gathered Black Watch skirt bought in Canada, Lady Mary lent charm to the 18th-century Adam furniture, the dull rose and lime green satin cushions making splashes of color on deep ivory armchairs and settee, and the 19th-century Aubusson carpet.

Lady Mary says she is happiest in Scotland. An old Scottish family, the Haddingtons take part in the Scottish "season," an annual event when the Queen is resident at Edinburgh Holyrood House.

This year the "season" is mid-June, and Lady Mary is booked for a week of balls and parties that will be the biggest Scotland has organised for many years.

DOROTHY DIX:

Legal Help Available To Deserted Wives

DEAR MISS DIX: After twenty years of marriage my husband has left me for a younger woman—the third time he has done so. Now, at 39, I must make a decision about my future. I have two daughters, 16 and 18, one in high school, one in college. I have worked hard to give them the advantage of a good education but don't know if I can continue. I have our home, a small bank account and, of course, the possibility that my husband may return again as he has done before. I have been working, but my wages are very small—not enough to keep the girls in school.

EMILY

A HOPELESS HUSBAND

ANSWER: The possibility that your husband will ever settle down to family life seems remote, so I think you are wise to face the fact that the future is up to you. However, your outlook is by no means hopeless. You are young and attractive and many jobs are open to you. First—investigate the chances of getting support from your husband. It's not easy for a man, today, to flee from all responsibility, and I'm sure a lawyer, or your local Domestic Relations Court, will help you. Second—concerning the children's education, I agree it would be regrettable to take them out of school, unless, of course, no other course is open. They both have professions in mind, and with the good marks they are making, every effort should be made to keep them in school. See the faculty advisor at your daughter's college and ascertain whether scholarships are available to her. Most colleges provide financial help for worthy students.

Concerning yourself in this problem: your salary is certainly small, but there's no reason why you should stick to work that pays so poorly. Have you ever thought of practical nursing? It is a fine profession for an older woman. The training course is not as long as that for registered nurses, and you would be doing fine work in freeing more highly trained women for specialized tasks. I'd be glad to give you more information on this training if you'll send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband was brought up as the only child of a widow, so he missed much of the affection existing between brothers and sisters. We now have a small son, and I am puzzled by the fact that my husband never calls the baby by affectionate terms, just "fellow" or "boy." To me this seems unnatural.

HAZEL T.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You are emphasizing quite an insignificant matter. Your husband's terms of endearment to his son are natural, and are used by fathers who have had the advantage of full family life. In fact, I think this more masculine form of address, even with a child, is preferable to having the father smother him in sugary phrases. You know that this dad really means what he says.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I belong to a club of men and women who meet once a month for cards. We have played together for about ten years, taking turns at each other's homes. Then, one night I passed a remark that I couldn't see the sense of spending eight or ten dollars a night for this sort of entertainment, which included, of course, the food served. When the following meeting was due, another couple was asked in our place and we have never been invited to play again. Now, I have been asked to a luncheon at the home of one of the women, but don't know whether to accept or not. What should I do?

MARCIA B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You certainly made a most ungracious remark. The women naturally felt that you wanted to stop these parties. I would interpret the recent invitation as an effort to bring you back into the group, and you would be foolish, and doubly ungracious, to refuse it. After ten years of close friendship, you should have been more considerate of others' feelings.

Fitting Doors Control Lights

When the light flashes on in your refrigerator each time the door is opened curious members of the younger generation are usually told that the trick is done by the Little Man Who Isn't There.

A relative of the little fellow is now installed in newer homes to take over the same job in clothes closets; to turn on the closet light when the door is opened and to turn it off when the door is closed. He is known to adults as the automatic door switch.

Operating on the same idea as the refrigerator switch these automatic door switches turn on the light in closets and eliminate the need of fumbling for a pull switch or groping for articles of clothing in semi-darkness. Simple in construction they cost little to install but provide excellent service and convenience over the years. A brass plate with a "push knob" is fitted to the electrical connection on the hinged side of the door jamb and when the door is closed a brass plate on the rear edge of the door depresses the knob and turns off the light. In reverse, the door plate releases the knob on opening the door and an electrical connection is made to the closet lamp.

Wall switches outside are of course also in common use to turn a light in the closet off and on. Another forward step in making life easier for the householder, however, is a bull's-eye light inserted into the baseboard at the bottom of the closet to give light on the floor of the closet. Switched by same control as the overhead closet lamp, the floodlight makes it simple and easy to locate rubbrs, overshoes and other objects where clothes hanging in the closet cut off the overhead light from the floor.

To keep pace wih these newer developments on modern electrical living, it is well to consult a progressive electrical contractor or dealers, or the municipal hydro.

Duchess Plays Queen's Role Second Time

LONDON (Reuters) — The 31-year-old Duchess of Norfolk, playing the part of Queen Elizabeth, today stood by the Coronation chair in Westminster Abbey "showing herself to the people."

Only a handful of "the people" were present, for it was a rehearsal of the recognition, one of the main rites of the June 2 ceremony when Elizabeth will be crowned.

The duchess, in a trim royal blue suit, turned to show her face to the four corners of the abbey —as the Queen will do.

As the Queen does this on June 2 the Archbishop of Canterbury will say to the assembled abbey guests: "Sirs, I here present unto you Queen Elizabeth your undoubted Queen. . . ."

Trumpets will sound and the assembled throng will shout repeatedly "God Save Queen Elizabeth."

The duchess' husband, the Duke of Norfolk, responsible as Earl Marshal for Coronation arrangements, stood by like a theatrical producer at the hour-long rehearsal.

Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, the Archbishop of Canterbury, attended the practice, resplendent in a cassock of purple.

Also put through their paces, for the second day running, were the six attractive society girls who will act as the Queen's maids of honor. Helping to instruct them was the dowager Duchess of Devonshire, mistress of the Queen's robes.

Lord Alanbrooke, lord high constable of England, and the Marquess of Salisbury, who will bear the sword of state at the Coronation, also practised their roles in the ghostly hush of the age-old abbey.

After the rehearsal of the recognition, the archbishop with the duchess still acting as "stand in," went through the act of administering the oath to the Queen. In this she pledges to govern the peoples of Britain and the commonwealth and colonies according to their respective laws and customs.

Canadian Group Sailing For Coronation

NEW YORK (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent sailed aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth today en route to the Coronation.

The Prime minister, looking fit and in jovial spirits, posed for newsreel cameras for nearly an hour when he boarded the liner following an overnight train trip from Ottawa.

He was accompanied by Mrs. St. Laurent and their daughter, Mrs. Frank Lafferty of Montreal.

The Prime Minister said he was looking forward to the trip and planned to do no work during the voyage. He emphasized the importance of the Coronation for the entire Commonwealth, and added:

"It is important to surround the crowning of the sovereign with proper ceremony."

RETURNS JUNE 10

The Prime Minister said he plans to return to Canada June 10 by RCAF aircraft. Mrs. St. Laurent, who doesn't like flying, will follow by sea.

Other Coronation-bound Canadians sailing on the Queen Elizabeth were Lt.-Gov. Alistair Fraser of Nova Scotia, Lt.-Gov. Louis Breithaupt of Ontario, Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario, Mayor Allan Lamport of Toronto, and Lady Rose Alexander, daughter of the former governor-general.

Call By-Election For November 9

OTTAWA (CP)—A by-election has been called for Nov. 9 to fill a Commons vacancy, but the action was regarded as only setting the latest possible date for a general election.

Lapse of a statutory time limit following the resignation of Fisheries Minister Mayhew resulted in the calling of the election for Victoria constituency. The deadline for setting a date was Monday, when the cabinet passed an order-in-council for the by-election.

However, it was regarded as unlikely that a by-election actually would be held before a general election, and the setting of the Victoria date was only a matter of form. The general election is expected in August.

The view that the Victoria date has little significance beyond defining the outside time expectation for a general election was reinforced by the fact that the cabinet took no action to fill four other Commons vacancies, where the six-month deadline for setting by-election dates has not expired.

$774,000 In Grants To Assist Hospitals

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal health department announced today that more than $774,000 in grants have been alloted to help meet the cost of enlarging hospitals in Toronto, Orillia and Brockville.

In addition, the department said $95,500 has been earmarked to help meet the cost of nurses' residences for hospitals in Toronto and St. Catharines.

The federal grant toward the cost of conversion to provide space for 41 more patients at the Ontario hospital, Toronto, totals $174,000.

The grant to the Ontario hospital, Orillia, is $330,000 for construction of a dormitory building and isolation building while $270,000 goes to the Ontario hospital, Brockville, for an extensive renovation and expansion program.

Police Find Kidnapped Child

NEW YORK (AP)—A year-old girl, taken from her Washington home with her two-year-old brother, was found today with the woman who, police said, admitted kidnapping the two children.

Barbara Grimm, 24, of Tulare, Calif., was taken into custody after a man who had befriended her became suspicious and telephoned police.

Doctors later examined the baby girl, Diane Bradford, and reported she was unharmed.

Her brother, Clifton, was found in the Central Park zoo here Sunday and was identified Tuesday by their father, Clifton Bradford Sr., a mechanic.

Bradford, who reported the children missing during the week-end, told Washington he met a woman in a restaurant Friday, took her home to meet his family, and left her with the children while he and his wife went out for about 15 minutes. The woman and children were gone when they returned.

Police said the Grimm woman "has a mother complex" and had lost a baby of her own.

Kinmount Twins Celebrate 84th Birthdays

Identical twin brothers, Frederick and Robert Scheffee celebrated their 84th birthday together with their family and friends Monday in Kinmount.

The Scheffee twins were born to the late John Scheffee, an immigrant from Germany and his wife, the former Susan Kennedy of Peterborough in 1868 in Snowden township.

The twin boys grew up together on the farm of their parents and spent most of their time with one another. Their first job together they recall was with the logging company in Gelert; and when they weren't logging they were building shantys along the Trent Canal System.

Following their work with various logging concerns in the Peterborough area; they went to work for the Smith Mill and later at the Austin Mill in Kinmount.

In 1895 Frederick married Estalla Siloers of Kinmount, who at the present time is 75 years old; and they have a family of five, three girls and two boys. They are: William and Vivian Scheffee, both of Haliburton town, Mrs. Albert Belfry (Hazel) of Kinmount, Mrs. George Armstrong (Laura) of Fenelon Falls and Mrs. Wallace Woods (Lottie) deceased; and two great great grandchildren, 26 great grandchildren and 17 grandchildren. But Robert remained single, and is still a confirmed bachelor today.

Both Robert and Frederick have been retired for the past nine years and they have their own homes in Kinmount. They spend most of their spare time gardening and raising flowers, which is their main interest.

TWIN BROTHERS, Robert and Frederick Scheffee, celebrated their 84th birthday together this week at the home of Mrs. Alfred Belfry on Monday in Kinmount. Mrs. Belfry is a daughter of Frederick, who has four children, 17 grandchildren, 26 great-grandchildren, and two great-great-grandchildren. Robert has remained single.

City To Pay

west of the CNR, largely occupied already by domestic, commercial and industrial sites.

Opinion was expressed that the Lansdowne St. lateral water line may be self-sustaining from the outset.

On the other hand, as Ald. Rehill remarked, benefits of the entire investment by the city may not accrue in their evnetual substance until the 15-year debentures have been retired. By that time, they have been paid for by the city's initiative, and the larger and permanent income will fall to the Commission.

That was freely recognized, but according to Ald. Graham's roseate prediction "it will only be a few years until that section is largely built up."

Acting-Mayor Miller said he had spent some time at the weekend looking over the Dickson farm (on the east side of Armour Road) "and it strikes me as being better subdivision property than some others that have already been built up in the city."

FIRE HYDRANTS

Ald. Syd Black asked how many fire hydrants would be required in that area.

"It can't be more than a few needed," Acting Mayor Miller replied. "We pay the Commission $40 a year rental for each hydrant. Anyway, that should be income credited to the mains."

Ald. Dewart said: "The $51,000 takes us from Maria St. to Downer's Corners, and the Commission go on from there."

"They feel that the Lansdowne St. lateral will pay for itself (in new connections)" the chairman sand.

For some years, city residents on Lansdowne St., and the owners of Club Aragon and the Moldaver lumber plant have been petitioning the council to give them a water service. Crossing the river was the main problem to the Utilities Commission, plus the cost involved in running a main east on Lansdowne and beyond the CNR.

City council had replied on their part that water service was a responsibility of the Commission, but eventually it curled up on the doorstep of the City Hall.

Fire protection for the neighborhood, it was said, should bring some adjustment in property insurance rates.

Can't Buy Love With Money Author-Priest Declares

"The United States has the idea that if you give people enough money you can make them love you, but now they're wondering who does love them.

"You can't make people love you by giving them money. There's only one way to make people love you and that's to love them first."

These were the words of the Rev. Daniel Lord, SJ., United States author, playwright, producer and lecturer, who drew gales of laughter and frequent outbursts of applause from an audience of more than 700 people in St. Peter's school auditorium Tuesday night.

References to cartoons, popular magazines, movies, TV and musical comedies were all grist for Father Lord's mill as he kept the constant attention of his audience throughout his 75-minute lecture on the subject "I Just Can't Love My Neighbor."

The speaker was thoroughly optimistic in his opinion that the present age was one of the greatest in history.

"I don't believe that any more wonderful things have ever happened than have happened in the last 50 years," he said. "People used to talk about 'Come the revolution,' but now the revolution has come; it's come in a hundred different ways.

"Look how the attitude towards unions and towards minorities has changed. If the attitude towards negroes in my country changes as much in the next 20 years as it has in the last 20, it will be the biggest social revolution in our history.

"One of the biggest changes that has come about in your country and mine is that God has come back into public life. I am absolutely convinced that we are on the verge of one of the greatest opportunities we've ever had —chiefly by default, because the other side has failed so miserably.

"For an age that talks so much about love, we probably know the least about it. The word 'love' scares us to death. Yet the Lord laid down love as the whole program of the church. At the beginning of Christianity there was a burst of love the like of which has never been seen since. A small group of men conquered the world with love.

"Unless you love God you can't love your neighbor and if you love God you just can't help loving your neighbor because He loves them all.

"Who is your neighbor? He's the Communist, the prison camp guard, the Jap, the Russian, the Jugoslav, the North Korean. You may be an Irishman and suddenly be struck by the fact that you have to love an Englishman. You may be a white man and have to love a Negro or you may be a Negro and have to love a white man — and that's harder.

"The Lord said: 'Love your neighbor as yourself.' Everything you do during the day is an act of love—providing yourself with food, a place to live, a chance to get married, the desire for truth and the hope of heaven. If you love your neighbors you'll hope and pray for the same things for them—that's all.

"Would anybody deny people that? Yes they would, because of prejudice. We make judgments before we know the facts. Whole classes of people have been denied their rights because they have been prejudged."

Father Lord referred to a letter he had recently received from a missionary in Central Africa who said that in Kenya "the chickens were coming home to roost."

"If the whites live to tell the tale, they'll say that they brought it on themselves," he said.

"I think a Communist is a man who had the courage to step in where a good Catholic failed," the speaker said. "It's about time we began to realize that the world's not going to be saved by power, money or hate.

"Parents, love your children. Love your boss no matter how big a pain in the neck he is and hope that he'll be a success so that you'll keep your job," the speaker concluded.

Father Lord was introduced by the Rev. J. O'Sullivan, spiritual director of the provincial committee on good literature, and thanked by Separate School Inspector J. C. Doyle. Chairman for the evening was Mrs. W. H. Toal, president of the Peterborough Dicosean Council of the Parent - Teachers Association, which sponsored the address.

Woman To Run Against Bennett

VANCOUVER (CP)—A woman candidate representing the Progressive Conservative party will run against Premier W. A. C. Bennett in the British Columbia general election June 9.

Mrs. E. C. Weddell, Kelowna housewife and grandmother, filed papers for the Progressive Conservatives in South Okanagan Tuesday, just before the close of official nominations. Her move makes it a four-party fight in the constituency of the Social Credit premier.

"I'll give Mr. Bennet a good run for his money," said Mrs. Wedell, wife of a barrister, as she joined the Liberal and CCF candidates in filing papers.

A total of 229 candidates contest the 48 seats when voters go to the polls for the second time in less than a year to elect a provincial government. The total of candidates for the last election was 212, then a record.

Premier Bennett's minority government, in power only nine months, was defeated on the floor of the legislature March 28 on an issue involving the sharing of education costs between the provincial government and municipalities.

Find Fright Helps Some TB Patients

By RENNIE TAYLOR

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Fright apparently is good medicine for some tubercular people.

Several cases in which a good scare favorably turned the course of treatment for sanatorium patients were reported to the National Tuberculosis Association today by a group of Seattle physicians.

The frightening episodes were brought on accidentally, but the results were so striking that the doctors now plan to use it scientifically as an experimental means of treatment.

This strange finding was the result of experiments to determine what part the adrenal gland plays in the role of the disease. The work was done by Dr. Edmund R. Clark, Dr. Daniel W. Zahn and Dr. Thomas H. Holmes of Firland Sanatorium, Seattle.

The adrenal glands, cap-like formations atop the kidneys, produce adrenalin, a hormone which the body uses in large quantities during periods of anger, fright or other forms of mental stress. During calm periods this hormone is produced and utilized at relatively low levels.

VARIED WIDELY

The Seattle doctors measured the amount of adrenal activity of 109 patients by chemical tests. They found that it varied widely according to the individuals' mental state.

People with basically low levels of adrenal activity, they found, appeared to have more serious TB cases than those with high levels. Low adrenal functioning went along with discouragement and apathy. A high rate was accompanied by tenseness, rapid heartbeat, high blood pressure, sweating of the palms and restlessness.

One patient, Dr. Clarke said, was being kept alive by great effort, and a part of the treatment included injections with a hypodermic needle. He became so angered at being jabbed repeatedly with the needle that his adrenal functioning took a big jump. Anger affects the adrenals much the same as fright. The patient now is on the road to recovery.

Another patient with low adrenal activity was being prepared for a minor lung operation. His fellow patients kidded him into believing that the doctors were going to take a whole lung, not just a small part of it. He became so scared that his adrenal activity soared. This "lift" helped him through with flying colors, Dr. Clarke said.

Unemployment Drops

NUERNBERG, Germany (CP)—West German unemployment has reached its lowest level for more than six months in the first half of this month, dropping by 37,363 to 1,196,976, federal labor statistics showed today. Increased building and more work on the farms caused the fall.

Admits Starting Fire

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—A 14-year-old girl has admitted starting the $1,000,000 fire which gutted the Sears-Roebuck store Tuesday "because she had an urge," Mrs. Eula Farrow, superintendent of the juvenile detention home, said. Mrs. Farrow said the girl made a statement saying she started the fire in a pile of shoe boxes and tissue paper.

Woman Found Dead In Her Lindsay Home

CALL 3-POWER MEETING IN BERMUDA

29 Counties Affected By Hog Ban

Peterborough County Included Under New Embargo

OTTAWA (CP)—The agriculture department today imposed a ban on the outward movement of all hogs in southwestern Ontario because of hog cholera.

The embargo, which covers 29 counties stretching east and north from the Niagara peninsula, was imposed in an attempt to keep the disease from spreading.

The area covers about one-third of the province, and embraces all of the area west and south of Muskoka, Haliburton, Peterborough and Northumberland, including these four counties.

As the ban was announced, the department also reported a case of the virus infection has been uncovered in Simcoe county. This makes nine cases confirmed in seven counties since the original outbreak was spotted last Friday.

SALES BARN SOURCE

All confirmed cases have been traced back to the sales barns where the swine originally infected were purchased, the department said. So far, there has been no farm-to-farm spread.

But federal veterinarians said there is a "great danger" if farmers delay in reporting hog sickness.

In the current outbreak, 27 days had elapsed between the time the originally-infected hogs were purchased from a sales barn and the time they were reported sick.

FORCES RALLIED

In its drive to eradicate the disease which hits hogs only, the department has suspended its tuberculosis eradication program in southwestern Ontario, switching veterinarians in that area to hog cholera investigation activities.

Federal health of animals authorities emphasized there are three vital points in the fight to keep the disease from spreading: agreement by farmers to report all sick hogs promptly; reduction of hog movements to an absolute minimum; and a halt on visitors to livestock premises.

"HAPPY HUNDREDTH BIRTHDAY, GRANDPA," were just a few of the many good wishes for William O'Brien of Downeyville who reached the century mark of his natal day today. Two of his granddaughters, Mrs. Walter Williamson of Hawkesbury (left) and Mrs. Harold (Shag) Shaughnessy of Ottawa, together with 30 or more relatives gave him a family dinner. Mr. O'Brien received many congratulatory telegrams and a cable from Pope Pius. Hydro power, hence the lamp gift, is being turned on today at his Downeyville homestead. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

Rangers Seek Doug Bentley

TORONTO (CP)—A city paper says in a sports page story today that Doug Bentley has been offered a job as assistant coach of New York Rangers of the National Hockey League. It adds that Doug may take his brother, Max, property of Toronto Maple Leafs, along to line up with the Blueshirts.

The story adds:

"Max, who left the Leafs under strained circumstances last spring, revealed by telephone from the home of a friend in Saskatoon Wednesday night that if his injured back continued to heal as it has since he went home, he would like to come back for more hockey. He admitted, though Ranger manager Frank Boucher, also in Saskatoon, had been closemouthed about it just a few hours before, that Doug had been offered the job of assistant playing coach.

"That would be contingent on the retirement of the present coach, Bill Cook. It has been anticipated that Cook will retire."

Rob Queen's Cousin Of Family Heirlooms

LONDON (Reuters) — A thief broke into the home of the Marquis of Carisbrooke, cousin of the Queen, early today and helped himself to family heirlooms while the family slept undisturbed.

The marquis himself is in hospital recovering from a brain operation but Lady Carisbrooke and four servants were in the house at the time.

The thief pried two diamond eyes from a Chinese jade elephant and gathered up gold and silver trinkets, snuff boxes and other valuables.

More Mayors Plan Enter Plowing Match

TORONTO (CP)—More Ontario mayors will probably enter the plowing match for mayors this year than last, F. A. Lashley, secretary-manager of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, said today.

He said several mayors have announced intentions of plowing against Mayor Allan Lamport of Toronto, last year's winner. The match will be held during the international plowing match Oct. 6-9, near Port Hope.

Eisenhower Offered Deal To Free Oatis

WASHINGTON (CP)—Communist Czechoslovakia, in freeing AP correspondent William N. Oatis, acted six weeks after President Eisenhower offered to consider easing trade and travel restrictions aimed at the Czechs.

The White House Wednesday night released copies of messages exchanged between Eisenhower and new Czech President Antonin Zapotocky.

Eisenhower's message, dated March 30, told Zapotocky that if he would release Oatis, the U. S. would be willing to negotiate lifting of sanctions imposed against Czechoslovakia when the newspaper man was jailed 25 months ago.

Zapotocky's reply, dated May 15, informed Eisenhower that Oatis was being pardoned on that day and would not have to complete the rest of his 10-year sentence on conviction of "spying."

U. S. Ambassador George Wadsworth and Czech Premier Siroky handled the exchange between the two chief executives.

ASK TERMINATION

The Czech government through its controlled radio today called for the U. S. to terminate its economic restrictions against the country now that Oatis is free.

Radio Prague, heard in Vienna, broadcast the text of the notes to Czech listeners and quoted an editorial from the Czech Communist party organ Rude Pravo, calling on Eisenhower to lift the sanctions.

In his public announcement of Oatis' freeing May 15, Zapotocky had said he acted on a direct appeal for mercy from Mrs. Oatis. At that time the state department said "there wasn't any deal" between the U. S. and Czechoslovakia to free the newspaper man.

The White House also said Wednesday night that a week before Oatis was released, State Secretary Dulles "made diplomatic representations" to the Czech government.

Oatis, on his return to the U. S. Monday, declined to say whether he served the U. S. government in any capacity while he was Associated Press correspondent at

Wm. O'Brien 100 Years Old High Mass Said In His Honor

William O'Brien of Downeyville is 100 years old today. His relatives, and friends among the clergy, gathered at Club Aragon today noon at a dinner in his honor. This morning a solemn high mass—high honor for a layman—was said for him at St. Martin's Church, Downeyville. A special blessing from Pope Pius arrived and was read to him by Bishop Gerald Berry of Peterborough. And on the sly, Mr. O'Brien drove his car around the barn to say he'd been able to drive on his 100th birthday. All in all, it was a great day for the alert old man who drove a car regularly until two years ago. At that time he was believed to be the oldest active and licensed driver in the country.

Since then, his step has lost some of its spring, but his blue eyes are as alert as ever, though he admits they don't see as well as they did. That's one reason he doesn't drive any longer.

DOESN'T WORRY

Dressed in his best blue suit, with a red rose in his buttonhole, Mr. O'Brien smiled as he repeated his "secret" for living to a great age.

"Too many people worry. I've always lived so I wouldn't have to worry, and that's helped me live this long. Besides that, I've had wonderful health. Why, until eight years ago I didn't know what a cold was."

For couples about to marry, Mr. O'Brien had this advice: live within your means. "If a man goes ahead and tries to run before he can walk; if he gets into debt too far, then he must worry, and that won't help him be either happy or healthy."

A farmer until he retired more than 30 years ago, Mr. O'Brien lives on his homestead a few miles east of Downeyville. In his younger days, one of his principal crops was barley, which he hauled to Peterborough and sold to the distilleries.

"They paid the best price, so I sold it to them," he said.

DAUGHTER SURVIVING

The years have been kind to him, although of four children only one daughter survives—Mrs. Mary Garvey, with whom he lives. There are 14 grandchildren, and 26 great-grandchildren.

As he walked toward the dining table, he remarked:

"I've still a wonderful appetite. I'll bet I eat more than you do."

Russia's Peace Offensive May Be New Threat: Pearson

WINNIPEG (CP)—An urgent warning that Russia's latest peace offensive may cloak a calculated move to undermine the unity of the free world was voiced Wednesday by External Affairs Minister Pearson. Speaking at a Canadian Club luncheon, he called for a "wide-awake, wait-and-see attitude and judgment based on deeds, not words." Mr. Pearson said it would be a tragedy if unity of the West became "obscured, soured or weakened by internal quarreling." This may be the victory towards which Communist forces are working, he added.

"We would be unwise to believe the objectives of the Communists have been altered, even if the tactics have," he said. "But this change may almost mean a change of strategy and policy and if so, we must take full advantage of it."

Friendly words might be propaganda only, he stated. The Kremlin may soften up its own attitudes to charge the United States with war-mongering.

It may be their belief that a peace might mean a recession and eventual collapse among capitalistic countries. Such a situation could mean high tariffs and restrictive policies, Mr. Pearson said. Lower standards would take shape and economic disputes would be more frequent—all of this would mean the end of political co-operation.

Drive Off Reds

SEOUL (AP)—Counter-attacking South Korean infantry today threw 150 to 200 Chinese Reds off an eastern front ridge after 12 hours of close quarter see-saw fighting.

The Chinese swarmed up the slopes and seized the western end of the 300-yard-long ridge shortly before midnight.

Admiring Britons Hunt Mounties

LONDON (Reuters)—The tables have been turned on the 46 RCMP here for the Coronation. Used to man hunting, they themselves now are being hunted—by hundreds of admiring Britons.

The Mounties have received a flood of requests to visit private homes, schools and shows.

Samples:

The organizers of 20 street Coronation parties want a Mountie each.

A 12-year-old boy in Carlisle, Scotland, wants a red-coat to spend a night with him, "or at least come to tea."

Horse shows in half-a-dozen large cities want the Mounties to stage their famous musical ride or riding exhibitions.

"It would be impossible for us to accept all the requests we've received," said an RCMP officer.

"We'd be tickled to relax a little, but the 46 men and 46 horses will be tied up until the end of June."

Russia Has 1,000 Bombers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia now has between 900 and 1,000 planes in operating units of its long-range bombing force, according to a new estimate of Soviet war power.

These are described as TU-4 four-engined bombers, an improved version of the U. S. Air Force's B-29. They represent only those aircraft in organized, ready-to-operate squadrons.

The 900-to-1,000 figure does not include bombers in production or in reserve.

The TU-4s are considered capable of reaching virtually any large industrial city in the U. S. with atomic bombs.

The calculations of Soviet warmaking capabilities place the number of Red interceptor planes in operationally-ready units at several thousand. Actually, these figures are fairly definite, but the exact numbers used in official estimates may not be disclosed.

Trouble-Shooting Envoy Sent To Egypt By Britain

LONDON (AP)—Britain today suddenly switched a trouble-shooting diplomat from behind the Iron Curtain to take charge of her mission in Egypt as Anglo-Egyptian relations worsened.

The foreign office announced that Robert Hankey, minister to Hungary, has been ordered to fly to Cairo next week to take over from Ambassador Sir Ralph Stevenson, returning to Britain on sick leave.

Stevenson, together with General Sir Brian Robertson, commander-in-chief of British land forces in the Middle East, headed Britain's negotiating team at talks with Egyptian leaders on the future status of the British garrison in the Suez canal zone.

The talks were suspended last week.

The foreign spokesman described Hankey's move as "a temporary emergency measure."

Stevenson, he said, eventually will return to Cairo as ambassador.

Meantime the foreign office confirmed that its embassy in Cairo has advised british civilians in Egypt they should leave the country if they have no pressing business to keep them there. The step was taken as a long-term precautionary measure because British authorities feli it is possible relations between the two countries may worsen to the point where lives of Britons will be endangered.

Big Three To Discuss World Crisis

Churchill Hints Later Meeting With Russian Leader

WASHINGTON — (CP) — Prime Minister Churchill, President Eisenhower and Premier Mayer of France will meet in Bermuda in June to discuss world problems, it was announced today.

In Paris, Mayer said the conference would discuss the feasibility of a later conference at which Russia would be represented.

The meeting will be held at the invitation of President Eisenhower. Churchill suggested Bermuda as the meeting place.

(In London, Reuters reported the date would be June 17.)

However, the Washington announcement did not mention any specific date. It said merely that the meeting would be held the latter part of June.

Announcement of the agreement to hold the Bermuda meeting was made at about the same time in London, Washington and Paris.

Churchill told the House of Commons arrangements are being made for the meeting to be held shortly after June 15 although the exact date had not yet been settled.

HOPES FOR PROGRESS

Churchill said he hoped the meeting would enable the big three to "take a definite step forward to a meeting of far graver import."

This was presumably a reference to a possible big four conference with Premier Malenkov of Russia attending. Churchill had previously indicated in his major foreign policy speech in the Commons that he favors a face-to-face meeting of Western and Communist leaders to discuss world problems.

Mayer seemed to agree with this viewpoint. He said the big three meeting could create a unity of views which would permit a reunion with Russia and contacts between East and West.

Denies Ships Carried Reds

HONG KONG (AP)—An official of a British steamship company today denied accusations by a U. S. congressional committee that the firm had transported Communist troops.

F. H. Horman-Fisher, Hong Kong manager of the Wheelock Marden Company, said neither his company nor any other British shipping concern he knows of has carried Communist troops.

Horman-Fisher's statement was issued in reply to testimony before a sub-committee headed by Senator Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin that two British-owned ships were used to transport Red troops along the Chinese coast. The committee was told these vessels later were hired to carry U. S. mutual security administration goods.

Horman-Fisher said the Communists seized three Wheelock Marden ships and are using them in China trade.

"They were confiscated when we tried to withdraw them from China in August, 1951," he said. "We have no control over them. They are the steamships Norina, Romantico and Miramar."

N.Z. Prime Minister Arrives In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—S. G. Holland, New Zealand's prime minister, flew into Ottawa today and was greeted by Defence Minister Claxton as acting prime minister and by an RCAF guard of honor

Mr. and Mrs. Holland are spending four days in Canada en route to the Coronation.

The prime minister's schedule calls for a talk with Mr. Claxton and a reception and dinner today, a press conference, a talk with Transport Minister Chevrier and a government luncheon Friday

On Saturday the visitors will motor to the Seigniory Club at Montebello, Que., and will leave by plane from Montreal for London.

N.S. Siamese Twins Die Suddenly From Toxaemia

INVERNESS, N.S. (CP)—A young woodworker who hurriedly put together an incubator for Siamese twin boys born Tuesday, today began preparing a casket for their burial. The twins, first born of 19-year-old Mrs. Max Wyrwas, wife of a garage mechanic, lived 33 hours following their birth by caesarean section. They appeared in good condition until within 45 minutes of their death at 6:45 p.m. ADT Wednesday. Edwin MacLean, husband of one of the nurses present at the delivery of the twins, was asked to fashion the casket because the local undertaker hadn't a coffin of the right size.

Death came as a surprise to doctors, who had found the babies gaining in strength following a brief relapse by the smaller one early in the day. They said the black-haired boys died from toxaemia, a poisoning condition found in pregnant women.

Dr. Frank MacLeod, chief surgeon at Inverness County Memorial Hospital, said in a statement following the death that "there was perfect formation of all organs."

"There was one liver and each baby had only one kidney, larger than normal. They were joined by the rib cartilages. In all ways they were identical to the original Siamese twins." Examination showed the twins' hearts were encased in a single heart sac.

Death was almost simultaneous. The larger of the two boys began to slip first, forcing a heavy burden upon the delicate smaller one, who required four to five minutes of artificial respiration at birth.

Doctors worked for 30 minutes in an unsuccessful attempt to revive the two face-to-face figures, who weighed a total of 13 pounds.

Mrs. Wyrwas was told of the death late in the evening by Rev. Carman Riggs of the United Church.

Arrest Warrant Nailed On Ship

MONTREAL (CP)—The former lake freighter Anticosti, bearing a new name, lay at her berth today with an arrest warrant nailed against her bridge.

Five foreign seamen took out the warrant Wednesday through the marine division of the exchequer court.

Captain J. M. Watson is master of the freighter, renamed the George Hindman, and is representing the owner, Howard Hindman of Owen Sound. He described the seamen's action as "an obvious attempt to breach the agreement signed before the ship sailed from Genoa."

Marcel Gaboury, lawyer for the seamen, said the dispute is over wages.

Anti-Sub Warship

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian warship boasting radical new anti-submarine design, sails from Esquimalt Friday to give the crew a chance to get to know her. She is due at Halifax Aug. 6. The ship is the former destroyer Algonquin which has been completely revamped to make her into a virtual equivalent of any of the 14 new anti-submarine escort vessels now on order from Canadian shipyards.

150,000 Workers Laid Off As Strike Cuts Supplies

DETROIT (AP) — Layoffs engulfed or threatened 150,000 or more auto workers today as half a dozen major manufacturers reported their flow of parts choked off by supplier strikes.

Ford, Chrysler, Studebaker, Willys, Nash and International Harvester all figured in the mushrooming production cuts.

They attributed their moves to three supplier strikes: at Ford's Canton, O., forge plant, at Borg-Warner's Warner gear division plant at Muncie, Ind., and at the Budd Company car body stamping plant here in Detroit.

This was the situation:

Ford laid off an unannounced number of employees at its big Rouge plant in neighboring Dearborn Wednesday and said that was the start of layoffs which will make idle 85,000 employees across the country within the next five days. The company said a month-long tie-up at its key Canton plant had cut off its only source of forgings for cars and trucks.

27,000 SENT HOME

Chrysler sent 27,000 employees home from its Chrysler, De Soto and Dodge assembly plants here Wednesday. It said a jurisdictional dispute at the Budd plant had halted the inflow of car bodies. About 8,000 Budd workers were idle.

Studebaker, Willys, Nash and International Harvester all said the Warner gear strike, also a month old, was hurting them.

Studebaker announced Wednesday night it was cutting from three-shift to one shift operations next Monday because of a lack of transmissions normally supplied by Warner. Only cars with automatic transmissions will be assembled, the company said. It was uncertain, a spokesman said, how many of Studebaker's 3,000 workers might be affected.

Willys halted all car production and completed the layoff of 8,500 workers Wednesday for a lack of transmissions. Another 3,000 employees in non-auto divisions were kept on the job.

Some 4,400 Nash workers at Milwaukee and Kenosha, Wis., plants have been idle since Monday because of the Warner strike.

International Harvester has laid off more than 3,000 production workers at Springfield, O., for the same reason.

France Heads For 19th New Government

PARIS (Reuters)—France appeared headed for yet another change of government today with collapse of Premier Rene Mayer's administration virtually certain before nightfall.

Downfall of Mayer's government, France's 18th since the war will come this afternoon, observers agree, on a vote in the Chamber of Deputies on the premier's request for special powers to solve the country's current financial crisis.

PARIS (CP)—The National Assembly today toppled France's 18th post-liberation cabinet by refusing to give Premier Rene Mayer a vote of confidence.

Mayer has been in office since the beginning of the year.

The 87-strong Gaullist group decided to vote against his request.

WANT CHANGE

Gaullist spokesmen said that between 60 and 70 of their members were unanimous in wanting a change of government.

Mayer has made his financial reform bill a confidence test. Party leaders will announce their attitudes after the premier has made a statement. Then the motion will be voted.

The debate has been going on since Monday. Mayer is asking for authority to make economies and reform the administration, reorganizing the nationalized industries and cutting down the subsidies to producers of spirits.

Keep Abbott On Finances

OTTAWA (CP)—Douglas Abbott may be weary of his job but he likely will face the next general election as finance minister and not in some other portfolio, it was learned today.

There had been speculation that the 54-year-old Montreal lawyer might switch portfolios with Justice Minister Garson as part of a pre-election cabinet shuffle.

But today, as Mr. Abbott returned from a week's fishing, there were indications he likely will keep his present portfolio to facilitate presentation of the government's fiscal arguments during the election campaign. The election is expected in August.

However, Mr. Abbott has presented seven budgets and he has said he won't bring down another. He likely will be shifted to some other portfolio after the election if the Liberals return to power.

Have No Explanation For Sinking Of Tug

TIMAGAMI, Ont. (CP) Police said today there was no apparent explanation for the sinking of the lumber tug White Bear in Rabbit lake three weeks ago with four men aboard.

The $30,000 vessel, which went down April 30 in 150 feet of water, was raised earlier this week. There was no sign of the crew.

Workers repairing the tug said it was not damaged. Previously, it had been reported the tug blew up and sank with the four crew aboard.

Joint Action To Combat Stock Frauds

New York State, Ontario Decide On Moves

NEW YORK (CP)—Ontario and New York State agreed Wednesday on joint action to combat fraudulent stock sales across the Canadian border and encourage legitimate Canadian promotions.

Effective at once, the agreement provides that:

1. The Ontario securities commission will revoke the registration of any Canadian stock dealer violating New York Laws in the sale of securities.

2. The commission and the New York attorney-general will co-operate in investigations and prosecutions in cases of fraudulent practices.

3. The New York securities bureau will accept registrations of Ontario dealers heretofore barred from New York.

ANNOUNCE AGREEMENT

The agreement, to continue for two years, was announced at a joint press conference held by Attorney-General Dana Porter of Ontario and Attorney-General Nathaniel L. Goldstein of New York.

Goldstein estimated that stock racketeering has drained $500,000,000 in the last 10 years from unwary U. S. investors. He disclosed that 357 Canadian securities companies have been enjoined from stock sales in New York since 1944.

(Financial circles in Toronto greeted news of the agreement with enthusiasm.

One broker with 27 years experience said it will be good news for people actually trying to develop a mine, who are sincere in their efforts.

NOBODY HURT

"Everybody's happy on the street," he said. "The legitimate people are not hurt.")

Porter and Goldstein emphasized that there is nothing wrong in selling highly speculative stock to exploit the undeveloped Canadian hinterland as long as dealers do not misrepresent the risk.

The officials described typical operations they are seeking to end. Stock promoters, many of them Americans, have set up offices in Toronto. From there they place long-distance calls to gullible investors in Buffalo, Rochester and New York, offering high returns on "penny stocks."

While these highly-speculative stocks have a fair market value of approximately 25 cents a share, the dealers frequently sell them to U. S. customers for $1 a share. The difference is pocketed by the dealers, leaving the prospecting company with little chance of paying off profitably unless it has exceptionally good luck.

If the company strikes it rich, Goldstein said, the promoter finds ways of shuffling the investor out of the deal by recapitalizing.

Civic Union Plans Ask For Conciliation

KITCHENER (CP)—Jack Rutherford, president of the Kitchener City Workers' Union, told city council Wednesday night that the union will apply to the Ontario labor relations board for conciliation if council decides it can go no further in negotiations with his members.

Council ruled against any wage increases for city workers above those allowed in the recent job evaluation of civic positions. Members say the cost of living has not risen since 1952 and they see no justification for raises.

The union is seeking a 40-hour week and an increase for workers receiving the basic wage rate of $1.15 an hour. These employees received no increase in pay under the recent job evaluation survey.

Prague. He said he would stand on the record of his trial for the time being.

DENIES SPYING

Wednesday night, however, he issued a statement in New York in which he denied ever spying for the American embassy while a newspaper man in Czechoslovakia.

He said "the cause of my trouble" was that he got news tips from sources other than official Czech news outlets, then checked them with the U. S. Embassy in an effort to gain more information.

Such practice is routine in Western countries, he said, but under Czech law "can be construed . . . to be espionage."

His purpose in going to the U.S. embassy, Oatis said, was to get information—not to give it.

5,000 Troops To Take Part In Ottawa Celebration

OTTAWA (CP)—Mammoth celebration symbolizing Canads homage are planned for the national capital on Coronation Day

While similar festivities will be held across the country, the observance of the Queen's Coronation led by the governor-general, is the nation's recognition of a supreme royal event.

Activities will centre in front of the Peace Tower against an impressive backdrop formed by the Parliament Buildings and surrounded by acres of lawn and flowers. A large platform is being erected in front of the tower.

Early on June 2 church bells and factory whistles throughout the city will sound at the exact time the crown is placed on the head of the sovereign.

TROOPING THE COLOR

A 11:30 a.m. trooping of the colors on Parliament Hill will take place by the Governor General's Foot Guards, but it will not be until the afternoon that observances really get under way.

All available armed forces personnel in the Ottawa area will parade for the national ceremony.

Taking part will be a 300-man RCN contingent from Halifax, together with 1,700 troops from the Royal Canadian Dragoons (Petawawa), 2nd battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment (London, Ont.), 2nd Canadian Rifle Battalion (Ipperwash, Ont.) 2nd battalion, the Royal 22nd Regiment (Quebec City), 2nd Canadian Infantry Battalion (Valcartier), 26th Central Ordnance Depot (Ottawa) and the Royal Canadian School of Artillery (Picton, Ont). Another 875 officers and men will represent the Canadian Army reserve force from Ottawa.

From the Ottawa area will come 1,750 RCAF members, and 250 more will come from Trenton, Ont.

VARIETY OF BANDS

Military bands will be provided by the RCMP, Royal Canadian Regiment, Royal Canadian Corps of Signals (Kingston), Governor General's Foot Guards, the RCN and the RCAF.

Pipe bands will represent the Black Watch (Royal Highlanders of Canada, Montreal), the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders (Hamilton), the Cameron Highlanders, Ottawa, and the RCAF.

Bugle and trumpet bands will come from the Governor-General's Foot Guards, 26th Central Ordnance Depot, 2nd Canadian Signals Regiment (Toronto) and the Royal Canadian Dragoons (Petawawa).

Altogether, approximately 5,000 troops will participate in parades and massed band concerts

The national ceremony on Parliament Hill begins at 3:45 p.m., preceded by 15-minute carillon program from the Peace Tower.

PLEDGE ALLEGIANCE

At 3 p.m. the city council will meet Governor-General Vincent Massey at the gates of his home, Rideau Hall, pledge allegiance to the Queen, offer him free passage through city streets and escort his party to Parliament Hill. He will travel in an open carriage, horse drawn, direct to the steps of the Peace Tower where he will receive a royal salute from the Foot Guards.

His Excellency will make a brief inspection of his guards at this stage, and the bands will play Coronation music specially written for presentation in Westminster Abbey that day—the "Orb and Sceptre" by Sir William Walton.

VICE-REGAL ADDRESS

Then the governor-general will speak in both French and English. On a fanfare of trumpets, his standard is to be lowered and the Royal Standard broken out at the masthead. At this His Excellency will announce "Her Majesty, the Queen," and a public address system will relay the Queen's message to the assembled thousands.

After the address, the governor-general will call for three cheers from the crowd on the hill Following playing of "O Canada" and "God Save the Queen" the royal standard will be lowered, and the governor general's standard raised.

This will be the signal for the RCAF fly-past in which approximately 150 aircraft will take part, including 50 jets. In conjunction will be a 42-gun artillery salute. As the capital, Ottawa is entitled to a 42-gun salute; elsewhere in Canada it is a 21-gun.

The governor-general will move to a saluting base in front of the centre gate where the armed forces will march past.

From 8 p.m. until 9 p.m. massed bands will present a concert on Parliament Hill. Special selections by trumpet and pipe bands will highlight the performance.

CIVIC CELEBRATION

The civic celebration will take place the evening of Coronation Day. Starting at 8 p.m. a civic flotilla will leave Dow's lake and proceed by way of the Rideau canal to historic Confederation Square in the heart of the city. On the leading ship of the flotilla, consisting of approximately 20 vessels, will be the city council attired in their new robes.

The ceremony will centre around a platform in front of the national war memorial. It will be centred by a 50-foot totem pole bearing the arms of the provinces, surmounted by a crown. Flags of all Commonwealth countries will fly.

Deputy mayor Dan McCann (Mayor Whitton will be in England for the Coronation) will read a declaration of loyalty to Her Majesty. Bands will play and standard bearers of the Commonwealth countries will bear their flags to the platform.

At 10 p.m. fireworks will be set off along the canal bank. The civic flotilla will leave for Dow's lake at 10:30 p.m. and all vessels will carry flares and sparklers. The canal route will be framed in colored lights.

Federal authorities plan brilliant decorations along the route from Government House to the Peace Tower and additional decorations on all public buildings.

On all highways entering Ottawa special standards will be erected on 30-foot poles. These will consist of scarlet and gold banners, hanging from a central bar on each side of the flag staff and draped 12 feet below, topped by the royal cipher.

FLOAT-PLANE TRIAL ENDS

Mr. Justice McLennan on Wednesday reserved judgment on the civil action case in which Rockland Airways are suing Oscar McMillan and his wife for damages to the Rockland aircraft that crashed into hydro wires erected over a channel on Stony Lake. The Rockland partners—Tom Mathias, pilot of the aircraft, and George A. Stephens, Anstruther lumberman—are asking $7,902 damages. Alex Elliott, QC, counsel for the plaintiffs, and T. J. Carley, QC, counsel for the defendants, spent all Wednesday, presenting their complex legal arguments. It is understood that federal authorities are following the Peterborough case to see how they are affected by Mr. Justice McLennan's decision—particularly his interpretation of the Navigable Waters Protection Act. The action lasted for four days.

Britain Orders Inquiry On Ships

LONDON (Reuters)—The British government Wednesday night ordered a wide inquiry into the allegation made in Washington before a Senate committee Wednesday that two British ships carried Chinese Communist troops along the Chinese coast last year.

The foreign office, which said it had "no comment yet," asked the admiralty, ministry of transport and the colonial office to investigate the charges.

(Robert Kennedy, one of Senator Joseph McCarthy's investigators, told the Senate committee that the ships were owned by companies in Britain's island-colony of Hong Kong.)

The foreign office spokesman said: "We are trying to find out about these ships on the basis of press reports. We have not yet had a report from our ambassador in Washington."

1,250 Families Flee Floods

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP)—The wildly-spreading Calcasieu river swirled toward this southwest Louisiana port city today with the biggest flood threat in 40 years and drove 1,250 families from their homes.

High water elsewhere in Louisiana caused two drownings.

Volunteers with bulldozers and trucks sweltered in warm coastal temperatures during the night to push up small dirt dikes to halt slowly rising waters in residential areas in the eastern part of this city.

Fire trucks pumped at the river invasion which threatened the main highway linking nearby Lake Charles air force base with this city of 50,000.

Says Psychiatrist Seduced Her

LONDON (Reuters)—Curvaceous Myra Metcalfe, 27, accused her psychiatrist today of seducing her on "numerous occasions" while she was hypnotized.

Miss Metcalfe made her charges against Dr. Sidney Linton before a committee of Britain's general medical council. The council has power to end the doctor's medical career but not to order criminal penalties.

The short, bespectacled psychiatrist denied he ever attended the attractive plaintiff professionally or behaved improperly towards her. He admitted treating her five-year-old illegitimate child between 1949 and 1951.

Miss Metcalfe's counsel told the committee today:

"While under hypnosis, or while under the effects of it, or coming out of its influence, Mr. Linton had sexual intercourse with her in circumstances which I freely acknowledge must amount to rape."

Miss Metcalfe said that after being hypnotized in a standing position, she was carried to a bed where the psychiatrist made passionate love to her.

The hearing is continuing.

Favors Bold Colors For June Coronation

LONDON (Reuters)—Works Minister David Eccles thinks the new Elizabethan age should be expressed in bold colors. So there will be no pastel shades in Westminister Abbey for the Coronation.

With an artist's eye for color, he has persuaded the cabinet to put the army into navy blue walking-out dress for the procession.

Blue and gold will be the theme for the Abbey with crimson damask in a traditional design for the throne and cushions on the Coronation chair of estate.

But Eccles himself will appear at the Coronation in the subdued black and silver of a privy councillor's court dress.

Dry Summer For Britain

LONDON (CP) — Weather-buffeted Britons are in for a dry summer it's been predicted

The grim news comes from Ritchie Calder, science editor of the News Chronicle, who mercifully allowed some of the bright sunshine of spring to soak in before predicting a severe drought.

He says some places will be hard hit, because the fog, hail, flood and tempest of the vile winter just passed were accompanied by a 60-year record dry spell. Nor was there much snow to recharge lake and river reservoirs.

It's impossible to say how badly the country's natural water stocks are depleted, Calder says, because the government suspended the inland water survey. The economizing move will save a farthing a bead, about $140,000, he claims, against a potential drought loss of millions of pounds to industry and agriculture.

This year Dr. Laurier was Canadian winner of the scholarship. He will attend the Coronation as a representative of the Canadian Tuberculosis Association.

2 Marmora Men Back Home From Korea War

MARMORA (ENS).—Two Marmora homes were celebrating Wednesday afternoon and evening as a result of a reunion with a son of each family who stepped off the noon day bus after the long journey from Korea where he had served with the RCHA after a period of about 15 months. Both lads came of age in course of their active service there and happen to be cousins.

They are Carl Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Gray, and Kenneth Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Reynolds. Carl was with B Battery and Kenneth with A Battery of their unit. They arrived at Seattle, Wash., on May 15 for their unit to receive there and at other places en route a rousing welcome. At Marmora there was the welcome in large type, "Welcome Home, Son." One of Carl's first acts was to visit the Marmora Public School, where he had received his education, to visit his principal, E. C. Prentice.

There was nothing inviting to them in Korea compared with Japan where on a five days' leave they admired the beauty of its cities and flowers and where they acquired gifts to bring home as presents for the various members of their families. To them Korea was a big wilderness and some of its mountains great graveyards. They were chiefly in Northern and Eastern Korea and for the latter four months were with the American troops. As relatives and friends taxed the seating capacity of the two homes to extend their welcome, the mothers in each case gave expression to the old phrase, "It all seems like a dream." Among the souvenirs brought home from Tokyo by Carl is a walking stick which can be taken apart and converted into a bililard cue, while at the Reynolds among the various souvenirs is a music box. The boys are on a 60-day leave following which they report to Winnipeg, not knowing as yet what their next assignment will be.

Car Fender Clipped

When he was about to make a right hand turn at Aylmer and Murray Sts. about 9:15 p.m. Tuesday, Wilfred Rankin, 159 Stewart St., had the right front fender of his car clipped by a motor bicycle driven by Hugh Outram, 18, 728 Stewart St.

The motor bicycle jumped the sidewalk and came to a stop on a lawn. No one was injured.

Cobourg Plans For Coronation

COBOURG (ENS).—Practically every organization in town was represented at a meeting held in the council chamber last night to line up the program for the coronation celebration on June 2. Plans call for a dignified and solemn observance of the occasion which will start off with a parade from the public school grounds which will proceed to the park where patriotic songs will be sung by a massed school choir, with brief addresses and a short religious service.

The organiaztion meeting was in charge of Mayor Jack Burnet as chairman, and was attended by representatives of all the service clubs, town council, school boards, Legion, chamber of commerce, ministerial association, army units, sea cadets, boy scouts, Kilties Band, Allied Labor Council, parks board, public utilities and other groups and these will all be represented in the parade.

The parade will move off at 10 a.m. to the park where an address will be given by a member of the Ministerial Association and by the Rev. P. J. Collins of St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church. The program at the bandshell will conclude with prayer by the chaplain of the 33rd Medium Field Regiment, after which Judge M. A. Miller, county judge of Northumberland and Durham, will lead the assembly in the recital of the oath of allegiance. The program will be over by noon.

The committee ruled against a fireworks display in the evening because daylight saving delays the approach of dark to such a late hour that young children are kept up too late.

Two Cars Wrecked Driver Fined $15

BANCROFT (ENS)—An accident which wrecked two cars on Highway 28 on April 6 had a sequel in court when Lloyd Knapp of Maynooth was fined $15 and costs for careless driving.

A fine of $50 and costs was imposed on Hurson Card of Bancroft for driving while impaired.

Convicted of a liquor offence, Harry Lalone of L'Amable was fined $15 and costs.

Bernard Hickey of Maynooth was sentenced to 7 days and had his car license suspended for 3 months when convicted on a charge of drunk driving.

Report Sawchuk May Be Traded

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto paper said Wednesday that all-star goaltender Terry Sawchuk of Detroit Red Wings may be traded to New York Rangers of the National Hockey League.

The newspaper said in a sports page story:

"A tipoff that something could be stirring is an admission by Detroit Red Wing general manager Jack Adams that Frank Boucher of the New York Rangers, some time ago, made an inquiry as to what or how much Detroit would want for Sawchuk.

"Adams, in a telephone conversation, tended to minimize the Ranger overture but admitted that even Sawchuk had been concerned about talk that he would be traded."

The newspaper said rumors indicate the Wings would want seven players and $40,000 in cash for any Sawchuk trade.

$56,733 Raised Conservation Work

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian National Sportsmen's show this year raised $56,733 for the Toronto Anglers' and Hunters' Association to spend on conservation, Frank H. Kortright, president of the show and the association, said Wednesday night.

Income was $259,392 and surplus over expenditures is $72,463, he told members. The show was profitable in every department, except the dog shows, but even they lost less money, $600, than in 1952.

The association supported among other projects a wildfowl sanctuary in the Dundas marsh, a continuing survey of muskellunge population in the Bobcaygeon region and organization of the conservation council of Ontario.

Official City Hearts That Do Not Beat As One

A civic ring-a-round came full circle Tuesday evening when the City Council decided to back, financially, the construction of a water main from East City to Downer's Corners, east along Highway 7, within city limits. It happens that the financing and construction of water mains is the business of the Utilities Commission. That is why it exists. But the members of the Commission decided they would not build—off their own bat—this water main. The Council, whose business is not water mains, decided the thing should be constructed.

* * *

All one and the same, pretty well, as far as taxpayers and the actual construction go. The Commission's ratepayers are by and large the city taxpayers. Further, the Utilities people will do the work. The difference is that the Council, not the Commission, virtually ordered the construction, and the Commission has washed its hand of all financial risks.

* * *

We are not here arguing for or against the project. We are merely pointing out the nonsense in effecting it. The members of the Commission decided that it was not a proper paying proposition; that they should not in good conscience undertake the work lest other parts of the city and the ratepayers suffer financially. The City Council then took over what is in reality the Commission's business, and authorized the main.

* * *

Two aspects of this rigmarole should be examined, and assuredly have been examined by the Commission and the Council. The first is this: Is it good business? The Council, with an eye to encouraging an expanding industry, said yes; the majority of the Commission said no, not now. Well, then, is it good business in the long run? The City Council says yes. The Commission hedged. The second consideration is this: It is a necessary public service, in the interests of Peterborough? The City Council believed it was. The Commission apparently did not let this consideration enter into its decision. It has been content to let the City Council decide for it.

* * *

We should like to point out that while the Utilities Commission must operate in a businesslike way, it is not in business for profit; it must also operate as a public service. It, too, is an elected body. It must accept its responsibility in both regards: to operate efficiently, and also in the public interest both immediate and future. It has apparently taken instruction in this regard, right in its own field, from the City Council. If it has not, why has the Commission, as a public body with specialized business, not protested high, wide and loudly against the City Council's decision to do what it, the Commission, decided not to do? There is, of course, the possibility that the Council has erred in imposing its will—and underwriting the financial risk. Perhaps the Council is setting businesslike operation wholly at the mercy of public expedience. But if it has, why have we heard no protests from the Commission, the rightful custodian of such matters? Anyway, does the Commission not recognize that the Downer's Corners people are now in the city, wanting city service?

* * *

On the evidence and figures presented to Council, it seems that the Council has taken reasonably sound action which should have been the decision and responsibility of the Commission. We heartily dislike, however, the apparent shelving of responsibility by the Commission, and the intrusion of the City Council directly into Utilities matters. Undoubtedly there are some deep matters of policy involved. The Council, not the Commission, has a special interest in fostering and attracting new industry to the city. Underwriting the new water main is an inducement to a relatively small industry already in the city and moving rapidly into an expansive future.

Regionalism In Canadian Architecture

An article in the current issue of Canadian Art by a Vancouver architect, Douglas C. Simpson, makes two points about modern Canadian architecture worth pondering. "Our people, in attempting to justify national pride, have tended to ignore the importance of regional variations within the nation, particularly social ones." This is followed by the statement that "At the same time, we have magnified problems raised by differences of weather and temperature to such an extent that, despite the availability of simple technical solutions, we seem psychologically incapable of modifying certain pioneer or traditional elements of design, particularly those which had their origin in regional extremes of climate."

The two statements seem to be at cross-purposes. In the first he says we are not regional enough in our architecture, that we tend towards a Canadian uniformity everywhere in the country. In the second statement he seems to plead for a uniformity, based on modern architecture as developed for temperate climates—in Vancouver, for instance. He says that with simple new techniques, traditional design of houses in extreme climatic regions can be discarded for the new ones. The illustrations give point to the apparent contradiction, and explain it. They are all of Vancouver houses and office buildings. Yet the article is entitled "Towards Regionalism in Canadian Architecture." Does Mr. Simpson want every region to adopt B.C. design? Has no other region in Canada distinctive modern design? Must "modern design" be equated with B.C. new design—much glass, wooden walls, angular storeys, "ranch" houses?

We are quibbling unduly. Mr. Simpson really does look forward to greater regional variety in architecture, though his article gives little recognition to other than the B.C. phase—none to Quebec, for instance.

We agree with him that Canadian architecture, like other aspects of social and cultural life in Canada, can benefit from variety, by emphasizing regional differences rather than trying to level them. A richer Canadian life will result from a more varied cultivation of it. We are glad to have the professional assurance that newer designs can be adapted to withstand the wind, snow and heat which less-favoured parts of the country than the B.C. coast have to endure.

Shall we get the regional variety which the architect asks, if we use new technical tricks so that building here in this part of the country can resemble building in more temperate climates? Have the new B.C. (or Californian or Maryland) designs any rightful place in Quebec, Newfoundland or the Prairies? Mr. Simpson skirts the question, thus:

> "When people from the colder areas of Canada move to the more temperate climate of the coastal districts, their tendency is to adopt, with relief, an attitude of wanting minimum protection from the elements. But this attitude, in many instances, leads to technical exaggerations in construction . . ."
>
> "On the other hand, it is quite obvious to us on the West Coast that the opposite has occurred on the Prairies and in the East. Here both psychological and physical influences, such as the occasional howling blizzard, cause pioneer traditions in building to continue . . ."
>
> "Of course, it should be obvious that the architecture of British Columbia cannot be transplanted to eastern Canada and no one should want it so. The architects of Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa, Winnipeg and elsewhere in Canada are not incompetent by any means and have produced many fine examples of excellent Canadian architecture. But what they have accomplished in new work is submerged in the larger, more densely populated districts of the East, where it is not so easily noticed and experienced by the mass of the people."

So Mr. Simpson is not really arguing for B.C. architecture everywhere; he is asking for modern architecture, believing that architecture "should not be carried over from one era into another, any more than it should be blindly transplanted from one continent to another, or even from one region to another."

Is regional architecture possible today? Houses are mass produced. Few craftsmen work their art in the building. The materials are standardized. So are many of the plans; there seems to be very little difference between new B.C. houses and new houses elsewhere. Weather and local tradition used to dictate differences; modern design and techniques seem to dictate similarities, and easy, quick communications today have removed the insularity which made local idiosyncracies in building common and occasionally eyesores in the last century.

Don't Lose 'Bonaventure'

The new union railway depot in Montreal, we understand, is in some danger of being called "Central Station". We hope that no such misfortune will overtake it, for it stands near where the old Bonaventure Station stood, and it is fitting that it should bear the old name.

Why? Because that was the only railway station in the world to be called Bonaventure, and the name was a fitting and beautiful one. The original French expression was "bonne aventure", meaning "Good luck"; in French-Canadian usage it became Bonaventure. It said Good Luck to everyone who entered the city through it; it said Good Luck to all who left Montreal from its platforms. It was a pleasing, euphonious, individual name; it was everything, in fact, that Central Station is not.

If Montreal loses its Bonaventure Station all Canada is poorer. A Central Station could grow anywhere, but only Montreal had a Bonaventure. It was part of the charm of the city.

A Chinese Prisoner

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN
(with the Commonwealth Division in Korea)

THERE WAS a turmoil at the door. Men came crowding in out of the night. They were hushed and respectful. It was as if someone very important had arrived. The room was suddenly full of soldiers, and among them they carried a stretcher, almost shoulder high, and they laid it on a table under the bright hissing lanterns.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE REGIMENTAL Aid Post (which is the first-aid post) of the Durham Light Infantry in Korea is a place built of stout beams and sandbags. It is half embedded in the side of a hill. There are rough shelves for the little bottles and a camp bed for the orderly. The doctor has a table and telephone. There is the inevitable pile of paper-backed books, and the floor is of soft sand. It is not the earthy beastliness of "Journey's End"; it is almost cosy.

✧ ✧ ✧

HALF AN hour before they carried the stretcher into this place the telephone had rung. The battalion had a prisoner. He was wounded. He was still alive. He had been lying for twenty-four hours in no-man's-land. One of the patrols that go out every night had found him and were bringing him in.

Now a new prisoner is an important person in Korea. Those that are taken are usually wounded, and, when taken, seem to possess an effective desire for death. They have a loathing for the West that seems to produce much the same complications as severe shock in other men.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE MAN on the stretcher was a Chinese soldier. He was a barrel-chested young man, probably from Central China. He looked a man of infinite endurance, with a great heavy-boned face and tombstone teeth and a close-cropped skull. He lay on his back, high in a pool of light, surrounded by shadows. His nose and mouth and eyes were clotted with black blood. His teeth were bared, and he moaned rhythmically, sighing one word over and over again.

The medical corporal and the orderly were quite unexcited, performed a gentle ritual without orders. They opened his clothing. They cleaned his face with swabs of cotton wool. They moved him so that the doctor could see the wound in his neck. One stroked his hand to reassure him. Unbelievably, one lit a cigarette and held it to the Chinaman's lips and said: "Tab, Johnnie?"

✧ ✧ ✧

THE MEDICAL OFFICER of the Durhams looked too young to be a doctor, nothing of the aged practitioner, no trace of the overwhelming specialist. He looked like a confident young officer in his huge boots and rustling cold-weather clothing. Yet no voices were raised, and the man on the stretcher was the centre of a calm routine that had obviously happened many times before. Swiftly a tube from a bottle of saline solution was put into his arm and he began to recover a little, to thresh about on his stretcher and to shout and to take quick, furtive looks round the room. The ugly blood was gone. His outer clothing removed. (The pockets seemed to contain only pieces of string.) The interrogation teams were told by the telephone that the man could not be seen. An ambulance was ordered and a helicopter to meet it.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE STRETCHER was again lifted and carried out into the warm night. There was a searchlight playing on a hilltop far away on the left, where some trench-line was expecting an attack, and dark red tracer was moving slowly up into the sky and going out above the glare. But the war was only a murmur in the background. The Chinaman was laid in the bright interior of the ambulance with the doctor still beside him holding up the faintly disgusting bottle. The ambulance rocked away down the road and the original quiet returned to the room that smelt of medical cleanliness and wet sandbags.

✧ ✧ ✧

THIS CAPTURING of just one of the enemy was not a sensational affair. It mattered very little except to those concerned. It was the result of routine behaviour. Patrols go out every night into no-man's-land, and for two nights previously the Durhams had had trouble.

The patrols had walked or crept down off the rocky hills where they lived, down into the rice fields that had not been cultivated for two years. The last two night there had been fighting. They were the sort of small, vicious actions that are special to this war. The quick meeting with the enemy—the blind shooting in the direction of sound—the throwing of grenades—the shapeless scrimmage in the dark and then the renewed silence and the looking around to see if everyone is there. On the last occasion they were not. And the Chinese, too, left three men behind. Two were dead, and the man on the stretcher was the other.

✧ ✧ ✧

THIS ROUTINE unpleasantness, accepted quite without hatred for the enemy, has been going on for a matter of two years. The Durhams are taking their turn now. Their flag—"within a bugle horn, stringed the letters D.L.I."—flies arroganntly from a rock at the summit of their highest hill. They have left their mark on the landscape; they have lined their trenches with the dry-stone walling that they learnt in the North Country. The senior officers had more responsible jobs in the last war and the soldiers are mostly young men who are away from home for the first time in their lives. By a curious mixture of calm professionalism and enthusiasm, they have gained the name of being one of the best battalions on the front.

✧ ✧ ✧

THAT SAME DAY I had watched a row of them sitting on a parapet just behind the line listening to another boy who was an officer. He was giving out his evening orders to his platoon. There were details about the beer ration, the order of dress for a practice stand-to, the password, and the hour of the service for the man who had died on the patrol. A pressure stove was making a roaring noise as it cooked the evening meal in a dug-out. A pair of magpies were chattering in a broken tree. Neat and clean, the row of soldiers listened carefully.

But it was all routine, almost any day in this three-year-old war except for the fact that a few miles away some senior soldiers had been spending the day at Panmunjom talking crossly about peace. It made no difference to the Durhams or to the man on the stretcher. It had brought no sort of relaxation as yet. The war among the steep hills had not changed.

They thought the prisoner would live. The special helicopter made a dangerous night flight to get him to a surgical hospital; it landed in the glare of jeep headlights. But the nameless man began to resist treatment as he grew stronger, shouted for death and demanded to be left alone. And he died that night—of his wounds and of his hatred and horror for the west.

An American View

A Tale Of Two Countries

(MONTREAL GAZETTE)

CANADIANS have particular reason for being interested in the April issue of a magazine called News. This magazine is published from Gorky Street in Moscow. It is issued by the Soviet Union to express the Soviet point of view on world affairs. It is in the English language and is intended for circulation abroad among English-speaking countries.

In this particular issue is an account of the presentation of the Stalin Peace Prize to Dr. James G. Endicott, Chairman of the National Council of the Canadian "Peace" Congress. Hitherto there have been reports of what Dr. Endicott had said in Russia but Dr. Endicott himself has never fully confirmed them. But in this issue of the News is the text of Dr. Endicott's speech upon being awarded the Stalin Peace Prize on March 28. It is an official text.

The remarkable feature of this text is the way in which Dr. Endicott contrasts the peacefulness of the Soviet Union with the feverish war spirit that exists in capitalist Canada. With regard to the peacefulness of Russia Dr. Endicott has this to say:

"It has been my good fortune to visit the Soviet Union each year since 1950 and to observe for myself the tremendous growth of the peace movement in your vast country. I have seen it in the great cities of the Russian Republic, in Uzbekistan and in far-away Siberia, beyond Lake Baikal. Everywhere I have observed intensive education for peace, an understanding as to why peace can be preserved and a magnificent faith in peace that leads the Soviet people to undertake vast projects of construction for the future."

Having looked upon the Russian picture, Dr. Endicott looked upon the Canadian. It made, for him, a sad contrast. Of Canada he said:

"It is my opportunity today to speak as a peace worker from the Western and capitalist section of the world. It would be useless for me to pretend to this distinguished audience that a similar situation prevails in Canada in particular, or in North America in general."

These words certainly seem to confirm the reports that were received in Canada concerning Dr. Endicott's speeches in Russia on his visit in 1950. Then he was reported to have said: "I can breathe freely in Moscow. In your country at every step I hear the beautiful word 'peace'." And then also he went on to paint the painful contrast between the breath of peace in Moscow and the war spirit of the West.

It may be of interest to note that Dr. Endicott found this peacefulness in Moscow in 1950, only a few months before the outbreak of the aggression in Korea. But this fact has, in these intervening years, brought no disillusion. Russia still preserves its magnificent faith in peace, despite its active part in the Korean and other aggressions. This is, it must be admitted, a remarkable achievement.

Letter To The Editor

THE BATTLE CONTINUES

Sir: I am being asked by many that signed the petition addressed to His Honor Judge Kennedy in respect to the Peterborough Memorial Centre, "What became of it?". The reason a grievance has to be presented to a judge is, that under Bill 158 passed by the Provincial Legislature in 1951, it cannot be forwarded direct to the Provincial Government as under Section 3 it reads: Where ever the judge is of opinion that the public interest can be served by an investigation of the matter complained of, he may make an order directing Public Trustee to make such investigation as the Public Trustee may deem proper in the circumstances. I waited several days to receive some advice as to what was taking place and I wrote His Honor and asked him what was being done. His reply was that he had conversations with His Worship Mayor Waddell and they thought we should have patience.

I had asked the Attorney General's department to override the aforesaid section and take action, having explained I could not get action by the judge. The Deputy Attorney General replied that nothing could be done. I wrote again, this time in reply to the letter I received from the Deputy Attorney General that I was placing the full details in the hands of the leader of the Provincial Legislature and asking that Bill 158 be amended, taking the control out of the hands of a judge as in our case I considered the privilege had been abused, where one man and he the Mayor, would use his influence to head off justice, as demanded by the citizens he was supposed to be serving.

My letter to Mr. F. Oliver, M.P.P., Leader of the Opposition, reached him too late, as the House was about to prorogue. Perhaps Mayor Waddell will think over the matter of receiving the donation from taxes furnished by the citizens, many of which are left to toil, who had donated to the building for recreation.

Sincerely Yours,
MAURICE E. KETCHESON.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version).

And the Lord God said unto the serpent, Because thou hast done this, thou art cursed above all cattle, and above every beast of the field; upon thy belly shalt thou go, and dust shalt thou eat all the days of thy life: and I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy seed and her seed; it shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel . . .

And unto Adam he said, Because thou hast hearkened unto the voice of thy wife, and hast eaten of the tree, of which I commanded thee, saying, Thou shalt not eat of it: cursed is the ground for thy sake; in sorrow shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life . . .

And the Lord God said, Behold, the man is become as one of us, to know good and evil: and now, lest he put forth his hand, and take also of the tree of life, and eat, and live for ever: therefore the Lord God sent him forth from the garden of Eden, to till the ground from whence he was taken. So he drove out the man; and he placed at the east of the garden of Eden Cherubims, and a flaming sword which turned every way, to keep the way of the tree of life. (Gen. 3:14, 15, 17, 22-24.)

✧ ✧ ✧

O Israel, return unto the Lord thy God; for thou hast fallen by thine iniquity . . . Who is wise, and he shall understand these things? prudent, and he shall know them? for the ways of the Lord are right, and the just shall walk in them: but the transgressors shall fall therein. (Hos. 14:1, 9.)

Artistic Gnosticism

(Hamilton Spectator)

Sir Winston Churchill is not alone in his disapproval of certain "super-original forms of art." Even Jacob Epstein, whose sculptures have often strained the imagination of the art lover, takes a dim view of such pieces of abstract fancy as the prize-winning Unknown Political Prisoner which was recently mangled by an irate young artist while being exhibited at the Tate Gallery.

Churchill, fearing that a 300-foot replica of the Unknown Political Prisoner will be raised on the cliffs of Dover, warns the Royal Academy that it should not "run wildly after every curious novelty." In a similar vein, Epstein says such "abstract atrocities" should not be taken seriously.

One of the curses of abstract art is that it has become too subjective for the layman. The result has been the emergence of a form of artistic heresy comparable to the early Christian heresy of Gnosticism. Even as the Gnostics claimed to have a mystical insight into the nature of god and evil, so today a priestly cult of abstract art connoisseurs claims ability to pass judgement (on a super-aesthetic plane) the seemingly incomprehensible creations of the abstract artist.

The artistic tastes of the average man are usually anathema to these high priests of modern culture. Super-genius, dwelling in an occult world, must concern itself with a quest for super creation. The two grope into one another in a misty limbo from which the general public is excluded. Art cannot be considered great until so identified by the experts.

Innovations in art are the life-blood of the Muse but a high degree of intellectual honesty is expected of them. Not infrequently the intellectual arrogance of artistic Gnosticism has been coupled with intellectual dishonesty.

According to Plato, art is "an imitation of an imitation, thrice removed from the truth." The abstractionist cannot afford to leave in doubt the truth to which he is presumably trying to give expression.

Hope Report Not Forgotten Beattie Says

OSHAWA (CP)—L. S. Beattie, Ontario superintendent of secondary education, said Wednesday several recommendations of the Hope royal commission on education have been adopted and others will be put into effect in the future.

Addressing members of the Associate High School Boards of Ontario at their annual convention, he said:

"The report hasn't been shelved by any means. It was the best thing that ever happened to education in Ontario and we've made use of it." The 21-man commission was headed by Mr. Justice C. P. Hope.

TWO SPECIFIC FIELDS

In an interview later, Mr. Beattie mentioned two specific fields in which action has been taken—an internal reorganization of the department of education and curriculum.

The report recommended closer integration of the various sections of the department and this had been done. In the curriculum field, great strides had been taken to eliminate the artificial barrier between grades 8 and 9.

Canada More Important In World Affairs Now

By FORBES RHUDE

VIENNA (CP)—The increasing importance of Canada's place in world affairs is reflected in the broad participation by Canadian delegates in the International Chamber of Commerce meeting here this week.

Fourteen years ago in Copenhagen, Canada had little identity at the ICC congress and was regarded as little more than the tail end of the British delegation.

At this meeting, the Canadian delegation feels Canada has really "arrived" as a working part of the huge conference.

The 16 members constitute the largest working group Canada has ever sent to the ICC meetings abroad.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Each morning at 9:30 they sit down like a board of directors in an office they have established in Vienna's vast konzerthaus (concert house) where the congress is being held. They hear reports and suggestions from the individual delegates and discuss plans for the day.

Delegates take on separate assignments to attend the various meetings whether or not Canada is taking a speaking part. The idea is to bring as comprehensive a picture of the conference as possible to the whole delegation which will pass this on to Canadian business men and the public on the return to Canada.

Herbert Lank, Montreal business man with a broad international background, is receiving congratulations on the polished, efficient manner in which, as chairman, he handled proceedings at Tuesday's important general meeting on freer trade.

SCOTT CO-CHAIRMAN

H. D. Scott of Toronto was co-chairman at Monday's group meeting on the problems of banking technique. Thomas Oakley of Toronto is co-chairman at a group meeting today on distribution statistics. D. P. Cruikshank of Ottawa, head of the Canadian delegation will be one of the principal speakers at Friday's general meeting on economic stability and primary production.

W. D. Jones of Toronto, one of the leaders in arousing Canadian interest in the ICC, speaking to fellow delegates at Wednesday's Canadian morning meeting said:

"At former conferences we weren't in it. Here we are a part and other countries are taking notice of Canada. It will result in great benefit to the Canadian economy."

Liflocs Defeat Port Hope By A Count Of 7 To 1 In Lakeshore Ball Tussle

In their second start of the young Lakeshore Baseball League season here last night, the local Liflocs broke into the victory column at the expense of Port Hope Ontarios, 7 to 1. They broke out in a five-run rash in the first frame and never looked back, adding two more in the fifth, and limiting the opposition to a loner in the second stanza. The Dalton-Mein juniors hustled behind good hurling and had but one miscue to four for the intermediate Ports. At that, the earned runs made it a 1-1 game as the losers booted three in the initial inning.

Lefty Roger Lee toed the slab for Peterborough and scattered five hits while fanning five in the seven-inning joust, though he was a bit wild at times to pass four. However, he bore down in the pinches and showed a lot of stuff, besides getting fine support. Big Mike Harrison (son of Hap Harrison) went four heats for Port Hope and did well after the first frame. He allowed four hits while fanning six and walking one. Dale Gunter finished up, giving two bingles in two chukkers and whiffing a pair. He also hit Foley and Pammett while Lee hit Baxter. The latter and Harrison had a wild pitch each.

LED AT BAT

Bill Twist led the locals at bat with one for one, a ringing double to drive in a run. Ken Pammett had a single in two trips to drive in two. Scotty MacSporran belted two for three, sending one run in, while Bryon Young also had two for three, including a double, to drive in a run. Pammett and Ferguson stole a sack each. The winners left three stranded.

Ashton and Wakely led the losers with one for two each, Lees and Harrison having one in three tries apiece, and Ashby one in four. Ashton drove in the only run. Baxter pilfered a base and Hogan made a good sacrifice. They left nine on the bases.

Fielding features were a local double play, Ferguson to Lingard, a good knockdown by Ferguson at third and a running catch in right by Foley. The game went 1.50 before a slim crowd.

FIVE IN FIRST

Liflocs got five to start it off. Kearns was safe on an error and took second when the catcher dropped a third strike and had to peg out Foley. MacSporran singled Kearns in and moved up on the throw-in. Lingard went out at first and Young doubled to right to score Scotty. Mason moved up on a wild pitch and raced in on a single by Pammett after Ferguson walked. The latter stole second and scored on Ken's single, also.

They added two in the fifth. Foley was hit by the pitcher but forced at second by MacSporran. Lingard flied out, but Young's single sent Mac to third, and an error by the rightfielder let MacSporran in and sent Young to second. He tallied from there on a double by Twist.

Port Hope counted a run in the second when Baxter drew a walk, was sacrificed by Hogan and tore home on a timely single to left by Ashton. They also filled the sacks in the third but Lee bore down to strike out the last man. On but two other occasions did the Ports get a man as far as second and no others reached third. Teams:

Port Hope—Keeler, lf; Ashby, cf; Thickson, 3b; Holman, ph; Baxter, c; Hogan, rf; Gunter, p; Ashton, ss; Wakely, ss; Lees, 1b; Harrison, p, rf.

Liflocs—Kearns, 2b; Foley, rf; MacSporran, cf; Lingard, 1b; Young, ss; Mason, lf; Twist, lf; Ferguson, 3b; Pammett, c; Lee, p.

Forfeit Game For Using Negro Pitcher

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Hot Springs of the Cotton States League presumably will decide today whether to forfeit every game in which it attempts to play a Negro pitcher or cease its effort to introduce Negroes into the three-state circuit.

Wednesday night the cellar-dwelling Hot Springs Bathers attempted to play Jim Tugerson, a Negro righthander, but they were forced to forfeit the game to Jackson, Miss., 9-0 on orders of league president Al Haraway.

Haraway said Hot Springs had "violated an agreement reached in Greenville, Miss., on April 14."

He ordered the class-C league's umpires to forfeit every game to the opposing club when Tugerson's name appears on the roster.

AGREEMENT ILLEGAL

Club co-owner Lewis Goltz said the directors would meet today to settle the issue "once and for all." He termed the agreement "illegal and contrary to federal law."

From Natchez, Miss., came a hint that the league may try once again to oust the Bathers from the eight-team circuit.

Tom Glennon, Natchez general manager, said his club fully approved Haraway's action.

"If the league takes action against Hot Springs, that may mean a revision of the league schedule," he said.

The league attempted to oust the Bathers this spring, when Jim Tugerson and his brother, Leander, were hired from Indianapolis of the Negro American League.

But Hot Springs forestalled the action with a ruling by minor league head George Trautman that a club could play Negroes if it desired. Following the Greenville, Miss., meeting alluded to by Haraway in Wednesday's statement, the Bathers optioned the brothers to Knoxville of the class-D Mountain States circuit, where Jim compiled a 6-2 record. He was recalled Tuesday.

Tugerson was warming up Wednesday night when the forfeit order was read before some 1,500 fans, including from 200 to 300 Negroes, who greeted the announcement with boos—and then dispersed quietly. The crowd was the largest of the season here.

Jim de Courcy Stars For Australia

LONDON (Reuters)—Australia's Jim de Courcy Wednesday scored 126 not out, almost twice as many runs as the entire Oxford University team, on the first day of their three-day match here.

The touring team dismissed the undergraduates for 70 runs in 90 minutes. The Australians opened their batting slowly but by close of play had a decisive lead with 295 for eight wickets.

In county cricket, wickets fell quickly as bowlers made full use of pitches affected by rain. Hampshire dismissed Leicestershire for 91 first-innings runs.

Close-of-play scores:

Oxford University 70, Australians 295 for eight.

Gloucestershire 220, Surrey 31 for none.

Leicestershire 91, Hampshire 111 for four.

Northamptonshire 276, Kent 64 for three.

Somerset 156, Derbyshire 103 for three.

Glamorgan 269, Essex 49 for none.

Yorkshire 258, Worcestershire 60 for three.

Queen Alex Whips Prince Of Wales 24-3

Queen Alexandra School seniors defeated Prince of Wales "B" entry 24-3 Wednesday. Queen Alexandra held the Prince nine scoreless for three innings while scoring 10 runs mostly on homers by Pete Stewart, Bob Druce and Lech.

In the fourth inning Queen Alexandra scored 14 times as they hit everything the Prince pitchers offered. Johnston climaxed their hits with a four-run homer.

Prince of Wales scored a single in the fourth and added two more in the fifth.

For the second night in succession the president had to be content to playing second fiddle to the vice-president. In only one of the four games played last night did the president's side win and that by the narrowest of margins—one shot.

However, the contest has served its purpose and that is the "warming up" before the schedule proper commences.

On the two nights' play the vice-president won by 177-126.

There are no further activities scheduled for the balance of this week, but the greens will be open for any member who would care to go up and practice.

We believe that there will be a couple of games scheduled for next week, played this evening.

The newly-painted red benches add considerable color. With the large areas of green grass a background, the contrast is outstanding.

We understand that the lady bowlers did all the painting. They did a good job and the many compliments are well earned.

Kiner Reported Going To Chicago Cubs

CHICAGO (AP)—Ralph Kiner, the National League's home run champion for seven straight years, will leave Pittsburgh Pirates for Chicago Cubs before June 15, the Chicago Daily Sun-Times said Wednesday.

The newspaper, keeping the long-rumored Kiner deal boiling, said "it's almost certain" that Kiner will join the Cubs.

Sid Matthews, the Cubs' player personnel director, has had a long-standing offer of $200,000 cash to the Pirates for the 30-year-old slugger.

Many Peterborough people who won't be in England on June 2 for the coronation will content themselves by jamming into Toronto's Woodbine for the Queen's Plate. The horse racing classic of the year in Canada. The trials for the Plate will be raced in two divisions next Saturday afternoon, the owners of 28 horses stating their color-bearers will face the starter on the weekend. Virginia Fair, Western Canada juvenile champion of 1952, will be an absentee at the Plate trials but will go on Coronation Day. E. P. Talyor has three entered for the trials, Canadiana, Lively Action and Georgian Bay. They come from all across the country for this big one.

Jim Coleman is now working for the Ontario Jockey Club and giving out with reams on the race June 2. The former sports columnist with the Globe (as widely read when he was pushing a pen as Ted Reeve is throughout Canada) still likes to keep his hand in at sports writing. Also he's very interested in horse racing and horse players, having been an owner himself. Jim has come up this way from time to time since putting his son into Grove School at Lakefield. Just recently he invited us to drop in anytime at the clubhouse at the Woodbine for, as he terms it, "a small smash of the sturdy stuff". We might just to that, too.

Pacers And Trotters

Not only are the running horses highly popular with the gentry (and many of the feminine gender, too) who bet 'em—these folks being known as horse players—but the harness horses have a big following, as well. In village and city on both sides of the border Some claim that horse racing has become North America's most popular sport. Even though it now looks as if the automobile is here to stay, the horse is still important to a hefty hunk of the populace, if only as a luxury or a sports' attraction. And never mind the bets. Canada's largest sports crowd each year watches the Queen's Plate, and the 1948 record of 48,522 is expected to be broken this year. The harness meets at Thorncliffe draw heavily, also. It's big business.

Men's softball season is away tonight here, weather being okay. A twin bill at the Bowl d'Ashburnham to open the City Softball Loop, commencing at seven chimes. T-P-T Petes vs. UEW first, followed at 8:30 by Revoy's vs. Seabrooke's. Opening ceremony, draw prizes and two tidy tilts expected. Just 10 minutes betwixt jousts. UE finished atop the schedule last summer to win the George Dormer trophy, but Red Sullivan's eastern Seabrooke squad took playoffs for city honors and the William Taylor Trophy, put up many years ago by a former Mayor of Peterboorugh. It's a fairly old loop which has played some three decades or more on various local fields, but it's still a streamlined sport with a goodly following.

The Yorks Are Tough

In senior lacrosse this semester, we expect more rivalry, as well as stiff competition, from Toronto West Yorks and St. Kitts than from any other club. Both these teams bothered the Petes plenty last year as the later fought through to the Mann Cup. Both Yorks and the A's are stronger this season, we believe, though the Petes should be a bit better in '53 than last year. Fans will see Friday when Yorks play the Petes here, and they'll realize—win, lose or draw—that the packed Toronto team will be mighty tough to take before the campaign closes. A little later on, when St. Catharines show here, folks who follow the gutted-stick wars will probably agree with us that the Saints aren't going to be local stepping-stones to OLA honours by any means. These are the three top teams in the 1953 grouping.

Local Liflocs looked good in Riverside last e'en as they trimmed Port Hope Ontarios by a 7-1 count. Had neat finging from southpaw Roger Lee, who hails from Port Hope, and smart fielding all through. Cashed in on loose work by the Ontarios defensively, and came through with timely thumps to clear ducks off the pond. Hap Harrison's big son, Mike, toiled four frames for the Ports and did okay, but for wobbly support, with Dale Gunter finishing in fair style. None of the losers got more than one safe blow. Bill Twist, Ken Pammett, Scotty MacSporran and Byron Young—the latter a welcome addition—did the bingling for the bunch piloted by Shockey Mein and Howie Dalton. Fielding features by Ferguson and Foley, but all went well. They'll do okay in this loop.

Hayman Wants Lear With Als

MONTREAL (CP) — General manager Lew Hayman, with rare enthusiasm, said Wednesday he would like to have big Les Lear with Montreal Alouettes this season. An offer has been made to the 36-year-old lineman and former coach of Calgary Stampeders.

"We are as anxious to have him with our Big Four football club as he is interested in coming here," said Hayman.

What really intrigued Hayman was the report in a Calgary dispatch that Lear has shed 40 pounds in rigorous spring training.

"Well, well," said Hayman, with a burst of laughter. "He's big enough and mean enough—in a football way, of course—and if he's hungry enough we are keen to have him."

28 Horses Entered In Plate Trial

TORONTO (CP)—Twenty-eight three-year-olds have been entered for the six-furlong Queen's Plate Trial at Woodbine track May 23, it was announced Wednesday. The $2,500-added trial, tune-up for the June 2 plate, will be raced in two divisions.

The only notable absentee from the trials will be Virginia Fair, Western Canada juvenile champion last year owned by James A. Charlesworth of Edmonton. The filly will be a definite starter in the 1¼-mile $15,000-added plate. Virginia Fair is completing her training in Calgary and due in Toronto next week.

TWO WESTERN HORSES

Two Western Canada horses are entered in the trials—Food for Thot, owned by Dr. L. H. Appelby of Vancouver, and Bonsand, owned by Charlie Krupp of Winnipeg. The others are from Ontario stables.

Canadiana, 8-5 winter book favorite for the plate and likely to go to the post at about even money, is a starter for the short distance trials. The filly, owned by E. P. Taylor of Toronto, voted the horse of the year in 1952, won nine of her 11 starts in Canada as a two-year-old and collected $40,762 in purses.

The entries include Young Brother, owned by H. B. Brunt of Hanover; Millbrook, owned by R. M. Horner of Whitby, and Ballyray, owned by J. E. F. Seagram of Waterloo, Ont.

Bowling League Finishes Season

The B'nai B'rith bowling league will conclude the 1952 bowling season tonight with a banquet and dance at the Empress Hotel. Then prizes for the various high three, high single, and schedule winners.

The season's high single went to Phil Macks with 373, other scores being by Ben Abramsky with 365 and Jules Lovitz with 362. The high triple honors went to Zimel Levine with 879, Phil Macks with 865 and Isadore Black with 848.

Phil Macks also won the high average prize with 227, 11 more points than his closest rival Zimel Levine. Phil Hollend had 207.

Boston Red Sox Down Browns 3-2 In 14th Inning

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

If Boston Red Sox figure out some way to beat the other eastern teams, they will be a real pennant threat in the American League. They've solved the western clubs. The Sox finished up a profitable home stand against the West in sensational fashion Wednesday. With two out in the 14th inning—the season's longest game—Del Wilbert blasted his third pinch-hit home run of the year to give them a 3-2 triumph over St. Louis Browns.

The victory moved the Red Sox into second place, three games behind the pace-setting New York Yankees.

The Red Sox have the best intersectional record in either league. They burned up the West early this month on a 6-2 road trip and then won six more and lost only two when the western teams came in to visit Fenway Park.

Against the eastern clubs, however, the Sox have won five while losing eight.

POOR HOSTS

The eastern American League clubs as a whole were inhospitable to their western visitors during the intersectional series and all four of them ended with victories. The Athletics defeated Chicago 2-1 on the five-hit pitching of Morris Martin. Washington whipped Cleveland 8-3 and New York trimmed Detroit 9-8. In all, the eastern teams have won 20 and lost 11.

In the National League the western teams, playing at home, managed to gain the upper hand, but only by a margin of 16 games to 13. In Wednesday's finales Cincinnati thumped the league-leading Philadelphia Phillies 14-5; Milwaukee bowed for the second straight day to Brooklyn 7-2; Chicago took a 16-6 lacing from New York Giants and St. Louis won a 11-6 slugfest from Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Giants collected 21 hits in smothering the Cubs. Monte Irvin, Al Dark and Davey Williams homered for New York.

COULDN'T LAST

Curt Simmons, the Phillies' ace lefthander, couldn't last four innings against Cincinnati. He gave up seven hits and seven runs before heading for cover in the fourth.

Pittsburgh fell to last place by losing to the Cardinals who pounded out 17 hits. Red Schoendienst drove home six of the Cardinal tallies with a home run, two doubles and a single.

Brooklyn stole six bases in handing Milwaukee its first series loss at home. The crowd of 23,450 swelled the Braves' home attendance to 302,667 for 13 home dates, 21,389 more than the club drew all last season in Boston.

The Yankees edged Detroit in the last of the ninth on Gene Woodling's bases-loaded single.

Frank Shea throttled the Indians on two hits for seven innings but had to withdraw with a stiff neck. The Indians picked up five hits and three runs on his successor, Johnny Schmitz, but the Senators had sewed it up with six runs in the seventh.

Philadelphia's winning run against the White Sox came in the ninth when Billy Pierce, trying for his sixth victory, walked three men, uncorked a wild pitch and then watched Joe Astroth deliver a run-scoring single.

Leafs Leading Ball Loop After 8-7 Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The top four International League teams are so closely bunched that the lead can change overnight—and frequently does.

Today Toronto Maple Leafs are atop the loop, following an 8-7 decision over Syracuse Chiefs Wednesday night. Buffalo Bisons took over second place by downing Rochester, erstwhile leaders, 6-5. Rochester dropped to third. The fourthplace Montreal Royals dropped a 7-5 15-inning marathon to Baltiore Orioles and fell two games off the pace.

A wild pitch by Earl Mossor with the bases loaded in the 15th inning allowed the winning Baltimore run to cross the plate at Montreal. The Orioles tacked on an insurance run before the inning ended. The Royals led 5-4 going into the top of the ninth but a homer by Marv Rackley with one out tied it up and sent the game into extra innings. The Birds used four pitchers and the Royals three.

Rookie John Mackinson pitched a two-hitter as Ottawa Athletics defeated Springfeld Cubs 5-2. Mackinson struck out eight and walked four in his debut.

A bases-loaded double by second baseman Bill Jennings in the ninth brought Toronto from behind to their victory. Jenning batted in three runs during the game while Ed Stevens also brought in three with a seventh-inning homer with two on.

Reliefer Bob Tiefenauer walked in the winning run in the ninth inning as Buffalo edged the host Red Wings.

Windsor Spits Without Sponsor

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Windsor's six-season tenure of operation in the junior A circuit of the Ontario Hockey Association hangs by a thread.

It was disclosed Tuesday that the Detroit Hockey Club had withdrawn its sponsorship of Windsor Spitfires, at the same time shifting affiliation to Hamilton.

Lloyd Pollock, manager of the Spitfire A Hockey Club since its inception in 1946, announced that he will implement the franchise transfer in co-ordination with the plans of the Detroit organization.

Insofar as Windsor is concerned, Bill Butcher, president of Windsor Arena, stated that he will attempt to continue a junior A operation at all costs. Butcher has been in close communication with Hap Emms, chief of the Memorial Cup-winning Barrie Flyers, in a concerted effort to attract Emms to this city.

If Butcher fails to acquire Emms or another man to pursue junior A hockey, it is thought likely an attempt will be made to invade the OHA Senior A field.

But Butcher said: "I will not give up junior A hockey without a fight."

Irish Soccer Team Defeats All-Stars

TORONTO (CP)—The Irish international soccer team scored a goal in each period Wednesday night to defeat Ontario All-Stars 2-0.

Outside Jackie Scott of Manchester United put the Irish ahead 1-0 after 32 minutes on a pass from inside right Cyril Harrison. Sam Hughes, centre forward from Glentoran of the Irish League, headed in a kick from the corner for the visitors' final goal after 15 minutes of the second half.

Among many historic names London, England, has Birdcage Walk and Eeel Pie Lane.

Aussie Planner For Olympics Has Resigned

MELBOURNE (AP)—The chief Australian planner for the 1956 Olympic Games resigned Wednesday night—an act which was called a "national tragedy" by Melbourne's acting lord mayor.

"There was nothing left me but to resign," said Arthur W. Coles, who turned in his post as chairman of the Olympic Games control committee. "My position was untenable."

Coles quit when the Victoria (rtate) government decided not to build the Olympic swimming pool in Fawkner Park—the site which was accepted by the International Olympic Committee at its April meeting in Mexico City.

(In Chicago, Avery Brundage, president of the IOC, said "something must be seriously wrong" with the plans for the games and that the IOC executive committee may hold an emergency meeting to consider another city.)

A THRILLING FINISH in the senior girls' 60-yard dash shows Nancy McDougall of Sacred Heart breaking the tape (right), as Carolyn Thompson, also of Sacred Heart, one step behind, is second, and Teresa Fitzgerald, of St. Alphonsus, is third. In the lower photo, Matt Lawless and Teresa Fitzgerald get a few tips on racing starts from their principal, P. J. Moher, of St. Alhponsus. Both were winners in senior events.—(Examiner Staff Photos).

LEAFS ADD 2 FORWARDS

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs, who finished out of the National Hockey League playoffs last season, announced Wednesday night the start of their rebuilding program with the purchase of two forwards from Cleveland Barons.

Leafs received centre Bob Bailey and right-winger Gerry Foley in exchange for Charlie Blair, a member of the Toronto farm club at Pittsburgh, and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Bailey, a native of Kenora, Ont., will be 22 late this month. Last season, his first in professional hockey, he scored 11 goals and had 35 assists with the Barons, American Hockey League champions.

One of the few American-born players in the pro game, Foley played with Seattle Bombers of the Western Hockey League last season and was chosen as the WHL's top rookie. He tallied 29 goals and 30 assists.

Blair, Scottish-born right-winger, has been with Pittsburgh Hornets of the AHL for three seasons.

Soccer Player Canada-Bound

By ARCH MacKENZIE

LONDON (CP)—Leslie Medley, soccer player twice selected to perform for England, sails next Tuesday with his Canadian wife and child for Canada.

The 32-year-old outside left said Wednesday he will visit Hamilton first, but hopes to get a job in Toronto where he played for Toronto Greenbacks during the Second World War while training there with the RAF.

"Football will be just a sideline in Canada," Medley added, "but I hope I play or coach."

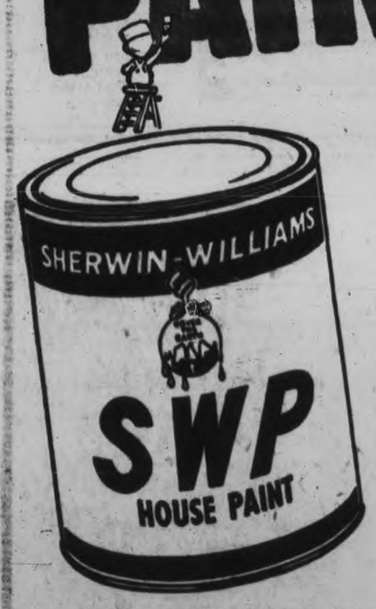
Medley was picked to play for England—equivalent to all-Canadian or all-American status—in 1950-51 and 1951-52. This season he was handicapped by incidents ranging from food poisoning to outright injury, played only 21 games and got one goal, compared with his past seasonal average of 12 or 13.

Queen's Horse Aureole 7-2 Derby Favorite

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth's Aureole Wednesday was made a 7-2 favorite for the June 6 Epsom Derby.

Bookmakers shortened the odds as news leaked out that William Humble's Nearula, a raging favorite since his victory in the Two Thousand Guineas race April 29, missed exercise because of a bruised foot. Bookmakers did not quote Nearula.

Captain Charles Elsey, Nearula's trainer, said: "We shall have to remove his shoe to see the extent of the damage."



Queen Mary Wins 8-4

Queen Mary School bunched four runs in the first and fourth innings Wednesday to edge Central School 8-4 in a senior school softball game. Central's four runs were scored with two in the third and fourth innings.

"QUEEN'S MEN"—The "Queen's Men" rush forward to untangle two horses which became involved with a tree, after they bolted a Coronation procession rehearsal in London's Pall Mall, not far from Marlborough House. Unlike the nursery rhyme, the "Queen's Men" were able to put the procession together again, and also learned how to avoid an embarrassing and possibly dangerous situation on Coronation Day, June 2.

Two Senators Wiley And Thye Clash On Seaway Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—A verbal clash between Senators Alexander Wiley (Rep., Wis.) and Edward Thye (Rep. Minn.) peppered an otherwise calm Senate foreign relations sub-committee hearing Wednesday on legislation dealing with the proposed St. Lawrence seaway.

The exchange came after the committee heard two administration spokesmen say that it favored Wiley's bill providing for limited participation with Canada in construction of the waterway.

They said that wasn't enough, but that the United States, instead of proposing only to build navigation facilities in the International Rapids section, should "at least" commit itself to extend the seaway to the head of the Great Lakes.

He said such limited participation, if approved by Congress, would make it virtually impossible to win future approval for an extension of the canal to Lake Superior.

PARTIAL SOLUTION

Thye said that as soon as industrial interests get the 27-foot waterway through to Lake Erie, they wouldn't be likely to support proposals for an extension.

And, he added, if "the chairman of the great Senate foreign relations committee (Wiley) had proposed to the administration the whole seaway project, instead of just a section, it would have received the same support."

Wiley, his face red, snapped: "You're 100-per-cent wrong."

He asserted Thye had "a political motive" in urging that the seaway be extended "at this time."

Wiley added that he had introduced his bill in the belief that "a foot in the door" approach was better than trying to get the whole thing.

He also said that the bill, in its present form, was shaped as the result of the "mature judgment" of representatives from Wisconsin, Minnesota and other Great Lakes states.

WI Presents Gift To Past President

WESTWOOD (ENS).—The retiring president, Mrs. T. J. Cardwell, conducted the Women's Institute meeting in the absence of the president.

Roots and bulbs were exchanged in answer to the roll call. The treasurer reported a balance on hand of $99.58.

The sunshine convener, Mrs. H. Pacey, read two letters of thanks for flowers and fruit. Mrs. Cardwell was presented with a cup and saucer in appreciation of her faithful services during her term of office.

Mrs. H. Pacey demonstrated the making of a kitchen picture. Miss Jessie Davidson read a letter from the Institute correspondent in England. The motto, "A clean plate and an empty garbage can are signs of a good cook," was ably given by Mrs. Redmond Walsh.

Mrs. T. J. Cardwell was appointed group secretary for the Kawartha Co-operative Medical Services and all members are invited to attend a meeting in the Public Library, Peterborough, May 28, at 8 p.m.

Members are invited to attend an evening meeting with the WI at Keene on June 3.

Programs for 1953-54 were presented including a community picnic at Birdsall Beach, tour of Peterborough industries, court of opinion, exchange of Christmas gifts and auction sale, community pot-luck dinner and card party, and talk on Newfoundland.

Hostesses for the social hour were Mrs. Cardwell, Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Wilson.

Wildcat Strike Closes Plant At Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP)—A wildcat strike at the Firestone rubber plant here today forced an almost complete shutdown, affecting more than 1,000 workers.

The strike occurred in the plant's tire-moulding section where another new machine was recently installed. Complaining that extra work was required of them, the 400 workers in the tire section walked off the job.

Harry Yeomans, president of Local 113, United Rubber Workers, said the new machinery meant that the men involved were expected to produce 160 tires in an eight-hour shift.

"The men are claiming this is away over their heads," said Mr. Yeomans, "and want an adjustment on output. There are also other working conditions they want amended."

Mr. Yeomans and a union committee announced that a meeting of tire men will be held Friday.

"We'll discuss the whole problem then," Mr. Yeomans said, "and maybe something can be done."

Take Special Course To Toughen Up

LONDON (Reuters)—The 4,500 men of the RAF who will line part of the Coronation procession route June 2 are taking special toughening-up courses. The main thing they will learn is how to avoid fainting and spoiling the show.

They'll need to be tough, because their job will be one of the most gruelling on the day the Queen is crowned.

First they will march two miles to their positions. Then they will have to stand eight hours stock still—including 45 minutes at attention while the procession passes. They won't even be able to break ranks to eat, but will have to munch rations at their posts.

Marmora Church Uses New Donation Method

MARMORA (ENS)—In an effort to raise money towards the cost of the renovations of and additions to St. Paul's parish hall for which at least $1,000 is needed the following course is being followed this Saturday. At 10 a.m. worshippers are asked to attend a celebration of Holy Communion. Immediately after the service, the rector Canon J. M. Brownlie will sit at a table in the church continuously until 9 p.m. to receive personal contributions for the hall fund. At the morning service the following day, Whitsun Day, the total offering received will be presented at what it is hoped will be a great service of thanksgiving.

This is the first time such a plan has been decided upon in the parish and it is being tried, in lieu of the usual canvass.

The bearers were all neighbors: Judson Hanna, Ivan Caldwell, Thomas McGee, Will Vardy, Ray Mallory and Fred McDonell. Burial was in Burnbrae cemetery.

Dewey Submits Drastic Plan

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—The New York state crime commission today urged creation of a state division of port administration with power to smash New York waterfront rackets by abolishing the shape-up and licensing dock workers.

The drastic plan was submitted to Governor Thomas Dewey and the legislature in the commission's final report on its two-year investigation of crime and political corruption.

Dewey is expected to call a special legislative session, probably next month, to consider the waterfront plan and other anti-crime measures advocated by the commission.

The crime commission also recommended a state law requiring all labor organizations to keep books and financial records, elect all officers by secret ballot, and pay officers and employees by cheque only.

The shape-up is a method of hiring whereby the dock boss each day hires the men he wants to work. This system has been condemned because in many cases dock workers are forced to give part of their wages to the dock boss in order to get work.

No Major Alarms On Press Freedom

LONDON (Reuters)—No "major alarms" concerning the freedom and independence of newspapers throughout the British Commonwealth occurred during the year, the annual report of the Commonwealth Press Union council said Wednesday night.

"The world of free newspapers has suffered no further shrinkage," the report added. "Nevertheless, there was a larger than usual crop of protests, mostly arising outside the Commonwealth, against governments' actions affecting the press or thought to threaten its independence."

"Such complaints and protests have been noted in 26 countries." The countries were not specified in the report.

Say Churchill Wrote To Mussolini

ROME (AP)—The Milan newspaper Corriere Lombardo published Wednesday night what it claimed were extracts of a letter from Winston Churchill to Benito Mussolini in the last days of the war arranging for the Italian dictator's "security."

The paper, which frequently publishes sensational stories, printed what it claimed was a facsimile of a letter from the British prime minister dated March 29, 1945—39 days before Mussolini was killed by partisans.

This portion published by the paper said:

"His excellency Benito Mussolini:

"As agreed upon in the last meeting of our office, it has been decided that your requests will be accepted as a whole. . .I can assure your excellency that I shall be at your entire disposal concerning your security and for this, I have already given the necessary instructions to the competent security service. Trusting to hear from you, I remain, very truly yours, Winston S. Churchill."

CAIRO TOUCH

The paper said the letter was written on stationery of the British embassy in Cairo.

(In London, a spokesman at 10 Downing street, Churchill's official residence, denied the British leader ever sent personal letters to Mussolini.

(The spokesman said "there have been stories of an exchange of letters several times but they had no foundation. No personal letters were sent to Mussolini.")

Corriere Lombardo said a large number of letters were exchanged between Mussolini and Churchill in the waning days of the war arranging for Mussolini's safety and surrender.

The paper said it got some of the letters from a former Fascist lieutenant.

Decision Delayed In Appeal Of Liquor Case

In Wednesday's special sitting of county court, Judge John deN. Kennedy reserved judgment in an appeal by Leslie A. Blakely, 33, 529 King St., against a conviction by Magistrate W. R. Philp.

Blakely was sentenced to seven days in jail and his car was ordered impounded for three months when he was convicted of drunk driving on March 3. He was granted a new trial on appeal.

The charge arose out of an accident shortly before 8:30 p.m. February 7 when Blakely's car left Highway 28 about two miles north of Peterborough, travelled about 285 feet along the shoulder and struck a hydro or telephone pole.

OPP Constables John Gray and Fred Lunn said Blakely's breath smelled of alcohol, he was unsteady on his feet and his conversation was "silly."

"He seemed to be quite amused by the damage done to his vehicle," Constable Gray said. Damage to the front of the car was estimated at about $700.

BEER IN TRUNK

Gray said he found 10 pints of beer in the trunk, one pint and an empty bottle in the rear seat and an opener and two caps on the floor by the front seat.

The accused told him he was not injured, he said.

Blakely said that he had been out with his employer, Robert Wood of Keene, in the afternoon seeing prospective tractor buyers and they had each had three pints of beer at his sister's in Bewdley. He had returned to Peterborough and had dinner before going to a hotel at 8 p.m.

He said he had met Fred Todd of RR No. 8, Peterborough, in the hotel and agreed to drive him to Lakefield after drinking one pint of beer.

He said he was completely blinded by the lights of a car passing an oncoming vehicle and pulled over onto the shoulder to avoid a head-on collision when he hit the pole. The next thing he recalled was a constable asking him for his driver's license.

LYING BACK

Todd said that after the car hit the pole he turned off the ignition and then saw Blakely with his head lying back over the front seat. He shook him but didn't get any answer. He thought he was dead until he felt his pulse. Todd was bleeding from head wounds and a passing motorist gave him a handkerchief and said he would call the police.

"Under the circumstances, it would be extremely unnatural if the accused were not unsteady on his feet," Defence Counsel Edward Fanjoy argued. "There is, at the very least, a reasonable doubt as to his guilt."

Crown Prosecutor Alexander Fleming said that it was unusual to be completely blinded by headlights and this could have been the result of drunkenness.

Judge Kennedy ordered continuation of bail pending judgment.

NEW YORK (CP)—People in Canada and the United States spent a record $1,274,444,000 last year for daily and Sunday newspapers, an American Newspaper Publishers Association reports.

"This is another indication that newspaper reading is the most universal and the most tenacious habit in our lives,' 'the ANPA's bureau of advertising says in its regular bulletin.

Last year's figure includes $65,539,000 for Canada and $1,208,905,000 for the U.S. Average weekday expenditure for newspaers was $184,000 in Canada and $2,948,000 in the U.S.

Woman 81 Plans Coronation Trip

TORONTO (CP) — Eighty-one-year-old Mrs. C. R. Cumberland of Toronto has lived under six British monarchs, but has never seen one crowned. She decided the other day it was time she did.

So she will fly to London today just 14 days after she made up her mind to take the trip.

The idea started while she was having lunch with her son 12 days ago. "My son asked me what I was scheming and I told him I thought I'd go to the Coronation."

She talked to the manager of an overseas tour agency and told him the same thing. When a cancellation came in, he booked her on the plane.

Mrs. Cumberland has a hotel booked in London and a seat for the Coronation procession at Marble Arch.

Farmers Agree Lift Blockade

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP)—Some 75 Kent and Essex farmers, members of the Southwestern Ontario Highway Association, agreed Wednesday night to suspend their blockade on construction of the new Toronto-Windsor dual-lane highway.

But they warned they would resume if Highways Minister George Doucett did not appear in Chatham Monday to confer with them on their grievances.

The meeting was called after 100 farmers earlier in the day picketed highway construction work near Comber, 20 miles west of here. They lined up in front of Peel Construction Company vehicles where the highway cuts through the farm of Leo Milloux and forced construction men to stop work.

No Secret Deal With Russia Tito Declares

BATAJNICA, Yugoslavia (AP)—President Tito today denounced "rumors" that Yugoslavia has begun secret negotiations to settle its bitter feud with Russia and the cominform satellites.

Earlier this week dispatches from Western newspapermen in Moscow reported a growing tendency toward more normal diplomatic exchanges between the Kremlin and Yugoslavia. Their relations have been at a minimum since Tito's regime was ousted from the cominform nearly five years ago for "nationalistic deviations" from the Soviet line.

Speaking to a crowd of several thousand persons gathered at Yugoslavia's big military air base here, Tito said "rumors have been circulated that we are dealing in secrecy with Russia."

NO IMPROVEMENT

Angrily waving a clenched fist, the Yugislav leader cried:

"From this place I say to you that relations between us and the U. S. S. R. and countries under its influence have not improved.

"On the frontier still, their rifles are shooting our guards. Their press is slandering us. If the U. S. S. R. has softened its propaganda, that is not enough for our country to change its attitude and fall into the arms of those who have so badly harmed us."

Reported Car Stolen, Fine Man

LINDSAY (ENS).—A conviction of creating a public mischief was registered against a 23-year-old Lindsay man, Ralph Crumm, in magistrate's court here Wednesday.

Crumm, it was alleged, had reported his car stolen to the town police to protect a friend, who had driven it without the owner's consent. According to evidence presented by Sgt. Gordon Eberts, Crumm had reported his car stolen when the sergeant and another officer had gone to investigate reports of a car being driven into the Lindsay St. bridge.

Further investigation revealed however, that another Lindsay youth, Will Williams, 20, had taken the car without the owner's consent, driven it into the bridge, and then discussed the matter with Crumm before deciding to report the car as stolen.

Williams was also brought into court, pleaded guilty to a charge of driving without a license, and fined $10 and $2.50 costs. It was because he had no license, Crumm said, that they had decided to make the false report. Crumm was fined $50 and costs for his part in the attempted hoax.

Father Lord Visits New St. Peter's

Warning his audience of 800 Separate School pupils that Christians, as well as pagans, could excude God from their hearts, the Rev. Daniel Lord, Tuesday afternoon, exhorted the children not to refuse Him admittance.

He used as the theme of his lecture the famous religious picture "The Light Of The World." Father Lord was introduced by Bill McGuire and thanked by Carol McGarrity.

During his brief stay in the city, Father Lord toured the new St. Peter's boys' school and said its auditorium was surpassed by none he had seen in his tours across the United States and Canada.

Entertainment before his afternoon lecture to the school children was provided by students from St. Cecilia's Convent: Theresa McCall, Betty Evans, Frances Heffernan, Frances Dorie, and Linda Allen.

Demand British Do Screening

PRESTATYN, Wales (AP) — Unionized government clerks demanded Wednesday that British civil servants working for U. S. military authorities here be screened by British instead of American security agents.

The Civil Service Clerical Association, a 150-member organization holding its annual conference here, heard a report that a British woman clerk working for the U. S. Air Force base at Burtonwood, England, had been photographed and fingerprinted in an American security check.

When the point was first raised Tuesday, a U. S. embassy spokesman said in London that both Americans and Britons are screened for certain jobs.

"We are not yet an occupied country," Tom Wells, a customs officer, said as the other delegates cheered. "If there is any screening to be done, it can be done quite adequately by our own security people."

Lindsay Wins From Bolsover

LINDSAY (ENS). — Bolsover, the new entry in the Tri-County Baseball league, almost pulled a surprise in their first appearance this year, before going down, 11-7, to Lindsay Walkwoods in the opening game here of the season, Wednesday night.

The visitors piled up a seven-run lead on three counters in the first and four in the fourth, before the locals came to life, and scoring one in the fourth and fifth, four in the sixth, and won the game on a Leeson's bases-loaded single in the seventh.

Garf Teel, starting Lindsay pitcher, was the batting star of the game, with three singles in four trips, but reliefer Hal Williams garnered a bases-clearing double in the big sixth, and Bill Parker also had a double and single. G. McGillvray, with two singles, led the visitors at the plate, as they garnered 11 hits against nine for the home club.

Constable Percy Mark and John Henley of the local police force, testified that they had found Whitfield sitting in his car on a Lindsay street early on Sunday morning this month, very intoxicated.

A girl was in the car with him and several empty beer bottles and an empty liquor bottle were scattered about the floor.

Whitfield pleaded not guilty, but did not receive a jail sentence since the new provision for fines for this offence is now in effect.

Coleville Field Paces Saskatchewan Development

REGINA (CP)—A good indication of the vast strides made by Saskatchewan's comparatively young petroleum and natural gas industry is the Coleville heavy-gravity oil field, about 110 miles southwest of Saskatoon and near the Alberta border.

In less than two years this lusty baby has grown to 101 producing wells to rank as Saskatchewan's second major producing field behind the two-decades-older Lloydminster field straddling the Saskatchewan-Alberta border further north.

In the 19 months since the discovery well was drilled in the summer of 1951, the development team of Royalite Oil Co. Ltd. and Canada Southern Oils Ltd. has come up with 101 wells capable of commercial production.

The prolific field to date has yielded 86 crude oil development wells, eight step-out producers extending its known limits two to three miles to cover approximately 8,000 acres of land, and seven natural gas producers.

REMARKABLE RECORD

In the entire program there has been only one dry hole drilled, a remarkable record.

The oil wells are capable of producing 13.5 - degree gravity crude on pump at a rate substantially in excess of the present 35 barrels a day, set by the operators for conservation and market reason. Their oil pay-zones average 25 feet in thickness.

There is duel production in wells over a large part of the field. Heavy oil is recovered from the Banff sands around 2,700 feet and natural gas in commercial quantity from the Viking sands at approximately 2,200 feet. Open-flow potential of the gas wells varies from 1,000,000 to 10,000,000 cubic feet daily.

The field's present oil production rate is approximately 2,500 barrels daily. Cumulative production to March 31 this year was 47,235 barrels, latest available figure.

So far, all production has been taken up by refineries at Coleville, Regina, Prince Albert, Saskatoon, Moose Jaw and Palo, Sask.

SERIES OF PIPELINES

The oil is gathered through a series of pipelines connecting with 13 production storage-tank batteries, consisting of two 750-barrel tanks in the centre of each quarter-section.

Terminal storage facilities at the railhead in Coleville village amount to 2,500 barrels. Two additional tanks with a capacity of 10,000 barrels apiece currently are being constructed there.

Coleville is the first Saskatchewan oil field to be completely electrified and all wells are equipped with electric pumps.

Last March Refinery Operators Ltd., Calgary, under an agreement with Royalite, completed a 5,000-barrel-a-day topping plant to process fuel oils, road oils, asphalt, distillates and a limited quantity of gasoline.

Another plant, expected to be in operation by June 1, will produce oxidized asphalts used in building materials and paints.

FLOOD RESCUER—This plane from the Alexandria Air Force Base, near Jonesville, Louisiana, was being used as a spotter plane over the flooded areas of southern Louisiana when it skidded off the highway into the water while attempting to land. The pilot was landing to make his report on the flood conditions to the officials on the road. None of the three occupants were seriously injured.

Elias said he started on the trip to seek a change in climate. Since he left home he has passed through 10 countries—Bolivia, Peru, Ecuador, Colombia, Panama, Costa Rica, El Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua and the United States.

Heart diseases caused more deaths than the next three causes combined with 1,575. Other causes: Vascular lesions affecting the central nervous system, 550, Cancer, 493, violent and accidental deaths, 236.

Big Jewelry Theft

NEW YORK (AP)—Jeweller John Rubel was lured to a hotel suite to show his wares Wednesday and was robbed of $56,500 in gems, police said. The size of the haul ranked it among the major jewelry thefts that have plagued midtown Manhattan for the last 17 months. The victim said he received a telephone call summoning him to a suite at the Hotel Gotham to display his merchandise for sale. A gunman showed up when he got there.

Judge Orders Licence Granted

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto police commission ruling refusing a man a taxi licence was reversed Wednesday by an Ontario Supreme Court judge.

Mr. Justice A. M. LeBel ruled that a licence must be issued to Thomas A. Ross.

Evidence was that Ross was a partner in a taxi business until his partner was drowned. Ross then applied for licences for three cabs. He has been appearing before the commission since 1951 but was finally turned down last April 2 without reasons being given.

"In effect, what the board has said is that a person may not now be licensed as an owner (of a taxicab) unless he holds a licence or licences to operate more than one cab," said Mr. Justice LeBel. "This is clearly discriminatory."

Radar Expert Invents New Modulation Form

CEDAR SPRINGS, Ont. (CP)—Fred Pardo, 32, a former RCAF radar expert, said in an interview Wednesday he has invented a new form of modulation which will allow trans-Atlantic transmission of television programs.

He said he has applied for patents on the invention and is awaiting permission to erect an experimental station to test the new transmitter.

The transmitter also could be applied to the transmission of wirephotos and would be of "utmost use" to planes flying in storms or fog, he said.

Introduce Bill End Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill calling for an end to an executive agreement under which Canada is diverting 5,000 cubic feet of water a second into the Great Lakes basin was introduced Wednesday by Representative Harold Ostertag (Rep. N.Y.).

Canada, since 1940, has been permitted under the agreement to divert the flows of the Long Lac and Ogoki rivers into Lake Superior. The rivers normally flow into Hudson Bay.

Canada obtained permission to change the flows to augment its hydro-electric supply during the Second World War. Ostertag said no provision was made for termination of the diversion.

He said residents of flooded areas on the Lake Ontario shorefront feel that the additional water coming into the Great Lakes has contributed to high water conditions.

Golden Links Plan Supper Meeting

MILLBROOK — (ENS) — The Golden Links Mission Circle of St. Andrew's United Church met at the home of Mrs. Eric Fallis with 29 members present.

Mrs. T. Wideman was in charge of the worship service, assisted by Mrs. Ernest Powell who offered prayer. Mrs. Eric Fallis gave the temperance report and Mrs. M. E. Hobbs, Circle president, told of the Mission Band rally she had attended in George Street Church.

Thank-you notes were received for messages of sympathy in bereavement and congratulations on the birth of a baby boy to one of the members.

Plans were made for a supper meeting at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Winslow in June. Members were asked to bring their plate, cup, saucer and cutlery

Mrs. Hobbs told of the success of the book "Labrador Nurse" whose author, Miss Bessie Banfill has visited the circle a number of times. A book club in the United States has chosen it as one of its books of the month.

The final chapters of the study book "Along African Trails," with excerpts from "African Airmail", were taken by Mrs. Bruce Ingham. These chapters sum up what has been accomplished by missions in the past and tell of plans for the future.

The circle welcomed back its honorary president, Mrs. W. E. Ball who has just returned from spending the winter in Florida.

Supper hostesses were Mrs. Lawrence Winslow, Mrs. Aubrey Fallis and Miss Edith Clarke.

Opens New School

TEESWATER, Ont. (CP)—Speaking at the official opening of the new $35,000 separate school here Wednesday night, Hon. W. J. Training should not be left to the school and church only.

US Firm Files Suit Against Canada

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—A Rochester firm Wednesday filed a $40,000 damage suit against the Canadian government alleging that Canada's Gut dam in the St. Lawrence river had raised the level of Lake Ontario and caused loss of profits at the firm's refreshment stands.

Ontario Refectories Inc. said in a claim filed in federal court here that it had lost business at stands on Ontario Beach and Durand-Eastman Park. It leases both stands from the city of Rochester.

The complaint followed several claims filed against Canada by lakefront property owners in the Rochester area.

Caught Seeking Self

MINNEDOSA, Man. (CP)—A car thief was captured Wednesday searching for himself. Alex Johnson, 28, of Birtle, Man., was sentenced to three months at hard labor after pleading guilty to taking a car without the owner's consent. Police said Johnson took a car, rammed it into a culvert, then joined a crowd watching a ball game. He was later arrested among the volunteers searching for the car thief.

Name Matheson Premier Of Province

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—Alex Matheson, a comparative newcomer to politics, has been chosen the new leader of Prince Edward Island Liberals and premier of the province.

A towering 50-year-old lawyer and former school teacher, Mr. Matheson Wednesday was named to succeed Premier J. Walter Jones at a Liberal caucus Wednesday. Mr. Jones has been appointed to the Senate.

Mr. Matheson, who is health minister, edged Attorney-General Walter E. Darby 13-11 on the second ballot. Four other nominees were eliminated on the first.

Six-feet, six inches with a shock of unruly blond hair, the premier-elect was born in June, 1903, at Bellevue, P. E. I., and has been in the legislature three terms.

FORMER TEACHER

Educated in public schools and at Prince of Wales College here, he taught school for several years before he began studying law.

He opened his own practice in 1935. Two years later he married the former Helen B. Farquharson of Charlottetown. They have five children, three boys and two girls.

Mr. Matheson first entered the House in 1940 but was defeated when he offered for re-election in 1943. He went back into the legislature in 1947 and was re-elected in 1951. He was appointed health and welfare minister in 1948.

Mr. Jones, 75, has not yet resigned his premiership and is awaiting official word of his Senate appointment from Ottawa.

Mr. Matheson probably will not name his cabinet until early next week. So far there has been no speculation on possible changes.

There are 24 Liberals and six Progressive Conservatives in the House.

New Agreement At Chalk River

TORONTO (CP)—A new labor agreement, covering some 700 of the 1,500 employees at the Chalk River atomic energy plant has been signed by Atomic Energy of Canada Limited and a council of AFL unions, it was announced Wednesday.

Russell Harvey, AFL director of organizations in Ontario, said the new agreement supersedes the first official agreement reached between the union and the Crown company in August, 1952.

Harvey said the new two-year agreement reduces the work week of hourly employees from a 48- and 45-hour-week to 42½ hours the first year and down to 40 hours the second year. He said the contract also provides the hourly employees with a general wage increase of four cents next April.

Church-Going Stressed To Orangemen

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Continued regular attendance at church to defeat the threat of godlessness was stressed Wednesday by Elias Grey, Toronto, grand master of the Grand Orange Lodge, Ontario West.

Mr. Grey was addressing delegates from Northern and Western Ontario to the annual sessions of the grand lodge.

Mr. Grey said: "The responsibility resting on the present Orange Order was never greater with so great an influx entering our country from Europe. We must be strong and quit ourselves like men so our children may be able to enjoy the freedom you and I have known."

MARCH TO CENOTAPH

Delegates marched to the cenotaph at Victoria Park where wreaths were placed by the grand masters of the Grand Black chapter, Ontario West and the Grand Lodge. The parade was directed by the grand marshals, J.R. Clarke Sudbury, and R. B. Hansberger, St. Catharines, and W. B. Clipperton, marshal of county of Middlesex lodge.

The St. Laurent government was charged with trying to make Canada another Southern Ireland by W. J. Armstrong, Toronto, editor of the official Canadian Orange organ.

"The present policy of the government at Ottawa would direct us to become a backward, ecclesiastically-controlled country with little hope for the future," Mr. Armstrong told the delegates.

He charged that the federal government is trying to force onto the major portion of Canada the aims of French Canadian nationalism.

Pay Surprise Reformatory Visit

GUELPH (CP) — The Ontario legislature's select committee on reform institutions paid a surprise visit Wednesday to the reformatory here in the course of a tour of provincial prisons.

The committee watched the prisoners in the chow line. Later members ate the same food. Macaroni soup, cold sliced ham, baked beans, roast potatoes and gravy, Canadian cheddar cheese, butterscotch pie and coffee made up the menu.

The Guelph reformatory is generally rated as Ontario's best reform institution. Next month, the committee plans to spend most of a week making a thorough inspection and cross-examination of superintendent, guards and inmates.

From general impressions of the members, the reformatory was rated as extremely well run. The main question seemed to be: "What is it doing for reform?" Reaction was that the training program was limited and not likely to equip an inmate too well for civilian life.

Members expressed amazement at the severity of some sentences. Theft of 2¢ cents worth of copper was said to have brought one youth a year in the reformatory. Another, for theft of a bicycle, was sentenced to two years less a day, part of which was indefinite.

Kelly Performs Aerobatics For Visiting Duke

NORTH LUFFENHAM, Eng. (CP)—The fancy flying of Flt. Lt. Dean Kelly of Peterborough, the RCAF's trick flying ace was featured when the Duke of Edinburgh wearing the uniform of a marshal of the RAF, today paid his first visit to this RCAF fighter base.

With characteristic zest, the Duke "did" the station thoroughly. He inspected a guard of honor, watched a flypast of Sabre jets, fired five bursts on a practice range, talked to airmen, their wives and children and spent about eight minutes in the cockpit of a Sabre.

FO. Ralph Biggar of Midland, Ont., chief test pilot at No. 1 fighter wing, briefed the Duke on the complicated array of buttons and valves inside the fighter. Airmen said Philip must have asked questions about practically every gadget in the aircraft.

The Duke drew sallies of laughter while chatting informally with a group of 12 Canadian wives. Talking to Mrs. Vivienne Bricker of Chilliwack, B. C., he pointed to a crowd of Canadian children standing nearby.

"Are those all yours?" he asked.

BROKE SOUND BARRIER

The Duke saw a spectacular display of aerobatics by Flt Lt. Kelly. Kelly broke the sonic barrier but the bang was not audible to the hundreds of visitors and reporters gathered here for the Royal visit.

The air-minded Duke, who recently received his own wings, showed interest in the operations room and hangar, asking questions which showed his knowledge of the subject. Then he went to the edge of the airfield and fired five bursts on a practice gun at 1,000 yards. All hit the bull's-eye.

He shook hands with each of the 14 Sabre pilots and spoke to some of them, asking about the ejector seats and whether the pilots had ever used parachutes. He said he would like to "have a go" at flying a Sabre jet.

Farm's Taxes Reduced By $170

Reduction of $170.10 in the taxes on the Dickson Farm, also known as the Roberts farm, on the east side of Armour Road, was granted by the council Tuesday night.

This property of the Dickson estate is within the city, but it is farm land in its 162 acres, and is used only for that purpose. The location is south of the Liftlock and Marsh St.

Reductions were granted specifically under such public provisions as fire protection, street lighting, road maintenance, particularly in the paving and sweeping of roads and their general repair, garbage collection, and sidewalk costs. The farm property had nothing to gain from those urban benefits, and for that reason as provided by statute application was made to the council by Gordon Monro for consideration of the rural property within the city.

With the reduction of $170 in the 1953 taxes, the balance payable to the city treasury is $761.28.

Two Transports, Car Collide On Highway 2

COBOURG (ENS)—Two transports and a doctor's car figured in a three vehicle collision Wednesday night, a few miles west of here on No. 2 Highway. A transport driven by Russel W. McCartney of Toronto pulled up quickly, when a car ahead suddenly slowed down as if to make a left turn.

The car then increased speed and disappeared. A truck following the first transport, which was driven by Wallace J. Root of Peterborough, ran into the back of the first one and then a car behind the second truck driven by Dr. Cecil Osborne of Ingersoll collided with it. Damage was not heavy to any of the vehicles.

Band To Play In Korea Parade

By BILL BOSS

IN KOREA (CP)—The band of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry will play in the Commonwealth Division's Coronation day parade after all, it was decided today.

In a discussion between Brig. Jean Allard, Canadian brigade commander, and Maj.-Gen. Michael West, division commander, it was agreed to revise parade arrangements so that the Patricias may participate. They probably will play the national anthem. Three other Commonwealth bands will also be in the parade.

The meeting was held after Brig. Allard received a cabled request from Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, Canadian chief of staff, for a report on the band's acceptability for the parade. The cable said its departure from Canada was being delayed pending a reply.

Gen. West and Brig. Allard agreed that the band should play for division units after the Coronation parade, particularly for the Canadians on Dominion day.

A mix-up regarding the band's part in the Coronation parade developed earlier this week when Brig. Allard was informed that the band would be in Korea for the parade. Gen. West replied that the band was not wanted for the parade.

It developed later that Gen. Simonds had discussed arrangements with Lt.-Gen. H. H. Wells, commander-in-chief of the Commonwealth forces in Korea, who wanted the band for Coronation day ceremonies at Kure. It was suggested here that Gen. Simonds had confused Gen. Wells' Australian pronunciation of "Kure" for "Korea."

Admiral Mainguy To Be Speaker

Vice-Admiral E. R. Mainguy, Chief of the Naval Staff of Canada, will be the speaker at the meeting of the United Services Institute at the armouries Monday May 25. This will be the final meeting of the season which has extended through the winter. Already some engagements have been made for the fall series.

The Chief of the Naval Staff comes from the Pacific coast. He was born at Chemainus, B. C., May 11, 1901, and entered the Royal Naval College at Halifax, in 1915. He served on board HMS Canada towards the close of the First World War.

Service and training with the Royal Navy, including staff work, was completed about the time Vice-Admiral Mainguy was appointed in 1939 to command the destroyer Assiniboine. In Nov. 1942 he was appointed Chief of Naval Personnel and a member of the Naval Board at headquarters, and subsequently was commanding officer of HMCS Uganda, a modern cruiser.

The Uganda was to have been the vanguard of a fleet of 60 Canadian warships in the war against Japan, but as events turned out she was the only Canadian warship to see action in the last phases of the Pacific war.

The Vice-Admiral may speak here on some of his recent experiences in the Korean theatre by land and sea.

Second Nurse Engaged By Civic Department

Dr. J. P. Wells, medical officer of health, reported today that another nurse has been employed by the Peterborough Department of Health.

Miss Guinevere Nicholl, a native of Newfoundland, will start with the department July 1. She trained in Grace Hospital, St. John's Newfoundland and is a graduate of the School of Nursing, University of Toronto.

Wednesday Dr. Wells reported that Miss Lois Galvin, public health nurse from London, Ont., had been engaged. With the acceptance of Miss Nicholl's application the department needs only two more nurses to carry out the services included in agreements pending with the Board of Education and the Separate School Board.

Suggest Standard Assessment Methods

OSHAWA (CP)—The unstandardized municipal assessment systems in the province are responsible for a complicated plan for determining school grants by the Ontario department of education, S. D. Randall, assistant superintendent of secondary education, said today.

Addressing delegates to the Associated High School Boards convention, Mr. Randall said:

"As the municipalities face up to their assessment problems, we can improve our grant structure. It is a complicated system and you would be right if you were critical of it. I think simplification will come in time."

Citizens Asked Join Celebration

Acting Mayor T. D. Miller made a special appeal to the citizens Monday night for co-operation with the coronation committee in the celebration on June 2:

"We are fast approaching one of the most important events in our history, namely, the coronation of Queen Elizabeth. I am certain that every true Canadian will enter into the spirit of the celebration with a greater degree of enthusiasm than is our usual custom.

"The coronation committee has organized a program which I am sure will do justice to the occasion. The matter of decorations throughout the city is one of great importance, and it is with this in mind that I appeal to our industrial and business concerns, and to all citizens in general to decorate our factories, business sections and private homes. May I suggest that decorations be put up at least one week prior to the coronation on June 2.

"I hereby make this appeal to all our citizens to take this opportunity of showing our national pride and loyalty to our queen.

"The coronation committee respectfully solicits your support of all their plans and program."

70 Patients Taken On By VON During Month

The largest number of patients for one month this year—70—were admitted during April by the Peterborough Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses.

Miss Harriet McGeary, nurse-in-charge, reported that 35 of these patients were maternity and newborn cases, 34 for medical and surgical care, and one for health instruction, in her report at the VON Board of Directors meeting Wednesday.

She also reported that 406 visits were made by nurses during the month. Of this total, 318 were for nursing care and 86 for health instruction.

Given $5,350 Case Settled Out Of Court

Motorcyclist Hurt In Crash With Dump Truck

In an out-of-court settlement Earl Howson, 23-year-old service station attendant who lives at RR 7, Peterborough, on Wednesday was given $5,350 cash in compensation for injuries and expenses incurred in a dump truck-motorcycle accident more than two years ago near Downer's Corners.

Howson was driving his motorcycle east along Highway 7 when a dump truck driven by Manley Neff of RR 1, Indian River, backed south across the highway from Burns' service station. Howson crashed into the truck and was thrown heavily onto the driveway of the service station.

He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital with a badly broken left leg, facial cuts and bruises. As yet he is still unable to do his former job.

TWO DEFENDANTS

Defendants were Neff, driver of the truck, and Charles V. Wood, the owner.

Minutes of settlement, endorsed by Mr. Justice McLennan in Supreme Court, include:

1. Wood and Neff pay Howson $5,350 cash.
2. Wood gives Howson 28 promissory notes for $50 each, without interest, beginning June 20.
3. Wood and Neff give Howson $500 in cash for costs.

W. J. Arthur Fair, QC, was counsel for Howson, and T. J. Carley, QC, was counsel for the defendants.

Hearing Ordered On Union Charge Of Electioneering

The Ontario Labor Relations Board have ordered a hearing on the appeal of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (CIO-CCL) against the union vote at the Canadian Raybestos Co. plant on April 29.

In that vote the IUE were defeated 63 to 62 by the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (Indep.) who remained the bargaining agents for the 127 production workers at the plant. An application for certification had previously been made by the IUE and sufficient cards were filed for the OLRB to order a vote.

The IUE claim that the UE broke the OLRB rule that there should be a blackout on electioneering for 72 hours before the vote.

SAID WOULD APPEAL

Immediately after the vote Joe Wirtz, IUE Canadian co-ordinator, said the IUE would appeal. He said that a UE steward started a 25-cent pool on the size of the expected UE majority on the voting day. Presumably to influence those who had not already cast a ballot. And he claimed there was additional evidence of electioneering that would be presented to the OLRB.

Ralph Sullivan, UE area representative, replied at the time that it was an attempt by the IUE to disrupt negotiations between the company and Local 527, UE, who are trying to come up with a new contract. Mr. Sullivan said that there was ample evidence that the IUE themselves were electioneering.

The OLRB hearing will be 9:30 p.m. June 17 in Toronto.

But Pleasant

Most places in southern Ontario were warmer than Peterborough on Wednesday when the mercury went up to a maximum of 71—two degrees below the noon temperature today. Other southern Ontario centres had temperatures of: Windsor 74, London 73, Toronto 73, and Ottawa 75. However the city's temperature was more than 20 degrees above the maximum at Port Arthur of 50.

Woman Injured In Accident Sues For $2,000

Evidence is being heard today in Supreme Court in a civil suit for $2,250 brought against Adrian Devlin of 474 Park St. N. by Mr. and Mrs. George R. Cutmore, formerly of Peterborough but now living at RR 1, Omemee.

Mrs. Cutmore was severely injured on the night of Jan. 29, 1951, when she was either hit or ran into the side of a car driven by Devlin. The accident occurred at the south-east corner of George and Dublin Sts. as the Cutmores started to cross the intersection to catch a southbound George St. bus.

The 23-year-old housewife was knocked to the pavement by the impact and later was taken to hospital where she remained for 12 days. She suffered multiple injuries to her right leg and hand, her arms and the back of her head.

CLAIM NEGLIGENCE

Mrs. Cutmore is asking for $2,000 in compensation for her injuries, claiming that Devlin, the driver, was negligent. Her husband is asking for $250 to cover out-of-pocket expenses he incurred during his wife's hospitalization and convalescence.

Devlin claims that Mrs. Cutmore ran into the side of his car and her injury was her own fault.

George Cutmore, husband of the injured woman, said he and his wife were walking west along the south sidewalk of Dublin St. He said as he stepped off the curb, ahead of his wife, there was no motor traffic coming from the south but there was a car against the curb with its parking lights on, 90 yards away.

After taking three paces forward he looked south again, he told the court, and he saw a car, just a car length away, moving north.

"I jumped towards the centre of the road and the car went behind me," he said. "When the car had gone past I saw my wife lying half on the south-east curb and half on the road. . . She was sitting down. Her glasses were still on her face—one lense was broken. She was very excited."

He conceded that he did not see the impact.

W. J. Arthur Fair, QC, is counsel for Devlin. Robert Carley is counsel for the Cutmores. Mr. Justice McLennan is presiding at the second week of the non-jury sittings.

The case is continuing.

Petitioners Protest Fuel Oil Tanks

Ware St. Residents Ask Council To Refuse Permission

Roy Mathews presented the Ware St. petition to the Council Tuesday night objecting to the recommendation of the finance committee permitting Jones Brothers to instal fuel oil tank at their fuel yard at 81 Ware St., adjacent to the CNR.

The total of close to 100 signatures included a few residents extending to Crescent St., but the others were of Ware St. and most of them property owners.

The business was begun in 1935 by Percy Edwards, who was succeeded in 1941 by W. J. Nelson. About seven years ago Jones Brothers bought the place from Mr. Nelson.

Mr. Mathews said the people were opposed to the application because oil tanks would increase fire hazard, cause objectionable odor from oil leakage, and generally affect property values. He also said that the proprietors had not maintained the coal storage buildings in repair, and that nothing was done to give the premises any favorable appearance.

It was also emphasized that the area had been zoned for residential purposes, and the Ware St. people felt that no weakening of that provision should be made.

Even if the tanks were placed under ground, Mr. Mathews said that only recently Ald. H. T. Rehill had expressed about the effectiveness of that method in preventing fire hazard.

Acting Mayor Miller said that any business established prior to zoning would not be affected by the bylaw when it was passed. Council in committee of the whole deferred action until an opportunity was given Jones Brothers to be heard next Monday night.

Lindbergh Crossed Atlantic On First Flight 26 Years Ago

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—The weather over the Atlantic had cleared at last.

And so, early in the morning 26 years ago Wednesday, the airplane was rolled from its hangar. A crowd gathered around the young man who was preparing to enter it.

"You taking only five sandwiches?" he was asked.

"Yes," he said with a grin. "That's enough. If I get to Paris I won't need any more, and if I don't get to Paris I won't need any more, either."

The young man climbed in. The heavily loaded plane—it carried 458 gallons of gasoline—roared down the runway, and at 7:32 a.m., it took unsteadily to the air. It almost struck a road scraper, and it barely cleared the telegraph wires.

The AP bulletin read:

"Roosevelt Field, New York, May 20—(AP)—Charles A. Lindbergh, 'captain' to the Missouri national guard but 'Slim' to his buddies, set out today on an unmarked air trail for Paris.

"The Missourian, who plays a lone hand, had no one to show him the way as he hurled his Ryan monoplane, the Spirit of St. Louis, into the muggy air over Roosevelt Field. . ."

When the Spirit of St. Louis finally settled down on the airfield at Le Bourget near Paris, 33 hours and 28 minutes after the take-off, the scene was unbelievable.

The bewildered Lindbergh was met by 150,000 hysterical people. . . the reception committee, the guards, the steel fences, all were mowed down by the crowd. A reporter described it this way: "One of history's greatest mob scenes."

Council Criticizes Mayor Giving Grant

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Controller Hugh Simpson told city council Wednesday a $150 expense account grant was paid by mayor Arthur J. Reaume before approval of the grant was sought two weeks ago.

The money went to Sgt. Thomas S. Coulson of the Essex Scottish Regiment who will attend the Coronation.

Council, after criticizing the mayor for his action, voted unanimously to have the money deducted from the mayor's expense account rather than from the sundry grant account. Mayor Reaume was not at the meeting.

Municipal Excise Tax Order Imposition Mayors Told

TORONTO (CP)—The federal government's insistence that municipalities must not only pay the excise tax on their municipal purchases, but also the 10-per-cent sales tax, is an "iniquitous imposition," Barry Atkinson, reeve of East Sandwich, said Wednesday.

In his presidential report to the annual convention of the Association of Ontario Reeves and Mayors, Mr. Atkinson said:

"It is a strange anomaly that the federal government sees fit to exempt the provincial governments from these taxes on all their purchases, yet does not see fit to do so in the case of municipal councils, utilities, commissions and school boards."

Mr. Atkinson said the most disturbing and most important part of the municipal burden is educational costs, which are fast becoming a national emergency.

ASKS MORE UNDERSTANDING

He asked Ontario legislators be more understanding towards municipal problems and not be so arbitrary.

Mayors and reeves in their first session criticized the ratio of the per capita grants which the province will start paying next year.

The grants range from $1.50 a person in municipalities under 2,000 to $4 in municipalities over 750,000.

William Orr, deputy minister for Municipal affairs, said the grants are weighted in favor of the large centres because they have greater welfare costs as well as others not faced by smaller municipalities.

Elmer Brandon, Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario legislature for York West, said the provincial-municipal fiscal committee will study the possibility of splitting the province into 19 economic areas for the administration of certain services. One such service would be children's aid.

$2,000 Damage Suit Dismissed In Court

KITCHENER (CP)—A damage suit for $2,000 against Earl O'Loughlin of Stratford was dismissed Wednesday when the plaintiff, Peter Romanick, failed to appear in court.

Romanick is in penitentiary after being convicted in an abortion case.

The action arose out of an accident in July, 1950, on Highway No. 8 when cars driven by Romanick and O'Loughlin collided.

2 Leaders Have Similar Aims

NEW YORK (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Wednesday he believes there are "no real differences in the aims" of Prime Minister Churchill and President Eisenhower.

In a shipboard interview before his departure aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth for the Coronation, St. Laurent said:

"Both desire to bring about whatever is necessary to relieve world tensions. There may appear to be diverging views as to when it is effective to make positive steps toward conciliatory discussions."

But on the whole, the two leaders were in agreement on goals.

St. Laurent was in high spirits as he boarded the liner with Mrs. St. Laurent and their daughter, Mrs. Frank Lafferty.

Also aboard the Elizabeth when it sailed at 12:30 p.m. EDT were Lieutenant-Governor Louis Breithaupt of Ontario, Premier Frost of Ontario and Mayor Allan Lamport of Toronto.

WALKS 62 MILES—Celebrating her own birthday, as well as the official observance of the Queen's birthday, Mrs. Brandt Johnston, 62, of Toronto, walked 62 miles from Beamsville, Ont., to Toronto in 16 hours. She took an estimated 165,000 steps. Last year on her 61st birthday she walked 61 miles. Every 10 miles or so she took off her ruuning shoes and let the soles of her feet feel the earth. She broke into a run every few miles. Next morning, up bright and early she "did a great big washing." Her son, 24, helps her change socks.

Underwater Camera Team Plan Galapagos Expedition

LONDON (Reuters)—Hans and Lotte Hass, Austrian husband-wife team who make their living facing man-eating sharks and other undersea monsters armed only with a camera, are organizing an expedition to the Galapagos islands.

Hass, a bronzed six-footer with a Van Dyke beard, and his tiny blonde wife have taken some of the most amazing undersea pictures the world has seen.

They have bought a 350-ton three-mastered schooner for an eight-month trip to the islands, a naturalists' paradise 650 miles west of Ecuador. With them next July will go 10 crew members and eight scientists, including a doctor and a biologist.

Hass, 33, says he is particularly interested in meeting a ferocious sawfish, often 5-foot long, who rules the roost in the Pacific islands; there is also a large octupus which has never been photographed under water.

The husband-wife team made their reputation—and their money—with a movie called "Red Sea Adventure." It won first prize at the Venice film festival two years ago.

Lotte, one-time Vienna stenographer, operates in a one-piece swimsuit with a glass mask over her face and a cylinder of oxygen strapped to her chest. Twice she has had spells in hospitals—one unappreciative devil fish clouted her as she tried to photograph the pilot fish that live in the monsters' jaws.

The couple have a theory about sharks—just yell and they go away.

"Lotte once sat on a coral rock looking like a mermaid with her long blonde hair floating about her, pushing away the sharks as they came up one after another," said Hass.

On their last expedition, in 1952, they took photographs of fish and coral formations along the Great Barrier Reef, off Australia.

Australian experts pointed out more than 250 persons had been killed by sharks in Australian waters in the last 15 years and gave the couple a month to live. They lived, but admitted the Australian sharks were the most dangerous they have dealt with.

ELIZABETH the Queen

By Marion Crawford

Former Governess to Her Majesty

XIV

In my time at the Palace, Princess Elizabeth's secretary was Mr. John Colville, known to everyone as Jock. He is abrilliant young man who was on Winston Churchill's staff during the early part of the war, before he insisted on joinnig the RAF.

Each day Jock would drive to the Palace from his mother's charming little house in Mulberry Walk, Chelsea, and go through the Princess's correspondence.

He had an office just along the passage from the Princess's rooms to which he would be summoned when she was ready to read her letters.

It is a popular misconception that Royalty are surrounded by Advisers—men appointed with the sole object of guiding them through all the moves of their lives.

This is not so. The Royal Family, at least, have very firm ideas of their own about what they are going to do. But naturally they do depend on their secretaries to advise them about things outside their experience.

In this way Princess Elizabeth will go through the many, many requests she gets—to open this bazaar, or name that ship—and pick the ones she thinks most worthy out of a thousand-and-one requests.

It is her secretary's job to make sure that she does not pick the one which for some reason might start one of those wrangles which occur when people of prejudice feel they have been slighted.

For example, Royalty have to be careful what connection they have with religious organizations outside the Church of England of which the King is officially the temporal head.

It is here that the secretary's knowledge is so valuable. He can say, "Ma'am, I think it would be better to refuse that offer. If you accept, there might be some hard feelings among so and so . . ."

In this respect only can the secretary be called an adviser.

I remember feeling very sorry for both Jock and "Boy" Browning when they were publicly taken to task by a certain newspaper for "allowing" Princess Elizabeth to make so many engagements so soon after the birth of Princess Anne.

I sympathize with the secretary and the Comptroller because Queen Elizabeth is a reasonable person in all save one direction; she will not listen to pleas to spare herself.

✧ ✧ ✧

I remember once when Princess Elizabeth was still in her teens she woke one day feeling very ill indeed. But it was all I could do to persuade her to stay in bed.

"I must not take the easy way out, Crawfie," she kept insisting, and this while she had a temperature which would have put most people out of action for two or three days.

This is a fair example of what her secretary and Comptroller have to deal with. Jock came to me one day to complain: "Crawfie, I wish you'd speak to the Princess. She will take on such an enormous program. She won't listen to me when I tell her she is working too hard. She just says, 'Jock, I can't disappoint all those people'."

I told him there was little I could do. I always found Princess Elizabeth most amenable if I were appealing to her on behalf of someone else. But if I approached her about herself, she would brush my protests aside.

"I've just got to do it Crawfie," she would say. "After all, it's my job."

"Crawfie," Princess Elizabeth said to me just before she left to inspect the Grenadier Guards whose Commander in Chief she had just become at the age of 16, "I've got such a fluttering reeling inside."

But she never let her "nerves" affect her performance.

(To be continued)

While serving with the ATS (British equivalent of the WACs), Princess Elizabeth could change a tire, drive or repair a truck with the best of them.

PRINCESS MARGARET has a smile for Prince Bertil, of Sweden, as they leave the church at Asker, near Oslo, following the wedding of Princess Ragnhild of Norway and Erling Svend Lorentzen, a commoner. Cabled Texts Should Help UK Papers Say LONDON (AP) — The British press voiced hope today that the current "slams across the sea" relationship between the United States and Britain could be cooled by keeping the record straight.

The announcement by Prime Minister Churchill that he will cable Washington the text of major British speeches on foreign affairs was greeted with approving editorials.

Anglo-U.S. relations hit a low last week after Senator Joseph McCarthy's attack on Churchill and Clement Attlee, leader of the Labor party.

McCarthy denounced Attlee as a "traitor" for saying some elements in America oppose peace in Korea. He accused Churchill of "meekly nodding his head" while Attlee made a number of other points against U.S. foreign policy in a House of Commons debate.

RIGHT STEP

The Liberal News Chronicle, commenting on Churchill's decision to cable the texts, said:

"It will always be easier to cable a speech than to get it perused by busy Senators and congressmen. Still, the knowledge that a text is, or soon will be, available may tend to curb the exhilarating though dangerous practice of shooting from the hip."

The Conservative Daily Telegraph said Churchill runs the risk "of being charged with locking the stable door after the horse has escaped, but called his move one which would minimize future misunderstanding.

"Prompt use of such material on the other side of the Atlantic," the Telegraph said, "may prevent responsible men from falling into errors such as are unavoidable when they have to rely on garbled extracts.

"But it is useless to expect this latest step to stop all misunderstanding. The verbatim text will give the context of a remark, but not the atmosphere, which can subtly alter the impression left by the bare words."

The pro-Labor Daily Herald, which delivered two bristling front page editorial attacks on McCarthy last week, said some good came of the McCarthy-Attlee outburst after all. It added:

"As a result of the furore many Americans who would not normally have heard British opinions at all are hearing them now."

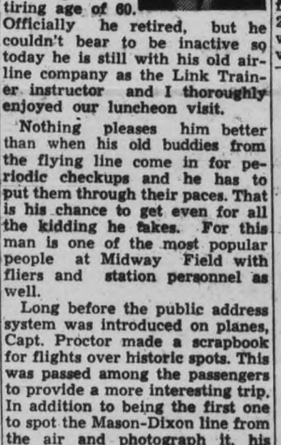
Veteran Pilot Discovers Mason-Dixon Line Real

CHICAGO — Capt. Willis H. Proctor, a veteran who combined his passionate interest in photography and history for a fascinating hobby is the man who first photographed and proved that there was a Mason-Dixie line.

In 1950 Capt. Proctor became the first commercial airline pilot in the U.S. to conclude his flying career on reaching the retiring age of 60. Officially he retired, but he couldn't bear to be inactive so today he is still with his old airline company as the Link Trainer instructor and I thoroughly enjoyed our luncheon visit.

Nothing pleases him better than when his old buddies from the flying line come in for periodic checkups and he has to put them through their paces. That is his chance to get even for all the kidding he takes. For this man is one of the most popular people at Midway Field with fliers and station personnel as well.

Long before the public address system was introduced on planes, Capt. Proctor made a scrapbook for flights over historic spots. This was passed among the passengers to provide a more interesting trip. In addition to being the first one to spot the Mason-Dixon line from the air and photograph it, his interest in history led him to investigate the old Santa Fe Trail. He did the trip on the ground this time and his story received national publication.



Capt. Proctor has had an interesting career. Before becoming a pilot he dabbled in real estate in Florida and did some trapping in Canada. He used to set his traps and make the rounds daily just to keep active and in good shape.

The veteran pilot made his first flight from Ellington Field, Texas, in 1918 and he served as a combat pilot during the First World War. After his discharge as a second lieutenant he went to Cocoanut Grove, Fla., where he ran a real estate office and hardware store and presided as judge of the Municipal Court.

Shortly ater joining Colonial Airlines (predecessor company of American Airlines) he was made chief pilot. When the line merged with American, he continued to fly as a captain for the enlarged company.

Proctor was recalled to active duty in 1942 and became commanding officer of the 26th Transport Group A.T.C. The following year, he served as personal pilot for General Marshall and in 1944 became air inspector of the China-Burma-India wing of A.T.C. Later he was commanding officer of the wing and returned to the United States in 1945 — a colonel with the Air Medal. As soon as he was discharged he resumed flying for American Airlines.

This pilot has flown 3,200,000 miles over 42 states and 16 different countries. He has made 24,768 landings and take-offs while flying 150,000 passengers without a single accident.

HOBBY PROVES USEFUL Capt. Willis H. Proctor of Chicago, a veteran airlines pilot, combined his hobby of photography and history for a useful pastime. He discovered from the air that there was a Mason-Dixon line and photographed it. He also investigated the Santa Fe Trail.—(American Airlines Photo)

Army Expects Gradual Change In Weapons

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Army is looking ahead to a series of gradual changes in weapons and ammunition if the big hurdle of rifle standardization with the United Kingdom and the United States can be cleared.

The current outlook on that pivotal problem is one of guarded optimism. Defence Minister Claxton put this into words briefly during the recent session of Parliament when he told members that prospects are encouraging.

The army reports that prospects are considerably more encouraging than they were, say, 18 months ago. But rifle standardization continues to be a long, slow process and there is no immediate sign that general agreement is close to the horizon.

In the meantime, the Canadian Army continues to use virtually the same small arms as in the Second World War, to work with the British and Americans in trying to narrow the differences concerning the rifle or, more precisely, rifle ammunition, and to look ahead to a day when the way will be open for changes in the rifle and other weapons.

READY TO GO

Given Anglo-American - Canadian agreement on a common round of rifle ammunition, the army would be set to go on a series of changes over a period of time. The first would be a switch from the .303-calibre Lee-Enfield rifle to something that is lighter and which is at least partly automatic.

Along with that there would be a program of revamping the Bren light machinegun—the core of infantry fire now—to handle the new rifle round just as it now handles the same .303 ammunition as the Lee-Enfield.

Then there would be a move to replace the Vickers medium machinegune and, eventually there would be a shift from the Bren to another, more modern light machinegun. It is not impossible, the way things are shaping up, that a way will be found to produce a weapon that would merge the talents and the responsibilities of the medium and light machineguns.

BIG FIREPOWER BOOST

This would give the basic fighting unit, the infantry section, a big boost in firepower. But there is no certainty now that this hybrid weapon can be produced.

Meanwhile, the great barrier of standardization remains, Canada prodding and the U. S. and Britain gradually whittling away their differences, some of which are rooted in things quite apart from the rifle itself.

One is a differing concept of tactics and the role of the rifle in that context. Another is the fact that Britain's need for a decision is more urgent than that of the U. S. which has enormous stocks of its existing .300 Garand rifle.

Enough has been said to indicate that a common bullet is no longer pipedream. But it's not a certainty either.

Report $772 Raised By Lakefield Society

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—Mrs. Douglas Davis, chairman of the Lakefield unit of the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Cancer Society, reports that final receipts of the recent drive were very gratifying with a total of $772.65 received. The canvass was carried on by the following organizations, headed by the Lakefield Women's Institute, the Lion's Club, the Catherine Parr Trail Chapter, IODE, the Home and School Association, the Beaver Club and district Institutes from Selwyn, Buckhorn, Hails Glen and Nephton.

Mrs. George Graham is secretary of the Lakefield Unit and Mrs. Wilbert Abbott, Health convener of the Institute is a committee member.

Many dinosaur skeletons have been unearthed in the Red Deer Valley of Alberta.

SENATE APPOINTEE—Mrs. Marianna Beauchamp Jodoin, of Montreal, 71, has been appointed to the Senate by Prime Minister St. Laurent. Mrs. Jodoin termed her appointment an honor to the province of Quebec. A widow with one son, three daughters and seven grandchildren, she has been active in politics for 27 years.

LINES ARE BEING DRAWN as the Philippine Islands get ready for next November's presidential elections with a bitter fight in the Liberal Party's convention. Carlos P. Romulo, (left) well known to Americans, demanded that President Elpidio Quirino (centre) withdraw as the candidate for the Liberal Party's convention. Quirino refused so Romolu resigned as ambassador to Washington and chief delegate to the UN, and entered the race against him. Romolu charges Quirino has wrought "political confusion" and "social decay." Will Step Up Canada's Defence Orders

OTTAWA (CP)—The British government announced Wednesday it is taking new action to step up Canada's defence orders with Britain, the United Kingdom information office here said.

First of "a number of measures" will be the assignment of two officials to Canada to deal with requirements of the Canadian armed forces that could be supplied by Britain.

The U.K. office said announcement of the steps was made in the House of Commons at London Wednesday by Nigel Burch, parliamentary secretary to Defence Minister Alexander.

It came as an answer to a British member's question concerning an April 23 statement in the House of Commons here by Defence Production Minister Howe, who said Canada favors giving Britain the preference in defence buying whenever price, delivery dates and quality justify this.

Mr. Burch said the British government warmly welcomes Mr. Howe's statement and "will play its full part." Every effort was being made to obtain Canadian orders, and a number of measures already had been decided upon.

Barbara Brent's BUYS AND WHYS
A WEEKLY INFORMATION SERVICE

MONTREAL, May 21st—Here's a brand new taste treat. It's the NEW INSTANT CHASE & SANBORN COFFEE. What's new about it? The very thing that makes it so completely good . . . it's 100% real coffee. You see, it's made by a new "Natural Flavour" process that keeps the flavour and aroma—yes, the very colour and texture of freshly ground coffee. And talk about magic! New Instant Chase & Sanborn dissolves like a flash in hot or cold water. Incidentally, it's wonderfully economical. Saves me up to 40c a pound compared with regular coffee. Once you've tried it, you'll want to make it your regular coffee.

Want To Know How To Make A Better Lemon Pie? The secret is to use the finest, juiciest lemons to be had. And that means SUNKIST LEMONS. What's more, use more of the lemon-juice, peel, pulp—all added just before baking. The result is a tangy, fresh lemon flavour that's out-of-this-world! . . . SUNKIST LEMON MERINGUE PIE

1½ cups sugar — 3 egg yolks
1 tablespoon butter — 2 tablespoons milk
1½ cups water — ¼ teaspoon salt
5 tablespoons cornstarch — 3 Sunkist Lemons
3 tablespoons water

Mix sugar, butter and 1½ cups water; bring to boil. Lower heat. Add mixture of cornstarch and 3 tablespoons water. Cook until thick, stirring constantly. Beat egg yolks, milk and salt; add to mixture, cook over medium heat until thick, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Grate peel from ½ lemon. Squeeze lemons. Scrape pulp from juicer. Add peel, pulp and juice (⅓ cup) to filling. Cool. Pour into 8" pie shell. Top with Sunkist Meringue. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg.) until golden brown (15 to 20 minutes).

It's Simple Arithmetic to figure out how much time and money B.V.D. NYLON TRICOT SHIRTS can save you. Made of good-looking nylon tricot that "breathes" for cool comfort in warm weather . . . with fused collars and cuffs that never wilt—B.V.D. Nylon Shirts need no ironing. Just think! It takes me almost 15 minutes to iron a shirt. 15 minutes multiplied by 7 to 10 shirts a week equals almost 2 shirt-ironing hours a week. Then there's the money saved. If the laundry price for a shirt is about 20c—your husband's $12.95 B.V.D. Nylon Shirt is paid for in 65 days—with most of its life ahead of it! Yes, the B.V.D. Nylon Shirt (in grey, blue, tan or white) is a "bargain" you can't afford to miss.

So I'm preparing for summer "playtime" now, making sturdy playclothes for beach-wear and skirts in summery materials for "dress-up". And, of course, I'm using LIGHTNING FASTENERS for fit and dressing ease. Lightning, you know, are the zippers with that famous automatic lock. They never, never slip down. Incidentally, complete and easy instructions for sewing come with every Lightning Fastener. I'd suggest you get dainty but sturdy Lightning Style No. 804-805 for your summer playclothes and skirts.

Get the sanitary belt specially designed for all new-type sanitary napkins — including the wonderful new petal-smooth Modess. Simply send just 25c in coin or stamps and a Modess Belt will be mailed to you in a plain wrapper. You'll like its lock-type fastener that never slips, yet takes the tab so easily. And you'll love its soft, "honeycomb weave" elastic that never pinches or digs in no matter how active you are. Incidentally, it comes in pink or white . . . tell me which you prefer when you write to me for your Modess Belt . . . Barbara Brent, 1411 Crescent St., Montreal, P.Q.

Before And After A Party . . . my favourite housecleaning "help" is S.O.S. I've been using S.O.S. Scouring Pads on my pots and pans for years, of course. And now I've discovered that they're every bit as effective in all kinds of housecleaning jobs . . . cleaning old wax off floors—cleaning basins and bath-tubs—cleaning rust off the stove and stains off the kitchen linoleum. Actually, it's no wonder S.O.S. Scouring Pads do such a good job of so many jobs. They're an inspired combination of sturdy, interwoven fibres and grease-dissolving soap. I know you'll agree they work wonders. Just try them!

Your Young Daughter will love to help you cook on your new GURNEY Gas Range. Even a "beginner" can't go wrong with this wonderful stove—it has so many cooking helps. First of all, there's the famous Gurney "Even-Heat" oven that keeps the temperature exactly right — automatically — on the sides, the top, the bottom — and even in the corners. Then there's the automatic clock control for easy, automatic cooking. And I particularly like the glass oven-door panel so you can check up on your cooking without opening the oven door. But I'd suggest you take a look at the new Gurney features yourself. Ask your Gurney dealer to show them to you.

Hur-ry! Hur-ry! Hur-ry! I'm Sounding Like A "Sideshow Barker" because I don't want you to miss the important Food Festival now at your grocer's. It's HEINZ BIG VALUE FAIR . . . wonderful values! Ever tried piping hot "Cream of Wheat" topped with strawberry jam? It's the cheeriest way I know to start a day. And so easy, too. MARY MOORE SAYS:

Cakes To Postpone Dieting Resolution

The young people in this house are "teched". Maybe some of their immediate ancestors are responsible.

For weeks there was not a cake to be seen in the place, then all of a sudden there are three.

On Marianne's day off from the hospital I came across her in the kitchen with a big clean white apron or brandishing a wooden spoon in one hand and a bowl in the other shouting: "I'm going to make some kind of a cake. Speak now or forever hold your peace." In the general direction of Pete. "I want chocolate!" he shouted.

Actually I wanted a windblown cake because I'm currently on a reducing spree (so I can get into last summer's bathing suit) but Pete spoke up fastest and loudest, and besides Marianne wanted chocolate cake too, so chocolate cake it was, and besides I'm glad for it was a rousing success.

MARIANNE'S CHOCOLATE CAKE

(with fluffy boiled frosting)

Sift all-purpose flour and measure 2¼ cups. Turn this into the sifter over the mixing bowl and add 1¾ cups sugar, 1-3 teaspoon baking powder, 1¾ teaspoons soda, 2-3 cup good quality cocoa and sift into bowl. Measure 2-3 cup soft good quality shortening, and cut it into about 8 pieces and add to dry ingredients. Now measure 1 cup water, add 1 teaspoon vanilla to it, and pour a little more than half of it into the bowl. Now beat the whole business like fury for about 2 minutes by hand or with electric beater, until batter is smooth. Now add 3 unbeaten eggs and the remaining water and vanilla and beat for 2 minutes longer. Pour into 9-inch layer cake tins which have been buttered and paperlined and buttered again Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 30 minutes. You should look in the oven in about 28 minutes for this cake bakes quite quickly. Turn out on cake racks to cool. Frost out on cake racks to cool. Frost with:

FLUFFY BOILED FROSTING

Mix together in a saucepan 1 cup white sugar, 1-16 teaspoon cream of tartar and 1-3 cup boiling water. Stir over low heat until sugar is dissolved, boil gently without stirring to 238 deg. Fahr.—soft ball is formed when a few drops are tested in cold water. Let syrup cool for 2 minutes. While syrup is coming to temperature beat 2 egg whites until very stiff. When syrup is ready pour in fine stream while constantly beating, into beaten whites, and beat until frosting will hold peaks. Spread about ¼ of this on one layer of cooled cake. Cover with second layer. Use about one-quarter more to frost sides. Then pile remainder on top as high as you can coax it to stand up. This cake won't last long so keep an eagle eye on it if you have plans for it.

M. H. B. is in trouble with her Windblow Cake. In the same mail with her letter arrived a package holding what she called "the sorry looking pancake which always forms on the bottom of my wind cake." This was a layer of batter which had not risen but had baked hard at the bottom of the cake. M.H.B. goes on to say "Could you give me any clues as to what would cause it? I am sure I must have made fifty or more of these cakes perfectly and then pooey! this began to happen: I mix them exactly the same." Then she outlined her recipe and added "my tube pan is the type which has the tube and bottom connected, leaving a complete pan without it.

There are two things which may have caused M.H.B.'s trouble. Insufficient heat from bottom of oven and/or too-thick botom to tube pan. Here is my exact recipe:

WINDBLOWN CAKE

Sift together 1½ cups sifted cake flour and 1 teaspoon baking powder. Into a large bowl put 3 medium-sized egg yolks and ¾ cup cold water. Into a medium bowl put the 3 leftover whites and beat until stiff. Transfer beater without washing it to the bowl of yolks and beat them until they expand to 1 quart—this takes about 5 minutes with electric beater—longer with hand beater. Add 1¼ cups berry or fine granulated sugar slowly. Then sift over the flour and baking powder and add teaspoon salt and 1 teaspoon vanilla, and fold those in along with the stiffly beaten whites. Pour into an ungreased tube pan with single bottom—a one-piece tube pan. Bake at exactly 350 deg. Fahr. for about 40 to 45 minutes.

M.H.B.—have you thought of checking on your bottom oven burner to see if it is functioning at full heat all over?

Shrub Styles Change With Fashions

By E. W. OLIVER
Division of Horticulture
Central Experimental Farm.

As fashions in exterior architecture change, so do fashions in outdoor shrubs.

When used with good judgment evergreens can set off the lines of a house to good advantage. Headaches may result in indiscriminate use.

Small blue spruce, for instance, looks attractive in the middle of a small lawn, but after eight or 10 year's growth you often find you have a white elephant.

EVERGREENS POPULAR

Evergreen foliage has been popular of late because it "warms up" our winter scene where shrubs such as lilacs and spirea failed.

Cedar is about the only native tree that may be clipped satisfactorily each year into attractive globe or columnar forms. You can' do that with native pines and spruce. They grow too big, anyway.

Where pyramidal or columnar forms are wanted, the pyramid cedar, Burke's variety of juniper, or a columnar of Juniperus scopulorum are most suitable for average Canadian conditions. In the more favored areas the Swedish juniper is also useful.

If clipped lightly every second year towards the end of the season of active growth, these can all be held within bounds and at maturity should fill a space four feet in diameter and eight to 10 feet tall, though they will grow taller if permitted.

OTHER GOOD TYPES

For globular forms, Mugo pine or globe cedar are best under average circumstances. Some of the dwarf varieties of Norway spruce also grow in almost dome form and in more favored climates there are suitable varieties of Chamaecyparis. The Mugo pines will need to have new growths pinched in half in late June to keep them from growing straggly.

Large rounded or loose forms are the thread leaf cypress; various forms of cedar like Ellwanger's, vervaen and Wareana, and Pfitzer juniper though this does not grow above four or five feet.

For low spreading mats there are several forms of juniper such as Andora, Waukegan, or the tamarisk-leaved form of Savins, and several others. They have different foliage color and can be combined effectively.

The Japanese yew has been left to the last because of its extreme value.

The evergreens previously mentioned are best grown on the sunny side; yews will grow in shade as well. The others have characteristic forms; the yew can be grown in any form desired because it stands clipping as well.

Erect forms can be allowed to grow into tall graceful masses or clipped into set columns. Spreading ones can be allowed to sprawl informally over a large area or clipped to form globes or mounds.

Yews can even be trained effectively as a flat fan against a stone wall. They can be used to good advantage for many purposes except under very hot, dry conditions where junipers are more at home.

FLIGHT FOR LIGHT

In farm use, the setting out of evergreen windbreak often adds to the landscaping effect. There is a tendency here to plant the young trees closer than recommended spacing or stated in the planting manual.

For the first few years the results of this practice may seem quite justified. Competition for sunlight makes the trees grow. However, as they become older the folly of close spacing is seen.

They become long and spindly and, if not thinned out, will stagnate. They assume a coarse, wry look with small tops and as such serve no real purpose and look unattractive.

Nurseries have been sending out extra small seedlings lately, and there is a tendency, because they are small, to set them out too closely together.

The convention opened Tuesday evening at Westmount Church and finished with a life service session Monday afternoon.

Special convention speaker was the Rev Emlyn Davies of Yorkminster Baptist Church, Toronto. Theme for his several addresses was "Why did Christ die?" Special music for most of the sessions was provided by the Toronto Baptist Young People's Choral Society under direction of the Rev. Arthur Poynter. Mr. Poynter contributed great inspiration to the convention by leading in singing "Hymns of the Church."

Other highlights were a scenic tour of Montreal Saturday afternoon, the Saturday evening banquet at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, communion service Sunday morning at First Baptist Church, the Sunday evening service where young people took complete charge of the services in all ten of Montreal's Baptist Churches, and the Youth Rally Sunday evening.

Of special interest to the Park St. delegates was the banquet when awards and trophies were presented. The Peterborough Association drama trophy was presented to the Park St. president, Clair Crown. This trophy had been won earlier in the year by the group's drama presentation "For He Had Great Possessions." The Association debating trophy was also received on behalf of Jean Rogers and Richard Goudey who had won it in competition at Belleville. Convention president, Mr. Ken Barnard of Montreal presented the Park St. group with a certificate for ranking among the top contenders in the general proficiency contest.

Special speaker at the banquet was Rev A. B. Masilmani of India.

A total of 620 delegates were registered from all parts of Ontario and Quebec. Next year's convention is to be held at Kitchener.

Mark St. Chooses Ruth Hendron CGIT Queen

Final meeting for the year of the Mark St. CGIT was held Tuesday as a social evening for the girls and their mothers. Highlight of the occasion was the crowning of their queen, Miss Ruth Hendren.

Miss Hendren, president of the group, was voted by the girls as the member they believed had best lived up to the CGIT Purpose. The ceremony of placing a crown on her head and dressing her in a wine velvet robe was carried out by four attendants, Margaret Fell, Florence Miller, Arlene Clysdale and Donna McConnachie.

The queen was presented with a gift and her mother was called forward and presented with a bouquet of flowers.

Mrs. B. S. Morwood, who has been a leader of the group, was presented with a compact by the girls and Ruth Hendren expressed their regret that she is leaving to go to Kirkland Lake.

Each girl presented her mother with a gift she had made at CGIT.

It was announced that Arlene Clysdale has been chosen representative from Peterborough to CGIT Camp Council this summer. Janice Berry was chosen to receive the cheque presented by the WA, through Mrs. F. L. Edworthy, for sending a girl to camp.

Prizes were awarded to Carol Guppy, Gloria Davis, Joyce Brown and Ruth Hendren for selling the most cards.

A program put on by the girls consisted of a piano solo by Arlene Clysdale, a solo by Gail Fell with Marilyn Pomeroy at the piano, and two skits. "A day on the farm" was presented by Mrs. George Barns' group and "That old photograph album" by Mrs. C. Ferguson's group. A film strip titled "No Easy Answer" was shown.

Some get-acquainted games were conducted by Mrs. Lloyd Pepper and Mrs. Morwood led in a rousing sing song.

Lunch was served from a table centred with a decorated cake made in the form of a crown. Mrs. A. E. DeNure and Mrs. Edworthy poured tea.

Models Of Heraldic Crown Seen At St. James' B.B. Tea

St. James' Baby Band Mothers took the crown of James II as the model for the most outstanding tea decorations yet seen here in this Coronation Year. This particular British crown is designed with a jewelled circlet surmounted by ornaments and four jewelled half loops forming a double arch which supports a mound and cross.

A full head-size exacting model of this crown was made to centre the tea table and it was placed, effectively, on a large gold satin cushion. Smaller models of the crown but without the mound and cross were made for each of the serving tables and these were placed on small cushions made from padded gold paper.

The gold bands of each crown were encrusted with "jewels," some of them earrings, some of them buttons, but all successful in achieving the semblance of the crown to be worn by Queen Elizabeth II on June 2. The arch of each crown was filled with royal red paper simulating the rich velvet cap of the actual crown, and the headband of each was circled in soft white cotton to remind of the ermine bands worn by royalty.

Each table in the bazaar section was decorated with small cardboard crowns in gold and red, also decorated with jewels. Models of Windsor Castle and the coronation coach decorated the piano and red and white streamers marked off the tea room. White lilacs were the only flowers used in the room.

Mrs. H. Bothwell was the designer of these interesting decorations and she was assisted in creating the models by Mrs. Wm. Roode, Mrs. E. Roberts and Mrs. J. Simmonds.

A very large crowd of friends attended the tea, also enjoying most pleasant spring weather on this outing. They were received at the door by president Mrs. R. and engagements have to be dis- B. Stewart and vice president Mrs. Walter Seabrooke and their tickets were taken by Mrs. William Jordan.

Small children were left in a nursery upstairs in Wesley Hall where they were in charge of Mrs. G. Post.

The tea room hostess was Mrs. E. Roberts and she also poured tea in the place of past president Mrs. Clare Jones who was unable to be present through illness. Other tea pourers were Mrs. L. Bird, Mrs. W. R. Philp and Mrs. C. Davis, also a past president of the group.

Serving were Mrs. Errol Hess, Mrs. Donald Hess, Mrs. James McGovarin, Mrs. O. Lunn, Mrs. K. Wesenberg, Mrs. Don Roode, Mrs. E. Bell, Mrs. Wm. Roode and Mrs. M. Sage. Tea pots were filled by Mrs. D. Raines and plates replenished by Mrs. H. Fife and Mrs. H. Bothwell. Mrs. S. Frey, Mrs. J. Dunkerley, Mrs. J. Simmonds and Mrs. M. Burdett were arranging the refreshments plates and Mrs. H. Monks made the tea.

Bazaar tables offered home baking, aprons and other needlework, candy and a fish pond. Those in charge were Mrs. R. Pirie, Mrs. H. Holmes, Mrs. V. Menzies, Mrs. H. Bell, Mrs. W. Miller, Mrs. I. Mather and Mrs. M. Wright.

There were displayed one of the layettes made by the mothers this season and with it a dressed doll wearing a pretty crown edged with white baby fur.

Mother, Daughter Couples Attend FNSC Tea

Mothers and daughters made charming couples as they entered the YWCA Green Room Wednesday afternoon to attend The Friday Night Supper Club Mother and Daughter Tea. Heads were turned for second glances, usually to note the resemblance or dis-resemblance of the pair.

This tea is an annual affair of the club and serves to introduce formally the executive chosen for next season. The 1952-'53 president Miss Sally Poole introduced her successor, Miss Millie Hayward, and those who will assist her, Miss Elizabeth Miles as vice president, Miss Joan Naish as secretary and Miss June Adams as treasurer.

Miss Poole also expressed cordial welcome to the guests and received them at the door, assisted by Miss Marion Foster, club program director.

Pouring tea were the president's mother, Mrs. G. W. Poole and Mrs. L. H. Bearne, mother of last year's president, followed by Mrs. H. T. Rehill, Y president, and Mrs. T. Cook, a director of the club.

Decoration of the tea room was done by Miss Lorraine Bacon. She used an embroidered sheer tablecloth and centred it with pink and white snapdragon and tulips in a white pottery bowl set on a reflector.

Misses Shirley Peryer and Carol Lang were co-conveners of the tea room. Servers were Miss Janet Collins, Judy Hardill, Joan Metcalfe, Rosalind Stevenson, Joanne Watson, Marie Robinson, Elizabeth Miles and Lorraine Bacon.

Pianists during the tea hours were Misses Betty Thomson and Donelda Powers.

Home Economics Girls Entertain Their Mothers

At four o'clock Wednesday afternoon girls of the Home Economics Classes at PCVS found waiting mothers at the door and escorted them to the dining room on second floor for their Mother and Daughter Tea.

Dainty tea refreshments in wide variety are made by the girls themselves for this occasions and they also do the table. It is an annual event arranged by Home Economics department supervisor Miss Katherine MacDougall, so that the girls may have training and experience in making the very fancy sandwiches and cakes.

Miss MacDougall has each girl submit a menu and a plan for the table decorations during classes, and sometimes one of these is chosen, but this year she used one introducing several new ideas. These included tasty meat and cheese rings, served with the relishes, and miniature cream puffs with the fillings in several flavors and colors. (There is little doubt that some of the mothers were taking note of these items for future use.)

Sewers run a risk of being outdone by the cooks, but the display of suits, coats, dresses and leather and cloth handbags made for themselves was convincing evidence that there is fine workmanship being turned out in this section, too. The girls also displayed children's garments beautifully hand-smocked. The work shown included grades 9 and 10 as well as 11 and 12 and it was interesting to note the mark of progress. Senior classes are going to start now on nylon and satin lingerie, something that has not been tried previously.

The sewing room display was in charge of Miss Betty Pearson.

Receiving in the tea room were Miss Irene LaPointe of grade 12 and Miss Elaine Drimmie of grade 11.

Miss Lila Finnie was in charge of the tea room and tea was poured by Miss Beth Meiklejohn of grade 12 and Miss Eileen Davidson of grade 11. Misses Jean Patton and Jean Price prepared the plates for serving.

Variegated tulips in pale and dark shades were combined in the attractive bouquet centering the lace-covered tea table.

DOROTHY DIX:

Invalid Father's Children Refuse To Care For Him

DEAR MISS DIX: Thirty-four years ago I married a widower with three children. I had two children of my own All of them are married now, and have homes. I had a hard time with my stepchildren, but I stuck to my job, raised them, treated them as though they were my own—and received little thanks. My husband is now 72, and losing his mind. The children of his first marriage will have nothing to do with him. If he goes to visit them, they put him in a car and drive him back to me. The doctor says he should be in a home, but his children feel that I should keep him. The care he requires is beyond my strength, and, besides, I am afraid of him as he threatens to kill everyone around him when he suffers a bad spell. The doctor says he needs special examinations, and I am unable to pay for them. What can I do?

MRS. B. B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You sure are getting a poor return for the years of work you put into bringing up your step-children, but the knowledge of a job well done gives you the comfort of a clear conscience, which is more than your husband's children have.

TAKE DOCTOR'S ADVICE

Since your stepchildren refuse to give you any help in looking after their father, it is clearly up to you, and you alone, to make the decision about his future. If his violence is a threat to your life, or his care more than you can handle, the best place for him is in a home. Don't let his children talk you out of it; take the doctor's advice. Your city boasts the finest in hospitals, and I'm sure one of them with a psychiatric clinic can give the examinations required for a small fee. Your doctor should have the consideration to look into this for you, and arrange the details.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a divorced man of 38, very much in love with a 22-year-old girl whom I have known for four years. I know she is equally fond of me, but our problem is that while she is willing to marry me, she won't let her parents know of her plans. She wants to marry first, then tell them, with which I disagree.

KEITH L.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You are right in your efforts to discourage the girl from a secret marriage. Don't let her talk you into it. Since you are so much older than she, her parents are bound to hold you responsible for the action, and will probably never forgive you for it. Have your marriage an open, honorable one.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I work as a nurse's aid in a hospital. I am paid for my work, and am not permitted to accept tips. However, often when a patient is leaving I will receive a gift such as stockings, handkerchiefs, etc. Is it proper to write a "thank you" note to the patient even though the gift was a way of saying "thanks" to me?

RENEE.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: A "thank you" note is never out of order, and under the circumstances you describe, it would be a nice gesture. This would be one of the few occasions on which a printed "thank you" card could be used, since there is nothing personal in the giving.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My 17-year-old daughter is dating a boy we like. They go out together at least three times a week and the other days he calls her on the phone. They talk for an hour or more. This seems to make my husband very angry and causes little arguments between us. He just doesn't understand why they should talk so long.

MRS. C. G.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The boy's parents are doubtless equally annoyed at having their telephone tied up for the better part of an evening. Your husband is quite right to be irked at the youngsters, especially if the telephone is where their conversation interferes with what he is doing at the time. Since you know the boy so well, why not get him and your daughter together and tell them that their telephone talks should be curtailed. If they have so much to say to each other, let them resort to good old letter writing.

Lakefield W.M.S. Honor Minister's Wife

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—The Women's Missionary Society of the United Church were guests on Tuesday afternoon of the Women's Association at their May meeting held in the Sunday School.

Mrs. W. H. Tonge, who with her husband the Rev. W. H. Tonge and family will leave in the near future for London, was guest of honor and during the afternoon the presentation of an electric kettle was made to her by Mrs. H. J. Brown, president of the WMS on behalf of the two societies. Mrs. Brown expressed the regrets felt by all at the impending departure of the Tonge family and extended all good wishes for happiness and prosperity in their new home.

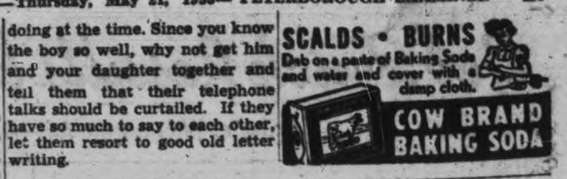
The president, Mrs. P. H. Darling, presided for the meeting and led in prayer. The Bible reading was taken by Mrs. John Murphy and Mrs. Earl Orr gave the lesson thoughts. Mrs. T. Payton sang a solo, accompanied by Mrs. T. E. Rath.

The report of the recently held Peterborough Presbyterial in St. James' Church, was given by the delegate, Mrs. Darling. Arrangements were made for the Sunday School picnic to be held in Peterborough in June.

Tea hostesses were Mrs. William Fairbairn, Mrs. Theo. Nichols, Mrs. Ed. Irwin and Mrs. Wilbert Frankish.

John Napier, the Scottish mathematician who invented logarithms died in 1617.

Norwegians, closely allied to the Danes and Swedes, are of Teutonic origin.



STYLE POINTER — Apparently designed by Schiaparelli primarily for standing around and looking beautiful, this poppy red silk gown features sharp, curving points that make it resemble a pagoda. The new Paris creation looks as though it would make dancing difficult.

Urges Meetings Held In Canada

MONTREAL (CP)—John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative member of th Commons for Lake Centre Saskatchewan, today advocated frequent meetings between Churchill and Eisenhower, possibly in Canada, to "dissipate differences in viewpoint over world problems."

Addressing delegates to the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association Ltd., and the National Association of Credit Men at an international credit congress, Mr. Diefenbaker said:

"These problems, while frequently exaggerated beyond their proportions, must be faced and solved before they grow larger. Canada will always welcome such a meeting.

He referred to international events of the last two or three weeks and what he described as "the verbal slugging match over certain statements regarding American-British relations." Such exchanges, he said, should put everyone on guard about making any statements that would cause or lead to cleavage between the peoples of the countries making up the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Fashions And Tea Friday Evening By YW '38 Club

The '38 Club of the YWCA, a club formed in 1938, is going to present a very interesting evening this Friday for past members, members and a host of friends. To celebrate the 15th anniversary they have planned an evening tea and a fashion show.

Convener Miss Hazel Wilson, with the assistance of president Miss Geraldine Dunford and other members, has made a sincere effort to contact every former member of the club regarding this affair, and they have prepared a guest register book so that there will be a record of all those attending.

The fashion show is very timely as it includes summer dresses and play clothes and they will be modelled by Misses Joan Gardiner, Melva Lee Doxsee, Alva Graham, Beatrice Pelsis, Betty Merrett and Ann Lewis.

The tea is to commence at eight o'clock and guests will be received in the Green Room. Miss Winnie Hunter is convening the tea arrangements and Miss Helen Edmison is convener of the fashion show. She has secured Mrs. W. J. Gilling to commentate on the clothes.

Queen At Rehearsals For Second Day

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen went to Westminster Abbey today for the second successive day to observe rehearsals for the Coronation ceremony.

Wednesday, she watched the Duke of Edinburgh rehearse the homage part of the ceremony with the Queen's stand-in, the 37-year-old Duchess of Norfolk whose husband is the chief Coronation planner.

The part of the ceremony rehearsed this afternoon was the recess, which comes at the end. In this, the Queen, crowned and carrying the rod and sceptre, leaves the Coronation theatre and goes into Saint Edward's Chapel where she changes from her robe royal into another of purple velvet.

Two Wentworth Farms Battle Hog Cholera

HAMILTON (CP)—Outbreaks of hog cholera have been reported from at least two Wentworth county farms.

On one of the farms, owned by Alex McDonald, two miles north of Carlisle, 64 hogs were to be shot today on orders from a veterinarian from the federal department of agriculture.

Mr. McDonald said he recently purchased six hogs at a sale in Freelton. He believed the infection came from there.

He said that he had heard that hogs on another farm a few miles north of his were also affected, but he did not know the number.

Federal and provincial inspectors are carrying on investigations throughout the district.

Seek Youngster 3 Believed Kidnapped

NORTH BAY (CP)—Police said today they were searching for three-year-old Susan Hutchins of nearby Yellek, missing from her home since Wednesday and a man believed to have abducted her.

Mrs. Frank Hutchins told police she left her daughter with a friend named Jack (Digger) Hutchins, when she went shopping. Both had disappeared when she returned home. Hutchins is no relation to the woman.

Police said they received a report that the man and the child had been seen Wednesday night on the highway to Ottawa.

300 Delegates To Attend Convention

OTTAWA (CP)—Three hundred delegates from all parts of Canada will attend the Civil Service Federation convention in Quebec City June 21 to 25.

The main debates will be on the proposed unification with the Amalgamated Civil Servants of Canada while the Amalgamated Civil Servants of Canada has a membership of approximately 7,000.

Auxiliary Plans Penny Sale

Under the capable leadership of president Mrs. Edward Chambers the Civic Hospital Women's Auxiliary will start the annual penny sale this Friday. The sale of tickets will close June 1.

Money derived from the penny sale is spent on equipment for the hospital and supplying extra services and pleasures for the hospitalized public.

This past year an iceless oxygen tent was obtained at a cost of $738. Toys were given to the children in the hospital at Christmas time. The cost of installing 58 pillow radios on one floor of the hospital was shared with the board of governors. This expenditure is viewed as an investment, however, as the auxiliary shares the revenue equally with the board.

Twenty-seven thermometer sets were purchased and presented to the graduates of the 1952 class.

Funds were provided to enable two head nurses of the staff to attend a three-day refresher course at Hamilton and $50 was given at graduation as a prize for bedside nursing.

Two extra wheel chairs were presented at a cost of $230. The chronically ill patients have enjoyed music and entertainment and drives on nice days. Many new books have been added to the library for the patients.

The general membership will be working hard to make this year's penny sale a success. Thirty-one well-chosen prizes were offered as well as special Saturday draws.

Board members in charge of the penny sale are: Store committee convener, Mrs. George Barns; buying committee, Mrs. C. B. Neal; schedule committee, Mrs. W. T. Fanjoy; distributing committee, Mrs. J. P. Sharp; advertising, Mrs. E. C. Braund and Mrs. W. C. Boate.

Historical Society Plans Outing

The Peterborough Historical Society will hold its next meeting on wheels, Wednesday evening. Mrs. Gordon Maniece read the Society a paper on old Peterborough houses. Her facts were so interesting, her record so comprehensive that at the business part of the meeting following the reading of the paper, the members decided to hire a bus next month, and track down the houses recounted by Mrs. Maniece. This field of exploration through the city is tentatively scheduled for early Wednesday evening, June 17.

Houses mentioned included some on Sherbrooke Street, several in Ashburnham, some in the north and north-west parts of the city, as well as more central houses.

The Historical Society has as yet no formal membership or constitution. It is open to any interested persons. A temporary executive was named Wednesday evening, which will also act as a nominating committee for a constitutional slate of officers. The temporary executive is: Miss A. Heideman, F. D. Kerr, QC, Dr. G. S. Cameron, W. R. Philp, W. L. Graff, and J. G. Towns of Douro.

The meeting was held in the Public Library.

Rhee Lauds Bravery Commonwealth Men

IN KOREA (CP)—South Korean President Syngman Rhee praised the bravery of Commonwealth troops today as he presented an embroidered silk Korean flag to the men and officers of the 1st Commonwealth division.

Maj.-Gen. M. A. R. West, division commander, accepted the flag at a ceremony in which troops of the United Kingdom, Canada, New Zealand, Australia and India participated.

The Canadian component of the honor guard was commanded by Lieut. Clinton Cowan of Edmonton. The color guard was made up of Cpl. Larry Patrick of Merlin, Ont., and L.Cpl. Charles Latter of Montreal.

Say Forestry Survey Half Completed

OTTAWA (CP)—Surveys of about 1,000,000 square miles of forest resources in seven provinces, first step in a joint federal-provincial program for sustained yield, is about half completed, the resources department said today.

Inventory surveys to determine the extent and nature of the forest resources are being carried out in British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, with the federal government sharing half the cost under the federal-provincial forestry agreements.

The federal government also is assisting in the reforestation of unoccupied Crown lands, paying the provinces $10 per thousand trees planted and $1 per acre seeded on such areas. The agreements also provide for federal payment of one-fifth of the cost of establishing and operating new provincial forest nurseries.

Two Conventions Become One

KINGSTON (CP)—Two conventions became one today when the meeting of the Women's Baptist Home and Foreign Missionary Societies of Ontario West and of Eastern Ontario and Quebec became the inaugural convention of the Baptist Women's Missionary Society of Ontario and Quebec.

So many delegates and visitors registered at the annual conventions of the two groups that they outgrew the capacity of the First Baptist Church and today met as one at Sydenham Street United Church.

Delegates registered totalled 371 and visitors 73.

Wednesday's session featured an address by the Rev. Dr. H. S. Hillyer, general secretary of the Baptist Church's Foreign Mission Board.

Mrs. P. L. Howell, Toronto and Mrs. H. R. Griffith, Montreal were chairmen.

She shattered the women's jet speed record of 535 mph held by Mme. Jacqueline Auriol, of France, and the all-time jet record of 635 mph for 100-kilometre course, made by Col. Cigarette Lighter Blamed For Oshawa Fire

OSHAWA (CP)—Firemen believe a cigarette lighter a soldier in Korea sent to his wife started a fire which took the life of the couple's 21-month-old daughter Wednesday.

Pamela MacDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence MacDonald, was suffocated and burned during an afternoon nap in a cellar bedroom.

It is thought the girl's brother, Claude, 3, picked up the lighter from a table and flicked it, setting fire to the family living quarters. The brother ran screaming up the stairs to his mother, who was washing upstairs, and was unharmed.

Canadian Army Ready For Peace, War In Korea

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA (CP)—Korea's Panmunjom truce talks have the Canadian Army looking in two directions at once, doing mental battle with a variety of possibilities.

Lt.-Gen. G. G. Simonds, chief of the general staff, recently returned from a visit to the front where he formed his own opinions. He told a reporter he would rather not speculate about the chances of a truce but he has his staff working out the answers for either peace or more fighting.

Because it takes months to train military formations, the army can't afford to take any chances on a stop in the fighting at this stage. It is starting to whip together a fourth brigade here in Canada to be ready for Korean service beginning this fall.

One of the by-products of Korea is that it has already given battle training to enough Canadians to man a full-fledged division if general war should come. The new brigade would be a start on another division.

POSSIBILITIES SIMPLE

The possibilities that would arise if fighting continues are fairly simple. Two years and more of fighting have worked out most of the answers.

But the peace that might come out of Panmunjom would almost inevitably bring up contingencies for which there are no textbooks. It could be an uneasy truce with both sides keeping close vigil. Or it could be something else.

Whether Canada would be able to start thinning out her 25th brigade quickly is something that would have to be decided on the basis of circumstances as they exist at the time of any truce.

Total Canadian casualties in Korea now have passed the 1,400 mark and they include 274 killed.

Guelph Couple Reunited With Son

NEW YORK (CP)—A Guelph, Ont., couple were reunited Wednesday with their son whom they had not seen in four years.

U.S. Army Pte. Charles Sacco, recuperating in hospital from the effects of 27 months as a prisoner of war in Korea, was watching from a first-floor hospital window when his parents drove up.

"Mom, Mom! Here I am," he shouted.

Seconds later Mrs. Mary Sacco, 66, ran down the hospital corridor and flung herself into the arms of her bedridden son.

Behind her, tears streaming down their cheeks, stood the boy's father, Ross Sacco, 69, and his brother, Bruno, 40.

The Saccos operate a vegetable farm on the outskirts of Guelph.

MILITARY WELCOME — Gen. Matthew Ridgway (centre), NATO Commander, who has been nominated for the position of Army Chief of Staff, is welcomed to Washington by Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens (left) and the present Chief of Staff, Gen. J. Lawton Collins.

It's as simple as ABC...

Ever thought about going into business for yourself . . . or of buying an interest in some business other than your own? It's as simple as A B C. You can become a partner in many strong, well managed Canadian companies simply by buying a few shares of the companies of your choice . . . Most of the ones that we think you would be interested in are listed on one or more of the Canadian Stock Exchanges.

Buying shares of a steel company puts you into the steel business . . . a few oil shares and you are in the oil business. Similarly, you can become part owner of a telephone company or a bank . . . your own bank if you like . . . a manufacturing business, a chain store . . .

How do you go about it? . . . Well, first of all, you may want information on which to base a decision . . . We can help you by supplying it. After you reach a decision, we can help you again because, as brokers and as members of the Toronto and Montreal Stock Exchanges, we can act as your agent in buying the shares of the companies you have selected. We will see that your instructions are carefully carried out, and finally of course, we will obtain the stock certificates, have them registered in your name and deliver them to you safely.

When it comes to buying or selling shares . . . or getting information on which to base a decision, we invite you to consult with us. You will be welcome in any of our offices . . . whether you prefer to write, telephone, or drop in.

City Engineers Map Clean Up Job Like Battle Attack

By R. J. ANDERSON

SARNIA—(CP) — Stricken Sarnia woke today to a scene of grim desolation. Block after block of destroyed or damaged houses, torn-out store fronts, and wrecked upper storeys of business buildings were the visual evidence of a tornado that ripped the city of 43,000 late Thursday.

Three-quarters of Sarnia was either destroyed or damaged, city officials estimated today. At least 1,000 of the 43,000 residents were left homeless.

Robert Morrow, assistant city engineer, and H. D. Cook, city building inspector, said the entire Sarnia business area of 12 square blocks was affected.

Directing an emergency committee in charge of relief and salvage, they said a residential area 14 blocks long and 14 blocks wide was dotted with collapsed houses.

Damage estimates ran from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000.

COULD BE WORSE

But in the light of a new day, with a bright sun in a cloudless sky, Sarnians seemed agreed: It's bad, but it might have been worse.

City officials termed the low casualty figures "miraculous."

One person was injured fatally, 51 others received hospital treatment.

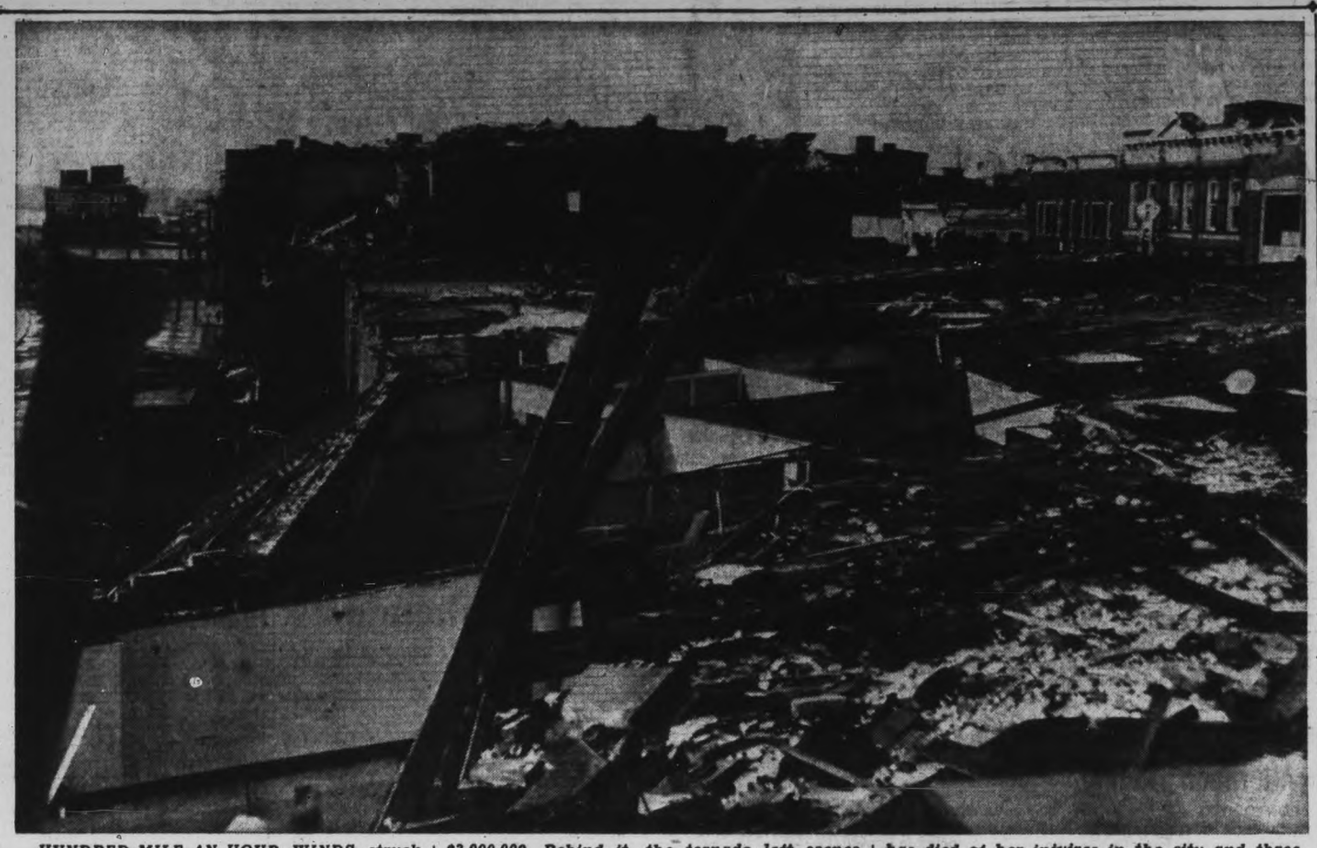
Mrs. Margaret Clarke, 72, of Watford, Ont., died in hospital shortly before 8 a. m. EDT.

It was believed Mrs. Clarke was visiting relatives in Sarnia when the tornado struck.

IN FAIR CONDITION

Her three-year-old granddaughter, Frances Clarke, suffered chest injuries and was reported in only "fair" condition.

Also in fair condition was Roy Kent, 63, who suffered compound fractures of the arm.



Those were the only severe casualtiees of the storm that swept a path across the city from the south to the northeast at 3:45 p. m. EDT Thursday.

A four-block long, two-block-wide section of the business area was devastated. Upper floors of buildings were carried away. Store fronts were ripped out. Heavy metal signs were sent whistling through streets pelted with hailstones as large as golf balls.

Elsewhere in the area directly hit by the storm—a residential

HUNDRED-MILE-AN-HOUR WINDS struck a sledgehammer blow at Sarnia late Thursday when they jumped the international border and started a four-hour sweep of southwestern Ontario, doing damage estimated at more than $3,000,000. Behind it, the tornado left scenes of devastation like this one in Sarnia. Federal aid has been asked for the city and the acting mayor has read the Riot Act to prevent gatherings of the curious and the looters. One woman has died of her injuires in the city and three more were killed when the twister shattered their homes not far from London. Fifty-one people were injured. The storm finally spent itself over Lake Ontario. —(CP Photo)

Centre Of Sarnia Wrecked, Debris Hurts 51

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A tornado struck a sledgehammer blow at industrial Sarnia late Thursday and left five dead, scores of injured and millions of dollars in property damage as it twisted across northern Michigan and southwestern Ontario. The Indiana-born storm suddenly leaped across the international boundary at 5:43 p.m. and smashed into Sarnia. One woman, Mrs. Margaret Clarke, 72, died in hospital today from her injuries. She was the only fatality in that city of 43,000 and there were 51 injured. Estimates of property damage have ranged as high as $5,000,000.

Then the storm snaked its way across southwestern Ontario, leaving injury and destruction wherever it touched. Just outside London an aged woman, a municipal official and his young daughter died in their shattered homes. The other fatality was in Port Huron, Mich., just across the St. Clair River from Sarnia. In the London area, at least 19 persons were injured. Some of them were in serious condition in hospital.

The storm swirled into Lake Ontario four hours after its first appearance on the Canadian side. In its 150-mile wake were shattered buildings, tangled communication and utility lines and tree-strewn roads.

M.P. Requests Federal Assistance

The damage wrought by the storm brought a demand from Harry White, member of parliament for Middlesex, for federal aid. He sent a telegram to the acting prime minister, Hon. Brooke Claxton asking that Western Ontario be declared a disaster area. He sought allocation of part of a $1,500,000 fund left in the hands of a special government committee for aid to stricken areas.

In tornado fashion, the storm's course was erratic. At one point in southwestern Ontario a new car was hurled out of its garage a distance of 300 feet. At another point a three-ton truck was moved 50 feet.

Near Stratford, J. D. Thistle and his hired man were about to start milking their cows when the black cloud appeared. The barn was snatched off its foundations, leaving the cattle unharmed in their stalls. The men also were unhurt.

In London township, Milton Charlton said he saw his 11-room brick home fly into the air, leaving his mother and his sister still sitting uninjured in their kitchen chairs.

Death Toll Listed For Ontario

Three of the dead in Ontario are:

Simon Thompson, 50, reeve of East William township, about 20 miles west of London; his six-year-old daughter, Dorothy; and Miss Sara MacIntosh, about 80.

Reeve Thompson and his daughter were killed in their rubbled home at Springbank. His wife was taken to hospital with serious injuries. Five other children, ranging in age from four to 12 escaped injury. Rescuers plowed through debris for more than an hour before finding little Dorothy's body.

Miss MacIntosh's body was found 200 feet from the levelled home where she lived with her two nephews, Tom and Jack McEachen, in the Springbank area. The McEachen brothers made their way out of the wreckage and were treated at hospital for minor injuries.

The great concentration of injuries and property damage appeared to be in Sarnia. R. J. Anderson, Canadian Press staff writer, reported from there that the casualty total seemed amazingly low in view of the fact that some stores whose front windows were blown in were crowded with shoppers at the time.

Riot Act Read In Sarnia

Sarnia's acting mayor, Clayton A. Sayler, read the Riot Act when crowds of sightseers crowded into the downtown area where two blocks of business buildings were smashed. The citizens were ordered to disperse and 200 active-reserve troops and local reservists patrolled the area augmenting Sarnia's 42-man police force.

Crews from Sarnia's petroleum and chemical industries were sent in with 200 trucks and earth-moving machines to help in the clean-up. They worked by the light of flares and portable searchlights, clearing rubble from main streets and tearing down tottering walls of buildings.

Welfare Minister Goodfellow of Ontario called the disaster "one of the worst ever to strike the province".

The death toll, however, was lower than in the last great tornado to strike Canada when 16 died as a twister swept through the Windsor area in June 1946.

Dulles Urges Russians Show Sincerity

NEW DELHI (AP)—State Secretary Dulles of the United States called on the Russians today to show the sincerity of their peace overtures on three fronts: Korea, Laos and Austria.

Dulles told the first press conference on his Middle East tour:

"I doubt very important results could come out of any high-level conference including the leaders of Soviet Russia so long as the Soviet bloc of nations is promoting the wars in Korea and Laos, and so long as they refuse to restore freedom to . . . Austria."

(The invasion of the French-backed Indo-Chinese kingdom of Laos by the Communist-led Vietminh rebels ended this week when the last major Red units pulled back into coastal Viet Nam. In the preceding five weeks the Reds had gained control of about one-third of Laos' 91,405 square miles without a major battle.

MEET MAY 27

(Representatives of Britain, the United States, France and the Soviet Union are due to meet in London May 27 to resume the long-deadlocked Austrian negotiations. The meeting has been widely billed in the West as a chance for the Russians to prove the sincerity of their peace talk, presumably by agreeing to Western demands.

(Truce negotiations on Korea are due to resume at Panmunjom on Monday.

Dulles met with some 100 newspaper men as he wound up a three-day visit here prior to his departure for Karachi, capital of neighboring Pakistan.

Girl's Body Found, Hold Cook

NORTH BAY—(CP)— Police said today that 29-year-old Mervyn (Digger) Hutson was arrested at Cochrane in connection with the slaying of a three-year-old girl here Thursday. North Bay police hold a murder warrant for him. Police said they picked up Hutson, a railway gang cook who lived at Englehart, at the railway station at Cochrane, about 175 miles northwest of here. Hutson stepped from a freigt train at 1:20 p.m. and was arrested immediately. He was wanted in connection with the murder of Susan Hutchins of North Bay. The girl was criminally assualted and her body was found lying in undergrowth on the citys' outskirts Thursday night.

The almost nude body was found more than 24 hours after her mother left the girl in Hutson's care.

Mrs. Hutchins said she left Susan with Hutson in a tobacco store to go shopping and when she returned he and the child had disappeared.

Police began a search for him and the girl Wednesday night. The child's body was discovered by three children who had set out to look for her.

Dr. I. Joyal, coroner, said there was no doubt that the girl had been criminally assaulted. Beyond stating that she had suffered severe skull wounds, Dr. Joyal said he would await a report on an autopsy before expressing an opinion on the cause of death.

Dr. J. R. Hall, pathologist, performed the autopsy Thursday night but his findings were not immediately announced.

Frank Hutchins, 45, father of the victim, said he had known Hutson about two years, but that his wife had met the man only recently.

Hutson, a veteran of the Second World War, has been under treatment by a North Bay doctor. A metal plate is imbedded in his skull.

The victim's body was found 300 yards off highway 17 by Robert and Ronald Campbell and Lois Jackson, all in their early teens. They saw an arm protruding from a clump of long grass and alders. They ran home and told their parents.

Police said the child was lying on her back when they arrived on the scene. Her blue coat had been thrown over the body. Her head had been smashed in and her back was covered with blood.

Ontario Offers Sarnia 1,000 Trucks, Bulldozers

TORONTO—(CP)—Trucks, bulldozers and other equipment were offered to Sarnia by the Ontario government today to help clear rubble heaped up by Thursday night's tornado. Acting premier George Doucett said 1,000 heavy-duty trucks and other vehicles have been "put at the disposal of Sarnia's mayor, W. C. Nelson".

Mr. Doucett, taking the place of Premier Frost who has left for the Coronation, added:

"Every truck, bulldozer or other vehicle owned by the province of Ontario is at Sarnia's disposal."

He extended his "deepest sympathy" on behalf of the government and the people of Ontario to the 43,000 residents of Sarnia.

At Ottawa Defence Minister Claxton, acting prime minister, said troops are being moved into the stricken area at Ontario's request. The soldiers will assist civilian authorities.

Have No Word From Climbers

NEW DELHI (AP) —Backward Himalayan communications hid the whereabouts today of a team of British mountain climbers trying to scale the unconquered crest of Mount Everest, world's tallest peak.

Mountaineering experts here speculated the team may already have conquered—or failed to top—the 29,009-foot peak.

Col. John Hunt and his 14-man team reached their base camp 18,000 feet up the mountain more than four weeks ago. Their final climb toward the summit was to begin May 15. They calculated this would leave them time for another attempt, in the event of initial failure, before the monsoon storms make the climb impossible.

The team's only means of communicating with the world is by relays of native runners from their camp to Katmandu, the capital of the Himalayan kingdom of Nepal.

Volunteers Do Quick Job Clearing Rubble

By R. J. ANDERSON

SARNIA, Ont. (CP)—I picked my way along Sarnia's Front Street Thursday night.

In the midnight darkness six hours after a tornado had struck this bustling industrial city, it was an adventure.

In the eerie light of flares and portable floodlights, steel-helmeted workmen were silhouetted as they labored to clear away the worst of the debris.

Occasionally masonry would crash to the pavement as demolition crews tore away a wall or projection that threatened to collapse.

It was so quiet. There were no shouts of workmen—just the crash of a cornice or a metal sign being torn away.

DO QUICK JOB

At midnight the roadway and pavement were all but cleared. The volunteers had done a quick job of piling the rubble for the trucks to cart away.

Glass crunched underfoot. There was not an unbroken window for three blocks.

Gaping windows of evacuated apartments above wrecked stores spoke mutely of 30 seconds of tornadic destruction. No doubt the interiors were ruined — armed soldiers prevented entry to make sure.

I walked down the centre of the street—as far as possible from tottering walls on either side. Every hundred feet or so I was required to present credentials to prove a right to be where Sarnia's citizens were prohibited from entering.

Gold Stolen At Airport

NEW YORK (AP)—Theft of six bars of gold bullion worth $27,000 from a cargo hangar at Idlewild airport was revealed today by New York police.

Thirteen other bars of gold and 116 bars of silver, all part of the same shipment, were not disturbed.

The six bars of gold were missed last Friday, two days after the shipment arrived from San Salvador. The bullion was to have been reshipped that day to the American Smelting refinery at Perth Amboy, N. J.

The bullion was stored in a hangar, officers said.

Storm Disrupts Toronto Power

TORONTO (CP)—An electrical and hail storm swept over Toronto for about 20 minutes Thursday night, disrupting power and water services.

Weather officials said the storm had no connection with the tornado which ripped across southwestern Ontario earlier, but was just a summer squall.

Lightning knocked out a pumping station and homes in some parts of North Toronto were without water services for about 15 minutes. An auxiliary pumping station was put into operation.

Residents of suburban Etobicoke township reported hail stones three-quarters of an inch in diameter.

Davis Rearrested

LONDON (AP)—London police today rearrested Garry Davis, self-styled world citizen who had been ordered to leave England before midnight Thursday.

Weather Office Unable To Plot Tornado Path

TORONTO (CP)—The dominion public weather office said today it was not able to plot the path of Thursday night's tornado in southwestern Ontario because of a severe thunderstorm that hit most of the province.

Officials said the worst storm forces "gathered locally in southwestern Ontario and were dissipated locally as a result of the thunderstorms.

The tornado, which killed five persons in Ontario and caused damage that will run into millions of dollars, spent itself in a 45-mile area around Sarnia.

Weather office officials said that while tornado conditions were not forecast, they were not surprised that the twister developed.

"Actually, very little is known about tornadoes, and up north here where we have so few, we can't make any attempt to forecast them," they said.

Family Prays In Cellar As Twister Strikes Farm

EMBRO, Ont. (CP)—The family of George McBurney went down into the cellar of their farmhouse and prayed as the devastating tornado which hit sections of southwestern Ontario approached their farm 10 miles west of London.

"I saw it dip down tiwce and take up two barns," said Mrs. McBurney. "Then I ran to the barn where George, my husband, was milking. Then I dashed back to the house to take care of my children.

"We went down into the cellar of the house and prayed."

The tornado, which moved eastward across Oxford County, narrowly missed the McBurney home, snapped off three huge maples in the front yard like celery stalks and smashed the barn like a berry box.

Mr. McBurney stood on the verandas of the farmhouse and saw the barn tumble and trap 30 head of cattle, his horses and poultry.

Neighbors helped the McBurneys release the animals still alive under the debris.

Iron sheating flapped crazily in high tension power lines.

The storm struck an area 2 miles north of Embro about 7:45 p. m. Edward Clark was operating a tractor when it roared over his farm. He said he drove the machine ahead of the raging wind.

"The devilish thing chased me," he said.

Vince Clark, 23, a nephew, said he looked out of the barn door of his father's farm and saw tin roofs swirling in the storm like newspaper.

The roof and one wall of that barn were torn off and thrown at young Clark's feet seconds after he stepped back inside.

"The whole building rumbled and shook and just flew apart," he said.

Fashion Pirates Fined $17,400

PARIS (AP)—Invoking a French law which goes back to the Revolution of 1793, a French tribunal today imposed fines and prison sentences on 13 Italian and French defendants charged with pirating the designs of 23 noted Paris fashion houses.

The court, which deliberated three months before reaching its verdict, also ordered the defendants to pay the fashion houses 6,000,000 francs ($17,400) damages. Christian Dior heads the list with a 2,750,000-franc award.

Invitation To Russians For Conference Hinges On Attitude Toward Austria

LONDON (Reuters) — A Big Three decision on whether to invite Russia to a four-power conference will hinge largely on the Soviet attitude towards Korea and Austria between now and the Bermuda talks next month, authoratative sources said today.

Britain announced today that Russia has not yet answered an invitation to resume talks here next Wednesday on an Austrian treaty. The deputies of Britain, France, the United States and Russia have met 260 times without reaching agreement on an Austrian state treaty. Deputies' talks have been suspended since last February — before Stalin's death.

Hitherto, Russia has blocked conclusion of a treaty by raising the complicated issue of the future of Trieste despite Allied efforts to keep it off the agenda.

The next Communist moves at the Panmunjom truce site in Korea will be closely watched. Authoritative sources here said the Allies have dropped their proposal of May 13 that all Korean prisoners should be freed the signing of a truce in the hope of gaining an armistice.

Coronation Not Sell-Out 3,000 Empty Seats Left

LONDON (AP)—With only 11 days left before the Coronation, the signs are there'll be an estimated 2,000 or 3,000 empty seats along the procession route the Queen will take from Westminster Abbey to Buckingham Palace.

The gaps in the crowds will be where they hurt most—in the stands and balconies set aside for overseas visitors bringing dollars to Britain.

Unless there's a last-minute rush from abroad, the Coronation will not be the sell-out the authorities hoped for months ago.

Some of the unsold seats are in good positions and reasonable in price.

The British Hotel and Travel Association, which has been disposing of some seats for the government, said "we were afraid something like this might happen."

"People thought it would be impossible to get seats, so many just didn't apply. Then we had the usual cancellations: people had made double bookings, or died, or couldn't come over for other reasons. We are putting the seats on the home market now, but I don't suppose many people can afford the £30 for them."

One ticket agency, which has a 6,000-seat stand at Hyde Park corner and several other smaller blocks of seats reserved for overseas visitors, said it has had about one per cent of its bookings cancelled, but emphasized this was about normal for a big event.

It's the small time operators—the London "spivs" trying to cash in on the thousands of Americans coming here for the Coronation—who have been caught with most of the unsold seats.

These are the expensive seats. One small agency has been asking as much as £70 for a position jammed in a third-storey window. Others are tucked neatly away behind trees or statues, or perched on top of buildings with only a bird's eye view of the route.

Say Hog Cholera Won't Affect Price Of Pork

TORONTO (CP)—W. G. Johnson, secretary of the Ontario hog producers' marketing board, said Thursday that the outbreak of cholera in hogs in southwestern Ontario will have little effect on the price of pork.

He said there was a brief "price war" between the farmers' selling agency and buyers of dressed hogs here Thursday when buyers for a time held out for a price 2½ cents lower than the 34 cents a pound the agency was asking for grade A carcasses.

Mr. Johnson said he expects the price will probably remain at 34 cents.

WORST IN PROVINCE

Dr. G. H. Collacutt, federal district veterinarian, said the cholera outbreak is "the most widespread the province has ever experienced." The last serious outbreak was in 1947 in two counties of the Windsor-Chatham area.

The disease now has spread into seven counties, infecting nine farms. Infected counties included Huron, Perth, Wentworth, Halton and Wellington.

Republic Announced In Egypt Soon

CAIRO (Reuters)—A republic will be announced in Egypt soon, informed sources said today.

No official statement has been made but a 50-man drafting committee is believed almost ready to announce a new constitution for the country.

The sources said the president of the Egyptian republic will hold the post of prime minister.

The constitution will bring the final end to the monarchy of former king Farouk, ousted by Premier Mohammed Naguib a year ago. Though Farouk abdicated his infant son Fuad technically has remained king.

Naguib declared himself in favor of a republican regime in an interview.

The Vendome Hotel at Front and Cromwell was a ruin. The roof and top floor had been torn away. Every window had not merely been broken—the frames had been blown away clear to the red-brick facing.

SPRINKLER WORKING

Streams of water ran from what had been a doorway of a large furniture store. The automatic sprinkler system had gone into operation during the storm. The stock seemed ruined.

So it went for four blocks, perhaps the hardest hit area of the city. Metal street signs had been cut off as though by a sharp knife, so clean was the break. Traffic-sign supports were bent. Power lines—dead now with hydro service gone—overhung the street.

Christina St., a block east and parallel with Front, was a similar scene of destruction. The top floor of the Imperial Bank Building had been sheared off. Small buildings had been all but levelled.

Houses in the residential area, just a block or two east of Front, were destroyed or badly damaged. Hundreds of the stately trees that lined Sarnia's streets were blown over.

It was a ghastly sight.

To this observer, the official estimate of perhaps $3,000,000 damage looks much too low.

Fire Started By Lightning Burns Barn, Calf, Chickens

Probably hit by lightning during the last of a series of electrical storms which swept across the Peterborough district late Thursday night, a barn on the farm of M. A. Scott, R.R. 3, Indian River, was destroyed by fire early today. Besides the barn a small chicken house close to the barn was also completely gutted.

The fire started some time after the Scotts had gone to bed, around midnight. About 1:30 a.m., Mrs. Scott awakened and noticed a rosy glow throughout the bedroom. Arousing her husband, she looked out the second floor window to see the barn, about 300 feet east of the farmhouse, ablaze.

SAVED SOME STOCK

Mr. Scott rushed to the blazing barn, but the fire had too good a start for any neighbors to form a bucket brigade. He pulled two thoroughly-frightened heifers and three horses to safety, but couldn't go back in for a third calf, four months old. It was burned.

First on the scene to help Mr. Scott was Peterborough taxi driver, Norris Dafoe, who was returning fom a trip to Havelock. Scott and Dafoe ripped the wire off the chicken house to let the chickens out. But the chickens, numbering between 80 and 90, refused to come out and were burned.

By this time the whole barn was blazing. Neighbors had gathered, aroused by telephone alarm, but they could only stand back and watch. The water supply was too close to the barn to form a bucket line with any safety.

LEVELLED

Within a half-hour the barn crumpled and then about an hour later it was levelled to the foundation. A strong west wind whipped sparks through the air, but easterly and away from the farmhouse and other small buildings nearby.

Dafoe first noticed the fire when he started to leave Havelock; he could see the red mushroom-shaped glow rising high in the pitch-black sky. Other motorists west of the farm, and as far west as Peterborough, could also see the reflection in the sky.

Mr. Scott was unable to estimate the loss but explained that the barn was partly covered by insurance.

MORE ABOUT—

Centre Of Sarnia

In the path of the storm as it swept through Sarnia was radio station CHOK, whose studios were badly damaged. Broadcasters prepared to set up their headquarters at the transmitter outside the city and resume broadcasting when power was restored.

Fred Wheeler, sports editor of the Sarnia Canadian Observer, watched the twister approach. An hour after it hit he telephoned The Canadian Press in Toronto. The telephone girl who put through his call was bleeding from cuts by flying glass.

Only two of the Sarnia's Bell Telephone night staff of 20 were able to remain on duty through the night. The remainder were taken to hospital for treatment of glass cuts.

Mac McKenzie, CHOK sports editor, watched the storm approach.

"We noticed a storm cloud that had a peculiar rotating motion," he told The Canadian Press. "Then we noticed what looked like birds flying around in the cloud. Suddenly we realized they were not birds but pieces of debris."

The wind blew the top floors off Sarnia's hotel Vendome and left only the first-storey front wall of the Imperial bank of Canada building standing. All buildings in Sarnia's downtown area higher than one storey were damaged.

Parked cars were crushed by the falling debris and emergency crews bulldozed a path for firemen and city officials.

Business leaders and city council members worked throughout the night in city hall under the light of flickering lamps. Outside city hall city engineers set up a map of the city and by the light of flares directed operations.

Many Sarnia people, with their radio station out of action, were unaware that the storm had struck elsewhere in Ontario and across the river in Michigan.

In Port Huron, the wind knocked over 15 cars of a 45-car freight train.

Electric power was restored early today in the northern part of the Port Huron business section. The entire city had been darkened.

As the storm moved across southwestern Ontario it was accompanied by torrential rain and followed by hail with stones as big as marbles. At Forest, the ground was coated with ice 45 minutes after the storm passed. Local storms with thunder and lightning were generated by the twister.

Much of the storm's toll was in rural districts north and west of London. The loss in livestock could not be counted and the number of barns and outbuildings destroyed was difficult to estimate. Glass in tobacco greenhouses was smashed in the area south of Tillsonburg and young plants were damaged.

Sightseers jammed the roads outside London with their cars. A provincial policeman, trying to keep the way clear for emergency vehicles, exclaimed angrily:

"Just like France when the Germans invaded. Pity a plane wouldn't strafe them. Teach these curiosity seekers to stay home."

Provincial police were called to Denfield, west of London, where looting of damaged property was reported.

Other areas of southwestern Ontario were affected although damage was not as heavy as in the path of the twister.

Galt was plunged into darkness as heavy rain caused explosions in hydro circuit breakers. Television aerials were flattened, trees were uprooted and power lines blown down.

The city of Stratford escaped damage but at least a dozen barns were levelled in adjoining rural areas. Township roads were blocked by fallen trees.

The meteorological bureau in Toronto said that after the storm passed through Sarnia it moved to a point five miles north of London. Its curving path took it to a point midway between Hamilton and London and then out over Lake Ontario. It was last reported east of Watertown, N. Y.

19 INJURED

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The tornado which spun through southwestern Ontario injured at least 19 persons, some severely, in the London area and caused considerable property damage Thursday night.

Doctors and nurses at St. Joseph's hospital here said some of the injured were so badly hurt that they could not be x-rayed. Others were rushed to emergency operating rooms.

The injured were driven from the stricken areas by doctors, undertakers and private automobiles.

One critically hurt woman, Mrs. Annie Thompson of Parkhill, was not aware early today that her husband and six-year-old daughter were killed in the storm.

Mrs. Thompson's husband, Simon, 50, reeve of East William township, was one of five persons killed in Ontario during the twister. Her daughter, Dorothy, was also killed in the family's rubbled home at Springbank. Another daughter, Ruth, 13, was brought to hospital here with a possible skull injury.

Sidewalks

section 14 blocks long and as many wide—damage was heavy but was not devastating. Some houses—perhaps a dozen or more—were demolished. Hundreds were damaged heavily, others escaped.

Teams of engineers and assessors moved into the cordoned-off downtown area this morning to assess the damage and to determine which if any of the buildings must be torn down as a safety measure.

Trees as tall as 40-foot maples are strewn over side streets. Ten-foot steel traffic signs are bent over sidewalks as though pushed by a giant hand.

Many homes were flattened, some torn off their foundations and others punched by flying tree limbs. But it was surprising how many were still intact though large oaks and elms were uprooted on their lawns. A large greenhouse lost only a few panes of glass. All TV aerials seen were bent or crushed.

"BATTLE CLEANUP"

Teams of assessors and engineers were to move into the badly damaged Front street area along the St. Clair river to decide whether demolition of any buildings is necessary.

The general public was barred from the downtown area and a sound truck toured residential streets warning them away.

Sarnia, built around an industrial complex of refineries and chemical plants, lost little time in making plans to clear up damage.

City council and business leaders met in city hall in emergency session. They made plans throughout the night, the council chamber lighted by flickering lamps. Each man had a flashlight at hand.

Quickly 100 active-service troops were brought into the city from London and 100 local reservists were ordered out to patrol the streets and guard against looting.

HUNDREDS OF VOLUNTEERS

Although Sarnia has no civil-defence organization as such, the local industries moved in with hundreds of volunteer workers and 200 trucks and other heavy pieces of equipment to clear up debris.

Sarnia's 42-man police force and the 45-member fire department was kept on duty.

Outside city hall reconstruction headquarters was set up. There under emergency lamps, the city engineer worked over a map of the city, directing a clean-up operation.

Mayor W. C. Nelson was in Toronto attending the annual convention of the Association of Ontario Mayors and Reeves when he learned of the disaster. He quickly prepared to leave for home.

Meanwhile, acting mayor Clayton A. Saylor read the Riot Act from Sarnia's city hall steps to disperse crowds of sightseers who thronged into the devastated downtown district, hampering clean-up squads.

STREETS CLEARED

Eight hours after the storm struck, all of the main streets had been cleared of debris. Sidewalks were piled high with rubble swept there by bulldozers.

Generally, Sarnia took the disaster calmly. With the local radio station, CHOK, out of commission, many citizens did not know that the storm had also wrought havoc and caused deaths elsewhere in Ontario and in Michigan.

Citizens, whose homes had escaped the storm opened them to the tornado victims.

The Salvation Army and Red Cross workers patrolled the streets where clean-up work was going on, offering coffee to the workers.

The storm turned just short of the offices of the Sarnia Canadian Observer where editors were preparing to get out today's edition, provided they could get power. If not, they planned to publish an edition in the plant of the Chatham News.

Broadcasters at CHOK, whose downtown studio was heavily damaged, set up headquarters at their transmitter outside town and prepared to resume broadcasting when power was restored.

NARROW ESCAPES

Most citizens were too busy to talk but a few told stories of narrow escapes.

Marjorie Abell, employed at a plumbing shop, was preparing to go home in a truck when the storm hit. She stepped back into the shop and a wall fell, crushing the truck's cab.

J. B. Daley of Windsor had just parked his car when the storm blew up. He walked back along Christina street and found the vehicle crushed under debris. He saved only his brief case and some personal belongings.

Here are some jottings from this reporter's notebook after a tour of the streets:

Not a pane of glass was left intact on Front street. Some stores were filled with shoppers as the tornado blasted the city and the relatively small number of injuries was amazing.

In one furniture store the sprinkler system was turned on by the storm and the stock was ruined.

The top of the Vendome hotel was wrecked and the hotel itself appeared damaged beyond repair.

Names of streets were blown off buildings and posts and it was difficult for an out-of-town reporter to find his way.

Only two girls of a night staff of 20 at the Bell Telephone Company office remained on duty. The others were taken to hospital for treatment of glass cuts. Only emergency calls were being handled by the remaining two.

The Imperial Bank of Canada branch was blasted, with the top floor blown off. A few of the big gilded letters in the bank's sign were carried away and the bank's name was unrecognizable. From the wrecked apartment above the bank a bridge lamp dangled grotesquely over the street.

HOSPITAL CASUALTIES

City officials ave no figures on either casualties or damage. The list of casualties was released by the two hospitals, St. Joseph's hospital and the Sarnia General.

This is the list of those detained at St. Joseph's:

Mrs. Julia Beke, back injuries; Mrs. Phyllis Peters, severe leg lacerations; William Millick, cuts to face and hands; Peter Bakamis, face and arm lacerations; Douglas Sloan, hand injuries and lacerations; Dennis McKinnon, shock; Miss Viola Pitman, facial cuts; George Robinson, leg lacerations; Mrs. Margaret Bitman, facial cuts.

In the Sarnia General were:

Frances Clarke, 3, possible chest injuries; her grandmother, Mrs. Frank Clarke, 72, fractured left arm and shock; Ray Kent, compound fracture of right elbow, cuts and abrasions.

SARNIA'S ACTING MAYOR, Clayton Saylor, is shown reading the Riot Act in the city's downtown area where two blocks of business buildings were smashed by the tornado that raked the city late Thursday. To the left is Sarnia Police Chief S. C. Pratt, and to the right are Sgt. William Peters of the London OPP detachment, and Corp. A. D. Dymond (with microphone) of the Sarnia OPP detachment. Two hundred active-reserve troops and local reservists patrolled the area to augment the city's 42-man police force.

LATE INSPECTION TRIP

Three section men of the C.P.R. set out shortly after 1 a.m. this morning on a check run to Kendry siding. That appeared to be the purpose of their postmidnight trip which would have covered the stretch of track before the 2 a.m. train arrived from Toronto. They used a little gasoline chugger. Presumably they were making certain that the rain had done no damage.

STRIKERS HOLD DANCE

Members of Local 293, UPWA (CIO-CCL), will forget about the more serious side of the strike at the Quaker Oats Co. plant for a few hours tonight. They'll have fun instead, because a dance and social evening are planned in the Kawartha Room of the Empress Hotel. Showing of a membership card will be sufficient for the member and friend. There is no charge but a collection will be taken up for the strike fund.

DRAW PRIZE WINNERS

Nine winners of the draw to boost the strike fund for Local 233, United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO-CCL) are J. Ryan Jr., 501 Donegal St; G. Dracup, 438 Driscoll Terrace; Audrey Simmons, 179 Aylmer St.; Mrs. J. Quinn, 55 Ephgrave Blvd; O. Johnston Brock St; W. Taylor, 106 McDonnel St; Albert Smith, 576 Romaine St; J. Boyd, 311 Stewart St; and Percy Archer, Lakefield. The monthly draw was won by a union member who was present, Bud Paquette.

To Aid Storm Areas

TORONTO (CP)—Assistance for communities damaged by the tornado and storms Thursday night was promised today by the Ontario Mayors and Reeves Association in convention here.

Mayor Percy England of Owen Sound moved that a floral tribute be sent to the family of Reeve Simon Thomson of East William township. He and his daughter were killed during the storm.

Judge Rejects Bertrand Appeal

OTTAWA (CP)—Mr. Justice Robert Taschereau today rejected a motion to appeal before the Supreme Court of Canada the murder conviction of Rheal Leo Bertrand, sentenced to be hanged May 29.

Bertrand had been scheduled to be hanged in Montreal today for the slaying of his 55-year-old bride of two months, who died in a blazing hunting cabin at Lac Ste. Marie, Que., 60 miles north of Ottawa, in December, 1951.

He was granted a one-week postponement pending hearing of his motion for leave to appeal to Canada's highest court.

Hospital Starts Plans For New Department

A preliminary sketch of plans for the new outpatient department at Civic Hospital has been made.

The project, which will be located in the basement in the east wing, provides for mental health, occupational therapy and poliomyelitis clinics.

A tentative figure of $40,000 has been set as the cost, practically all of which will be covered by federal and provincial grants. Of the provincial grant of $22,600 available for capital expenditures, $19,600 has already been earmarked for the new department.

Arrangements have been made with W. and W. R. L. Blackwell and Craig to develop the plans.

Order Bears Killed In Search For Child

MENOMINEE, Mich. (AP)—Officers directing the search for little Beverly Bradley in upper Michigan's brush country today ordered any bears sighted be killed and their stomachs examined.

The two-year-old girl has been sought since she strayed from the yard of her grandparents' cottage Wednesday. No trace has been found.

However, a large female black bear with two cubs was flushed from the brush within two miles of the cottage Thursday. Black bears ordinarily will not attack humans, but an old sow and young has been known to catch and devour children. Northern Michigan had one such case last year.

Maisie Ringham Thrills Audience With Trombone Solos

An internationally known trombonist, Maisie Ringham, of Sheffield, England, was guest soloist at the Spring and Coronation Festival of the Peterborough Salvation Army Corps held in the Temple Thursday night.

With this famous woman trombonist was Marjorie Brown, also of England, who is a competent pianist in her own right, as well as Maisie Ringham's accompanist.

The two musicians are making a coast to coast tour of Canada and already have played in concerts in Toronto, Hamilton, Sydney, Niagara Falls, Montreal, St. John, Newfoundland, and St. John's, New Brunswick.

Noted as lead trombone player in the Halle Orchestra under the direction of Sir John Barbarolli for the past five years, Maisie Ringham's virtuosity was even greater than exepcted by Thursday night's capacity audience. She showed amazing ability of range and tonal control on her instrument.

She played, "Song of My Brother," "A Song of Faith" by Eric Ball, "The Old Drummer," and "My Sins Are Remembered No More."

The second soloist of the evening, Marjorie Brown, also received an enthusiastic ovation from the audience. She played "Impromptu in A Flat," by Schubert; "Theme in E Major," by Chopin; and "Allegro in C," by Mozart.

TEMPLE BAND, SONGSTERS

The Temple Band, under the direction of Bandmaster Gerald Routly, performed in their usual competent manner as did the Temple Songsters, directed by Ben Smith.

The band selections included, "Coronation March," "Gems from Gounod," and "British Melodies." The songsters sang, "The Kingdom," "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," by Bach, and brought the evening to an inspiring close with their singing of the "Hallelujah Chorus," from Handel's Messiah.

One of the highlights of the evening was when Maisie Ringham took over the baton to lead the Temple Band in "Victor's Acclaim," by Col. Bramble Cole. The composer was one of the guests of honor at the festival.

The chairman for the evening was Commissioner William Dalziel, who is commissioner of the Salvation Army in Canada.

Phone Operator Ends 40 Years Cobourg Service

COBOURG (ENS) — With a record service in this district with the Bell Telephone Company, Miss Sarah Shepherd, retiring chief operator of the Cobourg office, was guest of honor at a banquet held last night in the Baltimore Hotel. Miss Shepherd has been 40 years with the company and has been chief operator since 1923.

Company officials presented her with a wallet and with a life membership certificate. On behalf of the employees of the Cobourg office, she was presented with a gift by Miss Lorna Brisbin. The life membership was presented by L. R. Bissett, plant wire chief, Peterborough.

Manager Ross Van Dusen told of her service with the company. She began as a relief operator in 1913 and her eagerness to learn her work and a high measure of integrity resulted in her rapid placing as regular operator. From 1923 to her retirement in the present year, she served as chief operator.

Her responsibilities had been great, said Mr. Van Dusen, and increased with the expansion of the company's facilities here, from 200 calls a day to the present 12,000 and more, and from the occasional long distance call to the 900 to 1,000 and sometimes more per day at the present time. During the famous Sir Arthur Currie libel case in Cobourg, her duties were very important and she was entrusted by Sir Arthur with the placing of his personal calls each day at the trial. When the royal train was here overnight at the time of the visit of the late King and his Queen, she also had some very responsible duties to perform. Her record of service was exceptional throughout her many years with the company, Mr. Van Dusen said.

In presenting Miss Shepherd with the President's Wallet, C. R. Hill, divisional traffic superintendent, Toronto, said that her length of service was exceptional and an example to other employees and one that was deeply appreciated by the company.

Miss Shepherd declared that she had enjoyed every bit of her years with the Bell Telephone Company. She recalled many incidents of humor that helped to relieve the long hours when she sat alone on night duty. She recalled one time when a lady phoned to enquire if she knew of any social function that was going on at that late hour as her husband hadn't come home and she was beginning to worry. Miss Shepherd knew of a certain stag party that was in full swing at a certain place at the time and when she mentioned it to the anxious wife, she breathed a sigh.

Can It Have Been A Surprise?

When Clement Attlee made a few criticisms of the American Constitution recently he aroused great resentment among a number of U.S. legislators. Some of them did not hesitate to suggest that Mr. Attlee's remarks sprang from sympathy with Russia and Russian communism. Yet all that Mr. Attlee said was that the American governmental system can and often does make it difficult for the President and his Cabinet to carry through important decisions on matters of policy because these decisions have to be ratified by a Congress which may be politically hostile to the Administration.

* * *

What astounds us is that this criticism should appear fresh and subversive to men in Congress. It has been common talk for a century among thoughtful people in the U.S.A., and it is a commonplace among people in other countries who are interested in government. The great point of difference and dispute between countries which have parliamentary governments (like Canada) and the U.S.A., is that our system works much faster than theirs because the people who rule the country (Prime Minister and Cabinet) can command a majority in the legislature which must approve their plans. Can this really be a source of astonishment to men who are devoting their time to public life?

* * *

Mr. Attlee also implied that the American Constitution, being an eighteenth century document, was not invariably in tune with the stresses of modern international affairs. Does anybody seriously question this? The American Constitution is a fine piece of work, containing the essence of much spendidly democratic thinking; it was, after all, the product of some of the finest English minds of its day. But do the people of the U.S.A. really consider that it is incapable of improvement? Has it really achieved the unchallenged authority of the Ten Commandments? We know a great many Americans who are keenly interested in their country's welfare, and they do not hold this opinion.

* * *

What Mr. Attlee said was no more than any professor of politics or history might say in the course of a lecture on the American Constitution. We do not believe that the intelligent and thoughtful people in the U.S.A. were dismayed by it, or even that they violently disagreed with it. But we are astounded that a group of American legislators should look upon the Constitution as a Sacred Cow, and declare a man to be a villain because he has suggested that it does not work as well now as it did 150 years ago.

Bermudian Conference

Canadians will be greatly reassured by the announcement that the British Prime Minister, the American President and the Premier of France will confer in Bermuda next month. The one-voice-for-all American policy of the last half-year has been disconcerting the friends and allies of the United States, for it has been an American voice speaking without consultation.

The Bermuda conference will not diminish the force of the American voice, or its right to pitch the key. If the U.S. expects to continue to speak for U.N. at the armistice tent in Korea, it must assure itself that the nations on its side are united in view and policy.

For many months the fiction that U.N. is negotiating in Korea through the agency of the U.S. has been ludicrously thin. It has been the U.S. negotiating, and according to U.S. policies. The rest of the United Nations with troops in Korea have been tagging along or protesting on the diplomatic side-lines. There has been an embarrassing divergence of opinion between Britain and the U.S. over the truce proposals and also about the advisability of a conference with Russian leaders. The American attitudes have disquieted many Canadians, and people in France and Britain.

Consolidation of policies, with the rough edges trimmed, and a cordial exchange of points of view at Bermuda, will be sound preparation for talks with the Russians, should they be held. The fact that the Bermuda conference is agreed upon shows that the United States is not determined to ride alone, but is prepared to consider the suggestions and experience of her allies, notably Britain.

It Ain't Necessarily So

We have been pondering over the report of a speech which was made recently in Oklahoma City by Mr. G. F. Bruce of Edmonton, who is national president of the Canadian Home and School Federation; Mr. Bruce appears to think that modern children are a bad lot, and that their parents are to blame. And it is right at this point that we take issue with him; we think that modern children are, on the whole, very satisfactory and an improvement on children as we recall them from our own childhood days. We remember children as being more fearful and dependent than they seem to be now, and while it would be foolish to generalize about improvement in intelligence we think that modern children use their minds rather more freely than they did in our schooldays.

We presume that Mr. Bruce speaks from a considerable experience, and doubtless has some statistics to support his belief that children are suffering from bad upbringing. He spoke of parents with materialistic and selfish attitudes toward life—parents who were, in his words "faulty, weak and selfish" in their outlook. Certainly such parents exist, but much depends on the outlook of the person who is judging them. But when he says that he thinks the race is declining "mentally, socially, morally and spiritually" we cannot even be angry with him. We merely feel moved to send him a telegram saying "Cheer up".

The role of Jeremiah is always a tempting one. It is so impressive to be gloomy, and to tell the world that it is going to hell. Plenty of evidence can be found to support such a view. Nevertheless, we think that it is a wrong-headed and short-sighted one. There are lots of bad children and incompetent parents, but unless we are greatly deceived there are also a lot of promising, clever children and capable, intelligent parents. Nobody will ever be able to say which are in the majority, but we do not think that the odds are too great against the better sort.

Also, we are chronically mistrustful of people who want to make parents responsible for everything that is wrong with children. Beyond question, the home is an extremely important element in the formation of a character, but we know too many good people who have come from bad homes to think that it is the only, or even the decisive element. In spite of our occasional unkind criticisms of both, we think that modern homes and modern education are better than they used to be, and are training better children, and we oppose this opinion confidently to the despair of Mr. Bruce.

At Last An American Ambassador

The Americans do not seem to realize it, but Canada is that country's most important foreign commitment. They underestimate either its importance or its foreignness, or both. They either do not know that Canada is the United States' best customer or take for granted that Canada is almost a 49th state and they do not need to bother their heads about it, so long as it shows no signs of seceding from the Union. These are hard words, but how else explain the astounding fact that the U.S. has had no ambassador to Canada since last November? We do not know whether to be flattered or piqued that Washington seems to think that Canadian-American relations need no monitor.

This extraordinary state of affairs, is at long last to be ended with the nomination of Mr. R. Douglas Stuart as American Ambassador to Canada. Mr. Stuart is not a career diplomat; his political qualifications for the job seem to lie in his being treasurer of the Republican national committee. It is an odd quirk of American statecraft that so many top diplomatic posts are given as political rewards to men who have had no formal diplomatic experience.

In the choice of Mr. Stuart, and within this American pattern of honouring a party supporter with a high diplomatic post, the Eisenhower administration has chosen acceptably to Canadians. Mr. Stuart is an able and distinguished businessman and has long had commercial dealings with Canada, chiefly in Peterborough. He is vice-chairman of the Quaker Oats Company of the United States and has had a large voice in the direction of the Canadian subsidiary, whose head office and chief plant is in Peterborough. Mr. Stuart has been a frequent visitor to this city and members of his family have lived here.

Canada is fortunate—should Mr. Stuart's nomination be confirmed—to have so able a friend interpret the Canadian point of view to Washington.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Astronomers at Mount Palomar now believe that the universe is at least eight times larger than they formerly reckoned. Let anyone who feels crowded reflect upon that.

The poem "Muskoka" quoted by a writer of a letter to the editor, published on this page Wednesday, was written by the late F. M. de la Fosse former Librarian of Peterborough. It was published in 1937 in his collection of poems entitled Verses Grave and Gay.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

DEAR ALPHA: Here is a timely question since this is the trout fishing season. I have seen a trout, which by the way I did not get, flash through the water with the velocity of an arrow shot from a bow. Please tell me what is the motive force that propels it?

✦ ✦ ✦

ANSWER: It is propelled by its fins and tail—chiefly the tail, which acts like a powerful sculling oar. What impels it? Desire for food, lusty spring ardour; one of a dozen piscatorial fancies. Fish do not always move fast; they can and do dawdle as other creatures of flesh and blood do. Perhaps your lovely trout was after some natural fly hatch — larvae of insects at the surface or just above the surface of the water.

✦ ✦ ✦

FROM THE MANY PIECES of interesting local historical information which Mrs. Gordon Maniece presented in her paper on old Peterborough houses (read to the Peterborough Historical Society Wednesday evening) I parade these two snippets: There used to be a toll gate across the Gravel Road (Highway 28) a approximately the Sherbrooke Street crossing. Postmaster Carver, who had built for himself and family a fine English cottage beyond it, at Spruce Glen (the name is still on the property, which Carvers still own) used to hire a driver or have a member of his family drive him every day into Peterborough to the Post Office, and he paid five cents toll a day. This was eighty or more years ago. Mr. Carver always wore a tall silk hat to the office, which he occupied for thirty years.

✦ ✦ ✦

THE SECOND tid-bit from Mrs. Maniece's paper is that the first coal oil lamp in Peterborough came into use in 1859. Daughters of the Rev. J. M. Rodger, first Presbyterian minister in Peterborough, gave him a coal-oil lamp as a Christmas present in that year . . . Which calls to mind how very recent things are in Peterborough. Coal oil lamps belong to history, in the country almost as finally as in the city, yet it was less than a hundred years ago that Peterborough people had their first such lamp. (Coal oil as an illuminating fluid is really quite recent everywhere — almost as recent as atomic heat, in time's long story. Shows how fast we have come in a short time.)

✦ ✦ ✦

THE DISCUSSION of old Peterborough houses — 1840, 1860, 1880 — suggests how recent our past is in terms of stone and plaster. There are Peterborough people living today as old as some of the houses singled out as historic. It also indicates what a marvellous opportunity the Historical Society has to record this past . . . Time is relative; so of course is history. I once lived for a year in rooms which had been continuously inhabited since 1480. Not a wigwam; a stone lodging in England.

✦ ✦ ✦

ITEMS for future reference in these columns. The mention of the Rev. J. Morrice Rodger, M.A., reminds me that this gentleman deserves more of this column that he has got thus far. He was a theologian — and five generations of his ancestors before him had been ministers of the gospel. Yet he was also something of a doctor. He attended medical classes at the University of Aberdeen, where he was also indoctrinated for The Kirk, and received a certificate from the Royal College of Surgeons, London.

Further, he built two of Peterborough's churches: St. Andrew's and St. Paul's — the latter when he seceded from the Kirk of that Presbyterian leaning and led some of his flock into the wilderness which soon became St. Paul's in another Presbyterian persuasion. Reminds one of the secession of scholars from Oxford who treked eastward down to the marshes and founded Cambridge University. The parallel is of course fanciful; the English trek was of scholars, the Peterborough one of Presbyterians.

✦ ✦ ✦

THE SECOND Peterborough personage of other days deserving of further comment was Henry Calcutt, proprietor of Calcutt's Brewery, Ashburnham (torn down some years ago), and enterprising agent in many deals. He owned a thousand-acre tract of "mineral lands" known as the Galway mines. He had a fleet of vessels carrying goods and people from and to the far side of Rice Lake. At one time he drilled a well in Otonabee, two miles from Peterborough, to try to find salt. He bored to 440 feet, where he struck granite.

Any reader having any good or first-hand gossip about Mr. Rodger or Mr. Calcutt, please drop it in Alpha's ear. Are there any Rodgers or Calcutts left in these parts? I know that two sons of the Rev. Presbyterian went to Australia even before his abrupt death from apoplexy in 1878.

COUNTRY NOTES: All eight of the ewes have now been sheared. Three bags full. I took them to Whitaker's warehouse, telephoning the management beforehand to warn them I was about to transact a big deal with their company. They pretended not to be chagrined when I arrived in my four-cylinder limousine with only three bags.

But it smelt like the real stuff—lanolin and sheep manure combined are odoriferous — and the bags weighed 67 pounds in all. Prices range between a top of something like eighty cents and a bottom of about nine cents (for next-to-sweepings). I haven't had their grading, or cheque, yet. Hope that they have noticed that the Russians are buying wool and thus buoying the price. My imagination is tickled by the thought of Malenkov's neck being kept warm next winter by my wool.

If Whitaker's sell any of my wool to the Russians, I hope it is the back-end kind which Gamma and I tucked away down at the bottom of the bag, hoping the grader's hand would not reach that far. In fact, however, we did discard the dirtiest stuff, burning it, to my present regret. The man at the mill said we should have put it in a separate bag; that even the scruffiest wool at a few cents a pound soon begins to weigh pay gold. The firm has ways of cleaning it all to the sheen of driven snow.

Lanolin (sheep oil) is wonderful stuff. Even packing the fleece into the bags made my hands greasy. The man shearing the ewes was wet to the skin, the oil penetrating through his two pairs of trousers. The grease easily washed off my hands under the tap and left the skin, callous from typewriting, soft as a maiden's blush.

✦ ✦ ✦

ACQUIRED the sheep, really, as self-propelled, self-fuelled lawn mowers. The grass is growing frightfully high at The Acres. Last Sunday turned the sheep loose to chaw grass around the house. Instead they bounced through the potato, lettuce, beet, pea and asparagus patches, and munched tulip leaves. So I put the sheep disconsolately back into their meadow, and borrowed a lawn mower.

How fragrant and lush the countryside has become! The apple trees are in bloom — the heaviest bloom being on the scrub, old and hollow trees. The one which has a woodpecker's nest inside its trunk is a mass of flowers. The logical conclusion is therefore, that woodpeckers are good for apple trees.

An American Opinion: "MIND IF WE LOOK OVER YOUR SHOULDER?"

Using The Sun's Heat

(By Francois LeLionnais in UNESCO Bulletin)

ONLY a tiny proportion of the heat radiated in all directions by the sun reaches the earth, but this quantity, in human terms, is enormous. It has been calculated, for example, that it is as much as would be produced by burning 50,000 times the amount of coal which is mined each year—or enough in one year to melt a layer of ice 90 feet thick, covering the entire globe.

For thousands of years, men have dreamed of harnessing this power. Plutarch mentioned the problem, and we know it also preoccupied Archimedes. Modern attempts to utilize solar energy directly began with the construction of Buffon in the 18th century of a huge mirror designed to focus the sun's rays on a single point. In the 19th century, scientists in many countries— Saussure and Mouchet of France, Melloni of Italy, Tyndall of England, and others— sought practical solutions to the problem. In our own century, stimulated largely by the work of the Americans, Abbot, Fowle and Alrich, such efforts have been multiplied.

It is now possible to report that research has passed beyond the laboratory phase and that we can look forward with confidence to practical industrial use of the sun's heat. The biggest installation in the world for this purpose, supervised by Professor Felix Trombe, is in the little village of Mont Louis in the French Pyrenees. This consists of two large mirrors facing each other. The first of these is a flat rectangular reflector 42 feet long, mounted on bearings and turned constantly by a motor to follow the sun throughout the day. Rays are reflected from this surface to a parabolic mirror which focusses the light and heat. Professor Trombe's solar oven has produced temperatures ranging up to 2,4000 C. (4,564F.), which is comparable to that produced by modern industrial electric ovens. This temperature is sufficient to melt a 100-lb. block of iron in one hour.

This procedure presents enormous advantages. Not only does it produce high temperatures, at no cost in fuel, but it creates these temperatures in the form of pure, radiant heat. Other industrial ovens, using coal, oil or electricity result in undesirable fumes and other combustion products and, in some cases, particles from the lining of the oven. Such impurities are sometimes incorporated into the substances being heated, seriously impairing the quality of the finished product.

Professor Trombe is now engaged in production of ultra heat-resistent ceramics, composed of aluminium oxides, thorium and zirconium, are expected to play an important part in the construction of atomic piles, in the building of supersonic aircraft, etc.

Ready To Shoot

(Vancouver Province)

In the Slocan Valley of the Kootenay an intolerable situation demands the immediate attention and action of both provincial and federal governments.

Alarmed at recent burnings and bombings that are blamed on the comparatively small section of the Doukhobor Sons of Freedom, non-Doukhobor residents have armed themselves, organized patrols and are ready to shoot in defence of their property.

Guelph's Boom

(Guelph Mercury)

If the people of Guelph are becoming a bit blase about all the talk of million dollar industries, fantastic sales of farm land and rumors of major commercial and housing developments, they should be excused. They have had reason to get that way in two years which have surpassed anything since John Galt felled his first tree and mapped out his future town on the top of a freshly-sawed tree stump. Story has it that he placed his hand on top of the stump and traced the routes of the first streets along his outspread fingers.

John Galt would have laughed if he had heard a Guelph contractor say the other day that nothing was harder to buy than a good lot, or even a poor lot, at any price these days. There just aren't any. Vacant ground within the old city borders (prior to January 1, 1953), is practically non-existent and a person now has to travel more than two miles from the centre of the city before he reaches open land.

Chances are that the open land is already staked off for building lots. If not, it is probably a part of the planning board's industrial development basin.

Lots now range anywhere up to $1,000 and $1,500. John Galt offered his immigrant settlers an acre of ground for 30 cents. They coud have a quarter of a section at that price if they wanted it.

Bible Message

And the Spirit of God came upon Azariah the son of Oded: and he went out to meet Asa, and said unto him, Hear ye me, Asa, and all Judah and Benjamin; The Lord is with you, while ye be with him; and if ye seek him he will be found of you; but if ye forsake him, he will forsake you. Now for a long season Israel has been without the true God, and without a teaching priest, and without law. But when they in their trouble did turn unto the Lord God of Israel, and sought him, he was found of them. (II Chron. 15:1-4.)

Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended: but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind; and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus.

Let us therefore, as many as be perfect, be thus minded: and if in any thing ye be otherwise minded, God shall reveal even this unto you . . . . For our conversation is in heaven; from whence also we look for the Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ: who shall change our vile body, that it may be fashioned like unto his glorious body, according to the working whereby he is able even to subdue all things unto himself. (Phil. 3:13-15,20,21.)

Another One Gone

(Winnipeg Tribune)

Another of the Saskatchewan government's commercial ventures is on its way to the glue factory. It has been announced that the government woollen mill at Moose Jaw will be closed at the end of June after operating for seven years. The total losses for the seven years will be considerably in excess of $500,000.

The CCF government hung on to the mill longer—and took heavier losses—than it did with its tannery and shoe factory in Regina which was closed some years ago after showing cumulative deficits of more than $155,000. Or the fish filleting plants which were closed when they showed losses in excess of $360,000.

It has been clearly demonstrated in Saskatchewan that government has no special powers or instincts that assure its success in business.

World's Smallest Jets

(Trade Topics)

Miniature jet engines for propelling toy aircraft, racing cars and speedboats—have been shown in the London section of the British Industries Fair.

Claimed by the manufacturer to be the smallest working jet engines in the world and an outstanding achievement in model engineering, they are being made in four sizes.

The smallest weighs 3½ drams, has 15 seconds duration and is capable of flying a model aircraft with a 20" wingspan. The largest weighs 2½ ounces and has a duration of 36 seconds.

Known by the trade name of Jetex, these engines will be installed in model craft for the Fair display.

The manufacturer is now developing a scale model space ship or moon rocket.

Clover Mites? Invade City

The Peterborough Department of Health have had complaints of an invasion in the central western part of the city.

The invaders are thought to be clover mites—small red insects—which are making a nuisance of themselves in a newly developed area around Highland Heights.

"These insects, if they are clover mites, present no health problem, but are merely a nuisance," Dr. Wells, medical officer of health, said today.

"We have sent samples away for confirmation of identification and will be better able to advise householders what to do when the report is received. Right now we have advised those who have called to spray their window and door frames with a special type of insecticide.

"However the attack seems to be letting up."

RHEUMATIC PAIN
Can Be Costly!

"This winter I had to quit work because of rheumatic pain," writes Mr. T. Glofcheskie, Wilno, Ont. "I became fearful of being laid up as on a previous occasion with rheumatic pain. My pain became increasingly severe and spread from hip to ankle. Out of bed, the leg felt cold as though in cold water, so I stayed in bed. A friend persuaded me to take T-R-C's and I'm glad I did. In a short while I was relieved of my pain and was soon on the job again."

Don't suffer from Rheumatic or Arthritic pain. Take Templeton's T-R-C's—Canada's LARGEST-SELLING proprietary medicine to bring quick relief from such pain. Only 65c, $1.55 at druggists. I-648

FIRE DESTROYED a barn on the farm of Melville Scott, about 13 miles east of Peterborough, early today. Mr. Scott was able to lead two calves and three horses to safety but a third calf and between 80 and 90 chickens were burned. Other cattle were grazing in the pastures. The Scotts, who retired about midnight, awakened about 1.30 a.m. and noticed a red glow from the fire. By that time the fire was well under way and Mr. Scott had just enough time to rescue the calves and horses. Although neighbors came to help, all they could do was watch; the water supply was too close to the barn.

Critical Test Faces Big Three

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Big Three leaders meeting next month face a critical test of their ability to forge new Allied unity for firm dealing with Russia—in or out of a conference with Soviet Premier Malenkov.

Unless they can close ranks, some observers here doubt that they would dare undertake subsequent Big Four negotiatons and give Russia an opportunity to try to exploit their differences.
to decide on what terms they might

Presumably they will also have be able to do business with Malenkov—what they could offer and what they could request in the event of a Big Four conference.

That the Western alliance is beset by difficulties and differences became apparent all over again Thursday.

GOVERNMENT FALLS

Hardly had the announcement been made that President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and French Premier Mayer would meet in mid-June in Bermuda, when Mayer's government collapsed.

This was the 18th French cabinet since Second World War liberation. Some time, diplomatically speaking, will now be lost while France puts together a new cabinet —time which might have been used in working up an agenda for the conference and carrying on preliminary diplomacy.

In the announcement about the conference, differing views became clearly apparent. Mayer said the three would discuss the feasibility of a session with Malenkov, and Churchill said he hoped the meeting would pave the way to such a session.

But in Washington the White House declined to link the meeting of the three with a possible Big Four get-together. At the state department all emphasis was placed on the chance that the Western chiefs of government will have to develop greater unity among the Western powers.

Newspaper Folk Help Each Other

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP)—No people like show people? Nuts! There are no people like newspaper people when one of the family's in trouble.

Port Huron's wild tornado Thursday not only knocked out all power to the Port Huron Times Herald, but also to its radio station WTTH. When it would be back was a question, maybe a few hours, maybe many.

F. Granger Weil, executive vice-president of the Times Herald, knew his fellow townsmen wanted to know the full story of what had befallen their neighbors.

A call to Paul W. McKee, publisher of the Mt. Clemens Monitor Leader brought the word: "Sure we'll help. What do you need?"

Could the Times-Herald use the Monitor Leader's plant to get out an extra, something it could hit Port Huron streets with at 6 a. m? "The shop's yours," replied the Monitor Leader publisher.

Managing editor Clarence Burkholder, three printers, an engraver, and a photographer with batches of pictures were off to Mt. Clemens, some 35 miles away, in a matter of minutes.

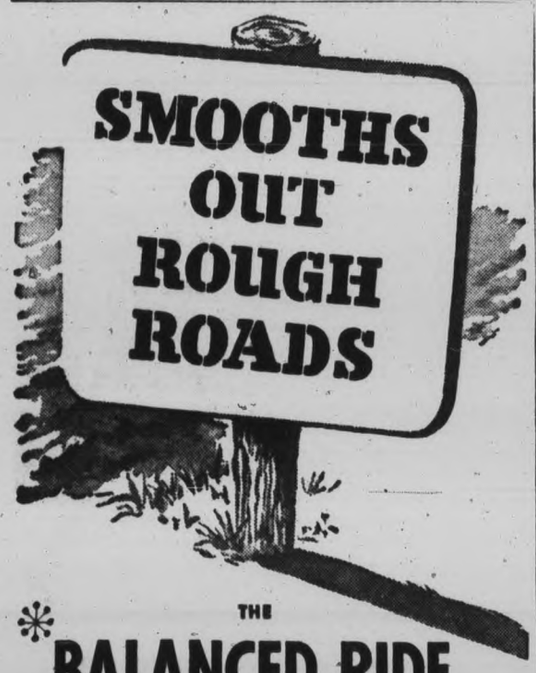
of relief into the phone and exclaimed that most likely that was where he was and she could go back to bed with her worries over.

Operators were expected by the telephone subscribers to be fountains of wisdom. Miss Shepherd related that on one occasion a woman was bathing a baby and called her to get some advice.

"I told her what t o do, as well as I knew, and later one of my fellow operators asked me what I knew about bringing up babies," recalled Miss Shepherd with a smile.



There were sad occasion in the life of an operator as well as the humorous ones, and she referred to the casualty lists of both wars. There were times of strain when one was keyed up to the moment, such as when the royal train was at Cobourg overnight and she had charge of five wires at night to the royal coaches and five wires to the press or pilot train.

"But it has all been a wonderful experience, and I have many happy memories," she declared.

GRANT'S SPORT CORNER

By DON GRANT

This is an age of speed. Throughout the world men and women are attempting tor break speed records on land, on water and in the air.

A Peterborough auto mechanic, Charlie Abbott, is no exception. The racing boat enthusiast is aiming at a world's record for class E racing runabouts.

Just in case you do not know Charlie, here's some background. Canada's only class E racer, Charlie has been competing in Canada and the United States in his Meteor II. He's been quite successful and is now ranked well up among the top racers in his class.

Charlie and Ruth Abbott

Since he's the only Canadian in that class, Charlie has to look to far-away lakes and rivers for competition. That, coupled with his own modesty, keeps reports of his feats to a minimum.

During the past winter Charlie has been working with his Meteor II, trimming the hull and pepping the Mercury engine up for another season of activity.

Changes From Gasoline To Alcohol

One of the major changes in his $3,500 craft is the switch from gas to alcohol (down, boy, this alcohol isn't good for colds). Most of the high-speed (60 to 80 miles an hour) artists have made the change to alcohol because it's easier on the engine and gives about 10 per cent more power.

Those reasons, engine and speed, were Charles' main reasons for the switch. His Mercury engine is quite precious, $1,250 worth, being made by well-known racers, Eddie Myers and Clay Smith, and assembled by Charlie.

But more important is the extra speed which Charlie hopes to get. Last year with gas he ran a dead heat with record holder, Al Endres, who was burning alcohol. With alcohol Charlie hopes to perhaps break Endres' record of 81 m.p.h. for the E class.

Hits 75 Miles An Hour On the Stretches

With gas during the past years, Charlie has been hitting speeds in high seventies in the straight-aways. For example at Cornwall in the three-lap five-mile course he averaged 62 miles an hour, hitting more than 75 miles an hour on the stretches.

This summer Peterborough residents will be treated to an exhibition of boat racing by American and Canadian hobbyists. With help from the Toronto Hydroplane Club, Dalton Kee of Bridgenorth and Charlie hope to hold a regatta at Chemong lake.

Plans first called for an international meet, but they were too late in organizing. They decided on an exhibition of racing. Racers from both countries will be performing in 226s (record at 122 m.p.h.), 225s (record at 104 m.p.h.), 135s (record at 100 m.p.h.), 48s (record at 88 m.p.h.), D and E class crafts.

Just to help boat racing get started in the Kawarthas, these racers are all enthusiastic about coming for this event. Usually the prize money, beside trophies, ranges at $150 a heat, but for this exhibition they will receive trophies.

One of the racers will be Bill Hodson of Islington with his 225 and 135 class boats. The larger craft, recently purchased, did 104 m.p.h. this past winter during a race in Florida.

If there isn't more competition for Charlie next year, he'll probably jump into another class. He has been thinking of entering the high speed, high cost 266 class. These boats do well over a 100 m.p.h. and the record is held by Bobby Sykes of California at 122 m.p.h.

If Charlie enters that class, he may build his own engine or if time runs out he may buy either a Lauterbach or Hallett, two of the finest engines. Those engines are costly. Charlie estimates the hull will cost about $2,000.

Few Accidents In Boat Racing

Travelling at these fast speeds may seem dangerous, but Charlie points out boat racing has few accidents when compared to other slower sports.

Just the same there has been a few. The worst in the past two years occurred in Florida this year when Roy Ritner lost an arm. His craft flipped over during a race and he was hit by another boat. Three years ago Frank Smith of Kingston was killed at the CNE during the start of a race, but deaths like the accidents are fewer than in other sports.

In spite of your assurances, Charlie, I'll be satisfied to wave to you from the dock as you pass by.

UEW Holds Lead In Soccer Over Merchants

Peterborough UEW soccer team was leading the local Merchants 3-0 in King Edward Park last night when the City League match was called off after 85 minutes of play, due to rain.

UEW played fine football against the strong Merchants and the score sheet was blank at the end of the first period. UE swept to the fore in the next period, with Bill Allan scoring a picture goal from the right wing, and Holroyd making it 2-0 on a smart effort from the left. They were awarded a penalty for the hands and Bob Croll made no mistake from the spot.

The winners were feeling the loss, due to injuries, of Davies, Ryan, Hillier and Hoyle, but still battled hard. Allan was the next casualty when kicked off his feet. The goalie saved one but Strong put it in, only to have the marker disallowed, and it was 3-0 for UEW when the heavy rain came.

Red Wings Plan To Sponsor Hamilton Team

HAMILTON (CP)—Ken Soble, Hamilton radio station owner who bought the old Barton St. Arena recently, said Thursday Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League will sponsor a Hamilton team in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A group next season.

The Hamilton team will replace Windsor Spitfires in the group.

Soble said Jim Skinner, Spitfires coach, will handle the Hamilton team. Soble also said he talked with Jack Adams, general manager of the Red Wings, and Adams had promised that the Hamilton team would be a contender.

TEMPORARY MANAGER

Lloyd Pollock, manager of the Spitfires, will act in that role for the Hamilton team until it is operating smoothly and then retire.

Soble said that Hamilton's senior A franchise, now also owned by him, has attracted the interest of five "top-notch" players as a nucleus. He did not name the players.

Rudy Pilous, former manager of St. Catharines Teepees junior team and Perc Thompson, builder of great Hamilton teams in the past, will help with the senior club until a coach and manager are found, Soble said.

Remember When

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ted Lyons, the great righthander of Chicago White Sox, was 37 years old when he scored his 200th American League victory as the Sox beat Washington 9-2 in a free-hitting game 15 years ago today. The veteran knuckle-baller scattered nine hits, including a homer by Jonathan Stone in the eighth inning.

YWCA SWIMMERS worked for trophies and crests at the annual award night, conducted by swimming instructor Roselyn Stone. Mothers and dads crowded the pool balcony to watch their children perform. Sandra Wood (right, front) was the main trophy winner, and (above) she shows her intermediate swim championship trophy and diving cup to Anne Gariepy (left), junior champion, Elizabeth Collins (left, back), crest designer and crest holder, and to Pat Collins (right, back), the senior champion swimmer.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Black Worried Because Pitching Poor

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Black is worried. He is not anywhere near the pitcher he was last year.

The big Negro righthander, whose brilliant relief hurling carried Brooklyn Dodgers to a championship last year, has pitched poorly in all but three of his 10 appearances. He has made two starts and was belted out of the box in both.

Black failed to finish the first inning Thursday night as the Giants banged across five runs to overcome a 2-0 deficit and go on to defeat the Dodgers 7-2.

Before the game he was asked what was wrong.

"I wish I knew," muttered Joe. "I feel all right. I think I have the same stuff. I just can't seem to get anybody out. At first I thought I was striding too far. Then I thought I was throwing the ball across my body instead of coming straight down with it. Now, I just don't know.

CONTROL OFF

"I know my control has been off this year, but I don't know why. I've got no alibis. Some people say I haven't been pitched enough. That's not so. (Manager Chuck) Dressen has used me plenty but I've not been coming through for him

"That's what hurts me most. I'm letting him and the boys down. I've come in several times with the score tied or the boys trailing by one run. All I had to do was hold them for a coule of innings and we'd have a chance to win. Instead I get slugged for four-five runs and we get no chance to catch up."

Black scoffed at a suggestion that he might have fallen victim to the sophomore jinx, a bugaboo that many other second-year men have failed to avoid.

"No," he said. "It's not that. I've got only myself to blame. I've been pressing too much."

May's Boys Win

May's junior school softball team defeated Confederation by a 13-7 count yesterday on the former's diamond. They pushed in seven runs in the second inning, getting one next heat, then two, and finishing up with three The losers tallied four in the first, one in the second, and two more in the fifth. Teams:

Confederation — Westwood, Doleman, MacLellan, Brook, Bosak, Hewie, Houselander, Scarlet, Stephenson, Rex, Jackson.

May's — G. Park, Hutchison, Bell, Clark, Johnston, J. Park, Armour, Grant, Hamilton.

New York-Detroit Deal Expected On Houtteman

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—The long-brewing player deal between New York and Detroit, in which Tiger pitcher Art Houtteman and Yankee outfielder Irv Noren are the leading pawns, may be completed before the June 15 trade deadline, The Associated Press learned Thursday.

Negotiations between the two clubs began last December when a last minute change of heart by Detroit general manager Charlie Gehringer killed the deal.

Talk was resumed in Florida during the spring training period, and picked up again two weeks ago when the Yankees were playing in Detroit. Wednesday, manager Fred Hutchinson of the Tigers and Roy Hamey, assistant general manager of the Yankees, were together for an hour before the game at Yankee Stadium.

PACKAGE DEAL

Neither side was eager to disclose what they had talked about, but a source said the Yankees suggested a package deal involving four Yankee players for two Tigers. According to the source, they offered outfielder Art Schult, infielder Jim Brideweser and pitchers Ewell Blackwell and Jim McDonald for Houtteman and infielder Johnny Pesky.

The Tigers insisted on Noren instead of Schult. The latter is a hard-hitting, 24-year-old service returnee who batted .303, hit 24 home runs and drove in 118 runs for Binghamton in the Eastern League in 1950. He is a righthanded hitter, however, and the Tigers' main need is for an outfielder who swings from the left side.

Noren, who came to New York from Washington last year in exchange for Jackie Jensen, Frank Shea and a utility infielder, is a southpaw swinger. Brideweser recently was optioned to a Yankee farm club but can be recalled. Blackwell, the former Cincinnati ace, and McDonald, are veteran righthanders who have seen little service this year.

Men's Games Off

Rain last night washed out the opening games of the men's City Softball League in the Ashburnham Bowl. A fair-sized crowd was on hand for the twin bill, featuring UEW, T-P-T Petes, Seabrooke's and Revoy's. The opening ceremonies had the veteran Bill Simmons pitching, George Dormer catching and Fred Scates batting. However, the first game was barely underway when it commenced to rain, and eventually the doubleheaders was postponed.

The draw for prizes will be made at next Tuesday's games when UEW plays Seabrooke's at seven p.m., followed by TPT playing Revoy's. The schedule calls for double-headers every Tuesday and Thursday nights there until toward the end of July.

Bisons Score 5 Runs In Ninth To Edge Syracuse Chiefs 7-6

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Bisons scored five runs in the ninth inning Thursday night to edge Syracuse Chiefs 7-6 and take over first place in the International Baseball League from the idle Toronto Maple Leafs.

Syracuse starter Art Hartley was given a six-run third innng, in which Johnny Blatnik and Carden Gillenwater homered, and had a 6-2 margin going into the fatal final frame.

Montreal Royals mauled three Springfield pitchers for 13 hits and as many runs to set back the Cubs in their first appearance in Montreal. A two-run triple by Taft Wright gave Ottawa Athletics a 7-3 victory over Baltimore Orioles in a game halted by rain in the eighth inning.

At Syracuse, an infield out in the ninth by Al Restaino and singles by pinch hitter Frank Bolling and Ken Chapman tallied one run. Buddy Hicks doubled for two more and Bill Tuttle's single off reliefer Lynn Lovenguth tied the score. Eddie Kazak, who homered in the sixth, singled across the winning run.

At Montreal, a six-run outburst in the opening inning against Gene Long paved the way for an easy win for Bob Alexander, his second in four starts.

At Ottawa, Wright tripled in two runs in the Ottawa half of the first after Russ Kerns gave Baltimore a lead with a three-run homer. Hal Bevan singled home Wright to tie the game and a fly by Jack Littrell brought in the winning run in the second.

Collins, Wood, Gariepy Receive Swim Trophies At Annual YW Award Night

Award nights for the YWCA swimmers were held Wednesday and Thursday at the YW to mark the end of a successful aquatic season. All swimmers took part, even those of pre-school age, and as a finale the swim director, Roselyn Stone was tossed into the pool by a number of her pupils to add to the merriment of a gala wind-up competition. Forty-five children competed before 100 spectators in the Wednesday evening events, and 65 competitors were on hand last night with 70 spectators. Judges were Mrs. Pansy Forbes, Mrs. Andy Rutter Jr., and Mrs. Gordon Minty.

SMALLER ONES

The program for the smaller children called for races in each group, peanut, wading and bathtub races, with prizes awarded the winners. Deanna Sue Delahaye won the baby cup competition (8 and 9) with Anne Beauclerc runner-up. The tiny tots' cup (age 7 and under) went to Shirley Skinner ahead of Maureen Carter, being presented by Mrs. Walter Perks. Awards were given: swans to those who swim one length of the pool, and seahorses to preschool girls who swim. The silver spoon for achievement was presented by Mrs. R. Wilkinson to Faye Braithewaite.

The Thursday program called for flutter board push, pigeon race, peanut and life-saving races, obstacle relay, etc., the winners getting ribbons.

Anne Gariepy won the junior cup finals (10 and 11), with Karen Wood second and Nadine Parsons third, the presentation being made by Mrs. J. E. Watters.

Sandra Wood won the intermediate cup finals (12 to 14) with Carol Howe next and Elizabeth Collins third. Mrs. C. G. Collins made the presentation.

SENIOR WINNER

The senior cup finals (15 and up) went to Pat Collins ahead of Janet Collins and Elenora Standish, the presentation being by Mrs. H. T. Rehill.

The open diving cup winner was Sandra Wood, Pat Collins coming second and Janet Collins third, Mrs. Rehill making the presentation.

Various awards were made at the closing, also. The YMCA aquatic 150 awards went to Pat Collins, Janet Collins, Elenora Standish, Carol Howe and Sandra Wood, being successful in obtaining the full intermediate level, consisting of 25 tests. The presentations were by Mrs. C. G. Collins.

A high award, the leaders' crests, were presented tby Mrs. Rehill to members of the Life Guards Club who assist the director in teaching, show a high sense of responsibility and have the Bronze Medallion. The winners were: Elizabeth Collins, Pat Collins, Janet Collins, Elenora Standish, Heather Gordon, Nancy Townsend, Betty Rutherford and Mary White.

Mrs. J. E. Watters presented silver spoons for achievement to Shirley Shouldice and Karen Herr.

DO YOU OWN A CAR?

When the man who developed Bardahl Rad Conditioner brought his car to a garage for repairs, the garage owner phoned to ask him what on earth had he put in his radiator. He said that when they drained his radiator the water was so thick with dirt it would hardly pour. The Bardahl Rad Conditioner had removed rust, scale and dirt untouched by a popular brand chemical cleaner. The garage owner immediately placed an order for their own use. Since then hundreds of thousands of car owners in Canada and the United States have used Bardahl Rad Conditioner. If you own a car you should try it too . . . if your car is new it will keep your radiator in permanently new condition . . . if you have been running your car for a few years you'll be amazed at the dirt, rust and scale it will remove. Bardahl Rad Conditioner keeps radiators clean . . . eliminates rust formation which can insulate a motor, causing harmful overheating . . . and it also lubricates and stops squeaky water pumps. Bardahl Rad Conditioner costs only 89c. Ask for it at your Service Station.

Pittsburgh Whips Phils 7-2; Giants Trip Brooks

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

New York Giants are ready to start a petition demanding more room in the first division in the National League. They think they belong there, just as the experts said before the season started. But it's a typical NL race with almost everybody trying to get in front. It's so tight even a five-game winning streak and nine successes in their last 12 starts aren't enough to get the Giants higher than fifth. Philadelphia Phillies are in front at the moment, but the margin is so small that on any cold day they ought to be able to feel the hot breath from the hungry pack all the way down to the Giants.

The Phils, thumped 7-2 by Pittsburgh Thursday night, lead Milwaukee by half a game. St. Louis is a half game back of Milwaukee with Brooklyn's off-and-on Dodgers another half step behind the Cards.

KNOCK OFF BROOKLYN

That brings it down to fifth place and the Giants, who knocked off Brooklyn 7-2, to creep within three games of the top.

Three games from first to fifth! In the American League where New York Yankees are threatening to run away, the margin is more than that from first to second.

The Yankees stretched their lead to 3½ games over the idle Chicago White Sox by edging Washington Senators 6-5 on a three-run seventh-inning rally.

Philadelphia Athletics overpowered Boston 9-0 in the only other American League game. The Cardinals made up deficits of three and six runs to defeat Cincinnati 11-9 to round out the National League action.

SLAM OUT 5 RUNS

The Giants slammed out five runs in the first inning against Brooklyn's Joe Black and Ben Wade on a pair of back-to-back triples, a single, double and Bobby Thomson's home run.

The season's largest National League crowd, 46,778 Polo Grounds customers, saw Brooklyn dispose of Giant ace Sal Maglie with one out in the first inning when Duke Snider followed Pee Wee Reese's single with a home run and Jackie Robinson added a double.

The Giants slammed out five runs in the first inning against Brooklyn's Joe Black and Ben Wade on a pair of back-to-back triples, a single, double and Bobby Thomson's home run.

The season's largest National League crowd, 46,778 Polo Grounds customers, saw Brooklyn dispose of Giant ace Sal Maglie with one out in the first inning when Duke Snider followed Pee Wee Reese's single with a home run and Jackie Robinson added a double. But Al Corwin, making his third relief appearance in four games, stopped the Dodgers until the fifth and Dave Koslo held the lead to the end. The victory went to Corwin, just as it did the last two times he relieved.

ROOF FALLS IN

The roof fell in on Karl Drews in Pittsburgh in the sixth inning. The Philadelphia righthander had a 2-0 lead when the pirates suddenly found the range for seven singles and were aided by two walks and a pair of errors.

The Cardinals collected 16 hits against Cincinnati and needed them. The Red Legs jumped to a 6-0 lead. The Cards tied it at 6-6 only to find themselves trailing 9-6 after Cincinnati batted in the seventh. The Cards came back with four more in the seventh and a single tally in the eighth. Red Schoendienst led the Card attack with three singles to take over the NL batting lead with an average of .365.

The Yankees' victory, too, was a come-from-behind effort against the battling Senators. Down 5-3 after four innings, mainly because of the generosity of Whitey Ford and Ray Scarborough who gave up nine walks, the Yankees rallied for three runs in the seventh. Jim McDonald and Tom Gorman pitched hitless ball through the last 5 1-3 innings for New York.

The Athletics' triumph over Boston may have been a costly one since they lost the services of lefty Bobby Shantz for an indefinite period. Shantz, pitching shutout ball, strained a muscle in his arm with two out in the fourth and had to retire.

Carl Scheib took over and combined with Shantz to hold the Sox to three hits.

Doubts Toronto Made Formal Olympic Bid

TORONTO (CP)—James Worrall, president of the Athletic Union of Canada, said Thursday night that though there are "definite ambitions along that line" he doubts if Toronto has made a formal bid for the 1960 Olympic Games.

He was commenting on a story from Chicago in which Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic committee named Toronto as one of 19 cities interested in staging the games.

Formal presentation of bids is not necessary until 1955.

Name 7 Colts To Run In Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP)—They dropped the names of seven colts into the entry box Thursday for the 77th running of the $100,000-added Preakness Stakes Saturday, then continued the argument whether Native Dancer can gain revenge for his defeat by Dark Star in the Kentucky Derby.

Native Dancer, Alfred Vanderbilt's powerful grey galloper, contributed to the speculation with a sparkling three-quarter mile workout that had rival trainers shaking their heads and wondering what they were doing in the race

There were no surprise entries.

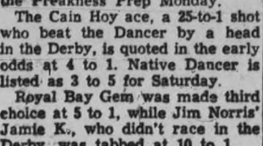
A fog lay over Pimlico as the Dancer flashed around the oval, and varying times were reported. Trainer Bill Winfrey of Native Dancer had it 1:11 4-5, while the track clocker made it 1:11 3-5. At any rate, it was a super effort, for the track record is 1:10 1-5 set by the Pincher in 1948.

SECOND CHOICE

Dark Star, from the Cin Hoy Stable of Harry F. Gugenheim, is expected to be made the second choice in the 3-16-mile classic although narrowly beaten by Eugene Constatin Jr.'s Royal Bay Gem in the Preakness Prep Monday.

The Cain Hoy ace, a 25-to-1 shot who beat the Dancer by a head in the Derby, is quoted in the early odds at 4 to 1. Native Dancer is listed as 3 to 5 for Saturday.

Royal Bay Gem was made third choice at 5 to 1, while Jim Norris' Jamie K., who didn't race in the Derby, was tabbed at 10 to 1.



Other entries are Mrs. Gordon Guiberson's California contender, Correspondent; Ben Whitaker's speedy Tahitian King, and Bruce Campbell's Ram O'War.

Lodge Tax Claims

WASHINGTON (AP)—The internal revenue bureau has lodged tax claims of $585,534 against gambler Frank Costello and his wife. This was disclosed Thursday in a check of tax court files. Costello, one-time New York gambling bigwig, is serving an 18-month prison term for contempt of Congress.

COBOURG (ENS) — Struck by a car yesterday afternoon when he darted across the business section, six-year-old Carl Cole, of Cobourg, received undetermined injuries. ROME MAY GET OLYMPICS

NEW YORK (AP)—Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the U.S. Amateur Athletic Union, said Thursday the 1956 Olympic Games probably will go to Rome if Melbourne falls down on the job.

Commenting on the confusion raised by the resignation of Arthur W. Coles, chairman of the Olympic Games control committee in Australia, Ferris said:

"The situation doesn't look good at all. The folks down there seem to be working at cross purposes. If it should be decided that Melbourne can't hold the games, then they'd have to be shifted to the city in the best shape to handle them.

"That would have to be Rome. From what I hear, Rome could take over the responsibility on very short notice. The city has wonderful facilities and apparently the money and the desire to throw into such a big project."

Olympic officials everywhere were bewildered by the action of Coles, who quit in a huff when the Victorian state government declined to build a swimming pool at the Fawkner Park site approved by the International Olympic Committee.

Toronto Interested Having 1960 Olympics

CHICAGO (AP)—Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, said Thursday Toronto is one of 19 cities interested in staging the 1960 Olympic Games.

Brundage said he had not been notified formally of Toronto's bid, but emphasized that under a new IOC rule, the national Olympic committee of the countries in which interested cities belong must endorse the invitations.

He said the IOC is drafting a set of requirements for facilities needed to hold the games. Among the facilities required are a large stadium for track, a swimming pool, an arena for boxing, wrestling, basketball and similar indoor sports, sailing, equestrian and rowing courses and a velodrome.

But when the pair appeared in court today the judge sent Wat home to her father on her own recognizance. Soo went back to jail.

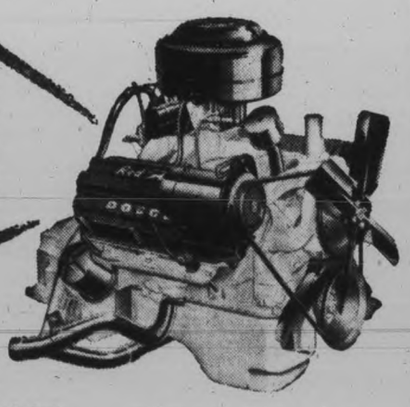
Cotton League Settles Dispute

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—The class-C Cotton States Baseball League has apparently smoothed over a racial problem which threatened its existence.

Hot Springs Bathers reoptioned Negro pitcher Jim Tugerson to Knoxville, Tenn., of the Mountain States League and were reported to have made a change in club executives.

League president Al Haraway said Thursday night:

"The Hot Springs matter has cleared itself up."



A reliable source said Lewis Goltz, Bather co-owner and president who had led the fight to introduce Negroes to the Arkansas-Mississippi-Louisiana circuit, had resigned and transferred his stock in the club.
